The fiscal year of Keeley Silver Mines Ltd., ended February 28 last. It will be some time before the annual statement appears, but the company evidently produced at the rate of around 50,000 ounces of silver a month during the period, or approximately 600,000 ounces. Gross revenue, including income from investments, etc., should approximate $400,000 to $425,000, as compared with $632,727 in 1927-28. That year, after allowing for depreciation profits were equal to 10.8 per cent on the $2,000,000, par value $1, stock outstanding. Earnings of something like 6 per cent is indicated for 1928-29.

Winnipeg.—With the Spring break-up out of the way, full speed ahead is being made in development on the properties of Jack Nutt Mines, according to Jack Nutt, who has just returned from a visit to the various camps. Camps have been completed, assay plants erected, and a ten ton test mill will be in operation about June 1.

Mr. Nutt was particularly pleased with the showing made in preliminary exploration on the Rush property. A trend has been cut from 5 to 6 feet for 250 feet. Samples of ore from these workings show very high grade values, running to 15 per cent. tin and seven per cent zinc. A pegmatite dyke occurs at the location, 200 feet wide and approximately three miles long. A tremendous volume of tine ore is indicated and according to Mr. Nutt it is believed this group will exceed in richness that of Bernic Lake.

Steel Order Placed with Dominion Bridge Subsidiary for Canadian National Hotel

Vancouver.—The largest structural steel order ever placed for any single building in Western Canada has been awarded to the Vancouver branch of the Dominion Bridge Company, according to instructions received by Col. E. J. Ryan, head of the Ryan Contracting Company Limited, from the architects for the new Canadian National Hotel here, for which the Ryan firm has the general contract.

This contract, which involves an outlay for steel work alone of approximately $750,000 covers the supply, fabrication and delivery of about 500 tons of steel required for the complete steel skeleton of the huge $6,000,000 hostelry to be erected on the block bounded by Hornby, Burrard and Georgia street.

Three tenders on this big steel work job were received by the Ryan company about a week ago, and, after being tabulated, were forwarded to the official architects of the C.N.R. in Montral for approval before the contract was finally signed.

P. Lyall Earnings Lower

Montreal—Lower earnings, as compared with the previous fiscal year and also a reduction in working capital is shown in the annual financial report of the P. Lyall and Sons Construction Company for the year ended March 31, 1929. The president in his remarks pointed out that the statement included no profits for the Columbia, South American, work, which, he said, was not in good progress, and added that prospects for the current year were encouraging.

Earnings for the year amounted to $293,630, as compared with $318,292 for the preceding year. Deduction of bond interest at $7,517, deprecation at $82,452, preferred dividends at $59,229 and common dividends at $134,655 left a surplus for the year of $9,777 as against $188,176 in the preceding year. Previous surplus was brought forward at $546,920, making a total of $556,697.

OIL GOSSIP

Through Solloway, Mills and Company.

OILS LOOK GOOD

With holiday out of way, with market position what professionals would say technically sound, with a flood of good news momentarily expected, general feeling is that oils will launch a period of substantial activity. For some days oils were oversold as evidenced by sharp recovery when only a small volume of buying made appearance.

TURNER VALLEY

With Home 2 pushing steadily towards its goal in limestone and may blow any day this week, expectation of many is that market will start at once to discount possible good news. All factors in this drilling operation to date are reported to be as favorable as they were on Home No. 1.

COMMONWEALTH

Commonwealth Petroleum will drill on Blood Reserve holdings. Now erecting derrick for Turner Valley well.

NEW YORK

New York outlook still clouded and uncertain, but tendency in Canadian Exchanges of late seems to be to ignore Gatham's ups and downs. This is particularly true of oil stocks.

SUNSET OILS

Sunset Oils, recently formed Vancouver company, are drilling A. P. Consolidated Acreage in Red Coulee field near border. Manager Clark of A. P. Con. says contact on royalty basis. Locations being made for Van Alta. No. 1 on A. P. Consolidated acreage near Coutts on border. Drilling contract let on royalty basis.

WAINWELL

Wainwell No. 4 over 900 feet down.

SASKO

WAINWRIGHT

Wainwright West on the north-east of Wainwell site is erecting derrick. Trafalgar Oils in Wainwright field has nearly completed its derrick and equipment is on way to field. Brandon Syndicate holding acreage two miles west of Wainwell rigging up rotary drill.

HEADACHES CEASE AS HUSKY'S USED

"For Two Years I've Tried To Get Rid of Them and Now This Wonderful Medicine Has Relieved Me," Says Miss Brannan.

MISS BESSIE BRANNAN

"For two years I had terribly bad headaches and then my head hurt so there was no eating or rest for me," said Miss Bessie Brannan, of 104 Jolicoeur St., Montreal.

"These headaches put me in agony and then when they were gone they left me feeling dull and tired out," she said. "I would get up in the morning feeling tired and not wanting to eat breakfast.

"Since I have been taking Husky my headaches have left. I never have them anymore and I feel so much stronger and have a good appetite. I have thanked one of our neighbors, who recommended Husky to me, many times."

Husky is especially recommended to free the system of its over supply of acid. These acids irritate the mucous linings, sap the vitality from every organ and make you feel achy.

An authority from the Husky Laboratories is now at Bond's Drug Store for the purpose of explaining to the people of Peterborough how best and quickest results are obtained from the use of this wonderful medicine. Call on him to-day. The Husky treatment has already restored health for hundreds in Peterborough, and you may expect it to do the same for you.

OLD TIMER IS SAID TO HOLD KEY TO RICHES

William McLeod, Chapleau, Owns Map Showing Vast Gold Deposits.

SOUGHT FOR CENTURY

Believes Huge Fortune in North is Within Reach of Man.

CHAPLEAU, Ont., May 2?.—(By the Canadian Press).—There lives in Chapleau to-day a man who believes he has a fortune within his grasp. He is William McLeod, one time "Slooper" for the Hudsons Bay Company when for eight years he sailed the schooner "Mink" on regular supply trips between Ruperts House, Fort George and the Great Whale River.

Born in a Hudsons Bay Post, and still young in spite of his years, it is only with difficulty Mr. McLeod can be brought to speak of his colorful career. He is known as extremely reticent. His quiet voice and pleasant manner give no hint that his life has not all been spent in the placid surroundings of a quiet northern Ontario town, and it somehow seems difficult to imagine him as master of a sailing schooner on the rough waters of James Bay. But on better acquaintance it is apparent why he is known as the friend and confidante of Indians throughout the North. He understands them as perhaps few men do. He has traded with them all his life. He speaks fluently the dialect of the Cree and Ojibway, and enjoys the confidence of these people to a remarkable degree.

Extraordinary Story.

To know him thus, is to appreciate the fact that there is something extraordinary about the story he has to tell. It is a story of gold. Gold in large quantities. Gold in nuggets to be found in the region of the Great Whale River. A story of a quest which has gone on unremittingly for nearly 100 years. Always, in the words of the Indian the "Yellow Stuff" has eluded the searchers. Why? Because of a pact, a promise, a jealously guarded secret handed from an Indian to an Indian until last year—when an old Indian fur trader had come to his life long friend and handed him a paper on which was pencilled a map of the region and the exact location where the nuggets of gold were found.

The Indian, says Mr. McLeod, was nearing 70 and felt that he would never go into that country again. The map had been given to him by one of his friends many years ago. This Indian had been one of the guides who, in the year 1856, had accompanied an explorer on a prospecting trip into the territory and had been present when the nuggets were found. The explorer was from New York, he said, and picking up the two Indian as guides at Moose Factory, they had gone to the East Coast of James Bay, and started prospecting on arrival at the Great Whale River. They continued until they struck the Little Whale River, and near its mouth made camp for about three weeks. It was during their wanderings from this base that the nuggets were found.

Pledged to Secrecy.

Making bags from the heavy canvas flour sacks commonly used in the North, they bagged as much as they thought could be safely carried without causing too much excitement, and spent considerable time taking soundings of the river, as the explorer had announced his intention of returning the following season with a fair-sized vessel. As soon as the explorer had satisfied himself on this point, he pledged his guides to secrecy, and the party returned to Moose Factory, where he dropped them, and took other guides for the journey home via the Abitibi River.

The following year, word was received by the Indians that the explorer had died, and nothing more transpired until the year 1895, when a party of ten, headed by a man known to his Indian guides as "Corten" and a supposedly very wealthy man, went into the region evidently armed with some sort of information. He went directly to the Great Whale River, and spent about two months intensively prospecting between the Great Whale and Little Whale Rivers. Corten was described as being very religious, would not travel or work on Sundays, but held church services regularly, furnishing the music for the hymns himself with the aid of a mandolin. As to gold, he came back empty-handed.

Other Parties Followed.

Following Corten at a considerable interval came one Osborne with three of a party. He also took Indian guides and went in on the same mission, but withequal result. Next came a party of Norwegians. Then Jones and a party of six. Jones made two trips in successive years, but met with no better fortune. Curran, of Montreal, was next to try his luck in this area. On his first trip he took fourteen men and Indian guides, and returned to the scene twice later, each time without success.

"How did the Indian who gave you the map come into possession of it?" Mr. McLeod was asked.

"He was in one of the later parties as guide," he said, "and when they came out he was told by his friend that they had not gone to the right place, and this Indian had given him the map after pledging him to secrecy, as owing to advanced age there was no possibility of him making another trip in."

"After such a record of failures, do you believe the story?" Mr. McLeod was asked.

"I do," he answered. "I am willing to go in there myself with a party should suitable arrangements be made, and in these days of prospecting by the use of airplanes, the trip does not entail near the hardship it would have done a few years back."

W. C. BEAMER IS PROMOTED TO MONTREAL

Bell Manager Accepts Position of Commercial Manager For Eastern Division.

H. P. JOHNSTON APPOINTED.

Rapid Strides Have Been Made in City's Telephone History in Past Few Years.

W. C. Beamer, the manager of the Bell Telephone Company in Peterborough, has accepted a promotion as commercial engineer in the eastern division of the company, and will take up those duties in Montreal at the first of June.

H. H. P. Johnston, now on the district staff of Kingston, will take over Mr. Beamer's duties at the first of the month. Mr. Johnston is a graduate of Queen's University from where he went directly to the Bell Telephone Company, taking a position in the general office in Montreal, after which he became attached to the staff of the division manager of the eastern division in that city. Following this appointment he went to Kingston, and now is to be the new manager in Peterborough.

Mr. Beamer is leaving Peterborough with much regret, he told The Examiner. Since he came here he has found the city an ideal place to live in, and the clients that he has dealt with, the business man, and the private telephone owner, have all been very pleasant to do business with. Because the new position is a promotion is the chief reason that he is leaving behind all the happy connections that have been made in this city.

Increase in 'Phones.

In the short space of a year and a half, there has been a large increase in the number of telephones used here. On the first of January in 1928 there were 5,200 telephones in the city and 12,288 in the district, and at present there are 5,770 in the city, with 13,152 in the district.

There is also a large increase in long distance calls, and this year is expected to pass any other previous year. A daily average of 490 calls are expected. These are only the calls originating in Peterborough, and not those coming into the city. So far in 1929 there has only been two days when the calls have not exceeded any previous record.

An interesting factor is revealed in the fact that the peak of the long distance calls originate in the summer months, and Mr. Beamer explains this as a result of the summer resorts and the use of the telephone in ordering perishable fruits, as well as tourists in the city keeping in touch with the outside.

The cradle type of 'phone made its appearance during the managership of Mr. Beamer, and has taken so well that orders cannot be filled. Telephones in deep bronze color to harmonize with the den or the delicate pastel shades for ladies' boudoirs have made their appearance, and are forecasted to become very popular. Also a convenient arrangement of wiring in the house so that the 'phone can be answered from different parts of the house by a simple arrangement has made its debut, all these showing that the 'phone is recognized not only as necessity but as a luxury, and is being demanded.

"Peterborough as a telephone city," said Mr. Beamer, "is fairly well developed for a place its size. The telephone business here is characterized by its steadiness rather than great fluctuations. This is due to the type of industry, the diversity of industry, and the conservative nature of the city. People here when they install a telephone have considered the matter and are able to keep a 'phone in while in other places where there are industries that are subject to violent changes the type of laborer employed will spend all his money on radios, automobiles, and telephones during periods of prosperity and will find himself in difficulty in periods of depression."

MINERS KILLED BY EXPLOSION

Blast is Caused By An Overcharge of Dynamite.

TWO SEVERELY BURNED.

YOLANDE, Ala., May 28 (C.P.).—Nine men were killed and two others severely burned in an explosion 1,000 feet below the surface in the Connerville mine last night. Officials of the Yolande Coal and Coke Company, operators of the mine, said their inspectors reported the blast by an overcharge of dynamite.

Combustion of dust and gas first was given as the cause of the explosion, but the mine officials said the tunnel was well springled and insured against coal dust. The preliminary reports of their inspectors, they said, placed the cause on a super-charge of dynamite.

PILES OF GRAVEL CAUSE ACCIDENT

Two Cars Were Damaged On Chemong Road Last Night.

POLICE INVESTIGATED.

Gravel left in piles on the Chemong Road caused heavy damages to two cars last night. Pete Scully, 165 Princess street, was driving to Chemong at a fair rate of speed when he struck the gravel piles and his car was impelled to the left side of the road. Eric Jones, 2 Gordon Avenue, was returning from Chemong at the same time and in order to miss Scully's car, which was driven across his right of way, he headed his car into the ditch.

Scully's car had its left rear wheel broken, left fender broken, axle snapped and the side crushed, as a result of striking the gravel. Jones' car was damaged at the front from the impact with the ditch.

Police officials who inspected the accident last night, stated that there was at least fifty loads of gravel on the road, without any lights or other warning of the danger.

MISSING MAN RETURNS HOME

Major Osborne Lean Is Taken To Christie Street Hospital, Toronto.

AWAY 18 MONTHS.

TORONTO, Ont., May 28 (C.P.).—Major Osborne Lean who returned to his home here yesterday after wandering through eastern Canada for eighteen months, has been removed to Christie Street Hospital to recover from his experiences. He has suffered severely from shock and loss of weight since he disappeared from Toronto on November 29, 1927. While a search was being conducted through the eastern part of the province, he made his way to Montreal without a cent in his pockets, beggins lifts from motorists, none of whom recognized him. After travelling farther east in Quebec he retraced his steps towards home and on his way back to Toronto he worked on a farm near Ottawa. He finally made his way to Toronto and turned up at the house of relatives on Monday night; further details of his adventures are being withheld for fear that he may suffer a relapse into the nervous prostration that was brought on by war wounds.

FINISH WORK BY AUGUST 24

Contract Calls For Opening of Kresge Store By Middle of August.

WORK DELAYED.

The building program of the Sullivan and Fried Construction company calls for the grand opening of the new Kresge store on August 24. Since the contract for the new store was first taken on, the construction company have been working against time.

The wrecking of the old building was delayed somewhat because of wet weather and when the job of razing was completed it was four days behind schedule. Two days have been picked up on the construction during the past ten days and it is expected that the other will be made up this week.

Alhough the Kresge store will be opened on August 24, the building will not be wholly finished until September 10. The Kresge store will only take up the first floor and the second floor can easily be completed with business going on beneath.

A giant girder weighing 3 tons was swung into place in the front of the building at 10 o'clock this morning, and the tall central steel pillars are already in place.

Leave Wall Standing

Much comment has been raised because a portion of the old brick wall bordering on the lane running from Simcoe street has been left standing. One of the engineers on the job explained the reason for this. Formerly this wall supported a room that bridged the lane, and since the Kresge company had no control over this room and because it was supported by this wall, the plans called for leaving this portion of the wall standing.

Before the job started, the room bridging the lane was taken down, unknown to the Kresge Company, it was then too late to alter the plans.

The engineer told The Examiner that the wall was worth $900 to the construction company. Therefore they were not desirous of tearing it down. He explained further that when the job is finished this old portion of the wall will not be visible.

L. Murray, local business man, of $150 in cash, a cheque, watch, and his motor car.

The second witness told police of seeing two men get out of the abandoned car near Weston Road, and walk towards the spot where trolley cars circle preparatory to returning into the city. It is presumed that the men boarded the trolley and journeyed into Toronto.

ALL FROM BRITAIN

QUEBEC, Que., May 28. — Two special trains were required here yesterday to carry away from Quebec nine hundred and the choicest class of settlers, who made their way to Canada from different parts of Great Britain and northern Europe aboard the Duchess of York.

STOMACH TROUBLES, HEADACHES AND DIZZINESS

When your stomach is sick, you are sick all over. If you can't digest your food, you lose strength and "pep"; get thin and nervous; and feel as tired when you get up as when you went to bed.

This was the condition of Mme. P. Joyal, 2170 Letourneux street, Montreal. She says: "I was so nervous that the rustling of a newspaper upset me. My appetite had left me; indigestion was giving me a great deal of trouble; I could not sleep; and steadily lost weight. Tanlac soon had me eating again, corrected my stomach trouble, steadied my nerves, ran my weight up ten pounds, and made me feel just right in every way. Let Tanlac do for you what it did for this sufferer and thousands of others. It is marvelous to see how it corrects the most obstinate digestion troubles—relieves gas, pains in the stomach and bowels—how it restores the appetite, vigor, sound sleep and strong nerves.

EMPIRE DAY IS CELEBRATED IN LOYAL MANNER

Lakefield Public School Has Most Fitting Program for the Occasion.

HISTORY OF LEADERS

Pupils Are Given an Insight Into Achievement of Canada and Canadian Leaders.

LAKEFIELD, May 28.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Empire Day was observed in Lakefield Public School on Thursday in a manner which was well calculated to impress the children of the importance of the day and the privileges they enjoy as citizens of one of the free nations under the British flag.

The pupils of the four upper rooms gathered in the large school room of T. W. Chaplin, the principal, for the program, which struck a high note of patriotism and showed a good working knowledge of British and Canadian history and geography.

Hugh Morrison was chairman and filled the post capably and showed a great deal of judgment in handling his very enthusiastic audience.

He opened the program with a short account of how Empire Day, as we know it, came into being. In 1898 it was originated by Mrs. Clementina Fessenden, of Hamilton, who secured the approval of Ontario's prime minister, Sir George W. Ross. The celebration is now Empire wide.

"Oh Canada" was sung by the school with Merle Webster at the piano.

Evelyn Grant told the legend of Drake's Drum, a stirring British tale return if danger ever threatened England or especiall his native Devon and of how legend says the drum sounds in evry national crisis. Evelyn also recited a poem on the subject. Alex. Sutton gave a short and very concise account of the life of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was the only French Canadian premier of Canada and was premier from 1896 till 1911. During his term as premier the Boer War occurred and Canada sent two contingents of soldiers, the first time in history that Canadian troops left their own land to assist the Motherland. He also was a strong advocate of Empire trade and lowered the tarif and duties from England. He died in 1919.

Greeting from Premier

The greetings from the Premier of Ontario and Minister of Education, Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, were read by Miss Kennedy. This message impressed on the children the privilege of British citizenship. "There is nothing like it in the world, and we as Canadians belong to one of the free nations of the Empire and all who make their home here can be sure of living under British laws which are founded on liberty, justice and truth." Miss Payne's pupils, accompanied by Eva Hendren on the piano, sang the stirring old hymn "Oh God Our Help In Ages Past." Vileta Carveth gave a summary of the life of Sir John MacDonald. He was born in Glasgow, Scotland, coming as a lad to Canada and later becoming a lawyer, he entered parliment and although an ardent Conservative, he put party politics aside and joined forces with Hon. George Brown, the Liberal leader, to bring about Confederation. He was premier of Canada from 1867 to 1874 and again in 1878 to 1891. He died in 1891 and is buried in Cataraqui Cemetery, Kingston. Charlie Tanner spoke on Hon. George Brown, one of the Fathers of Confederation. He was born in Edinburgh, Scotland and coming to Canada he founded the Toronto Globe as a Liberal newspaper. He was leader of the Liberal party in Ontario and joined forces with the Conservatives to form a coalition to bring about Confederation. He was a man of high ideals and of very upright principals. He was shot by a discharged employee of The Globe and died soon afterwards.

Opposed Family Compact

Alex. Steven was the next speaker and he sketched the life of William Lyon Mackenzie, the leader of the rebels in 1837. Like his predecessors he was a native of Scotland and was a fiery opponent of the family compact and spent his life fighting for the rights of the common people, with whom he was immensely popular. He was in exile for a time but following the rebellion returned to Canada where he died.

Edith Spence gave a piano solo which was followed by Donald Yale reciting "In Flander's Fields" probably the most outstanding Canadian poem.

Bernice Carveth gave an account of the Indian meeting which brought India more firmly into the British Empire, although it was won a century before by Clive's victory at Plassy.

George Chappell gave a summary of the Boer War which was the result of continued friction between the English settlers and the Boers who were stirred up by Paul Kruger their ignorant leader. Peace was signed at Pretoria in 1902 and later the Union of South Africa under British rule followed.

Miss Kennedy's pupils sang "From Ocean Unto Ocean" accompanied by Merle Webster.

Three of Miss Payne's girls gave a reading on "Our Flag" and Vivian Hendren followed with a recitation "The Union Jack." Earl Robinson, Roy Crapp and Ralph Mason traced the all read British cable route which circles the globe and is one of the strong links of Empire.

Edith Spence gave a reading describing the heroic exploit of Laura Secord, one of the greatest of Canadian women. The story is one of the most splendid examples of a woman's devotion to Country in the English language. Herrick Brown played a piano solo and was obliged to respond to two encores.

Walter Spence spoke on the life of Sir Isaac Brock, who commanded the troops of Upper Canada in the war of 1812. He was a brave man and a gallant officer and was killed at the Battle of Queenston Heights on October 13, 1812.

Earl Robinson sang "The Maple Leaf Forever" playing his own accompaniment on his auto harp. He responded to an encore. "The Maple Leaf" was sung by the school with Eva Hendren at the piano.

The Great Explorer

Madeline Junkin spoke on Samuel de Champlain, the great explorer and colonizer. He came to Canada more than half a century after Jacques Cartier and established settlements at Quebec, Montreal and Tadousac. He journed up the Ottawa and crossed by way of Lake Nipissing to the Georgian Bay, returning to Lake Ontario by the route now known as the Trent Valley Waterways. He was a true patriot and had many discouragements. He died in Quebec in 1635. Percy Marsden traced the British possessions on the map, beginning with the Motherland and following with Canada, Newfoundland, Australia, Tasmania, New Zealand, India, New Guinea, Ceylon, South Africa, British East and West Africa, Hong Kong, Gibralter, Malta, British Guiana, British West Indies, British East Indies, Straits Settlements, Pacific Island ,etc.

Miss Duff, who was present as the guest of the staff, spoke a few words on request of the chairman. Miss Duff who for fifty-one years was a member of the staff of the Lakefield Public School, received a hearty ovation from the teachers and pupils. She congratulated the teachers and pupils on the excellence of their program and the manner in which all the subjects were dealt with, the knowledge of history and geography displayed was particularly gratifying. The order was good and the teachers are to be congratulated. She spoke a special word about the speech of the little Scotchman, Alex. Steven, who spoke so well on one, who, like himself, left Scotland to find a home in the land of the Maple. She closed by referring to the cheery aspect of the room and its tastefully arranged decorations. Miss B. Graham said a few words, commending the teachers and pupils on an effort which makes for better understanding of what British traditions really are. Mr. Chaplin closed the program with a few words of thanks to the visitors for their appreciative remarks.

TREASURE OF FABULOUS WEALTH BURIED BY CAPT. KIDD BUCCANEER IS SAID TO BE ON N. S. ISLAND

One of Many Stories of Buried Treasure Reports It On Oak Island.

OLD COINS FOUND.

Headquarters of Raiders During War of United States' Independence.

(Special to The Examiner)

HALIFAX, N.S., May 28.—Captain Kidd's buried treasure of fabulous wealth is again to be sought by adventurous speculators.

One of the many stories of buried treasure has it that part of Captain Kidd's treasure was buried on Oak Island, Chester Bay, Nova Scotia.

The beautiful oak trees of the island may be hiding wonderful riches from the world. It has a weird history of thousands of dollars invested and lost in previous hunts for treasures, reputed to have been buried there by the bold bad pirate, Captain Kidd.

One retired sea captain who had possession of an old map of the pirate's, was so convinced that Oak Island held a fabulous treasure that he sunk everything he possessed in a venture to locate it. The supposed location of the treasure box was staked off, digging operations began and when the delvers had reached the distance more than seventy-five feet, rotten timbers of heavy oak were found ,also a few bones which might have been throes of a human being were uncovered and a handful of grimy, golden coins were found.

Old Coins Found

The diggers continued with feverish energy; foot after foot they went down, until they reached the distance of ninety feet and salt water poured in. The fortune that was sung to find a fortune was sunk, indeed. From time to time, as the digging continued various articles of ancient worth were found. Old U.S. coins have been discovered on Oak Island, and on other islands, but it has been pointed out that these beautiful islands probably were the headquarters of raiders who operated between Nova Scotia and the British West Indies during the U. S. War of Independence.

Sufficient evidence of this has been found in small lots of coins which have been uncovered by the plows, or by the action of time.

Chester, the beautiful, is now the summer colony of United States millionaires. Beautiful homes, wonderful gardens and charming surroundings, feature the spot which was once only a fishing and farming village. Along the curving St. Margaret's Bay road, the drive to Chester is delightful and there is no doubt but if the current report that a new treasure finding corporation is to be formed there will be many take a chance, for the legend that Captain Kidd hid his treasure, or part of his treasure, in Chester Basin is strongly believed.

FARM BOY RISES TO HEAD COLLEGE

George A. Reid is Guest of Honor at Complimentary Dinner.

TORONTO, Ont., May 28. —(By The Canadian Press).— Addresses picturing a struggling farm boy, fired with a desire to paint and earning with difficulty every cent for his training, were given at a recent dinner tendered to George A. Reid, R.C.A., retiring principal of Ontario College of Art. After 17 years as principle he will devote the rest of his life to painting. He will be succeeded by J. E. H. Macdonald, A.R.C.A., who has been acting principal during Mr. Reid's leave of absence.

The dinner was given by the council of the Ontario College of Art on Mr. Reid's 69th birthday, and speakers extolled with reverence and admiration a great figure in the development of the finer things of Canadian life.

Nearly fifty years ago Mr. Reid, a raw youth of seventeen came to Toronto from a log shanty farm near Wingham, Ont., and began to study painting. Artists and representatives of education and public life, in honoring Mr. Reid on his birthday, compositely recalled his early struggles.

It was at the early age of 11 that Mr. Reid made up his mind to be an artist. He was born in a log cabin on a farm in Wingham, and as soon as he was old enough, he assisted in the general farm work. He was the third child in a family of nine and it was not until he was about 17 that he entered a local architect's office and after the architect had failed in spite of the advice of Creswell, to see whose paintings he had travelled to Seaforth, he came to Toronto to study. He used to work in a machine shop during the day and studied art three nights a week, and at the close of his term graduated with the silver medal. After a couple of years of portrait painting at Wingham, he went to Philadelphia to study. He brought back pictures which he exhibited at the Ontario Society of Artists, and then after marrying a Philadelphia schoolmate in 1885, he went to Paris to study for three years. It was during this period that he came to a realization of his ability and some of his best work was accomplished while overseas.

When he had studied in Toronto, Philadelphia and Europe, he located in Toronto, painting and teaching, and ultimately giving leadership to the great movements for the Ontario College of Art, the Toronto Art Gallery, and the Commission of Trustees for the National Gallery of Canada. His influence as a teacher was freely acknowledged and a dozen painters of high standing were named who owed much to his Saturday afternoon sketching classes of many years ago.

During many summers in the Catskills he used with distinction an early training in architecture, one of his achievements being the design for a cottage for Maude Adams.

In later years he has opened a new field of development in training art teachers for the public and high schools of the Province, and has stimulated the movement for mural decoration of public buildings.

Mr. Reid, after relating episodes and contacts of early life, closed with a word upon his own art creed. He confessed to his preference for painting founded upon sound drawing, but admitted a mild liking for the "moderns" within reason. He preferred "art for life's sake" to "art for art's sake."

JUST LIKE HOME

BERLIN, May 28.—An example of garbled news is a story that appeared in the Parger Tageblatt recently. The story said that special jails for bootleggers, nine stories high, were being built in New York. Room and board at these "hotels" were paid for by the "leggers" who could select any room. The rooms were to be provided with every convenience, including a bath.

DEGREE IS EXEMPLIFIED

Members of I.O.O.F. Lodge at Kingston Take Part in Ceremony.

AT STIRLING.

STIRLING, May 28 (Examiner Correspondence). — Wednesday night was Oddfellow's night in the village. Arrangements had been made by the local lodge, No. 239, with the degree team of the I.O.O.F., of Kingston, to visit here and exemplify the work of the degree of Friendship. At about seven o'clock p.m., a large motor bus carrying 35 passengers came into town from the Belleville highway. These were the visitors from the Limestone City and the members of the Tripie Links had begun to arrive from Tweed, Madoc, Thomasburg, Springbrook, Belleville, Trenton, Frankford, Campbellford and other points, until the village was literally in possession of the Order.

At 7.30 a line up of the members of the Order, 200 strong, marched through the principal streets, led by two members with drawn swords and a real goat between them; Stirling band furnishing music for the march.

The next order was supper for the Kingston brethren and they were escorted to the Stirling House, where "Mine Host" Cranston had them in hand and they reported their wants were amply satisfied. Meanwhile, the other members gathered in the community hall, where routine business was conducted and Messrs. McCrory and Pilgrim, of Kingston, entertained with guitar and cornet solos.

The degree work followed, which was instructive and pleasing to the 250 members of the Order present.

Messrs. McCrery and Pilgrim were called and responded with pleasing selections on the guitar and horn.

L. Meiklejohn spoke briefly and moved a vote o fthanks to the Kingston brethren. Mr. Cruse, degree master, replied.

Reeve Montgomery addressed the gathering, also D.D.G.M. Johnson, of Kingston.

Mr. Elder, the "Harry Lauder" of the party, sang, and Messrs Isaac and Howard gave a laughable skit.

Mr. Dyke, of Kingston, spoke relative to some of the proposed changes in the laws of the Order by Grand Lodge. D.D.G.M. Vance, of Tweed, also spoke. Lunch was served by the local brethren at 12 o'clock.

SCHOOL OBSERVES EMPIRE PROGRAM

Junior and Senior Divisions Take Part in Gathering at Warsaw.

WARSAW, May 28 (Examiner Correspondence).—Warsaw school, junior and senior divisions, met in the senior room, which was decorated with flags, on Thursday afternoon, for an Empire Day program. Mr. Gardiner, the senior teacher, was in the chair and began the program with a short address. The whole school sang "O Canada"; Jean Munro read "Origin of Empire Day"; Lucille Herrington recited "Empire Day"; Mr. Gardner gave the greetings from the Minister of Education; Laura Payne gave "Greetings to Young Canada"; the senior room sang "My Own Canadian Home"; Cora Crowe read an article entitled "The British Empire"; Iva Payne recited "The Colors of the Flag"; the junior room sang "Here's a Health Unto His Majesty"; Kenneth Jakins read "The Union Jack"; Helen Williams recited the poem, "The Union Jack"; Rev. Mr. McCleary gave a very interesting address on "Loyalty."

Executive Meets

The Dummer Sunday School Association executive met in the United Church Sunday school room on Monday evening to arrange for the annual convention, which will be held at Carmel on Wednesday, June 5.

All the Sunday schools except Carmel were represented.

In the absence of the president, E. N. McDonald, from Cottesloe, Rev. H. B. Herrington took the chair.

It was decided to hold an afternoon and an evening session, at two o'clock p.m. and at half-past seven o'clock. The general business will be done during the afternoon session. Except that Rev. H. B. Herrington, minister of the Carmel Church, will conduct the opening exercises in the afternoon, it is not known definitely what local ministers will take part, as none others were present, nor is it known who the visiting speaker for the day will be.

There was some discussion about the time to conduct the teacher training class. Last year corn cutting and local fairs interfered.

It is most unfortunate that the Sunday school convention and the Women's Institute district convention are on the same date.

Gives Address

A most interesting talk on the antiquity of Ur, and kindred subjects was given by Rev. H. B. Herrington at the Parsonage on Tuesday evening.

Rev. Mr. Herrington had a map on which he showed the route taken by Abraham from Ur to Hebron, over one thousand miles. People used to consider he travelled over an unbroken waste, but the probability is he travelled over well worn trails that had been made fifteen hundred years before.

He told how it had been discovered that fifteen hundred years and more before the time Abraham there were people of a very advanced stage of civilization. They used the cuniform writing. In architecture, they had the arch and the apse, and used a sort of lime plaster.. There were no stones near; they had to be brought for many miles; neither was there gold nor silver mines, though gold and silver were used lavishly. They knew some process by which they mixed gold and silver, made various vessels, and after the vessel was made, by some method now unknown sweated the silver out of the surface, so that the vessel was gold on the exterior, and beautifully smooth at that. Their animals of gold, and the friezes were beautifully wrought. Some of the articles found in these tombs vie with King Tut's tomb.

These ancient cities were buried many feet below the present surface. Three hundred years before the time of Abraham there were two story buildings of twelve or fourteen rooms around a central court. There were balconies around this court and stairways leading up. There was no connection between the rooms. Each had to be entered from the court.

The glory of these Sumerians had passed before the time of Abraham, but they were a people of high moral standards and religion; intellectual and refined.

Some of the references made by the prophets are explained by finding about these people.

An eleven-stringed harp was found.

All business contracts were written and more than half a million tablets of such contracts have been found.

Their ideas of a future life were shadowy, but they placed food for the departed.

Rev. Mr. Herrington's talk included systems and peoples down through the time of Abraham.

He showed pictures of many of the things of which he spoke.

INSTITUTE MEETS.

Routine Business Discussed By Members of the Wooler Branch.

WOOLER, May 28 (Examiner Correspondence).—The Wooler branch of East Northumberland Women's Institute, met at the home of Mrs. A. G. Austin. Mrs. Austin, in her usual hospitable manner, welcomed every member. The president, Mrs. Maynard Sharpe, took the chair for the first time, and conducted the meeting.

Mrs. J. H. Myers, of Dundas, the speaker, who has had extensive experience as a teacher of domestic science, and a dietician; considerable experience in public speaking and the responsibilities of a home, spoke from these headlines: "The Royal Road to Happiness"—the foundation of self-sacrifice is the kep to life; "Supreme Social Activities"; "Citizenship—the art of living together in a community"; "Hosptality, Old and New"; "Is Home Life and Influence Declining—If so, Why?"

Then Mrs. Myers gave many practical suggestions, such as the emergency shelf, well balanced meals, proper vegetables to eat, use more idodine salt.

One special item of business was the Women's Institute supporting the League of Nations with a membership.

The hostesses were Mrs. Sam Palmer, Mrs. Esli Terrill, Mrs. W. A. McColl and Mrs. Lloyd Dorland. The meeting adjourned to meet in June.

L. H. Rowe has been collecting eggs for the past few years for the egg circle, shipping from Trenton and Belleville, and this years shows more co-operation and enthusiasm. The question of an egg-grading station in Trenton has been uppermost in the minds of the people of this vicinity and other places for a year or more, and now the opportunity has been afforded for its realization.

YOUNG PEOPLE PRESENT PLAY

Staged Under Auspices of Fenella Women's Institute in Town Hall.

TAKE PARTS WELL.

FENELLA, May 28 (Examiner Correspondence).—Under the auspices of the Fenella Women's Institute, the Young People's League of Baltimore put on "The Old New Hampshire Home," a three-act melodrama, in Fenella Hall on Tuesday night.

The cast of characters was as follows: Farmer Winthrop, a rugged New Hampshire farmer — J. G. McKee; Edward Van Dusen, a polished villain secretly married to Mabel—H. Blezard; Oliver Stanhope, a young blacksmith in love with Mabel—F. Cochrane; Zeb Watkins, a country boy "up to snuff" and not a bit green—J. Ball; Micky Mullins, a travelling tinker—M. Noble; Mozen Gazinski, a Hebrew glazier—C. Blezard; Rawlings, in league with Van Dusen — M. Jibb; Mabel Winthrop, Farmer Winthrop's daughter—Miss G. Blezard; Tilly, her maiden aunt—Miss E. M. Hogg; Mrs. Winthrop, the farmer's wife—Miss A. Crossen; Muffins, a young lady with a mind of her own, and not afraid to speak it—Miss H. Minifie.

Although all played their parts well, special mention might be made of Misses E. M. Hogg and M. Minifie. Rev. J. G. McKee and H. Blezard, who handled leading parts so naturally, that their audience forgot it was a play they were witnessing.

Between acts music was supplied by P. Elder, W. Prettie, and C. McNaught.

During intermission, the juniors of the Institute sold home-made candy.

The door receipts amounted to $46.50.

COUNCIL MEETS.

Much Business Discussed at Regular Meeting of Lakefield Council.

LAKEFIELD, May 28 (Examiner Correspondence).—James Walton and others requested the council to see to the drain in Caroline street, as it has become blocked and is flooding their cellars, at the meeting of the municipal council of Lakefield held in the Council Chamber on Monday.

Edward Young requested the council to make some reduction in the bill for the fire at Young's Point as he, personally, had to bear the whole expense.

On motion, it was decided that this council reduce the fire bill to Young's Point to the amount of $25, leaving a balance of $125.

Andrew Young presented a petition from 18 ratepayers of the north end of Queen street, requesting the council to establish a tank or other means of fire protection, as properties at that end of the village are out of reach of the lake.

The following motions were adopted: That the petition from the residents of Queen street north, be received and left in the hands of the property committee to decide what action be taken;

That no bills be paid by the treasurer before being passed by the council, and that all bills be paid on the 15th of each month;

That May 27, at 8 o'clock, be the time set for the Court of Revision;

That this council grant W. W. Leonard permission to build a house on Albert street according to plans presented as per by-law.

The following accounts were ordered paid:

B-lateral Hose Co., 200 feet of hose, $254.80; Dickson's Store, cheesecloth, $1.50; N. A. Moore, stakes, etc., $1.98; W. J. Charlton, oats, $25.05; Peter Taylor, trees and shrubs, $13.50; Lakefield News, printing, $9.25; Pay roll, wages, $633.05; total, $939.13.

DAUHTERS OF THE EMPIRE OPEN NATIONAL CONVENTION

Mrs. John A. Stewart Stresses Unity in All Endeavours of Order.

WORK OUTLINED.

President Calls For Self-Education in Principles of Organization.

VICTORIA, B.C., May 28 (Canadian Press). — In her presidential address at the opening of the 28th annual meeting of the National Chapter Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, in the Empress Hotel, last night, Mrs. John A. Stewart, of Perth, Ont., brought before the delegates for their consideration and action during the coming year: Self-education of each member in the work being done by the Order as a whole to be accompanied by co-operation between the different chapters; increase in membership; wholehearted support of the Order's education and immigration policies; child welfare activities, and steady progress in the formation of girl guide companies as a means to draw the younger generations of women into the Order's ranks.

"If each member makes some contribution along these lines the progress in the next twelve months will be an amazing one," Mrs. Stewart said.

Mrs. Stewart said the most important matter of the Order's internal politics that would come before the Order this year was the question of the administration of the war memorial. The president recalled that on the question being raised last year as to the legality of such administration in the past, a committee was appointed by the national chapter to take action to establish such legality and to put the war memorial on a basis that could not be questioned. After the committee had worked on the matter with the Order's legal advisers, the results would be laid before the delegates for their endorsation at this meeting, she said.

The memorial committee, she said, had a difficult task and had given of their very best to ensure smooth sailing for those who would administer the Order in the future. Mrs. Stewart said it was necessary to go before the Provincial Legislature and secure an Act that established the right of the National Chapter to administer the war memorial fund for all time through its committee appointed for that purpose.

Unity Is Stressed.

The past year had been one of importance to the Order in more ways than one, the president said. It started with the Order's tour of English schoolgirls, of which the delegates would receive full reports during the meeting. This "very successful piece of Empire propaganda," she said, demonstrated that the Order's most valuable asset was the spirit of unity, which should be fostered and guarded by each and every member as part of her personal obligation.

The president urged the delegates to study carefully the report on immigration, closely allied with the Order's education work, to be presented to the meeting. "Our oragnization, by its very being," she said, "has put itself on record as chiefly concerned with the building up of a strong Canadian citizenship, British in its ideals, traditions, and affiliations, so it behoves us to watch this question very carefully and to do our share, perhaps even more than our share, in ensuring this result."

After referring to the recent ceremony at Ottawa, where the portrait of the Order's foundress, the late Mrs. Clark Murray, was unveiled in the Archives Building, Mrs. Stewart discussed the child welfare work of the order, which she said was a very valuable contribution to the national well-being. While this year there had been nothing very conspicuous reported, she said steady progress had been made in the various undertakings to build up Canadian citizenship along healthy, sane, British lines."

The report of the national director of Girl Guide Companies was a very encouraging feature of this year's work, Mrs. Stewart said, and the importance of this department could hardly be over-estimated.

"We must gain and retain the interest of the younger generations if the Order is to continue its growth in the future as in the past," Mrs. Stewart said. "I would urge on every chapter, where it is possible, that they interest themselves in some way in girl guide companies irrespective of whether they are companies formed by our own organization or otherwise."

Mrs. Stewart reported some slight increase in the Order's membership this year, but urged the chapters to concentrate on a much greater increase for the year to come. As the work of the Order grew in breadth and importance the cost of its administration was bound to rise in proportion, she said, and this should be met by a larger membership.

Support Order First.

There was a tendency among the chapters to support many outside agencies, Mrs. Stewart said, and she urged the chapters to concentrate on the Order's work and support the Order's own causes first before contributing both in work and money to other objects. Declaring that unity of thought and effort for the good of the whole was of great importance, she urged the chapters to get together, work together, grow together, so that they would deserve the compliment paid by an officer of another nationwide organization, "that no body of men or women outside our Dominion Parliament can speak with such a national voice as the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire."

"No generations in the history of mankind have ever had the responsibilities to the future that our generations have to-day, especially in a new and potential country such as this Dominion," Mrs. Stewart said. "When you become a member of this Order, you admit such responsibilities and it is only by helping each other, building up our Order, increasing our membership and closing up our ranks that we can fulfill the great destiny that lies before us as a loyal body of British women in this our beloved land, the leading Dominion of our great Empire."

ACTIVITIES REPORTED.

I.O.D.E. Assisted Many Movements of Empire Importance in Year.

Victoria, B. C., May 28.— (By The Canadian Press). Many and varied accomplishments of the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire during the past year, are summarized in the report by Mrs. Lily Barker of Toronto, national secretary, delivered to the national convention this afternoon. She cited the nation-wide resolution protesting against alleged removal of the insigna "G. R." from post office plant and equipment; co-operation by means of "Echoes" with the Empire Marketing Board; co-operation in the Empire Shopping Week movement; continued propaganda on behalf of good British motion picture films and the conducting of the tour of Canada by British schoolgirls.

"The Economic League of London, England solicited our co-operation in the dissemination of anti-communistic propaganda," her report said. "While in sympathy with the movement, the Executive Committee felt that the most effective way in which the Order can combat this menace is to strengthen and extend its present educational programme."

WATER IS SAFE AUTHORITY SAYS

J. W. Turner Refuses to Take Chances of Typhoid Outbreak.

EDMONTON, Alta., May 28 (C.P.).—Housewives who protest that their tea tastes of the disinfectant put in the water by the city waterworks department may at least have the comfort that the water is perfectly safe, as regards disease germs of chlorine poisoning.

"A person would have to drink 36 gallons of city water all at one time to secure the equivalent of one medical dose of chlorine," declared J. W. Turner, city waterworks superintendent, "and then it wouldn't hurt him—at least the chlorine wouldn't. We would rather have the water safe than take any chances of typhoid or other diseases one might get out of it."

Mr. Turner also told the protesting woman that her tea might be improved if she heated the tea pot and didn't let the water boil too long.

LONG SLEEVES.

Sleeves grow more complicated and increase their number in the long-sleeved category. A few gathers appear at the top of sleeves once in a while now.

FLARE EMPHASIS.

There's a flare to practically every skirt, frock and many coats this spring. The new flare is apt to start between the hip and knee line and godets are one interesting treatment of this idea.

MARION'S MAIL

Address correspondence to Marion at The Examiner Office.

Dear Marion:

Now that the housecleaning season is pretty well over, we will have more time for trying new recipes and enjoying our rooms that have been freshly papered, painted and cleaned.

Will some of the neighbors contribute some good pineapple recipes?

Here are a couple of helps, which I have found good:

"When making meringue for a lemon pie, stir in two tablespoons of boiling water, when it is ready to put on the pie, and the meringue will not run."

"To remove mildew from linen, mix soap and starch, half as much salt and lemon juice, put on both sides with a brush, lay it in the sun until the stain comes out."

Who is good at getting up a nice picnic lunch? I think suggestions along this line would be seasonable. Perhaps some of the neighbors have a good way or plan of providing one hot dish in the menu for a picnic. If so I would be pleased if they would write about it.

Now that the weather is clearing up, and if we ever catch up with our work, we will have earned and will surely enjoy an occasional picnic.

Ruralite.".

Thank you for your helps, "Ruralite". I think your suggestions for recipes are good, and hope the neighbors send in lots.

"Dear Marion:

At last I will try to write a letter to you! I am glad to read the neighbors' letters. It is good to be friends with your neighbors, but I am surprised over trouble makers among them. Sometimes I am afraid to get friends with the neighbors because you never know what happens! It makes me sorry to hear about all jealously. One cannot have more than the other. I know a lady who had a fine dog. Will you believe some of the neighbors made her the worst trouble because they disliked dogs? They told the police many fakes about the poor dog. The police made this lady send the dog out of town as dangerous for the public—the dog is not dangerous at all, he is kind to everyone, but I know all dogs will bark when you throw stones at them or give them a beating. The neighbors did this to the dog and I think these kind of neighbors is dangerous, maybe worse than many dogs. The lady had not a chance to explain and poor animals cannot help themselves. Who can protect them? We lovers of them have to do something. Do you know what? The neighbors tried to poison the dog too, but one persian cat and two other dogs got the poison, because the dog was not very often out of the yard.

I have a very fine dog myself, we keep him tied up or have him in the house. Twice a day we follow him out. We are afraid to let him alone because it is too bad with poisoning. We lost six cats in two years. The doctor found the last one was poisoned with strychnine. The poor kitten was burned awful. Isn't this cruel? I need to have a cat. There are many mice and rats. Do you know who can protect us, against all those animal haters and killers? In my birth country no one can get poison. If sometimes a farmer needs some, he has to give an order in the paper: "Keep your dog or cats from this or this property, please!" and the name in big letters. I never heard about house animal poisoning before I came here and I know in the town there are many who never will tell about their animals who got poison; they think nothing can be done about it. I will only say, wake up, animal lovers!

It is good my neighbors are no trouble makers—but who had the poison around here? I will be glad to hear some good news from you. My best regards. Revollamina"

Indeed, "Revollamina" I don't know what can be done unless the poisoners are caught red-handed. Then, I suppose, there would be some punishment. I like dogs ,but I wouldn't like to keep one in the city. It's not fair to the dog.

"Dear Marion:

It is a long time since I have written to you but I have been so busy. I enjoy your page to the fullest, especially your Whatnots and the neighbors' letters are great.

I would like to know 'Quo Vadis' and 'Lucinda' and a few others personally. Their letters certainly are helpful and inspiring.

I am enclosing a recipe for Peanut Cookies which is very nice. I have been looking forward to seeing more about the housekeeping budget from the neighbors but I guess everyone is busy with her cleaning at present. I will close, thanking you in advance for the helps. Goldy II"

Thank you for the recipe, "Goldy II". I'm glad that you enjoy the pages—it certainly IS nice to have letters from so many pleasant neighbors.

"Dear Marion:

I have been reading your page in The Examiner for sometime and enjoy it very much, especially the old songs. I am enclosing two that I have and thought some of the readers may like. I thought of two old songs I'd like to get if any kind reader could send in the words to you. "In the Baggage Coach Ahead", and "Please Mr. Conductor Don't Put Me off Your Train." I hope some kind reader will answer my request. Thanking you for your space and wishing you the best of luck.

Mrs. E. H. C."

I'm sure some neighbor will see and answer your request for old songs, "Mrs. E. H. C." Thank you for those you sent, which will be used shortly.

"Dear Marion:

I am writing to thank you and the neighbors for rhubarb jam recipes, they look so tempting. I scarcely can wait for the rhubarb to grow so I may get busy making up those recipes. I am enclosing two old songs in this. Has anyone the words of "The Three Old Maids of Tee" and "A Beautiful Picture in a Golden Frame". I would appreciate them so much. Dear Marion, it would be lovely to hold a May Day here in Canada. I just enjoyed your Whatnot on that subject, for as a child I remember how we used to look forward to the 1st of May as always on the day before we would roam the woods in search of wild flowers. In the morn of the 1st of May we would make garlands and maypoles and then proceed to serenade our friends and receive from them candies, coppers and various good things and at some of the houses we would call at there would be sick or crippled folk and what pleasure our flowers would give them. When their attendants would carry our flowers into the sick room for their patients to feast their eyes on and then at the end of the serenading we gave the Maypole dance and that is wonderful to see. I'm sure Peterborough children yould enjoy all that fun and it is quite inexpensive too.

I remember at one house we used to visit with our garlands a retired admiral lived there and he always gave each child a penny and I think every child in the village visited him on that day. So he must have had quite a time preparing for us. Well, Marion I do wish this rain would desist or something as I want to be out of doors gardening. Well, I must again thank you and wish the page all good luck.

Your Well Wisher, Leatherhead".

I hope next year some of your neighbors in close touch with the schools succeed in inaugurating a Maypole festivity. The children certainly would enjoy it. Thank you for your old songs, "Leatherhead."

"Dear Marion:

This is my second letter to your page which I find very interesting and especialy your Whatnots.

Some letters of late have been on women helping milk and etc.

I live on a farm and don't mind helping during the rush of springs work and harvest. I have helped a little in the field to rack hay, or help to build a load.

The old songs are real nice and I am keeping them all. I must thank you for the pattern I received ages ago. But was very busy house cleaning and couldn't find scarcely time to write before.

Enclosed find coupon for pattern, also 15 cents and also coupon for the Household helps which I have marked. Hoping I am not asking for to much as I know you must be kept very busy.

Today is simply grand in the country. The buds—you can almost see them bursting out. But it has been so terribly cold for so long.

I expect my husband to make garden tomorrow.

Will close for this time.

Your truly,
Mrs. L. B."

It is indeed nice to know that you enjoy our pages, "Mrs. L. B.". Your letter is very interesting, and I hope you find time to write soon again.

Dear Marion:

"Back again for some more helps. Please send me those I have marked. Thank you for your splendid Whatnots on so many subjects, and how you do sympathize with the Farmer and his wife. "Neighborly soul" must be one of the more fortunate who are enjoying the fruits of some one else's toiling.

"Personally, I like the country, but not the inconveniences of farm life and the endless amount of work and worry, and yet not sure if you can make ends meet. Particularly when there is a little crowd to provide for, a farm to pay for and equipment to buy, to say nothing of repairing buildings, etc.

I know one farm lady (formerly a city girl) and although she and her husband had done well financially, she told me she was training her girls from childhood, and instilling in them, a horror of marrying a farmer.

"Our farm lads are a fine lot and can compete with the best anywhere, but mothers hesitate at their daughters having to toil as they did.

"I am sending those verses, Marion, if you car to use them. Some of them touch on the discussions on our page.

"Thanking you and all the neighbors."

DORY.

I'll be glad to use the verses as opportunity offers, "Dory". I was interested to read your ideas on farm life. Don't stay away too long from our page next time.

Dear Marion:

"I would like, with your permission to contribute this small article as tribute towards the memory of a good mother. "Oh for a thousand tongues to sing a mother's praise.' What a dreary world this would be without good mothers. If we take a retrospective view of our lives what a debt of gratitude we owe them, all we have in personality, morals, and citizenship, we owe to a good Christian mother. If any person reading this, possesses a mother then I beg of you to cherish her and instead of making Mother's Day an annual event, bestowing a few flowers, let every day be hers. If she's tired—help her, lonely—stay by her; despondent, cheer her and above all, love and cherish her. We never get away from the influence of a good mother we may side track it for a while, yet memory lingers on and:

"When the world you roam,
The larger places are forgot,
And all you want is home and mother"

Hence the reason for Old Home Week memories are lingering, centred around Mother, Home and Home surroundings. The Vacant chair may be there but sacred memories too. The poet Couper, standing one day in front of his mother's photograph when she had passed to the Great Beyond, bursting out with the expression: "Oh that those lips had language." And not only Cowper, others when solving problems and needing sound advice have said:

'Oh for the touch of a vanished hand,
Oh for the voice that is still.'

"So if anyone has a mother, cherish her for she is priceless above gems. If she has passed away revere her memory, and aim to reach the standard she set up for:

'God has sent the birds and sunshine to gladden all the world,
He sent the sun, the stars, the moon,
the pearly dewdrops sweet,
And then He sent you 'Mother' dear,
to make it all complete.'

Thanking you in anticipation of insertion, I am",

WHITE WINGS.

I'm awfully sorry, "White Wings", I couldn't get your letter in before Mother Mother's Day. I was away for a few days prior to the twelfth, and everthing piled up.

LIFE SAVERS
THE CANDY MINT WITH THE HOLE

That Body of Yours

(By Jas. W. Barton, M.D.)

WAITING FOR THE DIAGNOSIS.

You have likely heard the story of the railroad foreman on whose section a bridge had been washed out.

He instantly reported it, and in a few days a young engineer arrived and asked the foreman how the work on the new bridge was getting along and if the foreman had been able to follow the directions as outlined in the blue prints he had forwarded from headquarters.

The foreman said "I didn't get a chance to look at the blue prints as I was too busy getting the new bridge finished. The trains have been running over it for the past two days."

Some of our older physicians feel that this new fangled idea of sending a patient into hospital and making tests of urine, blood, sputum, faeces, and so forth, which may take a couple of days, is all wrong. Their idea is that the first thought should be to try and find out by physicial examination and questioning, just what is wrong with the patient and begin treatment at once. These othertests can be made afterwards. Because even if the diagnosis is wrong the tests will correct it within a day or two and proper treatment can then be given. And I believe most of us will be inclined to agree with the old fashioned doctor on this point for one big reason. When a patiept has to go to the hospital and leave his home, there is immediately a tenseness of his mind and body, and a feeling of disquietude. Of course as the young physicians or ipternes come to make the various tests he realizes something is being done for him that could not be done at home, but he gets no satisfaction from these internes or from his own doctor as to what is really the matter with him. This means hours, even days, that he must be in this suspense And these hours of suspense can go a long way in reducing his "morale", his power of resistance.

He loses that wonderful help that his doctor can give by going right ahead and treating him and continuing or changing his treatment as the results of the tests become known.

While the "mental hazard" enters into golf and other sports, and ino many of our everyday normal actions, nowhere is it more apparent than with a patient away from home.

Don't ask too much of SLEEP

Daily Efficiency—No. 1

Few people give breakfast the important thought it deserves. Many believe that by getting a good night's rest they are preparing themselves for a busy day. This, however, is far from the truth.

Each morning you arise with the fatigue of the previous day gone. You are refreshed, or should be. But sleep has not given you back the energy you used up the day before—nor the tissue you destroyed. Sleep has not nourished you. Sleep was never intended to take the place of food.

And so, you come down to breakfast. Your body is rested. Your body is hungry—and remember, your body does not necessarily mean your appetite. You may not feel like eating. But your body expects to be supplied with nourishment. It must have body-building material, and fuel to carry you through the day.

Perhaps you do not need a heavy breakfast. People who work indoors are usually light eaters in the morning. But if you do not eat much in the morning, it is important that what you do eat shall contain the vital food elements your body must have to keep it healthy.

On the other hand, breakfast may be your favourite meal. You may eat a lot. But a lot of food does not always mean a lot of the right kind of nourishment. It does not mean that you are getting all the necessary food elements. You may be getting entirely too much of one and not enough of several others. Some, you may not be getting at all.

One delicious food was deliberately designed to give you these needed elements. It is Grape-Nuts. In its crisp, crunchy kernels, Grape-Nuts supplies dextrins, maltose and other carbohydrates for energy; iron for the blood; phosphorus for teeth and bone; protein for muscle and body-building; and the important vitamin-B. And this same crispness has an important health benefit—better teeth and better digestion achieved because Grape-Nuts must be chewed.

The RIGHT START

WHEN every day's a busy day—have Grape-Nuts for breakfast. Grape-Nuts gives you five of the food elements you need for energy and health. It has unique benefits for teeth and gums and digestion. And on top of it all, it's one of the most delicious foods you ever tasted!

Have some to-morrow, with milk or cream. No cooking required. Get it at your grocer's in the famous wax-wrapped package. And save money, too. Less than one cent's worth is a sufficient helping of Grape-Nuts—four teaspoonfuls.

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG,
That old and antique song we heard, last night.

THE HELPER.
By Margaret Widdemer.

(Contributed by "Dory")

Now my morning's work is done—
Windows flashing in the sun,

Shining floor and rugs laid true,
Curtains crisp in white and blue,

Rose-decked mantel, snowy bed,
Smooth and straight from foot to head,

Flowered dishes, rose and black,
Gay in rows along the rack,

Polished stand and tabouret,
Cushioned chairs demurely set—

Lord, whose world each day shines new,
I have made some beauty, too!

ACCEPTANCE.

(Contributed by "Dory")

The house is ugly—but it is the house I live in.
To-morrow I will plant a rosebush by the doorstep
And edge the gravel path with homely scented spice-pinks,
And I will weed the path and rake it smoothly over.
Before my wide-flung door, jesting, I'll spread my prayer-rug.
In summer I will bank the hearth with pungent pine boughs,
And fill my copper-lustre jug with cool blue larkspurs.
In winter I will keep a fire of beech logs burning,
And put my luster jug where the firelight will strike it.
And yet, when night blots out this house I live in, often
I'll sit long in the purple dark—nor light the candles.

The Whatnot

A Column for Little Bits of Everything of Interest to Women Readers

Conducted by Marion (Copyright)

AT THE Canadian Legion Carnival I noticed two or three things about which I have wondered—did they impress other visitors too?

* * * * * *

The whole affair was very creditable, and while I have not yet heard the financial report, I hope the Legion made enough to enable it to carry on its good work.

* * * * * *

The members certainly worked hard enough—and used enough imagination. The booths were different from those one usually sees at such affairs, and their style indicated that these men have not yet forgotten the war years.

* * * * * *

Which observation brings me to one of the points I noticed—can these men ever forget?

* * * * * *

In the concert, I noticed that the members of the cast threw themselves whole-heartedly into the portrayal of French scenes. They seemed to thoroughly enjoy getting back to the old khaki, and sand bags, and flashing guns.

* * * * * *

Was it a relief from the hum drum of civil life, or was there some deeper thrill—have they memories of those days that transcend the recalling of mud, and lost rum, and 'mulligan?"

* * * * * *

Can we ever know? I have obtained the services of Kathleen Norris to write the Whatnot for us on Saturdays and in the first article, to appear on June 8, she remarks that no man can ever understand the heart of a woman. Well, can any woman ever fathom the mind of a man who went through the war?

* * * * * *

I think not. Few, if any, of those men would stand up in a parlor to sing ANY song—but how they did throw themselves into the singing of the old Army songs! Why? Did they recall comradeship that we stay-at-homes cannot understand?

* * * * * *

I think that is the reason. I believe that those men forgot all about the audience. And I do wish I were able to understand their thoughts and read the memories that came tumbling through their minds as they sat around the brazier—just as they had done so many times on active service.

* * * * * *

It would be worth while for a ll of us to TRY to be understanding.

* * * * * *

And then, downstairs, there was the "Dugout" to which I was admitted by special dispensation, though it was not really intended for women.

* * * * * *

It was rather pitiful. Not the dugout, I mean, but the attempt to capture lost days.

* * * * * *

I have been in some of the preserved dugouts in the war zone during a post-war tour. There you may still see the "chickenwire beds", the "chairs" and "tables" made from scavengings of the battle-field, the braziers made from old tins, and even from steel helmets, the bayonets thrust into the wall to act as pegs, and the pictures.

* * * * * *

Somewhat terrible pictures, they are, even in this sophisticated age, but one dismisses their crudity with the thought that they at least brightened up the drab sand bag walls.

* * * * * *

Would these men like to go back to dugout days again? Whether they would like a wholesale dose of it such as they had before, one must admit that they certainly enjoyed their four-day throw-back.

* * * * * *

And here again the environment must have brought many memories of the great adventure.

* * * * * *

After all, life must appear a sleepy affair to such men, and we must be very prosaic people indeed to them. Can they look forward to anything in future so thrilling, so soul-stirring, as the three or four years over there?

* * * * * *

And it is a rather disheartening thought to know that the greatest thing in life is behind one. We like to look to to-morrow and next year as likely to bring each its adventure.

* * * * * *

But these fighting men cannot hope for anything in the years to come half so soul-encompassing as the life they led in environment such as they showed us at the Legion Carnival.

* * * * * *

So let's try to make up to them, in some way, what they miss in this civilian life. Let's forget passive tolerance, and try to be really helpful. Don't "make allowances"—find the positively good about them and develop it.

* * * * * *

Men fought, and women wept, during the war. Don't weep now over their peculiarities, because in the face of their experiences we must admit a great ignorance.

* * * * * *

Do you know, by the way, that in New York there is an organization called "The Dug Out" that is doing a splendid work? It is a club-house and workshop for disabled ex-soldiers, sponsored by prominent metropolitan society women.

* * * * * *

"The Dug Out" has been in operation since 1920, and has proven so successful that next September it is to move into splendid new quarters, with a club room, workshop, canteen to accommodate 150 men and sleeping quarters for 36 men. A prominent woman has endowed a special hospital room for treatment of men still needing care after discharge from hospital.

* * * * * *

There are five women on the board of directors, and the furnishing committee is composed entirely of women. The men, living in pleasant quarters, are enabled to earn a decent and honorable livelihood in spite of their war incapacities.

* * * * * *

That is getting the soldiers' viewpoint. I recall reading that when on leave Canadian soldiers stayed at the Canadian soldiers' hostelry in preference to the splendid hotels which their leave-money would have enabled them to patronize. They preferred the comradeship they found there to the unaccustomed austerity of the hotel.

* * * * * *

Even if the war HAS been over eleven years, these men still think back and they and their problems are worthy a thought of ours.

I.O.D.E. President Tells Order's Plans Celebration of First Trans-Atlantic Flight

Victoria, B. C., May 28.—(By The Canadian Press)—Reference to the plans of the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire, to commemorate through Canada on June 14 the tenth anniversary of the first Trans-Atlantic non-stop flight, successfully made by Captain Alcock and Lieutenant Brown, British flyers, was made in the presidential address of Mrs. John A. Stewart, of Perth, Ont., at the opening of the 28th annual meeting of the national chapter in the Empress Hotel last night.

After expressing gratitude for the co-operation of the press and radio broadcasting agencies in the commemoration, Mrs. Stewart recalled the two British flyers who flew from St. John's Newfoundland, to Clifden, Galway, Ireland, a distance of 1,880 miles in 15 hours, 57 minutes, in a British designed, British built aeroplane and engine.

"Your executive felt that in initiating this commemoration of a magnificent achievement, which has been more or less lost sight of in the furore created by more recent flight, they were keeping up their programme of imperial propaganda," the president said. "One feature which makes the Alcock-Brown flight the most remarkable trans-Atlantic flight ever accomplished is that it was done ten years ago in a plane which naturally was not nearly so developed as those which succeeded (or even failed) in later flights. His Majesty emphasized the greatness of this pioneer feat by conferring a knighthood on both the flyers."

The Mirror of the Mode

By Mary Marshall

Worn over light frocks this unlined black silk coat with its scarf collar will furnish another ensemble for warm weather days.

For the woman who can afford only one wrap for use all summer long, there is much to be said in favor of the full-length coat of unlined silk. For the older woman whose figure is generously proportioned, the advantages of black far outnumber its disadvantages. Black is always smart and harmonizes with any shade or color. Black does show the dust but it comes up smiling after repeated trips to the cleaner. And a woman always looks her slenderest in black.

Some of the new silk slips designed to be worn with thin summer frocks have flaring lace ruffles at the hem.

Tennis dresses with low-cut backs suggest evening dresses and the simpler sort of summer evening gowns suggest sports clothes, and that makes possible a new double-duty dress made of washable white or pastel-toned satin, sleeveless and low cut at the back, that is actually designed for tennis or evening wear. Simply by changing from sports shoes to high-heeled evening slippers, and by changing the tone of one's make-up the clever young woman can go from late afternoon tennis to dinner without bothering to change.

Never before were summer clothes so summery as those designed for warm-weather wear this season. The vogue of the sleeveless dress has been assured by its general acceptance at resorts here and abroad last winter, and the low-back sports dress no longer causes comment. Sports and daytime resorts dresses are still fairly short and always with comfortable fullness about the hem, and there are light-weight linen, pique or straw hats to provide shade under midday sun.

WOMEN LEARNING JU-JITSU.

London women who must be out alone at night are taking up ju-jitsu, the Japanese art of wrestling as a means of protection against bandits. Many others are learning the art as an exercise to keep down weight. Ju-Jitsu instructors report that girls are coming to them in increasing numbers and are showing as much skill as men.

IN WOMAN'S REALM.

By JEANETTE.

Valedictory addresses have the habit of being rather stereotyped in words and thought. The following is a copy of the Valedictory address, prepared by one of the Sisters, and read by Miss Patricia Connelly of the graduating class, at the Graduation Exercises last week of the Training School for Nurses at St. Joseph's Hospital. It is a poetical exception to the general rule, as the idea of a garden is carried out in the words and thoughts of the writer, with reference also to the clouds which occasionally strayed over the horizon:

"Be our pathway as a garden,
Bright and fair,
All our Hearts'
Desires in blossom
Everywhere!
Just a garden sweet and fragrant,
That delights the heart so see,
Holding promise bright and golden
Of what future years shall be."

"The first odours of Spring, the unfolding of leaves and flowers, the sweet melodies of the birds and the bright scenes of fresh green fields call you irresistibly from your indoor occupations to enjoy the early flush of reawakened life. Instinctively, you dream of a garden, your garden of dear delight—the work of your own hands. What pleasure you find in the preparation of the rich, loamy earth and in the planting of the tiny life-bearing seeds! What joy thrills you when you perceive the delicate green shoots emerging from their prison-house, and your happiness is unrestrained when—

"Some floweret lifts to you its tender
tear-wet face and sends its breath
To whisper of the earth, its beauty
and its grace."

"We have been planting and cultivating our garden—a mystical garden of life—a garden planted in the loam of our minds and hearts and hands—in our very being. Three years ago we sought admittance into the Training School of St. Joseph's Hospital. When we were welcomed, the great sun came smiling over the horizon and our work began. Seeds were given us for planting—a very few at a time—by the efficient head gardeners, the physicians and Sister-teachers. Gradually the tiny seeds and rootlets absorbed the warmth and moisture of their careful training and the miracle of nature was renewed. Birds frequented our garden as it grew, and filled the sunshine with their songs. But the sun did not always shine on our labours.

"At times, perhaps, a cloudlet chanced
to stray
Across our path and cast its shadow
there.
The little cross our shoulders bore
that day
Gave strength (Life's sterner future things) to bear."

Oft- times the earth was hard and unyielding; (here and there), the ground was stony, little nourishment could be found for the plants depending on us for life. Occasionally, too, the tiny shoots were moistened by our tears, the saline drops aiding, mayhap, in the moulding of flower tissues of a finer, more delicate texture. As time flitted by, the weeding became onerous; the sun's rays beat pitilessly on our backs, bent in the performance of some distasteful task. Only now, in our fuller knowledge, do we perceive the more brilliant lustre of our blossoms, added by our victory over human nature. At times memories of tired feet and throbbing heads appear as does the passing shower, but today the rainbow of jubilant achievement arches the skies while the sun dispels the gloomy vapours which vanish into nothingness.

"The busy May-day of our lives has glided almost imperceptibly by within the precincts of these hospital walls, where all has combined, to prepare us for that opening June whose whose beauties are still hidden behind the impenetrable veil of the future. The harvest time of triumph has come for us. We now cull the choice blossoms nurtured in our garden; we wish to diffuse their perfumes on the breezes of life; we are ready to disseminate the seeds of service throughout God's great garden, the world. May our flowers of knowledge effectively alleviate the sufferings of humankind! May our ministrations be ever tender and accompanied by the fragrance of kindness, patience, sympathy and cheerfulness. May we plants the seed of hope in hearts filled with listless despair and raise them up from their despondency! If we can accomplish these stern duties well, our kind teachers will feel amply repaid.

"The birds which hovered about our fair garden pour forth their sweet carols, the harmonious strains of which are borne forth to you on the perfume-laden breezes. May their sweet notes be symbolic of our gratitude to you, honoured Doctors, Reverend Mother Superior and our kindly Superintendent, who have so unselfishly helped us to cultivate the flowers of faith and science, the seeds of which must ever be found side by side in the one furrow if the latter is to bring forth exquisite blossoms.

"To our Reverand Father Chaplain, we owe a debt we may never hope to pay; but like unto those plants which retain their pristine freshness even beneath the December snows, so shall our gratitude live on, to bloom with renewed beauty and vigour in the Spring-tide of a happy eternity.

Our graduation day has become a reality—a day of sunshine and joy-but in its brilliant sunset there is a tinge of gray sadness. We have worked together for three years and now the parting of the ways has come. As we move reluctantly toward the gate opening out on the great highway of life we cast many a lingering look over the old familiar haunts of our secluded retreat, our Alma Mater. Through our blinding tears we can but faintly discern the forms of the dear ones who remain to continue their God-given work—Fare you well, kind friends, our best of friends!—Farewell, Alma Mater!"

NEW CHAPTERS FORMED.

I.O.D.E. Organized Twenty-one Branches in Year, Says Report To-day.

Victoria, B. C., May 28.—(By The Canadian Press).—Twenty-one new chapters of the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire, were formed during the past year, it was reported to the national convention this afternoon by Miss Louise M. Vroom, of Saint John, N. B., national organizing secretary. Seven of these were in Ontario, six in Quebec, five in Alberta and three in New Brunswick. At the same time 14 were disbanded.

The report stressed the encouraging outlook particularly in Quebec province, where a decided interest in the work of the order is noticeably in many of the outlying districts and industrial towns.

The use of historic names for new chapters had been continually urged on provincial organizing secretaries, the report added.

Shortage of water in Scotland is causing suffering among live stock.

BREAD BAKING IN OTHER LANDS

A sketch of a primitive Roman mill is shown at the left. The mill itself was cut from solid lava and was operated for grinding coarse meal by either a slave or an animal.

WE USE QUAKER FLOUR MILLED IN PETERBORO

One slice of Bredin's Butternut Bread with jam is never enough for the children's mid-afternoon snack. At least, that's what they say. And can YOU, after tasting Bredin's Butternut Bread question their asking for more?

Old Baking Methods Won't Do Today---

WE do not wonder that women have given up bread baking. It certainly does take a great deal of time and patience. We know. For, to produce Bredin's Butternut Bread, we take extraordinary care and pains that shame old baking methods. Little wonder that we take such pride in this loaf. Little wonder that it has won approval everywhere in this city. Try a loaf to-day.

Was it a relief from the hum drum of civil life, or was there some deeper thrill—have they memories of those days that transcend the recalling of mud, and lost rum, and 'mulligan?"

* * * * * * *

Can we ever know? I have obtained the services of Kathleen Norris to write the Whatnot for us on Saturdays and in the first article, to appear on June 8, she remarks that no man can ever understand the heart of a woman. Well, can any woman ever fathom the mind of a man who went through the war?

* * * * * * *

I think not. Few, if any, of those men would stand up in a parlor to sing ANY song—but how they did throw themselves into the singing of the old Army songs! Why? Did they recall comradeship that we stay-at-homes cannot understand?

* * * * * * *

I think that is the reason. I believe that those men forgot all about the audience. And I do wish I were able to understand their thoughts and read the memories that came tumbling through their minds as they sat around the brazier—just as they had done so many times on active service.

* * * * * * *

It would be worth while for all of us to TRY to be understanding.

* * * * * * *

And then, downstairs, there was the "Dugout" to which I was admitted by special dispensation, though it was not really intended for women.

* * * * * * *

It was rather pitiful. Not the dugout, I mean, but the attempt to capture lost days.

* * * * * * *

I have been in some of the preserved dugouts in the war zone during a post-war tour. There you may still see the "chickenwire beds", the "chairs" and "tables" made from scavengings of the battle-field, the braziers made from old tins, and even from steel helmets, the bayonets thrust into the wall to act as pegs, and the pictures.

* * * * * * *

Somewhat terrible pictures, they are, even in this sophisticated age, but one dismisses their crudity with the thought that they at least brightened up the drab sand bag walls.

* * * * * * *

Would these men like to go back to dugout days again? Whether they would like a wholesale dose of it such as they had before, one must admit that they certainly enjoyed their four-day throw-back.

* * * * * * *

And here again the environment must have brought many memories of the great adventure.

* * * * * * *

After all, life must appear a sleepy affair to such men, and we must be very prosaic people indeed to them. Can they look forward to anything in future so thrilling, so soul-stirring, as the three or four years over there?

* * * * * * *

And it is a rather disheartening thought to know that the greatest thing in life is behind one. We like to look to to-morrow and next year as likely to bring each its adventure.

* * * * * * *

But these fighting men cannot hope for anything in the years to come half so soul-encompassing as the life they led in environment such as they showed us at the Legion Carnival.

* * * * * * *

So let's try to make up to them, in some way, what they miss in this civilian life. Let's forget passive tolerance, and try to be really helpful. Don't "make allowances"—find the positively good about them and develop it.

* * * * * * *

Men fought, and women wept, during the war. Don't weep now over their peculiarities, because in the face of their experiences we must admit a great ignorance.

* * * * * * *

Do you know, by the way, that in New York there is an organization called "The Dug Out" that is doing a splendid work? It is a club-house and workshop for disabled ex-soldiers, sponsored by prominent metropolitan society women.

* * * * * * *

"The Dug Out" has been in operation since 1920, and has proven so successful that next September it is to move into splendid new quarters, with a club room, workshop, canteen to accommodate 150 men and sleeping quarters for 36 men. A prominent woman has endowed a special hospital room for treatment of men still needing care after discharge from hospital.

* * * * * * *

There are five women on the board of directors, and the furnishing committee is composed entirely of women. The men, living in pleasant quarters, are enabled to earn a decent and honorable livelihood in spite of their war incapacities.

* * * * * * *

That is getting the soldiers' viewpoint. I recall reading that when on leave Canadian soldiers stayed at the Canadian soldiers' hostelry in preference to the splendid hotels which their leave-money would have enabled them to patronize. They preferred the comradeship they found there to the unaccustomed austerity of the hotel.

* * * * * * *

Even if the war HAS been over eleven years, these men still think back and they and their problems are worthy a thought of ours.

I.O.D.E. President Tells Order's Plans Celebration of First Trans-Atlantic Flight

Victoria, B. C., May 28.—(By The Canadian Press)—Reference to the plans of the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire, to commemorate through Canada on June 14 the tenth anniversary of the first Trans-Atlantic non-stop flight, successfully made by Captain Alcock and Lieutenant Brown, British flyers, was made in the presidential address of Mrs. John A. Stewart, of Perth, Ont., at the opening of the 28th annual meeting of the national chapter in the Empress Hotel last night.

After expressing gratitude for the co-operation of the press and radio broadcasting agencies in the commemoration, Mrs. Stewart recalled the two British flyers who flew from St. John's Newfoundland, to Clifden, Galway, Ireland, a distance of 1,880 miles in 15 hours, 57 minutes, in a British designed, British built aeroplane and engine.

"Your executive felt that in initiating this commemoration of a magnificent achievement, which has been more or less lost sight of in the furore created by more recent flight, they were keeping up their programme of imperial propaganda," the president said. "One feature which makes the Alcock-Brown flight the most remarkable trans-Atlantic flight ever accomplished is that it was done ten years ago in a plane which naturally was not nearly so developed as those which succeeded (or even failed) in later flights. His Majesty emphasized the greatness of this pioneer feat by conferring a knighthood on both the flyers."

By Mary Marshall

Worn over light frocks this unlined black silk coat with its scarf collar will furnish another ensemble for warm weather days.

For the woman who can afford only one wrap for use all summer long, there is much to be said in favor of the full-length coat of unlined silk. For the older woman whose figure is generously proportioned, the advantages of black far outnumber its disadvantages. Black is always smart and harmonizes with any shade or color. Black does show the dust but it comes up smiling after repeated trips to the cleaner. And a woman always looks her slenderest in black.

Some of the new silk slips designed to be worn with thin summer frocks have flaring lace ruffles at the hem.

Tennis dresses with low-cut backs suggest evening dresses and the simpler sort of summer evening gowns suggest sports clothes, and that makes possible a new double-duty dress made of washable white or pastel-toned satin, sleeveless and low cut at the back, that is actually designed for tennis or evening wear. Simply by changing from sports shoes to high-heeled evening slippers, and by changing the tone of one's make-up the clever young woman can go from late afternoon tennis to dinner without bothering to change.

Never before were summer clothes so summery as those designed for warm-weather wear this season. The vogue of the sleeveless dress has been assured by its general acceptance at resorts here and abroad last winter, and the low-back sports dress no longer causes comment. Sports and daytime resorts dresses are still fairly short and always with comfortable fullness about the hem, and there are light-weight linen, pique or straw hats to provide shade under midday sun.

WOMEN LEARNING JU-JITSU.

London women who must be out alone at night are taking up ju-jitsu, the Japanese art of wrestling as a means of protection against bandits. Many others are learning the art as an exercise to keep down weight. Ju-Jitsu instructors report that girls are coming to them in increasing numbers and are showing as much skill as men.

IN WOMAN'S REALM.

By JEANETTE.

Valedictory addresses have the habit of being rather stereotyped in words and thought. The following is a copy of the Valedictory address, prepared by one of the Sisters, and read by Miss Patricia Connelly of the graduating class, at the Graduation Exercises last week of the Training School for Nurses at St. Joseph's Hospital. It is a poetical exception to the general rule, as the idea of a garden is carried out in the words and thoughts of the writer, with reference also to the clouds which occasionally strayed over the horizon:

"Be our pathway as a garden,
Bright and fair,
All our Hearts'
Desires in blossom
Everywhere!
Just a garden sweet and fragrant,
That delights the heart so see,
Holding promise bright and golden
Of what future years shall be."

"The first odours of Spring, the unfolding of leaves and flowers, the sweet melodies of the birds and the bright scenes of fresh green fields call you irresistibly from your indoor occupations to enjoy the early flush of reawakened life. Instinctively, you dream of a garden, your garden of dear delight—the work of your own hands. What pleasure you find in the preparation of the rich, loamy earth and in the planting of the tiny life-bearing seeds! What joy thrills you when you perceive the delicate green shoots emerging from their prison-house, and your happiness is unrestrained when—

"Some floweret lifts to you its tender
tear-wet face and sends its breath
To whisper of the earth, its beauty
and its grace."

"We have been planting and cultivating our garden—a mystical garden of life—a garden planted in the loam of our minds and hearts and hands—in our very being. Three years ago we sought admittance into the Training School of St. Joseph's Hospital. When we were welcomed, the great sun came smiling over the horizon and our work began. Seeds were given us for planting—a very few at a time—by the efficient head gardeners, the physicians and Sister-teachers. Gradually the tiny seeds and rootlets absorbed the warmth and moisture of their careful training and the miracle of nature was renewed. Birds frequented our garden as it grew, and filled the sunshine with their songs. But the sun did not always shine on our labours.

"At times, perhaps, a cloudlet chanced
to stray
Across our path and cast its shadow
there.
The little cross our shoulders bore
that day
Gave strength (Life's sterner future
things) to bear."

Oft- times the earth was hard and unyielding; (here and there), the ground was stony, little nourishment could be found for the plants depending on us for life. Occasionally, too, the tiny shoots were moistened by our tears, the saline drops aiding, mayhap, in the moulding of flower tissues of a finer, more delicate texture. As time flitted by, the weeding became onerous; the sun's rays beat pitilessly on our backs, bent in the performance of some distasteful task. Only now, in our fuller knowledge, do we perceive the more brilliant lustre of our blossoms, added by our victory over human nature. At times memories of tired feet and throbbing heads appear as does the passing shower, but today the rainbow of jubilant achievement arches the skies while the sun dispels the gloomy vapours which vanish into nothingness.

"The busy May-day of our lives has glided almost imperceptibly by within the precincts of these hospital walls, where all has combined, to prepare us for that opening June whose whose beauties are still hidden behind the impenetrable veil of the future. The harvest time of triumph has come for us. We now cull the choice blossoms nurtured in our garden; we wish to diffuse their perfumes on the breezes of life; we are ready to disseminate the seeds of service throughout God's great garden, the world. May our flowers of knowledge effectively alleviate the sufferings of humankind! May our ministrations be ever tender and accompanied by the fragrance of kindness, patience, sympathy and cheerfulness. May we plants the seed of hope in hearts filled with listless despair and raise them up from their despondency! If we can accomplish these stern duties well, our kind teachers will feel amply repaid.

"The birds which hovered about our fair garden pour forth their sweet carols, the harmonious strains of which are borne forth to you on the perfume-laden breezes. May their sweet notes be symbolic of our gratitude to you, honoured Doctors, Reverend Mother Superior and our kindly Superintendent, who have so unselfishly helped us to cultivate the flowers of faith and science, the seeds of which must ever be found side by side in the one furrow if the latter is to bring forth exquisite blossoms.

"To our Reverand Father Chaplain, we owe a debt we may never hope to pay; but like unto those plants which retain their pristine freshness even beneath the December snows, so shall our gratitude live on, to bloom with renewed beauty and vigour in the Spring-tide of a happy eternity.

Our graduation day has become a reality—a day of sunshine and joy-but in its brilliant sunset there is a tinge of gray sadness. We have worked together for three years and now the parting of the ways has come. As we move reluctantly toward the gate opening out on the great highway of life we cast many a lingering look over the old familiar haunts of our secluded retreat, our Alma Mater. Through our blinding tears we can but faintly discern the forms of the dear ones who remain to continue their God-given work—Fare you well, kind friends, our best of friends!—Farewell, Alma Mater!"

NEW CHAPTERS FORMED.

I.O.D.E. Organized Twenty-one Branches in Year, Says Report To-day.

Victoria, B. C., May 28.—(By The Canadian Press).—Twenty-one new chapters of the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire, were formed during the past year, it was reported to the national convention this afternoon by Miss Louise M. Vroom, of Saint John, N. B., national organizing secretary. Seven of these were in Ontario, six in Quebec, five in Alberta and three in New Brunswick. At the same time 14 were disbanded.

The report stressed the encouraging outlook particularly in Quebec province, where a decided interest in the work of the order is noticeably in many of the outlying districts and industrial towns.

The use of historic names for new chapters had been continually urged on provincial organizing secretaries, the report added.

Shortage of water in Scotland is causing suffering among live stock.

BREAD BAKING IN OTHER LANDS

A sketch of a primitive Roman mill is shown at the left. The mill itself was cut from solid lava and was operated for grinding coarse meal by either a slave or an animal.

One slice of Bredin's Butternut Bread with jam is never enough for the children's mid-afternoon snack. At least, that's what they say. And can YOU, after tasting Bredin's Butternut Bread question their asking for more?

Old Baking Methods Won't Do Today---

WE do not wonder that women have given up bread baking. It certainly does take a great deal of time and patience. We know. For, to produce Bredin's Butternut Bread, we take extraordinary care and pains that shame old baking methods. Little wonder that we take such pride in this loaf. Little wonder that it has won approval everywhere in this city. Try a loaf to-day.

CHICAGO, May 28 (Canadian Press). — The White Sox gave a great exhibition of coming from behind yesterday to take both games of a double-header. A late rally gave them the opener by a 7 to 4 count, while they pulled out the second game 6 to 5 in a 14-inning struggle.

The Sox came from behind to tie up the second game by Bill Cissell's home run in the ninth after Earl Whitehill had let them down with one hit for the first seven frames.

Hendricks To Remain Pilot Of Reds

THE VETERANS OF PROFESSIONAL BASEBALL

Who said youth must be served? The saying certainly does not hold good in the case of the old ball game. If you take a look at some of the box scores in this paper tonight you will get an idea of what becomes of the old stars of the major baseball leagues.

Topping the list of the veterans, Jimmy Walsh of Jersey City, is playing his 24th season in organized ball. Walter Leverenz, who is playing this season with the Toronto Leafs, is the oldest pitcher in the International League. He has been hurling the pill now for 17 years.

Stephen Francis O'Neill (the name really does belong to a ball player) the Leafs' pilot, and Harry Lake of Reading, are the two oldest backstops in the International loop. O'Neill graduated from Villinova College in 1909 and played his first pro. baseball with the Elmira Club of the old New York State League in 1910, and caught his first game with the majors for Cleveland in 1911.

Harry Lake is the only player who can rival O'Neill's record and he is playing only occasionally while O'Neill is at it steadily.

An all star veterans' team would line up something like the following: Steve O'Neill, catcher, 20 seasons; Eddie Onslow, first base, 19 seasons; Jim Cooney, second base, 19 seasons; Everett Scott, shortstop, 21 seasons; Fritz Maise, third base, 20 seasons; F. Gilhooley, outfield, 19 seasons; J. Walsh, outfield, 24 seasons; M. Jacobson, outfield, 18 seasons; Leverenz, pitcher, 22 seasons; Babby, pitcher, 21 seasons; J. Barnes, pitcher, 18 seasons.

DELORO BEATS WOOLLENS 5-1

City Team Eliminated in the First Round of Spalding Cup.

MISHAPS BEFALL TEAM.

MARMORA, May 28 (Examiner Correspondence).—Playing ten men throughout on a team undergoing reorganization at the last minute, Woollens succumbed at Deloro on Saturday afternoon in the first round of the Spalding Cup by the score of 5-1. Nearly all the visiting teams to Deloro this spring have arrived late and in some plight or other, but the greater misfortune seemed destined to befall the League leaders. Bad enough as it was to leave Peterborough minus their captain, Whitely, the loss of the services of Reid through a car mishap near Indian River made things altogether worse. Word was despatched to Deloro that the start of the game would not be possible until an hour after scheduled time, and so the small crowd at Deloro waited until the green jerseyed aggregation appeared.

Woollens decided to play with four forwards, leaving the position of inside left unfilled. Mitchell and Wade took the places of Reid and Baxter at back, their places as halves being filled by E. Vinette and H. Jackson. J. Dempsey took E. Vinette's position at left half.

Deloro kicked off with the wind favoring the visitors. For the first five minutes, Woollens pressed heavily and but for Green's skillful play between the posts would have scored. Deloro seemed to be bunching up and unable to get away to aggressive tactics. Play eventually was taken to midfield. Then Deloro broke away, and Brooks scored a beautiful goal. This only seemed to enliven the Woollens the more, and with good combination, the ball was carried to the other end, where J. Montgomery equalized with a shot to which no luck was attached, it being a real stinger.

Mayette, a few moments later, took a free kick which brought no advantage, though well taken. Deloro then broke away on the right, and Mayette, who had been conspicuous by some fine play, was fouled by Murray. Again no success came of the free kick. Soon another free kick was awarded the visitors, which tested Green unsuccessfully.

A free kick was now awarded Deloro, and E. Brown shot high. The Smelters were conceded a further advantage in the award of a free kick, but nothing came of the favorable chance given by J. Hart's kick. Then a pretty bout of passing by the homesters resulted in W. Brown neatly scoring. Woollens again attacked and weakness in front of goal spoiled the odd chance of scoring. Before half-time was called, J. Hart failed on a splendid individual effort. The whistle went with the score: Deloro 2, Woollens 1.

Second Half.

Woollens carried play into the Smelters' territory as the second half opened. Playing a little better combination than earlier in the game, the Blue and Whites again attacked, but W. Brown shot wide. J. Montgomery effected a clever save shortly afterwards, jumping high to prevent the ball grazing the cross-bar. Then a visiting player was penalized for undue attentions to Brooks, but Hart missed with the kick. W. Brown sent in a good shot but Montgomery cleared well. Woollens soon let the crowd see that they had not forsaken Green and that player was called on to do further saving. Brooks, who with the other Deloro wing, had been playing in great form, broke away, and again being fouled, Deloro was given a second penalty. Brooks took the kick successfully. Woollens stood in further danger when Brooks sent the ball against the cross-bar, and Cousins missed a subsequent chance. Having lost their dash at this juncture of the game, Woollens were placed on their defensive. Eventually Brooks trickily dodged the backs and scored with a shot which gave Montgomery no chance.

The game was almost over when Cousins, during a melee in front of the Peterborough goal, netted another for his side. Final score: Deloro 5, Woollens 1.

The teams lined up as follows:

Woollens—Goal, T. Montgomery; backs, James Mitchell and M. Wade; half-backs, E. Vinette, H. Jackson, and J. Dempsey; forwards, J. Mayette, J. Taylor, J. Montgomery, and J. Gore; linesman, Jack Mitchell.

Deloro—Goal, D. Green; backs, R. D. Murray and C. T. Nicholson (captain); half-backs, N. Hipson, J. Hart and W. K. Savage; forwards, Brooks, E. Brown, T. Cousins, T. M. Gresham and W. Brown; linesman, W. H. Brown, Sen.

Referee, J. Middleton.

CELLAR CLUB WINS 8-5 TILT FROM CHICAGO

Cincinnati Club Directors Decide to Retain Hendricks As Manager.

Pirates Take Second Place in National League By Defeating Cards 10-1.

CINCINNATI, May 28 (Canadian Press). — The National League cellar occupants gave indications yesterday that they had not curled up passively for the remainder of the season, Cincinnati defeating the Cubs 8 to 5, and thereby ending a string of nine defeats.

The Reds' victory followed a meeting of the club directors this morning, President C. J. McDiarmid, discussing the fate of Jack Hendricks, said it would not be wise for the Cincinnati club to change managers at this time of the year, regardless of the poor showing Hendricks has made.

CARDS IN THIRD PLACE.

ST. LOUIS, May 28 (Canadian Press). — The Pittsburg Pirates slugged their way to second place in the close National League race yesterday by taking the third game of the series from the St. Louis Cardinals 10 to 1. The Cards, who on Saturday were in first place, now are in third place, a half-game below the Pirates.

PHILLIES WIN DOUBLE.

PHILADELPHIA, May 28 (Canadian Press).— Ray Benge and Claude Willoughby pitched the Phillies to a double victory over the Boston Braves yesterday by scores of 2 to 1 and 3 to 1.

Willoughby, who allowed but seven hits, had a shut out victory in the second until Harper hit a homer in the ninth. Whitney hit a homer for the Phillies in the second game.

SMELTERS WIN.

Defeat Marmora Juniors 7-4 in Fast Game at Mining Town.

MARMORA, May 28 (Examiner Correspondence).—Prior to the football fixture at Deloro on Saturday afternoon, the ground was engaged by the Deloro juvenile baseball club, who in receiving Marmora juniors, had a heavy defeat of a week previous to be avenged of. The game was one of the best ever staged by the juniors, and, according to the scorer, the honors went to Deloro by 7 runs to 4. Three-base hits were obtained by G. Stewart of Deloro and by Earl Gray and J. Rice of Marmora. Seven innings were played.

The umpires were M. Corrigan at plate and S. J. Sanderson on bases.

Browns Take Four Games of the Series

CLEVELAND, May 28 (Canadian Press). — The St. Louis Browns made it four out of six in their series with Cleveland by winning yesterdays game, 3 to 1.

George Blaeholder won his second victory of the series, keeping the eight Cleveland hits well scattered, while the Browns touched Miller for ten safeties and took advantage of a passed ball and an error to score two of their runs.

YANKEES SEND ARNDT JORGENS TO JERSEY CLUB

Huggins Likes Young Catcher and Will Watch His Progress.

PRUNING CLUB.

Three Others Are Slated To Get the Axe Before June 15.

NEW YORK, May 27.—While the rain drops were falling Manager Huggins began the pruning operation which is to separate the Yanks from four ball players before June 15. Huggins has been carrying twenty-nine players and only twenty-five may be listed after the date mentioned above.

Catcher Arndt is the first of the players to go, but he is not going far and a very stout cable is attached to the young backstop. Jorgens, who came to the Yanks this Spring from the Oklahoma City club of the Western League, will step over to Jersey City and report to Manager Frank Gilhooley of the Skeeters.

As he departs it is fitting to announce that he'll come back.

Huggins Likes Jorgens

Mr. Huggins has high regard for the catching of Jorgens, but he has no place for him in this year's program. Bill Dickey has won himself the berth of first string backstop and second honors go to John Grabowski at this time, because Benny Bengough's balky shoulder persists in holding out on Benjamin when a runner is galloping toward second base. Dickey lacks the experience of the two veterans, but he has a rifle arm and a tendency to smack the ball to the fences. John and Benny are not inclined to bruise the outposts with either the vim or the frequency of the youngster.

Grabowski has been out with a torn hand, the result of spearing a foul tip with the little finger of his right hand while the Yanks were struggling a few weeks ago in Shibe Park. Huggins has figured that he cannot carry more than three catchers and he regards it advisable to retain the veterans as assistants to Dickey. Jorgens can be let out without waivers being obtained on him and the steady work which he is likely to get with the Skeeters should be of value to him. He will be a better catcher when he returns to the Yanks.

Two Hurlers May Go

Three other players must be let out but no more releases are on the card before the Yankees return from Boston to-day. Two pitchers and one outfielder seem likely to go. Huggins last week denied the report that he is planning to send George Burns away from here. Burns was purchased last September from Detroit as first base insurance because the Yanks had no capable substitute in the event of an injury to Gehrig. Ruth and Durst have played occasionally at the position but neither could handle the job for any length of time in big league fashion. Burns, Robertson and Lary have been the only infield substitutes and now Durocher has replaced Lary in the utility ranks. There is no likelihood of any releases in this department.

BASEBALL GOSSIP

The Maple Leaf Ball team will practice at Riverside Park on Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock sharp.

The Canucks of the Juvenile City Baseball League will hold a practice to-morrow night at 6 p.m. in Sacred Heart grounds. The boys met with defeat on Victoria Day at the hands of the Moose, but will attempt to strengthen their team and make a better showing when the two outfits meet again. There is plenty of room for players on this team and the management is eager to have all playrs who have not made other teams in the city to turn out to practice, so that ball fans will see real ball when the teams of the group class.

Art Wileman Wins Challenge Trophy

LINDSAY, May 28.—"Knockout" (Art) Wileman went down to Belleville on Friday and went into a boxing tournament there. Art weighed in at 140 pounds and in the first bout met a good boy, but after the first round, was the master at all times. The second bout was a hummer, both boys just giving all they had and mostly toe to toe. Wileman was declared the winner and holds the challenge cup for one year and was also advised that he would be given a smaller cup for himself. "Art" was greatly taken up with the way things were handled at Belleville, and will try and get several of the Monarch boxers to go down later on for a bout in the open air.

SEA FLEA RACES AT CLEAR LAKE

Sport Events Sponsored By Toronto, Oshawa and Local Interests.

START ON JUNE 15.

Clear Lake with its broad sweep of five miles by a mile and a half at South Beach will present a busy scene on June 15 and every week-end thereafter when fast outboard motorboat races will be held.

For the opening event, due to Toronto, Oshawa and local interest who are sponsoring these speedy races, the majority of the sea fleas that participated on Saturday at Frenchman's Bay have been secured and the Johnson Motors of Peterborough have entered their boats.

The great interest that has been shown in marine events of this nature have been one of the prime causes to institute the races on the Kawartha Lakes and from the interest shown at present, the week-ends should prove very interesting to the lovers of the sport at the lakes and in Peterborough during the summer.

Beautiful cups will be given to the winners of the season's events. The trophies will soon be seen on display at some of the local stores in the near future.

In the event of a week-end without these fast boats, sailing races are arranged and so all the nautical fans of the district will be assured of water races all during the summer months. The free-for-all race of the outboards is open to all the world, according to an authority in charge of the arrangements, and foreign boats are expected to participate as the summer months become well established.

The events of the day will be made complete by a dance in the evening at the South Beach pavilion and hotel which is now open for business.

THEATRES

"A DREAM OF LOVE."

The co stars, Nils Asther and Joan Crawford, have principal roles in this feature picture, "A Dream of Love," which is based on the story of "Adrienne Lecouvreur." It is the type of production which is calculated to appeal to the imagination of the romantic-minded watchers and it lives up satisfactorily to the highest expectations of those who like their love stories to be intense and dramatic and to end satisfactorily.

What could be more interesting than the love of a dashing lieutenant, heir presumptive to a throne, who falls in love with a beautiful strolling player, parts from her with regret, meets her once again at the moment when he is carrying on an intrigue with the wife of the Regent of his country, in a far-fetched effort to capture his throne from the grasp of the usurper, and when, also, she has become a famous actress? It all happens in the city of Kuremme, in one of those convenient Balkan kingdoms that lend themselves so admirably to romantic tales.

Nils Asther is the Grand Duke Mauritz and Joan Crawford is Adrienne, of the strolling players' company. They meet, they part, but they remember, and then they meet again. But in the meantime, she has become famous and he is trying to recover his lost power. So he embarks on the dangerous voyage of philandering with the wife of the Regent, a lady with a passionate mind and a vengeful heart. When she discovers that Mauritz has been deceiving her, she tells the Regent all about him, and that gentleman, whose part is played as successfully as usual by the villainous-looking Warner Oland orders Mauritz to be shot. But a fortunate revolution of the populace intervenes at the psychological moment and Mauritz is saved for his lady love.

A minor part that is quite memorable is that of the Regent's inamorata, the Baroness Duclos, played by Aileen Pringle in superb fashion.

An "Our Gang Comedy" rounds out a very entertaining program.

NEW GROUNDS FOR SOFTBALL LEAGUE.

One tenacious problem that has been causing softball enthusiasts to scratch their brow in worry all spring was unanimously solved last evening. Now it only remains for the City Council to fall in with the idea, and softball is assured a big year.

Since the needed alterations have been made to Central Park, the softballers have been going around like wet hens looking for some suitable place to play their games, because they knew the old stamping grounds were out of the question. Yesterday, when the question of grounds came up, Norm Lewis, who had been appointed sleuth in the search, held up little hope. Central School grounds seemed to be the only place and it was a rock pile.

However, President Bill Jackson tossed in the suggestion and gave a rosy description of the place that had all the requirements desired by the softballers—level ground, grassy, centrally located, and with the added advantage that it was a natural ampitheatre, and would allow plenty of room for spectators, was the glowing word picture.

The softball moguls left the meeting in haste and speeded to the scene to get their own opinion of this place. "Boy, it's great! far better than the park!" was a sample of their praise for it.

The new diamond nestles down beside the Hunter street bridge, and is swept by the cooling breezes from the river. In the winter time it was given the low name of "Poverty Pond," but the softballers immediately seeing the drabness of such a monicker have christened it "Riverside Bowl."

WILL HOLD SOFTBALL TOURNAMENT.

The only other business transacted before the happy ending of the meeting was the changing of the official ball back to the 13-inch, and the decision that the schedule would be started right away. The boys also went on record as being willing to do their part in helping to make Old Home Week go over the top. They will hold softball tournaments, or manage one, if the committee desires their services along this line.

ONE WAY TO KILL JUVENILE BASEBALL.

A problem is presenting itself in the Juvenile section of the City League. It is apparent from the giant score that the Loyal Order of Moose piled up on the Canucks in the opening game that the winners have rounded up all the best players.

This is bad for the league, as it weakens the competition, and the interest among players and fans alike. There is no quicker way to kill the game.

Right now the Moose look like one of the strongest Juvenile teams ever gathered together in the city. But is is not fair to the other teams, who are doing their part in developing players, to have to stack up against their classy crew.

GREATEST HURLERS OVER TEN-YEAR PERIOD.

Herb Pennock was asked to name the ten best pitchers he had seen in the American League in the last ten years. After knitting his brow in deep thought the silver fox farmer of Kenneth Square, Pa., picked them this way. He selected Waite Hoyt, and then tossed in Walter Johnson, although admitting he was out now. Bob Grove, who can still smoke 'em down the alley, was third. Walberg was next. Sam Jones, Red Fabre, Chuck Ted Lyons, was number eight, and he finished off with Pipgrass, Chowder and Ed. Morris.

Miller Huggins changed the list a little putting Pennock himself in, and also Uhle, who has been a fly in the ointment to the Yankees.

FABRE BREAKS TIGERS BATTING STREAK.

The Detroit Tigers, led by big Dale Alexander, have been walloping the ball to the tune of .300 or better for every regular on the team. But Sunday they ran up against a pitcher, Urban "Red" Fabre, who made them say "Uncle." Fabre set them back with one lone clout off Gehringer's bat. It takes real pitching to do that against the mighty bats of Bucky Harris' clan.

SON O' BATTLE CAPTURES HONORS.

Son o' Battle, offspring of the mighty Man o' War, opened the Thorncliff Park spring meet in great style when he carried the colors of his owner, J. F. Byers, the Pittsburg sportsmen, to a striking victory for the Thorncliffe purse. Son o' Battle carried a large portion of the public's faith and money, and he justified their confidence by leading all through the mile and one-sixteenth to fnish five lengths in front.

BASEBALL FROM A BRITISH VIEW.

New York Times: The Preston North End professional soccer team from England, now touring this country, dropped in at the Yankee stadium on Wednesday,to view the double-header between the Yankees and the Senators. It was their first look at baseball, and it amused them no end. They were comparing it with cricket.

"The batsman doesn't get away from the wicket as fast as our men do."

"Those lads in the slips (Ed. note: infielders) are canny on those what do you call them—grounders?"

"Aye they're good on the returns. The return is swift and fine."

Here it should be explained that a "return" to the visiting soccer players was a throw to first base to retire a batter, just as a cricket fielder "returns" a ball to the wicket keeper.

A batter hit a foul tip and Jock from Yorkshire popped up and said: "What was that?"

"He snicked it," gravely explained the team manager.

"Oh ,aye," said Jock.

It took them some time to get used to the fact that foul balls didn't matter much unless they were caught. In the first few innings they wasted half a dozen good cheers for blows that would have counted heavily in cricket, but were just loud fouls in baseball.

They decided that Sam Jones was a jolly fine bowler, and that Goose Goslin was top hole as a batsman.

"I'll tell you what," finally decided the team manager, "it's just a development of the old game of rounders; that's what it is."

Well, maybe it is. At any rate, they turned out to be typical fans in at least one detail. Their great ambition was to get a baseball autographed by Babe Ruth.

JACK DEMPESY SEVERS TIES

Ex-Champion Plans To Join Chicago Interests For Winter.

FUGAZY CONTRACT ENDED.

NEW YORK, May 28.—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, severed relations yesterday with Hubert J. Fugazy, New York promoter, and announced he would promote boxing matches in conjunction with the Coliseum in Chicago, starting next fall.

Dempsey says his contract with Fugazy, entered into March 25, automatically expired last Saturday upon the promoter's failure to provide him with an outdoor arena where outstanding matches could be staged in New York. In the two months Dempsey has been in partnership with Fugazy he failed to arrange a single bout.

The former champion said his agreement with the Chicago Coliseum, where Jim Mullen is the boxing promoter, calls for staging of bouts there every two weeks during the fall and winter. At the same time, Dempsey said he would continue personal efforts to acquire both indoor and outdoor arenas in New York.

He said his new plans did not include any ring come-back on his part.

Fugazy, surprised when informed of Dempsey's statement by the Associated Press, said he "didn't know a thing about it."

"It can't be," the promoter said. "Dempsey's contract with me can't expire. There are provisions in the agreement, but the time limit is set at June 1."

Dempsey said Fugazy would be informed of his action by his lawyers.

Central Ontario League Chatter

By F. D. C.

The Petes will engage in their second Central Ontario league battle of the season at Belleville to-morrow and Manager Swanston's crew are confident that they can take the provincial champions and put up on even terms with them. Walt. Gerow's men surprised the baseball world by a clean cut win over Deloro on Victoria Day with Vinny Utronki, the Renfrew boy, pitching nice ball. Utronki may be sent back against the Petes to-morrow, if Dr. Jack Shea, the former Deloro twirler does not get the call. The Petes will leave for Belleville at 9 o'clock sharp to-morrow morning from LeBarr's with the following squad: Swanston, Hatton, Hardill, Heckman, Morrison, Hickey, Ash, Rose, H. Hollingsworth, Sweetman, Mein, Holyman, Johnston, Jimmy Hall.

Hap Harrison and Ernie Legoi will be unable to make the trip to-morrow.

The local Central Ontario League season will open on Saturday afternoon, when Bill Regan's Deloro team will provide the opposition for the Petes. The game will be played at James Stevenson Park at 3 p.m., and promises to attract a record opening day crowd, the addition of a number of young stars to the Pete's line-up creating great interest in this year's team. Deloro have been picked as the club to beat for the Central Ontario honors this year, despite their defeat at Belleville and they will have their strongest line up in action here Saturday, including Harold Buck and Bob Elliott, the two clever Kingston players added to the Deloro squad this year. Inky Wood, former Peterborough boy, is likely to get the pitching assignment against the Petes. James Stevenson Park is being groomed by city parks staff for the occasion and will be in good shape for Saturday. The Petes had their first practice there last night, and are billed for another workout to-night.

J. B. O'DETTE BUILDER OF RACING BOAT

J. B. O'Dette, the veteran boat builder, proprietor of the Peterborough Boat Livery, manufacturers of canoes, skiffs, launches, etc., was the maker of the Class B boat driven by Don Wood, in the sea flea races at Frenchman's Bay last Thursday and Saturday, when Wood, as a dark horse, surprised the Toronto racing fans by winning on both days.

Mr. O'Dette is now designing another boat for the use of the larger motor just put on the market by the Johnson Motor Co.

The boat driven by Wes. Kelly, who won the free-for-all was built by the Peterborough Pattern Works, of which Mr. B. C. Chambers is proprietor, under a contract with D'Arcy Carter, who is putting the boat on the market.

W.M.S. MEETS

Interesting Reports Are Heard By George Street Ladies.

The May meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of George Street United Church was held in the board room of the Sunday School.

The president, Mrs. E. W. Coon, occupied the chair and took charge of the devotional exercises. Mrs. E. E. Harvey gave a talk on the last words of Jesus, "Go and preach the gospel to every nation," and Mrs. A. I. Brown and Mrs. J. R. Rowe led in prayer.

After the secretary's and treasurer's reports had been received and adopted, Mrs. Dulmage gave a detailed report of the proceeds from the mother and daughter banquet, which was received with applause. Miss Might, corresponding secretary, read a number of letters in reply to letters of sympathy sent by the society.

Mrs. Hales' report of the sick and visiting committee showed that forty calls had been made during the month.

Mrs. F. Mather, supply secretary, read a list of supplies required for the bale this year, and as Mrs. Mather expects to take a trip to England this summer, Mrs. W. H. Cunningham was appointed to assist her, taking charge of the work during her absence.

It was decided to meet in the church parlor and cut out pieces for a quilt, which would be quilted later, for the bale. Mrs. Knox and Mrs. Redpath were appointed to make arrangement for same.

A request from the Men's Club was received, asking that three representatives from W.M.S. be appointed to make arrangements for the congregational picnic on June 16.

It was announced that Mrs. Walter Burn had taken a life membership in the society, thus increasing the funds very materially.

Plans were made for serving refreshments at the June meeting. The speaker of the occasion was Mrs. Haddow, of Bolivia.

ALL SAINTS' A.Y.P.A. GIVEN DECISION

Annual Dramatic Contest of City and District A.Y.P.A.

HELD IN OMEMEE.

All Saints' A.Y.P.A. won the unanimous decision of three judges in their presentation at Omemee last night of the one-act play entered by them in the annual dramatic contest of the Anglican Young People's Association of the city and district, the first having been won last week by St. Luke's A.Y.P.A. The two winners will meet for a final decision, on Thursday evening of this week, at the parish hall of St. John's Church. The winner receives the silver cup which is the prize for this annual contest.

Last evening, All Saint's A.Y.P.A. was scheduled to meet the A.Y.P.A. Dramatic Clubs of Millbrook and Lindsay. The latter defaulted, however, on account of sickness among the players.

The plays were given in Coronation Hall at Omemee and the A.Y.P.A. Club of Omemee also presented their one-act play again, "Who Kissed Barbara?" to fill in the program. This was not judged, as it had been entered in the contest last week.

Those taking part in the cast of "A Jack for Every Jill," which was the play chosen by All Saints' Club, were: Mrs. James Price, as Mrs. Gilbert; Miss Jessie Maconomy, as Fanny Gilbert; Miss Dorothy Worboy, as Matilda Boggs; Miss Helen Resko, as Rosa; James Morley, as Dr. Robinson; Milton Fowler, as Fred Fitz; James Price, as Benjamin Harrison Jones; and Jack Hope, as Charlie Gushington. James Prices directed the players, assisted by Miss Jessie Maconomy.

The Millbrook play was entitled "Trying Them Out."

The three judges, who were unanimous in their decision for All Saints' Club, were Miss Pearl Burnham of Millbrook; Miss Cathleen McCarthy of ePterborough, and O. R. Stalter, of the staff of the Omemee High School.

SIDELIGHTS ON ELECTION

(By Canadian Press.)

LONDON, May 28. — (C.P.).- "This is a woman's election," said Lady Iveagh, Conservative candidate in Southend, speaking at Greenwich. "That's one reason why it is quiet."

A special edition of his election address has been printed in Braillie type for blind electors by Captain Ian Fraser, blind Conservative candidate in St. Pancras, North ,London. "Because I am blind myself, my blind friends believe me," says Captain Fraser. "I have their interests very much at heart."

Five Newcastle children are among the many youngsters on the new voting lists.

Because of persistent interruptions E. A. Strauss, Liberal candidate in Southwark North, has cancelled the remainder of his public meetings.

There is unconscious humor in the announcement of a famous London hotel of the arrangements for guests following polling day. The announcement says: "Cocktail parties will begin at 11.30 p.m., and the results of the election will continue to be shown during the morning, during lunch time and in the afternoon."

Some Scottish burghs are producing some curious election incidents. In Stirling and Falkirk, Alexander Ratcliffe is appearing as the candidate for the Scottish National Protestant League. In protest against Ratcliffe's candidature, Lord Scone has resigned as president of the League, and Ramsay Macdonald severely castigates the candidate for having brought religion into politics. Hugh Murnin, who is seeking to retain the seat for Labor, is a Catholic.

In Ross and Cromarty, H. D. McIntosh, the Labor candidate, is a member of the New South Wales Legislative Council, and is prominent there in newspaper, sporting and theatrical circles. He is opposed by Rt. Hon. J. I. MacPherson, Conservative, who had an acclamation at the last election. Mr. MacPherson takes the stand that he is a Highlander, born and bred, and declares Socialism is utterly alien to Highland traditions.

Voice of the People

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner Office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

GAVE ADDITIONAL $150

The Editor,
Peterborough Examiner,
419 George St.,
City.

Dear Sir:—

In the report of the concluding meeting of the recent financial campaign the Canadian General Electric Company was credited with a contribution of $150.00. This should have read, an additional $150.00 and which represents a doubling up of their subscription for the year. In fairness to the company and to the management who so generously doubled their original contribution I believe that a correction should be made through your paper.

This generous spirit which actuated the officials of the Canadian General Electric Company was largely responsible for the success of the entire campaign not only because of the substantial assistance financially but also because of the encouragement it gave to all of the workers in the effort.

May I add a word of praise to The Examiner for their splendid support and co-operation?

Yours sincerely,
G H Roper,
General Secretary.

IDES OF JUNE.

NEW YORK, May 28 (Special to The Examiner).—The coming month is regarded in competent circles as likely to present something of a really severe test of the American credit structure. What with a half billion of treasury financing, heavy tax instalments, the hundreds of millions required to exercise rights maturing in June, record-breaking dividend payments for the period and half-year settlements of every sort, it is estimated that two and a quarter billion dollars of cash will be required to care for the load, to say nothing of financing which may appear during the month. It is possible that the Reserve Bank rate to the New York and Chicago banks last week had some relation to the unusual burden accumulating for June.

BUILDING BEING RE-PAINTED.

The White House on Charlotte St., is one of the many buildings of the city that is being dressed up for Old Home Week with a fresh coat of paint.

PICTURES IN ROY'S WINDOW.

Two very fine photographs are in the window of the Roy Studio on Hunter street, both of which depict current events, which have brought the name of Peterborough before the public attention.

There is a very fine portrait of the Right Reverend M. J. O'Brien, Bishop of Peterborough and titular Archbishop of Armoria in honor of his recent appointment.

The second is a group picture, a very fine one, taken yesterday noon, at the return of the Peterborough Male Voice Choir, who captured third place in class "B" Competition in the gala Choral Concert held in New York on May 24 and 25.

BANK BEING PAINTED.

The brick work and the wood work of the Bank of Toronto building on the south east corner of George and Hunter streets, is being repainted by Coleman Brothers, painters and decorators. Three men working on scaffolds for the past few days have been busy applying a coat of white paint to the brickwork on the Hunter street side and have that side over half finished.

DECORATE FRONT OF STORE

The front of Grant and Thorpe's electrical store, in company with the numerous other stores and office buildings in the city, is being painted by Miller, painter and decorator.

EMPIRE SHOPPING WEEK.

In view of Empire Shopping Week, which is being celebrated from May 25 to June 1, in Peterborough, display cards and literature have taken a prominent place in the show windows of many of the Peterborough stores of the shopping district.

ERECTING AWNINGS.

The recent spell of sunshine and warm weather has caused many of the delinquent store owners who have neglected to have their awnings put in place, to act at once, and have these erected. Many store fronts were the scene of activity to-day as they were attending to these sunshades.

LAYING NEW FLOOR.

Members of the Peterborough Fire Department have turned carpenters between alarms. To-day the south room of the department is the scene of much activity. Wielding the hammer and saw, down on their knees, the prapartory work is being carried on. In a week or two this section of the hall will be greatly improved, as is the north room, where the floor has been laid.

PRESENTS ICE CREAM TO FIREMEN.

G. A. Gillespie acted in the role of the Good Samaritan to-day when he supplied the members of the Fire Department with ice cream as they labored over the laying of the hardwood floor at the fire hall. The gift was made all the more welcome since the day was hot and close.

10,000 ROTARIANS GATHER IN DALLAS

British Proposal To Strike "Profit" Out of Slogan Being Discussed.

DAALAS, Texas, May 28.—(C.P.)—The British proposal to strike the "profit" out of Rotary International's slogan appeared to-day as perhaps the most mooted item in the business program of the 20th annual convention, attended by some 10,000 in session here.

A vote on the matter is expected Thursday.

The Rotary International Association for England and Ireland, through its puresident, Arthur Chadwick, London, yesterday introduced a resolution proposing that the slogan: "He profits most who serves best" be changed. The resolution declared the motto does not "truly and correctly interpret the ethical aims and objects of Rotary International and is liable to create misconception in the minds of some of its members and the public." No substitute was offered.

ATTACK IS MADE ON FOREIGNERS

2,000 Communist Soldiers Enter Compound of Presbyterian Mission in China.

MINISTER KIDNAPPED.

AMOY, Fukien, China. May 28 (C.P.). — United States missionary refugees attired in Chinese clothing as disguises, arrived here to-day from Lungyenchow, where one of their number, Dr. C. H. Holleman, was made captive by Communists May 23.

The refugees said that 2,000 Communist soldiers attacked the missionary compound of the American Reformer Presbyterian Mission, shouting: "The Russians are furnishing us with money and we are giving our lives. You foreigners are Imperialists'."

The refugees said the attack was purely anti-foreign since no Chinese houses were molested at all. They were able to make their way to safety only by donning the Chinese attire.

Every effort is being made to communicate with Dr. Holleman.

JEWEL ROBBERY ENDS IN SUICIDE

Financier Wished To Impress Young German Officer With Supposed Wealth.

STOLEN FROM AUNT.

BERLIN, May 28 (Canadian Press).—The solution of a jewel robbery which had mystified the police since Christmas to-day carried with it the suicide of a former army officer and the arrest of his fiancee, beautiful twenty-three-year-old Countess Helda Von Monroy.

Berlin society was shocked yesterday when the Countess was arrested and imprisoned, charged with the theft of $25,000 worth of jewels from her aunt, Countess Hermesberg. The Countess was not even suspected until she attempted to sell the jewels.

Her fiance, former Captain Fritz Von Wedel, was summoned by the police for questioning to-day. This morning he was found dead, a suicide, in the famous Gruenewald Forest.

It was believed that the Countess had wished to impress him with her supposed wealth.

Missionaries Return From Far North Post

TORONTO, Ont., May 28 (C.P.).—Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Garrett, Anglican missionaries to the Cree Indians at Trout Lake Mission, Northern Ontario, have been visiting the city. They may go back with their three children by airplane—two day's travelling instead of the possible two months' journey. With the exception of the household of the manager of the Hudson's Bay Trading Company post, established at Trout Lake, Mr. and Mrs. Garrett were without white neighbors for a distance of 350 miles. Frequently during the four years spent at the isolated mission station, Mrs. Garrett was without the companionship of a single white woman in the vast stretch of wilderness country. Ministering to the Gree Indians and preaching the Gospel has proved an experience of great joy to these missionaries, despite the numerous difficulties confronting them. Some time ago the Cree Indians of the district gave up their paganism, destroyed their gods and renounced their allegiance to the medicine men, having been reached through the teaching of Rev. Mr. Dick, a native Cree, situated at York Factory.

Many of these Cree Indians are members of the Anglican Church, but it has become the duty of the missionaries to teach them the true meaning of Christianity. The hope for the Indian people of this great community, claim the missionaries, is the children, responsive and eager to learn.

WOMEN OPEN BIG CONVENTION

Thirty-sixth Annual Meeting of National Council Being Held in Saskatoon.

UNITY IS STRESSED.

SASKATCHEWAN, Sask., May 28 (C.P.).—The thirty-sixth annual meeting of the National Council of women, opens at the University of Saskatchewan here to-day, when eighty delegates are expected from all parts of the Dominion.

Preliminary to the general sessions, fifty of the delegates were guests of the Women's Canadian Club at Saskatoon at dinner last night. Mrs. Robert Forke, president of the Ottawa Local Council of Women, and Mrs. Harry Carpenter of Hamilton, brought greetings and in brief addresses stressed the value of national unity in which the hope of Canada's future lies.

MONEY BORROWED TO MEET SALARIES

Dr. Shields Issues Statement Regarding Financial Condition of Des Moines.

DES MOINES, Ia., May 28.—(C.P.)—Dr. T. T. Shields, President of the Board of Trustees of Des Moines University, to-day explained "financial indiscretions" in the school's operation, which had been hinted at by faculty members during the administrative upheaval at the institution three weeks ago.

His statement also was signed by Miss Edith M. Rebman, secretary, and E. A. Roberts of Clevelsnd and the Rev. H. G. Hamilton of Austin, Minn., trustees. The explanation came the day before a district court judge was to hold a hearing on an injunction obtained early this month by students, forbidding the trustees to close the university or to withhold credits.

The four board members came to Des Moines yesterday to take control of the institution.

Dr. Shields in his statement to-day substantiated a report that $10,000 had been borrowed from the University's annuity and endowment fund to pay current bills, including professors' salaries.

NEW AIR SPEED RECORD IS SET

aviation now regains first place among the nations of the world as regards the number of international airplane records held. According to a computation published, France holds thirteen, Germany next with twelve and the United States, Great Britain and Italy are tied for third place with three records each. Seaplane records tell another story. The United States leads the list with sixeen, Germany has fifteen, Italy two and France and Great Britain one each.

A community hall to be erected at Hamilton, Ont., will cost $1,000,000.

FOUR MINISTERS REPRESENT SEATS

the other Ministers has both a Socialist and a Liberal opponent.

34 Candidates Entered.

Altogether there are thirty-three candidates in the twelve divisions, constituting a record in Birmingham's political life. The issue with Birmingham briefly is whether there will be a Conservative Government or a Government pledged to Socialism. The eight Liberal candidates apparently are little in the picture. A big point is being made that the late Government has sought world peace, but of all the questions raised, that of safeguarding is receiving perhaps most attention, which is not at all surprising in this industrial centre of a million and a thousand different occupations. Indeed it is claimed no other city in the country has so much diversity in its industry.

Safeguarding, it is explained by Conservative speakers, is not protection, for protection has a general application, whereas safeguarding involves only a Customs duty on foreign competitive manufactures imported into this country. As a result, safeguarding can only assist efficient industry.

Naturally the controversy concerning the Austen Motor Works which are situated here and employ 12,000 people has created a considerable stir in the city. The Conservatives are making as much as possible of Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain's achievements as Minister of Health in relation to pensions, housing and rating reform and of Rt. Hon. L. C. M. S. Amery's schemes for Imperial development. They also take credit for pushing Empire co-operation in migration work. Another bid for possible Labor votes on the part of the Conservatives is to emphasize the schemes for training the unemployed initiated by Sir Arthur Steel-Maitland, Minister of Labor.

Romantic Personality.

Commander Oliver Locker-Lampson, member for Handsworth in the last House and Conservative candidate again, who is a rather romantic personality, has conducted a special campaign against the intrigues of Soviet Russia, and it is claimed the expulsion of certain Red agitators is largely due to him.

Geoffrey Lloyd, private secretary to Premier Baldwin, is fighting Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain's former seat, Ladywood. The Minister of Health this time is appearing in Edgbaston, in place of Sir Francis Lowe, who is not seeking re-election.

The Socialist and Liberal candidates as a rule adhere closely to their respective party programs. Liberal prospects in the city, however, are believed to be decidedly negligible, and so one hears comparatively little about their professions.

READ THE WANT ADS.

BAGS TWO BEARS.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., May 28.—Leonard Dale, Sylvan Valley, had an interesting experience when he shot two bears, whose tracks he had noticed on his farm the previous day. One shot was enough to bring down one of the bears but the other showed signs of fight and Dale put ten shots in its body before it was finally despatched.

GAS STATIONS ARE SEARCHED FOR LEAKAGE

Ottawa Officials Blame Escaping Gasoline Fumes For Explosion.

WOMAN DIES

Score of People Injured and at Least $50,000 Property Damage Reported.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 30.—Civic officials are convinced that the series of explosions in the main sewers of this city yesterday, that caused one death, injured a score of people and did $50,000 property damage, was caused by gasoline fumes finding their way into the sewer system. Inspectors are searching the various gas filling stations but have so far been unable to locate any leakage.

Under the direction of Mayor Arthur Ellis, the most thorough investigation will be made and it is expected that as much information as possible will be brought out at the inquest into the death of Mrs. John Hayden, which inquest has been opened by Dr. J. E. Craig, Coroner, and was adjourned until next Wednesday evening. Mrs. Hayden, aged 73, died from burns she received when her clothing caught fire following one of the explosions.

Complaints in Past

In the last two or three years, there have been many complaints registered by the aldermen of Rideau and St. George wards regarding escaping sewer gas, and following the explosions, many citizens expressed the opinion that if the complaints had received attention the disastrous results would not have folowed. Civic officials, however, are positive in their statements that sewer gas was not a contributing factor to the explosions.

Another theory advanced was that oil from streets had been allowed to get into the sewers. F. C. Askwith Deputy Commissioner of Works discounts this theory completely. He points out that only two or three streets were oiled this year, that they were not in the areas affected and that the method of apply-

33 Cars Enter Race

Big International Motor Race Being Run at Indianapolis To-day.

Average 106 Miles Per Hour.

William Spence One of the Crack Drivers, Dies From Fractured Skull.

SPEEDWAY, INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. May 30.—(Canadian Press).—With a roar from unmuffled motors and clouds of smoke streaming from exhausts, thirty-three of the fastest race drivers in the world thundered away at ten o'clock to-day, risking injury, perhaps death, in the 500 mile international motor race at the Indianopolis speedway.

As a bursting bomb, exploding high in the air over the great racing plant, signalized the start of the race, it was announced that more than 160.000 spectators were in attendance, breaking all records for the classic.

William Spence, of Los Angeles, was killed. Spence, one of 33 crack drivers of the world, competing in the event, turned over on the southeast turn of the two and a half mile brick course, suffering a fractured scull. He was rushed to the track hospital, but died on the way.

Woodbury Forced Out

Woodbury was forced out of the race almost at the start when his car crashed into the wall as he was turning into the stretch at the northwest end of the track. Woodbury miraculously escaped death. His car, however, was wrecked. He was on his third lap at the time of the crash.

At the end of the first 25 miles Deacon Litz, driving the car with which Meyer won the race last year, was leading. He covered the distance in 13.56.68, an average of 107.568 miles an hour. Ralph Hepburn was second. Duray was third.

William Spence, Los Angeles, turned over going into the back stretch and was rushed to the field hospital in an unconscious condition. His car was smashed.

24 Years Old

Spence was 24 years old and married. He was a relief driver for William Arnold in the race last year and finished seventh. Spence was a newcomer in major race competition. He had driven about forty miles over the perilously bumpy brick track when his car tipped over, pinning him beneath it.

Spence's death was the first fatality in the Indianapolis race in ten years.

At the end of fifty miles Litz continued to lead with Lou Moore, who finished second last year, just behind him. Duray was third. Litz' time was 27.59.98, an average of 107.170 miles an hour. This exceeded the time for the first fifty miles of the 1928 race.

With 75 miles of the race ripped off, Deacon Litz was in the lead with Lou Moore second. Lou Meyer, of Los Angeles, winner of the 1928 race, was third, and Tony Gulotta, Kansas City, fourth. The time was 42.25.50, an average of 106.070 miles an hour.

Counting of the ballots in 206 of the 615 constituencies will begin as soon as the polls close, but as some ridings are rather scattered, the results will be drifting in until about 4 a.m. To-night's returns, however, will contain a number of key constituencies which should indicate the swing of the tide. These include Birmingham with twelve constituencies in which four Cabinet ministers are running; Liverpool with ten divisions, and Sheffield with seven.

WIFE-BEATER PLEADS GUILTY IN POLICE COURT

Two Brothers Appear This Morning As Result of Last Night's Fight.

IN EAST CITY.

Magistrate Langley Reserves Judgment Until Woman Is Heard.

Two brothers, Harry and George Sturmer, appeared in police court this morning charged with beating up and doing bodily harm to the former's wife last evening. Mrs. Sturmer is suffering such injuries as a result of the affray that she was unable to be present.

The scene of the family fight was the Sturmer home on Driscoll Ter race; the time, between six and seven. The report of the police officer, who answered the riot call sent by alarmed neighbors, brings forth the following facts. As soon as the police officers turned on to the streets and approached the Sturmer abode, they heard shouts, moans and curses. Mrs. Sturmer was found in a neighbour's house, where she had sought refuge, bleeding profusely from a deep wound on her head. A doctor was called to attend her.

Shouting Threats.

Meanwhile the officers had entered the Sturmer house and found the two brothers, still raging mad and shouting threats of further violence upon the woman. They both had been drinking. They were arrested and having spent the night in jail appeared before Magistrate Langley in a cooler frame of mind this morning.

George, who was living at his brother's house, was charged with causing a disturbance in or near a public place by singing, screaming or swearing and by being drunk and was therefore a loose, idle or disorderly person. The man was quite loquacious and repeated, again and again, "Not that your Worship, not that." He started in to tell a long story, commencing back three years ago, but the officers cut him short before he had got fairly over the first chapter in his history.

He pleaded not guilty and was allowed his freedom on remand until Tuesday. First, however, he had to promise that if he was not held in jail he would keep away from the Sturmer home on Driscoll Terrace. He said that he wold have to return to get his clothes but the court stated that the officers would do this little duty for him.

Many Cast Votes Before Breakfast; Enthusiasm Keen

In Some Constituencies Reported At Noon Two Women Had Cast Their Votes To Every One Cast By a Man.

LADY MOTORISTS ARE MOST ACTIVE DURING DAY; LABOR LEADER ALSO MOBBED TOURING BOOTHS

To-night's Returns Will Contain a Number of Key Constituencies and Should Indicate the Swing of the Tide Throughout the Whole Country.

LONDON, May 30 (Canadian Press Cable). — Eve is going to the ballot box all over London, and for that matter all over the country, this morning. Even before breakfast time women in hundreds had put their crosses to the ballot papers and placed them a little hesitatingly in the boxes.

Domestic servants in the residential districts slipped out of their kitchens as soon as the booths were opened and then hurried back to prepare their employers' morning meals and scrub the doorsteps.

An early morning semi-tragedy occurred at Kensington where a woman had come specially from Hampstead. She recorded her vote and might have been happy still if she had not insisted on talking to a policeman after leaving the booth. She mentioned she had put her initials on the corner of the ballot paper, declaring, "I always put my initials on. I am one of the few who knows how to do it properly." But the policeman convinced her that by initialing the form she had spoilt the ballot, and therefore lost her vote. She was on the verge of tears.

Motorists Active.

Women motorists were more active than men in taking voters to the polls, especially in the suburbs of London. The enthusiasm and keenness of the feminine electorate is noticeable everywhere. Their remarks to inquisitive reporters seeking interviews show they have an intelligent appreciation of the issues in the election. One woman who had brought a party of girls to the polling booth in her car said she was not voting herself because she had studied the views of all three parties and disagreed with them all. Another said, "Whichever party wins will do so by our votes. I would not miss it for worlds."

The seriousness with which the women are taking the election is shown by the heavy poll they cast. In Westminster it was stated three women voted to every man before noon. In Hampstead where the women outnumbered the men on the voters' list there was a steady stream of feminine voters at the polls until well after the lunch hour. In the coal mining area of Seaham, Ramsay MacDonald's constituency, young women turned out in Norve and it

FARMER DROPS DEAD IN FIELD IN N. MONAGHAN

George Johnston Is Stricken By Excessive Heat at 10.30 This Morning.

PLANTING TOMATOES.

Drops Gasping From Planter and Never Regains Consciousness.

Overcome by the extreme heat and suffering a fatal sunstroke, George Johnston, a farmer of North Monaghan, was stricken down by the blazing rays of the sun while working in the fields of his farm and ten minutes later, without recovering consciousness, he died. The fatality occurred about ten-thirty this morning.

Mr. Johnston, his fifteen-year-old son, Harold and John McGraw were engaged in planting a large field with tomatoes. All three were riding on the tomato planter. They had just finished a row and were in the act of removing some plants from the boxes to place in the machine, when Mr. Johnston was overcome. He fell down gasping, without speaking a word.

His son and John McGraw tried to revive him, but their efforts proved unsuccessful. Then the young lad, becoming frantic, rushed across the fields to his grandfather's home, a distance of about half a mile. He told them what had happened and jumping into a truck he drove it out to where his father lay.

The men then lifted the stricken man into the truck. He was already dead at the time, they said.

Dr. H. Amys of Peterborough was called. When he arrived he could do nothing. The doctor gave his opinion that the cause of death was heat stroke.

In City During Morning

Mr. Johnston ran a large green house and market garden. It is understood that he had been in the city this morning selling some of his green stuff and he had returned home, worked in the green house for awhile and then gone out to the planting of the tomatoes. He had only worked a short time before he was stricken and died.

He is survived by his wife and six children; Wilma, 17, Harold, 15, the boy who was with him in the fields; Alma, Eric, Beryl and Billie, a baby of fourteen months.

Mr. Johnston was enjoying good health, but during the past few months was suffering slightly from dizzy spells. These came very infrequently, however. He was 47 years of age.

Bruce Johnston, his cousin, told The Examiner that the heat in the fields during the past three days has been terrific. He himself was overcome by dizziness yesterday afternoon and had been forced to lie down and rest for an hour and a half.

MEMORIAL DAY CELEBRATED IN UNITED STATES

Graves of Soldiers and Sailors Are Decorated Throughout Nation.

CANADIANS REMEMBERED.

Small Delegation From Embassy in Washington Visits Arlington Cemetery.

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 30 (By Kenneth S. Clark, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—The custom of decorating the graves of soldiers and sailors was observed throughout the Northern States to-day. It was Memorial Day.

Official Washington and thousands of citizens made pilgrimages to Arlington Memorial Cemetery to lay wreaths and flags upon the graves of the heroes of the United States. Nor were the soldiers of other countries who lie there forgotten.

A delegation from the Canadian Legation paid a quiet visit to the cemetery this morning. Thomas A. Stone, secretary to the Ministry, attended by Corporal Lamont of the Canadian Mounted Police, laid a wreath at the foot of the Canadian "Cross of Sacrifice," and wreaths and Canadian flags upon the graves of two of the Dominion's soldiers. The Canadian Society also decorated the two graves.

No Pomp or Ceremony

There was no pomp or ceremony. The bright red coat of the Corporal as he stood stiffly at attention brought to the mind of watching Canadians the thought of the Dominion's untarnished arms.

The wreath at the foot of the Cross of Sacrifice was Canada's gesture toward citizens of the United States who perished in the Great War while fighting under the Canadian flag.

Eighteen graves of British soldiers were decorated by a delegation from the British Embassy.

War Was Misunderstanding

PLYMOUTH, Eng., May 30 (C.P.). —The War of 1812 between England and the United States was a misunderstanding of statesmen on both sides, the Bishop of Plymouth said to-day, as Arthur B. Cooke, American Consul, laid wreaths on the graves of two American naval officers killed in an engagement with a British ship in 1813.

"The possibility of war between America and England to-day is inconceivable, but history provides a warning showing that the country might well blunder into war again," the Bishop declared.

ALLIED REPARATIONS EXPERTS ARE NEARING FULL AGREEMENT

Question of Repayment of German Marks in Belgium Remains To Be Settled.

PERCENTAGES UNKNOWN.

Also Agreement Concerning German Reservations To Their Acceptance of Young Plan.

PARIS, May 30 (Canadian Press). —The allied creditor experts to-day reached a final agreement among themselves on the reparation of the German reparations payments.

This followed the acceptance by the Germans last night of the few figures suggested by Owen D. Young, leaving nothing remaining for settlement but the question of the repayment of German marks in Belgium and an agreement concerning the German reservations to their acceptance of the Young plan.

It was understood that the Belgians agree to take up the German marks question directly with Ambassador Von Hoesch.

The general impression at the Hotel George V. was that matters would not "move along very fast."

Just what percentages entered the new reparation scheme remained unknown.

There was no formal meeting or conference of the allied delegates this morning, but the creditor experts conferred in a series of private conversations and later Dr. Ludwig Kastl of the German delegation was closeted with them.

Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, head of the German delegation, returned to Versailles, where he had spent the last day or two resting from the strain of the conference.

During the morning the experts continued private conversations in an effort to iron out the remaining difficulties in the way of a full settlement of the reparations ques-

Chairman Of Manufacturers' Association Asks Support For Empire Shopping Week

"EMPIRE SHOPPING begins at home, of course. The manufactures of Peterborough represent a pay-roll totalling over Three Million, Five Hundred Thousand Dollars annually. This money circulates in the city throughout the year and is spent in the purchase of what may be termed the necessities of life, which would include, food, clothing, fuel, homes, furniture, etc. It is a recognized principle, on which all Empire Shopping Weeks are arranged, that in making purchases the public are asked to give due consideration to the Home products, Canadian products, and Empire products in the order given.

That the Empire Shopping Weeks have focused attention upon the necessity of purchasing within the Empire is evidenced in the car loadings of Canadian merchandise, which show an increase of 6,000,000 tons in 1928 over the year 1927. Imports from other parts of the Empire to Canada and exports of Canadian products to the rest of the Empire, also show important increases.

"There is yet much to be done, however, and as Canadians we must seriously consider the problem before us,—the enormous volume of imports into Canada from countries outside the Empire. A large proportion of the imports are obtainable from Canadian production or from other parts of the Empire, yet the latest annual figure available shows foreign imports into Canada in excess of $991,000,000.00. This is the problem to be faced by Canada's leading social, business and commercial organizations, whose pronouncements from time to time point to ultimate success, and largely through the Empire Shopping idea, as emphasized by the annual Empire Shopping Weeks.

"Peterborough is but a shred in the great fabric of the Empire, and yet if we are strong for the principle of purchasing within Peterborough, within Canada, and the Empire, others around us will be encouraged to do likewise. Our responsibility, therefore, is clearly defined and our most important work should be to make our contribution towards the upbuilding of Canada—in geography, the centre of the Empire.

"W. C. ACKERMAN, Chairman,
"Canadian Manufacturers' Association, Peterborough."

Teacher Conducts Class Under Big Shady Tree

With the coming of warm weather children hate to be indoors and much less imprisoned in a stuffy school room. For this reason the number of culprits who play hookey and seek the refreshing waters of the old swimming hole increase as the temperature climbs. Realizing this fact, a kind hearted teacher at May's school house, gained much in favor with her class when she took the scholars out of doors and conducted the lesson in the shade of the school yard.

GRAY FELT HAT FOUND IN RIVER

One Worn By Dick Bell On Day of Tragedy Found By Searchers.

SEARCH CONTINUES.

A gray felt hat, identified by George Bnnett as having been worn by Dick Bell when he went to his death in the triple-drowning fatality at the Lock's dam, was found by the searchers this morning. The hat was recovered from the river as it floated down the east bank, just opposite Crawford's Grove. This is the first thing that has rewarded the searchers during their twelve days of constant vigil on the river.

Encouraged by this small piece reward, the searchers are continuing the hunt with even greater energy. Speed boats ply the waters of the river from end to end, while keen-eyed watchers grimly seek the bodies that are hourly expected to appear on the surface.

Superintendent Refuses To Negotiate Until Man Return to Work.

GLACE BAY, N.S., May 30. (C.P.)— Number 2 colliery, with a daily coal producing capacity of 4,000 tons, was idle yesterday after the day shift returned to their homes in the morning, claiming the British Empire Steel Corporation had broken its contract with the miners by placing the "pillar" workers on double shift without consulting the men.

D. W. Morrison, president of the United Mine Workers of America, District No. 26, told the Canadian Press last night that a telegram stating the men's case, had been despatched to President C. B. McNaught, in Montreal, and that a reply was expected to-day. He said that a committee of mine workers had attempted to get in touch with D. J. McCuish, the mine manager, but that Mr. McCuish had been unable to meet them, and that subsequently J. J. McDougall, the general superintendent, had refused to negotiate until the men returned to work on the ground that this was stipulated in the contract between the men and the corporation. Work is not expected to be resumed to-day. The tie-up affects about 1200 men.

SHORT OF MAJORITY.

Rash Labor Experiment Disastrous To Trade Says Baldwin.

(From George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, May 30.—With all three leaders making last-minute declaration that their own parties alone afforded hope of curing the social ills that beset Britain, the general election campaign closed last night. Today the nation goes to the polls to elect the seventh parliament of King George V.

Transactions were heavy and consequently wide fluctuations in prices were registered in the stock exchange market for "election majorities" yesterday. The Conservative "stock" closed two points higher at 270-74 after fluctuating as low as 263, while Labor finished three points down at 244-48, after reaching 253. The Liberals were two points lower on the day at 96-100.

These figures indicate the seats the parties are expected to capture, the stock exchange thus figuring that the Conservatives will have the largest representation but will fall short of a clear majority in the next parliament.

Premier's Final Appeal

"Rash Labor experiments would be disastrous to the present revival of trade and would retard improvement in the social condition of the people," asserted Premier Stanley Baldwin in a final Conservative appeal from Downing street. "The Conservative and Unionist party alone is in a position to guarantee a period of stability and ordered progress. I ask the electors to give our party a clear majority to enable us to persevere in the task of building up the health of industry and the nation on permanent foundations."

Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald appealed to the country "to give the Labor party the same opportunity

T. L. CHURCH, M.P. DEFENDS BISHOP

Protests Against Language Used By Alberta Member in House.

WOULD EXCLUDE CHINESE.

OTTAWA, May 30.—Vigorous defense of Bishop Lloyd of Saskatchewan, who was severely criticized Tuesday by Michael Luchovich (Progressive, Vegreville) for his alleged reference to "garlic-smelling, unpreferred immigrants," was offered in the Commons today by Toronto's Thomas L. Church, who returned to his seat after an absence of several weeks due to illness. Mr. Church was applauded on all sides when he resumed his place.

"I desire to protest against the language used in regard to a Bishop of the Church of England," declared Mr. Church. "Let me say that Bishop Lloyd fought with the Queen's Own at Cut-Knife in 1885 and did a great deal to save that great Western country for the British Empire. He is not here to defend himself and we do not know whether or not the words credited to him really came from him."

Would Ba Chinese

Mr. Church got in at the tail-end of the debate on Immigration estimates, just before the last of these contentious items were passed, but he offered cutting comment upon the money which he said was being provided in the estimates to further Chinese immigration. He urged a bar for ten years against further Chinese immigration, declaring: "St. Catharines, Barrie, Belleville and Hamilton are filled with Chinese restaurants. They are forcing the white man's restaurant out of business. The women are being driven out of the washing business and their places taken by Chinese labor. The Toronto Police Commission has t: uble with the Chinese population all the time.

"Conditions in Vancouver are such that it is a wonder the people do not rise up and rebel. In this vote the Government provides $60,000 for salaries and contingencies in connection with Chinese immigration, but in the next vote only $4,000 is provided for the relief of poor distressed Canadians driven out of their country by the immigration policy ·' this Government.

Will "Keep Them Out"

The Chinese immigration issue was also taken up vigorously by British Columbia members before the last of the $3,462,900 of Immigration estimates secured passage. David Spence, Toronto Conservative, elicited the informattion that the $5,000 increase in the Chinese immigration estimate was for the purpose of "keeping them out."

Hon. Robert Forke, Minister of Immigration, said during discussion that there had been no opposition from the railways to his termination of the railway immigration agreement. There had been a clause in the agreement stipulating that it could be terminated at any time, and last year's immigration figure had been too high.

When the division was called, ten member of the committee voted against the pact and ten in favor of it. With the vote a tie, Mr. Duff, as chairman, voted for the treaty.

COUPLE GUILTY OF NEGLECTING SMALL GIRL

Wallace Township Man and Wife Will Be Sentenced Next Week.

DIED AS A RESULT.

Defendants Testify in Their Own Defence At Stratford.

STRATFORD, May 30.—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur James Wilson, Wallace Township couple, were late yesterday afternoon found guilty by His Honor County Judge James L. Killoran of failing to provide necessities, and, in failing to provide these, causing the death of their 15-year-old daughter, Alma Olive Wilson, who died on Wednesday night, April 10. The father and stepmother heard His Honor Judge Killoran pass judgment without emotion, although Mrs. Wilson wept continuously when he was reviewing the case, and was supported many times by her husband. The couple were remanded for one week for sentence. They are out on bail of $2,000 each, which was provided by relatives.

The case has attracted widespread attention throughout this district, especially in Wallace Township, the home of the accused.

In Own Defence.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson took the stand on their own behalf yesterday morning, and in the afternoon four defence witnesses were heard. They were Elmer Slater, Toronto, brother of Mrs. Wilson; Edwin Robinson, a neighbor; James Salter, uncle of Mrs. Wilson, and R. J. McCallum, a neighbor. All of these swore that the Wilson home seemed to be in good condition, and all said that Alma, although she did not appear strong, seemed to be "all right." Their evidence was largely in regard to the character of the accused.

H. B. Morphy, K.C., of Listowel, was for the defence, while Crown Attorney G. G. McPherson, K.C., prosecuted.

Mrs. Wilson swore that she strapped the other children as much as she did Alma, and said: "I felt she was my own," when asked about the feeling between her own two daughters and the stepdaughter.

The strap which Mrs. Wilson said had been used on the children when necessary was exhibited in court. It was about a foot long and was a piece from the trace of some harness.

"Growing Careless."

Both Mr. and Mrs. Wilson testified that Alma has been growing careless in her manners and did not care much about her appearance. Mr. Wilson said that Alma showed signs of being an anaemic.

Mr. Wilson said that Alma seemed to be all right on the day of her death, although she felt tired. She ate a good breakfast, and had some dinner. She was told to lie down in the afternoon, and had something to eat before she went to bed, according to Mr. Wilson. At 10.30, when the parents went to bed, Alma was still sick, but said she did not want a doctor. Then at 11.30 that night Mrs. Wilson went to see Alma, and she cried a little and they phoned the doctor. Mr. Wilson dramatically told of how Alma passed away while the doctor was on his way to the house.

ASSAILANT ESCAPES.

Bandit Spent Entire Day Seeking Chance To Loot Stores.

TORONTO, May 30. — Slipping from a clothing store at 101 Queen Street West shortly after 6 o'clock last night, a young thug slugged the proprietor four times on the head with a paper-covered lead pipe, fought desperately with the injured merchant and then fled, routed in an attempt to rob the cash register. He escaped in a commandeered automobile, pursued in a sensational but fruitless chase by a neighbor of the robber's victim.

John Robins, owner of the store and the only occupant at the time, suffered deep gashs about the head in his battle with his attacker ,who was about 20 years old. The blood-stained length of piep, covered with brown paper, was found in the store when help arrived. Search failed to reveal a brown leather-covered box which the would-be bandit was carrying.

The attempt at robbery was made on the man's third visit to the store; other apparent attempts there, as well as in a store across the street, having failed when customers entered.

Robins, bleeding profusely, grappled with his assailant, and kept him from reaching the cash register, finally forcing him to fight. Shouts brought assistance.

Lost in Traffic.

M. B. Wasserman, owner of a jewellery store next door, heard his neighbor shout and saw the young desperado running down Queen Street toward Bay, half a block away Wasserman gave chase on fooot, shouting for hel pas he ran.

At Bay Street, the pipe-wielder stepped to the running board of an automobile which turned south on Bay Street, and Wasserman followed, riding on the side of another car. At Richmond Street, however, the chase was lost when the fugitive and the car he had commandeered disappeared in the heavy traffic.

Made Earlier Attempt.

In an earlier visit to a clothing store at 108 Queen Street West, owned by Philip Drach, te would-be bandit was frightened away after Drach while measuring him for a suit, had discovered the lengt of lead pipe in a pocket.

WEED INSPECTORS HOLD CONFERENCE

Instructor Discusses Problem With Appointees in Peterborough and Hastings.

"One of the greatest problems with which the farmer has to contend is the control of weeds," declared J. D. McLeod, the district weed inspector from Dunwegan, Ontario, at the convention of weed inspectors of Peterborough and Victoria counties yesterday. "Every organization in the province that is interested in agriculture should lend its aid to overcome this problem."

The weed inspectors of the district gathered yesterday in the office of the local branch of the Department of Agriculture to receive instructions and exchange ideas regarding their work for this summer. T. G. Raynor from the seed branch of the Agricultural Department at Ottawa and J. D. McLeod, acted as instructors at the meeting. The Weed Control Act of Ontario was taken up and the identification and control of weeds was studied.

By the Weed Control Act of Ontario, the council of every city, town, village and township is required to appoint a weed inspector whose duty it is to see that the growth of weeds throughout his district is reduced to a minimum by having them destroyed thoroughly and often enough to prevent the propagation of their seeds. At one meeting it was stressed that every individual must cooperate with the Department in clearing weeds from highways, railway right of ways, cemeteries and especially from idle, vacant lots. Mr. McLeod stated that the Chamber of Commerce of Hamilton had enlisted the aid of the school children of the district to help in this work.

"The Department is making a special drive against the perennial sow thistle," stated Mr. McLeod. "It is trying to teach the people of Ontario how to fight this weed as it is the worst of the noxious weeds."

PARIS PARLEY SETTLES WAR DEBT CLAIMS

Germany Accepts Terms Agreeable To Allied Experts at Conference.

CONCESSIONS MADE.

Berlin To Play Under New Plan, Beginning Next September.

PARIS, May 30 (C.P.).—The German experts and their creditors came to an agreement last night on revised reparation annuities as proposed by Chairman Owen D. Young.

These annuities average 2,050,000,000 gold mark (about $492,000,000) for thirty-seven years; 1,700,000,000 marks ($405,000,00) for twenty-one years, and 900,000,000 marks ($216,000,000) for the final year.

Under the agreement as concluded these annuities will run from September next, instead of from April 1 last as originally calculated. The Dawes plan of payment will meanwhile continue in force.

Expert Explains

The situation was explained last night by Thomas W. Lamont, United States alternate representative, as follows:

"Both creditor and German experts have heretofore declared themselves willing to accept the annuity figures of 2,50,000,000 marks, as suggested by the chairman, although a difference existed on the question of interpretation.

"This difference has now been removed, and a common basis for interpretation acceptable to both creditors and to Germany has been found, subject, however, to agreement on the outstanding conditions which still remain for discussion and settlement."

No Side's Victory

It was further explained that this agreement was no one's victory, for both Germans and creditors gave way to make it possible.

The general opinion of the experts was that a most important step had been taken toward final elimination of reparations from the thorny aftermaths of the Great War. There was no disposition to cry victory because there remained a number of knotty points among German conditions and Allied reservations, any one of which, if not disposed of, might make final agreement impossible.

The experts will grapple with these problems to-day. The probability was that the Allies would meet in the morning and advise the Germans of the results in the afternoon.

Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, head of the German delegation, who has been resting at Versailles, will probably be on hand for this plosing phase of the conference.

TENEMENT SCHEME TO CLEAR THE SLUMS

LONDON, May 30.—(By the Canadian Press).—The opening of two blocks of tenements at New Street, Aldgate, by the Lord Mayor, Sir Edward Kynaston Studd, recently marked the conclusion of a scheme of slum clearance in the neighborhood of Middlesex street formulated 10 years ago by the corporation of London.

The scheme involved the demolition of 151 houses and the displacement of 885 persons, 250 of whom had to be rehoused on the area. Housing accommodation for 635 persons has been provided by the Corporation at its own expense by the erection of a block of dwellings known as Windsor House in Wenlock road and Shepherdess Walk, and to meet the need of rehousing the 250 persons on the area, it was decided with the approval of the ministry of Health, to erect two blocks of buildings on the most up-to-date lines, the designs for which were prepared by the City engineer.

The two blocks which cost $363,000 have been designed to contain 40 tenements, the weekly rental for each of which is about $5.50.

The Weather

The highest temperature yesterday was 88 degrees in the shade. The lowest the thermometer went last night was 63 degrees. The man who a few days ago was complaining of the chilliness of the atmosphere, and apparently looking forward with pleasurable anticipations to the advent of warm weather, is now "kicking," and longing for cooler weather again. But such is human nature—never satisfied.—W. P.

Meteorological Office, Toronto, Ont., May 30 ((Canadian Press). — Showers have occurred in Manitoba and Northern Ontario and Quebec, while elsewhere the weather has been for the most part fair. Temperatures have been high in most parts of Eastern Canada, while in the west it has been moderately warm. An area of low pressure is centred over north-eastern Manitoba, while pressure is relatively high to the southward of the Great Lakes.

Weighing 10 ounces an Elizabethan plain silver goblet was recently sold in London for $1,250.

How Mrs. Carey cured my washday backaches!

OH, how I used to dread washday! Every Monday it was scrub, scrub, scrub all day long. At night I'd be jus about dead.

Then that awful backache. I'd just be getting over it when another washday would be on top of me.

One Monday morning when I wasn't even half through my washing I looked out of the window—and what a surprise I got. There was my new next-door neighbor Mrs. Carey hanging out a lovely white wash.

"How in the world does she do it?" I asked myself for I knew she couldn't have started earlier than I did. I determined to find out right then.

Mrs. Carey's advice

My surprise was even greater when I saw Mrs. Carey herself. She was just as bright and fresh as a daisy yet her wash was bigger than mine.

"How did you do it?" I asked.

"It's no secret," she replied. "I just got tired of doing my wash the old-fashioned rub and scrub way. Now I just soak and rinse. I never touch a washboard, and I don't even boil!"

"But how do you get your wash so lovely and white?" I said to her.

"Haven't you been reading in the papers," she asked, "how women all over town wash clothes a new way—how a new kind of soap, Rinso, soaks clothes whiter than you can scrub them?" That very day I bought Rinso.

No Washday "blues" now

You can imagine how glad I am. Washday is one of my easiest days now. And backache? I haven't had one since the first time I used Rinso.

I wish you women who read this would please take my advice. Don't do another wash the old-fashioned "scrub" way. Try Rinso. Just once—that's all I ask. You'll say, as thousands of other women have, that it's the easiest—quickest—and safest way to wash clothes snowy white.

INSTITUTE MEETS.

Good Program Provided At West Seymour Branch Meeting.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 30 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — Although the Havelock branch of the Institute has accepted the invitation of the Seymour West branch to attend their meeting yesterday afternoon, circumstances prevailed which prevented the members being present. There were more than thirty members of the local branch present to hear the address of Mrs. Alice Meyers of Dundas, and much information was obtained from her remarks. She took as her subject, "The Influence of Women in the Home."

In spite of the heat of the afternoon, the attendance was good and an excellent program of vocal solos and readings was presented by the members. The regular business of the institute was short and consisted mostly of dealing with correspondenec re the convention to be held in Belleville this Fall. No date has been set as yet, but the usual time is in November. At the close of the meeting, lunch was served by the ladies.

WILL COMMAND LARGEST GROUP

that the other two parties have had time and time again." He declared: "Both the other parties have proved incapable of dealing adequately with social evils. Labor alone can bring the country through its present difficulties and establish good conditions for workers of every class." And at the last moment also he strongly denounced communism and made it clear that communism had no part in the Labor policy.

Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George's final message was: "The nation is weary of Tory recklessness and afraid of Labor extravagance. Remember that nothing will hinder you from having a Liberal government if you are resolved to get it and cast your votes for the Liberal candidates."

The Labor and Liberal leaders closed their campaigns in their own constituencies—Seaham, Durham, and Carnarvon, Wales, but Premier Baldwin spent the last day in a whirlwind speaking tour of the industrial area in Lancashire, where both his opponents had fought hard.

"Vote in accordance with your conscience," was the prime minister's plea, as he revealed a little family history. "The first member of my family who visited Preston (where he was speaking) was a great-great-grandfather who came down in Prince Charles' army in 1745 to try to pick up recruits for Charles Stuart. I am now the general of a much larger army than he had, trying to pick up recruits for my party."

At Rochdale a crowd of 25,000 gathered outside the town hall to hear the prime minister and it was found amplifiers were missing. "Why, this is terrible," Premier Baldwin exclaimed. "Have you a megaphone?" he asked his compaion. But there was no megaphone either. Turning to the local Conservative manager on the town hall's balcony, Premier Baldwin declared: "Oh, dear; this is a tragedy. I should have liked to be heard by all this wonderful gathering." But he made the best of it.

Addresses 100,000 in Day

It is estimated the prime minister addressed no fewer than 100,000 persons in the course of his day's touring. Cars and charabancs, big motor coaches, followed him all along the route, decorated with the Conservative colors. On the outskirts of Blackburn he met a large touring car bearing the Liberal colors and carrying Sir Herbert Samuel, chief Liberal organizer. The two waved friendly greetings as they passed.

At Burnley the prime minister spoke on the football grounds. "There is not much a government can do for industry except keep its hands off," he said, attacking the Labor party's nationalization schemes. "The less a government interferes with industry the better."

At Shotton colliery, a centre of the Durham coal mining area, Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald strongly repudiated communism. "I am not a communist," he declared. "I never was. I don't believe in them. I don't believe they will serve you well and I don't want to hide by opinion. I have said for years that I don't want their support. They asked for a united front and they wanted to stab us in the back. That's not the united front I want. I want a united front of industrial, political and co-operative movements. Give me that trinity of organized labor and I will give you all the laws you want to help yourselves to a good life."

Mr. Lloyd George experienced some heckling as he spoke in Welsh at Carnarvon. "I venture to say that to-morrow will witness a national revival of Liberal strength and vitality throughout the whole of these islands. A prediction I will make is that this government is going to have the most tremendous smash that any government has had in this country. It's time they went, for nobody has a good word for them," was his last denunication.

BARCLAY WILL HANG AUGUST

Convicted of Murder of Mrs. Nancy Hudson On New Year's Eve.

DRUNKENNESS CLAIMED.

TORONTO, May 30.—Found guilty of the murder of Agnes (Nancy) Hudson by cutting her throat, in his room at 24 Breadalbane street, on Dec. 31 last, William Barclay was sentenced yesterday by Mr. Justice Logie to hang on Aug. 1.

Following deliberation of one and a quarter hours, the jury returned their verdict at 5 p.m. At the request of the defense counsel, G. C. Elgie, the jury was polled, each in turn pronouncing the world "guilty" as his name was called. His Lordship told the jury that they could not have very well brought in any other verdict, and that now if there was any mercy to be shown it must be at the hands of the Crown.

Turning to Barclay, his Lordship said: "You have committed a cruel and vicious murder; the jury has found you guilty. Have you anything to say?" "Only this," Barclay replied, "that I have told you the truth and the whole truth." Sentence of death was then pronounced. With head hanging Barclay was led away sobbing.

Drunkenness Claimed

That Barclay was too drunk to be responsible, was the plea submitted by the defense. This was rebutted by Dr. William T. Parry, the physician at Toronto Jail, who has had more than twenty years' experience in treating mental cases, and who said: "I have heard all the evidence, especially as to drunkenness, and I am of the opinion that he was quite capable of forming a criminal intent."

Asked as to the accused's memory, the doctor stated, "He seemed to have a much better memory than I. He could recite movements for the five years. A very intelligent man." There was no doubt as to the man's sanity, according to the witness. Dr. Donald Fletcher, psychiatrist, who had examined Barclay in April, substantiated Dr. Parry's opinion. "He was under the influence of liquor, but not necessarily drunk," the doctor averred.

The defense counsel, Mr. Elgie, in making a plea for a charge of manslaughter, urged the jury to use its own common sense, rather than expert evidence. Quoting the words of a great jurist, he told the jury: "Search for a motive if you wish to prove a murder." Here there was no apparent motive, he said. That the nature of the crime, and the lack of concealment suggested insanity, were arguments of the defense.

Called Revolting Crime.

In summing up for the prosecution, Crown Counsel Meakins, addressing the jury, declared, "This was a most revolting and cruel crime, to put the best face on it we can. A breaker up of home, and an unmitigated blackguard from start to finish, this man ends up exactly where you would expect to find him—in a dock, charged with murder. We have to ask you not for your sympathy, but for justice." The actions of the accused following the crime were those of a man who knew exactly what he was about, the Crown declared.

Mr. Justice Logie remarked in conclusion, that he had seldom heard counsel go so far to intimidate a jury. He warned against taking the "lack of motive" plea too seriously, and said that expert evidence should not be accepted in the face of more concrete circumstances.

Not a Seed Is Sown On Some Farms Yet

LINDSAY, May 30.—Although farmers in this section are pretty well advanced with their seeding, there are a few who have yet to sow a seed. It is the latest spring in the history of this section of the country. An unusual record of the unwanted type was chronicled, when it was discovered that on six farms, all adjoining each other, not a single seed has been sown up to date. The farms are all good ones and the owners progressive. They are as follows: Thomas Pogue, 100 acres; Vincent Pogue, 150 acres; the Thorn Farm 100 acres; R. J. Patterson, 100 acres; the Windrim Farm, 100 acres; the Thorn Farm, 130 acres.

and advised me to use it. I used four bottles and my face is now completely clear of pimples."

DRESSED MEATS.

Toronto wholesale dealers are quoting the following prices to the retail trade for dressed meats:—

Beef, forequarters, cwt.	$14 to $16
do hindquarters	20 to 24
Carcasses, choice	19 to 20 50
do. medium	18 to 19
Calves, choice veal	18 to 21
do. medium	15 to 17
Heavy hogs, cwt.	10 to 12
Light hogs	17 to 18
Abattoir hogs	19 to 20
Spring lambs	10 to 16
Sheep, cwt.	12 to 18

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, May 30. — Trading was normal for this season of the year on the wholesale butter market yesterday, and the price of No. 1 finest creamy was unchanged at from 36½ to 37 cents per pound, with No. 2 grade 1 cent per pound lower. Quotations to the retail trade were not changed.

Dealers are now operating exclusively on domestic butter, and supplies from this source are increasing with the warmer weather, and are now more than sufficient to meet the demands of the retail trade. Large dealers reported that prices are barely steady at yesterday's levels.

Eggs Are Unchanged.

Fairly heavy shipments of fresh eggs arrived on the local wholesale market yesterday, and prices held steady. Dealers are quoting country shippers for ungraded eggs, delivered and cases returned, as follows: Fresh extras, 27 to 28 cents per dozen; firsts, 25 to 26 cents, and seconds, 22 to 23 cents per dozen.

Reports from throughout Ontario indicate that production is falling off slightly with the continued warm weather, and this is likely to impart a weaker feeling to the market.

Trading was quiet on the wholesale cheese market, and the price of No. 1 large, colored, paraffined and Government graded supplies was unchanged at from 18 to 18¾ cents per pound.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, May 30. — Export buying that totalled more than 3,000,000 bushels and which included hard winter wheat from the United States, helped to life wheat values yesterday. The maximum advance for wheat future deliveries here was 1¾c a bushel, but efforts to realize profits on the bulge in price wiped out most of the gain.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at the same as Tuesday's finish to 1½c higher. Corn closed unchanged to ¾c down, oats at ½c decline to ¼c gain, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 17c.

Factors of Market.

Assisting the climb yesterday of the wheat market here were Washington reports that the debenture plan would be eliminated from farm relief measures, and that a settlement of the reparations question at Paris was momentarily expected. An unlooked-for sharp upturn in wheat values at Liverpool was likewise a stimulating factor, and so, too, were scattered reports of hot winds sapping moisture from important sections of domestic winter wheat territory.

The effect of Liverpool price advances was heightened by word that as yet there has been but little accumulation of wheat stocks anywhere in continental countries of Europe.

Much talk was heard yesterday that, although the harvest in the main part of the United States winter wheat belt is hardly a fortnight off now, nevertheless hot winds, Hessian fly damage, and such causes could yet play havoc with otherwise splendid crop prospects.

It was also asserted that the generally favorable outlook for large yields had been over-exploited, and that rallies are at present in order. On the rallies yesterday, however, commission houses became free sellers, one reason being a desire to minimize open risks during the holiday to-day.

Corn Easier.

Selling of corn against purchases of wheat had a depressing effect on the corn market. Besides, high temperatures over the corn belt were regarded as favorable for germination. Corn export bids via Montreal were about two cents out of line. Oats were kept easy by Month-end liquidating sales of May holdings.

Provisions firmed up on account of scattered buying.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, May 30. — Light offerings and the disposition of shorts to cover their commitments forced prices higher on to-day's wheat market. The session closed with net gains of 1 1-8c to 1 5-8c. A little export business was reported overnight.

Cash wheat prices were unchanged to 1-4c better in a dull and featureless market.

Prices on all coarse grains moved forward, barley advancing one cent over the previous close, oats gaining fractionally and rye and flax scoring good gains.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, May 30.—There were 1,000 stale cattle in addition to fresh receipts at the Union stock yard market yesterday morning. Opening trade was slow in all grades of killers, and cows were taken in preference to steers and heifers. Bids were steady, and prices paid in the early sales were unchanged from the close of last week.

Butcher steers sold anywhere from 9 1-2 to 111-2 cents a pound with one full oad at the top.

Good to choice butcher cows sold from 9 to 9 1-2 cents and plain kind downward to 7 cents a pound.

Choice baby beef brought from 13 to 13 1-2 cents. Stockers were a shade easier at 8 1-2 to 9 1-2 cents for fair to good kind. The bulk of the light supply came from the west.

Calves prices were steady at yesterday's decline of a shade to 25 cents a hundredweight. Good to choice year calves were worth from 12 1-2 cents to 13 1-2 cents a pound, and a few fancy calves brought 14 cents. Grassers sold from 7 to 7 1-2 cents a pound.

Spring lambs were steady at 18 to 19 cents a pound for the best, with thin lambs downward to twelve cents a pound.

Sheep were draggy and lower, good light ones selling from seven to seven and a half cents and culls from four to five cents a pound.

Hogs were steady at the advance paid at yesterday's close. Select sold at 13 1-2 weighed off cars. Packers' bids for the remainder of the week are 13 1-4 cents for weighed off cars select. Receipts: cattle, 520; calves, 493; hogs, 975; sheep and lambs, 255.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, May 30. — Wholesale butter prices were generally 1-4c to 1-2c lower with receipts small with a day's total of 44 boxes. Retail prices were unchanged at 37c per lb. for solids and 38c per lb. for prints.

The cheese market was also unchanged. Number 1 Ontario colored was quoted at 18 1-4c per lb and No. 1 Quebec white and colored at 18c per lb. Receipts were 1706 boxes.

Eggs continued steady with receipts at 3208 boxes.

The local potato market is slightly weaker, with a reduced demand consequent to the warmer weather. Increased haulings in New Brunswick are reflected in the local price, which is 60c per 90 lbs. in bulk, in carlots on the track here. Prince Edward Island potatoes are unchanged at 80c for whites and 85c for Green Mountains per 90 lbs. in bags.

FRECKLES

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots. How to Remove Easily.

Here's a chance, Miss Freckleface, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable concern that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes your freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of Othine,—double strength—from any drug or department store and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine as this strength is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove your freckles.

SHOULD PAY INTEREST.

Having accepted the principle that interest should be paid on reparations money that is to be paid Canadian civilians for war losses, it will be difficult for the Dominion Parliament to avoid the observance of that principle in the case of all monies refunded by the Government from time to time.

There is no logical reason why the payment of interest in all such cases should not be made.

The simple fact is, that while the Government withholds money that is the property of citizens, it has the use of that money and should pay for it just as the Government itself insists that interest must be paid on all tax payments that are overdue.

In the matter of the income tax, for example, the policy at present followed is decidedly unfair.

Should the taxpayer fail to remit a sufficient amount to cover his tax, he is promptly called upon for the balance with interest.

But if the shoe is on the other foot and the taxpayer pays more than he should, the Government eventually refunds the amount overpaid, but without interest.

Obviously that system is wide open to attack and should be discontinued.

BUY EMPIRE GOODS.

If there was ever a time when Canadians should not need any urging about purchasing Empire products, it is to be fancied that that time is right now with the United States Congress building up a tariff wall against Canadian goods in spite of the fact that this country is the best customer Uncle Sam possesses.

Empire Shopping Week would, therefore, seem to have been most happily timed, and should find the people of this country in a receptive mood, willing to cooperate in remedying a condition that has begun to rankle.

If trade over the border is to be confined as much as possible to Canadian purchases south of the line, then surely it is opportune to consider thoughtfully the advisability of doing our shopping elsewhere and giving the producers and manufacturers of this country and of the Empire some of the business that has been going southward.

For us the Empire begins at home, and we should emphasize that fact by insisting upon Canadian-made goods first, and if these are not available, upon being supplied with goods made in some other part of the Empire.

A SCHOOL PLEDGE.

A school bulletin just issued by the Ontario Safety League contains a pledge that might well be signed and kept by the children of Peterborough.

The pledge, intended to prevent motor accidents, reads:

"I will not play on the streets or highways.

"I will play on the sidewalk, in my own yard or in my school's playground.

"When I cross the street or highway I will look both ways for traffic to make sure the way is clear before I cross.

"I will always be careful."

The observance of these few simple rules would do much to reduce the number of accidents.

The street as a playground has passed out of the picture.

Even with careful driving by everybody there is bound to be accidents if children use the road as a recreation area—and certainly nobody would be foolish enough to assert that everybody drives carefully.

This school bulletin should be called to the attention of all Peterborough's school pupils and emphasized by parents.

WHAT WILL BE TO-DAY'S VERDICT?

While optimistic predictions of success are being made by the leaders of all three parties in the British elections, many unbiased observers are, however, inclined to doubt if any one party will win a majority of the seats in the House of Commons as a result of to-day's voting.

At the last general elections on October 29, 1924, the Conservative party swept the country, winning a clear majority of 211 seats over the other two parties combined. The results then were:

Conservatives	413
Labor	151
Liberals	40
Other parties	11

With the exception of Northern Scotland and Northern Wales and the industrial districts of Southern Wales and Scotland, which went strongly Labor, the Conservatives won a majority of seats in every other part of the United Kingdom.

The combined popular vote of the Liberal and Labor parties was, however, considerably larger than that of the Conservatives, as the following figures show:

Conservatives	7,861,402
Labor	5,487,649
Liberals	2,928,064
Combined Liberal and Labor	8,415,713

If recent by-elections are a guide to the results in to-day's general election, both Labor and Liberals will gain at the expense of the Government.

In by-elections in five seats held by the Government since 1924 the Liberals gained two ridings, Labor one and the Government was barely able to retain the other two.

Commentators not closely allied with any particular party are willing to concede the possibility of a Government or Labor majority over all, but there are few who predict a Liberal triumph.

The majority of such election prophets consider the most likely result will be a repetition of the situation that followed the general elections of 1923 when neither the Conservatives nor Labor won a majority of the seats, and when after the new Parliament met the Liberals supplied a Labor motion of "no confidence" in the Conservative Government, and Mr. MacDonald was called upon to form a new Government.

If these seers are right, and such a division of parliamentary strength should result, there would be two alternatives: either the Labor party might form a Government with Liberal support, or the Conservative and Liberal parties might form a coalition with Labor in opposition.

In a word, the consensus of independent opinion seems to be that when to-day's voting is done the Liberal party is likely to hold the balance of power.

WORRY IN EUROPE.

Czecho-Slovakia is distinctly worried by the tariff plans of the United States. Her Premier declares that the plans, if carried out, will have a serious effect on the exports of his country, and in fact, on all the countries in Europe.

Premier Novak wisely realizes that an individual protest from his country would have little effect on the American Congress. He therefore suggests that the European countries combine in an appeal to the United States to modify its new tariff regulations, basing their plea on the "Geneva spirit."

Such an appeal would not fall on entirely deaf ears. The United States can be depended on to show sufficient fairness to consider any reasonable protest, and to look at the matter, as much as possible, from the viewpoint of the countries which will suffer from the tariff.

The United States, however, is not essentially a philanthropic country. If the fact appeals to Congress that it is a choice between the welfare of the European countries and the prosperity of its own, there can be only one outcome. The United States has a tariff policy ericans are the first consideration at all times. It is not, as so many claim, committed to a general high protection policy, but each case is decided strictly on its merits, with the best interests of its citizens in mind.

This is not selfishness. It is simply "good business" if not overdone.—Border Cities Star.

SIR ESME'S DRY GESTURE.

The British Ambassador to the United States has offered to forego diplomatic privilege to the extent of ending importation of liquors to the British Embassy at Washington. There is much speculation, and even some chuckling, as to what will result from that offer. But, whatever else it does, it indicates the Motherland's desire to make easy the enforcement of the Republic's laws, not only by strictly living up to international legal requirements, but to go even further in the way of volunteering friendly extralegal gestures. The example is worthy of emulation by Canada.

Before the ink had thoroughly dried on Sir Esme Howard's letter some newspaper writers were declaring that the dry gesture was inspired by dry humor. It is no secret that official Washington has flocked to the foreign Embassies as oases in a dry and thirsty land, and that the last thing that is wanted is the wiping out of extraterritorial privileges in this regard. Time will tell. If President Hoover accepts the British offer, other Embassies will doubtless follow suit. But if not, there will be additional evidence as to the sources of failure to stop the leaks in the prohibition law.

The British Ambassador, of course, has not made his gesture in any joking mood. He is in close touch with the realities, and he knows the character of the American people as well as the peculiarities of human nature everywhere.

The natural eye is so constructed as to make the mote in the other fellow's eye more apparent than the beam in the beholder's own. Where it might be impossible to inspire universal domestic loyalty to the Eighteenth Amendment, it might be an easy matter to fan nationalistic flames to sudden fury at foreigners' alleged complicity in breaking it. Not long ago one of the more irresponsible United States Senators made some inflammatory remarks aimed at stirring up nation-wide resentment at the immunity of the Embassies from the dry law.

The fact is that the wet-and-dry fight in the United States is a sort of gigantic family quarrel. The fate of the outsider who intervenes in such a contest is proverbial. The British Foreign Office is safeguarding against being jockeyed into any such position.

Canada should follow suit. It is no doubt true that really energetic and sincere attempts at liquor-law enforcement in the United States would effect a far more radical change than anything that Canada could do, short of passing a domestic prohibition law. The fact is that, brushing all the legal niceties aside, Canada is taking sides with the American rum-runner as against the American Coast Guard. The situation is dangerous, and no consideration of the convenience or profits of liquor exporters should be allowed to perpetuate it.—The Globe.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Buy Empire goods and remember that for Peterborough people the Empire begins in Peterborough.

The Globe suggests a more rigid examination of applicants for drivers' licenses. Certainly the present system lets a lot of people through who are mentally unfit to drive a car.

Sir Esme Howard's offer to wave the right to import liquors for the British Embassy at Washington is a cruel thrust. The foreign embassies have been a source of comfort to thirsty Washingtonians.

The success of Old Home Week depends now upon the extent to which the citizens generally co-operate with the committees. From now on it will be everybody's job to put the celebration over the top.

A Thought

THE THINKERS.

All progress, all development, all improvement begins with thought and those who go farthest in these lines are those who do the most thinking. Liberty, freedom, comfort, ease, happiness all these are born of thinking and you are free to do just as much of it as you can, or please. In fact the world is begging for men and women who will do it. From the fountain head of all good things each of us may drink to our fill. You can patent an invention but you cant patent the thinking that made it.

Horoscope

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

Thursday, May 30, 1929.

(Copyright McClure Newspaper Syndicate).

Another fortunate day in planetary government is foretold by astrologers who find that benefic aspects rule strongly.

It is a favorable day for trade and commerce, making for new records in American business.

New combinations of established corporations and new branches are indicated as numerous this month.

Women may feel justified to-day in pushing all their affairs. Initiative even in love should be successful.

Although May has been considered rather an unlucky month for weddings, this day is read as most fortunate for those who plight troth.

Music and musicians should benefit under this direction of the stars favorable to summer concerts and summer operas.

Child prodigies who seem to come into the world far advanced as violinists or pianists will make fame for themselves within the decade, the seers prophesy.

Those who believe in reincarnation will find in the marvelous precocity of American youth much to justify their faith in the return of the soul, astrologers foretell.

Development of a white race in America which will be more perfect even than the standards set by ancient Greece is prognosticated, but warning is given by occultists that it may precede the domination of a darker skinned people.

Journeys late to-day may not be fortunate, especially if they are made on the water.

Oil interests to-day are believed to be subject to sinister planetary influences making for much discussion of legal and economic phases of production.

Older folk should enjoy these days just preceding mid-summer, for the planetary influences are supposed to be energizing and generally favorable.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have a year that tests their philosophy, but it is likely to be fairly prosperous.

Children born on this day probably will be endowed with splendid mentality and strong character. Many subjects of this sign are leaders in religious or political work.

Peter the Great was born on this date 1672. Another who had claimed it as a birthday was General Frederick Dent Grant, 1850.

FRIDAY, MAY 31, 1929

Astrologers read this as rather an unimportant day in planetary direction. It is well, nevertheless, to be conservative in business matters.

Temptation to speculate will be strong at this time when the stock market will present peculiar phases of fluctuation and new corporations will be formed to exploit late scientific discoveries of labor-saving inventions.

This is not a lucky day to seek employment and they who demand advance in compensation will be sorry they spoke.

Under this direction of the stars national heroes old and new may be severely criticized or even misrepresented. A strong iconoclastic spirit may be widely prevalent at this time.

Extremes of sentiment from that which is strongly patriotic to that colored by Bolshevistic propaganda probaly will be prevalent as the summer advances.

Warning is given that the common denominator of popular intelligence may be surprisingly low when revealed in the expression of opinion on important public questions.

This is a day when women should subordinate their ideals and should refrain from making any sort of intiative in public affairs.

The seers foretell that women are to lead in one of the most effective reform movements ever instituted in America, but the time for starting work has not yet arrived.

Those who read the stars announce that tremendous moral and intellectual forces are slowly working beneath the surface of national thought.

While the most tremendous achievements will be attained in professional and commercial fields there will be a corresponding advance in spiritual and intellectual activity, it is prophesied.

The children of the nation are now to be protected and trained as never before, astrologers forecast, and all who are unfortunate in their environment will be cared for after novel and effective plans.

Under this sway the instinct of motherhood will affect the nation in a manner that assures marvelous race development, occultists declare.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a prosperous year in which there may be unexpected journeys.

Children born on this day probably will be clever and endowed with fine talents. These subjects of Gemini are positive, intellectual and often extremely psychic.

Horatio Seymour, statesman, was born on this date 1810. Others who have claimed it as a birthday include Edward Burgess, Yacht designer, 1848; Will Low, artist, 1853.

The Tule Marsh Murder

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

Story of a Missing Actress and the Taxing of Wits to Explain Her Fate

THE STORY THUS FAR

Sheila O'Shay, formerly a popular actress, and now the wife of the young multi millionaire Don Ellsworth, disappears, leaving no trace behind her. Don visits Dr. Cavanaugh, the famous criminologist and confesses that his married life has been very unhappy. Dr. Cavanaugh agrees to investigate the case. Peter Piper, enthusiastic young reporter of the Herald is sent to cover the case. He goes to Dr. Cavanaugh's home. By accident he meets the Doctor's adopted daughter, a beautiful young woman. Peter learns that she is intensely interested in the Ellsworth case for some reason, and he decides that she is a real girl.

CHAPTER 6.

Peter Piper had all the normal susceptibility of a young man to the charm of a pretty girl. The difference between him and the usual young man was that he had learned to gauge its effect, discount it, and lay it neatly on one side where it would not interfere with his judgment. The life of reporter early teaches the lesson that women—even young and pretty women—are human beings. Peter had looked into more than one pair of wide and innocent eyes, had listened to more than one sweet and persuasive voice, had responded amiably to more than one appealing smile, and had discovered that all these attractions might not prevent their possessor from passing bad checks or engaging in the art of blackmail. Experience tends to dissipate the rosy and distorting mist in which one sex views the other; but the reporter quaffs strong and numerous draughts of experience beyond the limits of his personal affairs. If he cannot carry that brew with a clear head, he is soon advised to seek a more congenial career, in which he will be the only loser if his sympathies run rounter to the facts.

Peter's head was very clear indeed. He was aware of the faint tingling exhilaration of following a 'lead' which had turned in an unexpected direction. The fact that Barbara was very attractive to look upon enhanced her newspaper value; it did not in the least befuddle Peter's faculties. He was capable of proceeding precisely as if she were an angular spinster of all too certain years—which may be lack of chivalry or its fine-drawn furthest development. As he glanced sidewise at Barbara's adverted profile and noted the firm curve of her chin and the breadth of brow delying the childishness of her short, tilted nose and delicate coloring, he paid her the unspoken compliment of not under-estimating her intelligence. She was, for the moment at least, his antagonist. And experience had taken out of him any masculine conceit thrt, being a woman, she was therefore too helpless a foeman to be worthy of his steel.

Barbara showed that she deserved the compliment by sitting, quite still and silent, in her corner of the coupe.

"What I really came for," Peter observed conversationally, "was to see if you wouldn't help me by using your influence to get me an interview with your father."

"You said, you came on the Ellsworth case," Barbara took him up quickly. Her hands lay quiet in her lap, but there was a tense watchfulness in the poise of her small, alert figure. The years had dropped from her, dropped like pebbles flung soundlessly from a cliff edge into the sea. She was once again the orphan asylum child, stamped by the hard, unremitting effort to hold her own, to clutch, bit by bit, at fragmentary advantage in that regimen so inimical to the spirit of childhood.

"So I did," Peter assented. "The office sent me out to get an interview with Dr. Cavanaugh on the case—his views on the psychology of runaway wives, with sidelights on husbands from whom wives disappear—something like that."

"My father doesn't see interviewers—surely you knew?" Barbara faced him now, once again the self-possessed young woman of wealth and position. Her polite, remote voice was calculated to put a presumptuous reporter in his place.

But Peter was not to be intimidated by a "society" manner.

"You're ever so much more like Alice in Wonderland than Lady Clara Vere de Vere, really," he said with a disarming smile. "Look here, I hoped you'd help a fellow out—its my job, you know. I came because I was sent, but since I was sent, I've got to use every effort to get what I was sent for. That's reasonable, isn't it?"

"Ye—es," Barbara admitted. "That's your point of view. But I'm more much likely to take my father's. There's a little thing like loyalty, you know, you play on my sympathies to get me to persuade father, as a favor, to do something he wouldn't do otherwise. Well, supposing that I could—I won't!" The set of Barbara's chin was very firm indeed.

"Not even to help out—Don Ellsworth?"

"What—do you mean?" Barbara's voice was little more than a gasp.

"You and Mr. Ellsworth were privately engaged to be married—before he married Miss O'Shay," Peter calmly asserted.

"How did you know?' The words came out before she could stop them. She bit her lip and a slow flush mounted to her forehead and drained away again.

"Look here," Peter said kindly, "I haven't any ill motive against any of you. I'm quite willing to be frank. I simply guessed it. Whatever Don Ellsworth does has a way of getting into the papers, and one of the things that got in, by way of society gossip from our Del Monte correspondent, was that you and he were seen together a great deal just prior to his sudden marriage. I've the clipping here. But you needn't mind—the admission is certainly nothing against you."

"But what does it matter? Why do you want to know? You surely don't mean that you're going to drag that in? I was a fool to let you trick me like that?" Barbara's voice was bitter with accusation of both herself and him.

"It matters just this much," Peter said steadily. "There's more in this Ellsworth business than meets the eye—though goodness knows it's been meeting the eye plenty these last few days. Suppose that young Ellsworth had a reason for wishing his wife out of the way. Suppose that you were the reason."

"Gracious you do leap to melodrama!" Barbara's smile flashed out a moment, and was gone. "If every man who married somebody else than the first girl whose name the gossips connected with his, changed his mind and murdered his wife, this world would be an even more jolly place for the newspapers than it is."

Peter's eyebrows rose.

"Murder," he murmured gently. "So far as I know, nobody has mentioned that the Ellsworth case involves a murder."

He saw Barbara's teeth catch her lower lip. Then, as if warned against allowing her features to betray her, she released it and turned to him a composed and inscrutable face.

"Your own phrase, I believe, was that Mr. Ellsworth might wish his wife 'out of the way.' Putting someone out of the way is a familiar idiom, isn't it? Pardon me if I misinterpreted your meaning."

Peter's eyes beamed upon her with frank admiration. He could discount personal attraction, but he knew better than to discount quickness of wit. Peter disliked fools, even when they made his own task more simple.

"You reserve all your naps for your sleeping hours, don't you?" he commented.

Barbara ignored the tribute.

"I might remind you that your inspired flight of imagination has no string tied to it, holding it down to mere evidence. You must know that you can't print any such insinuation. Mr. Ellsworth would be after you for libel in no time."

"I knew you were a bright girl!" Peter's gray eyes shone with enthusiasm. "I didn't suppose society buds had a chance to accumulate that much common sense. the point is, it's a working hypothesis—and working hypothesis sometimes accumulate proof while they work. Now you see why it would be a good thing for you to get your father to give me that interview."

(To be contined.)

OBITUARY

LEWIS SHERWIN.

ROSENEATH, May 30 (Examiner Correspondence). — The funeral of little Lewis Sherwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lancelot Sherwin, who passed away at the Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, on Thursday night, May 23, took place from the family residence on Sunday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. The large number who gathered for the service testified to the sincere sympathy extended by the entire community to the bereaved parents and other relatives.

Rev. Harold Wilding, B.A., had charge of the service, and delivered a comforting message to the sorrowing hearts.

The remains were laid to rest by loving hands in Centreville Cemetery, there to await the resurrection morn.

LLOYD NICHOL.

ROSENEATH, May 30 (Examiner Correspondence). — It is with deepest regret that we record the sudden death of one of our brilliant young boys. When the sad news was announced on Friday, May 24, that Lloyd Nichol was dead, a profound depression settled on the whole community. While it had been known that Lloyd was seriously ill with pleuro-pneumonia, yet hopes were held out for his recovery. The best medical services were secured, he having had two doctors and two nurses from the commencement of his illness, but fate had decreed otherwise, and he passed peacefully away to his heavenly reward about noon on Friday, after one week's illness. Lloyd was a congenial favorite among the scholars at the school, and evidence of this was shown by the number of boys and girls who attended the funeral on Monday afternoon. On Sunday morning Lloyd's school teacher, Mr. Davey, and his school mates marched in a body and placed a beautiful wreath on his casket.

In the evening Rev. Mr. Battersby held a private service in the home for the relatives and spoke briefly a few words of comfort and sympathy to the bereaved family.

The funeral on Monday afternoon was largely attended. Rev M. R. Brown, pastor of the United Church, took charge of the Trail Rangers, of which Lloyd was a member. The boys formed two lines and held the floral tributes when the casket was borne from the home, and also marched in couples carrying the flowers from the church to the grave, which bore a deep love for their departed friend.

The service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Battersby, who spoke on death, the uncertainty of life, and the necessity of being ready to meet death when the call comes. Rev. M. R. Brown read the lesson, taken from I. Corinthians, chapter 15, beginning at verse 20.

Heartfelt sympathy is extended to his bereaved parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rupert B. Nichol, his brother Stewart, and little sister Doriane, also his grandmother, Mrs. Lottie Nichol, who resides in the home and his Grandmother and Grandfather Robins, of the village.

The pall-bearers were Oscar Nichol, Chafiton Grigg, Frank Coyle, Allan Braithwaite, Flex McMillan, and Howard Lapp.

MRS. J. HUNTER

LAKEFIELD, May 30 (Examiner Correspondence).—The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon of Mrs. J. Hunter, who met death in a motor car accident on Sunday afternoon. The service was held in St. John's Church at 2 o'clock and was in charge of Rev. W. J. Creighton.

The beautiful burial service of the Church of England was said and two suitable hymns, "Nearer My God to Thee," and "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," were sung.

Mr. Creighton spoke beautifully of the life beyond the grave which goes one through eternity. Life on earth is but a transient thing and is only a preface to the richer, full life in the world to come which knows no end. In his brief address there was nothing to harrow the feelings of the mourners, but much of comfort and the message Our Lord Jesus left of the place prepared in the house of many mansions.

The pall bearers were Mr. Frank Payne (brother-in-law of the deceased), Mr. John Macdonald (son-in-law), Messrs. W. L. Webster, A. E. Webster, B. Blewett and G. C. Burnley.

Interment was made in Hillside cemetery, Lakefield.

Mrs Hunter was, outside the family circle of her daughter, Mrs. C. F. Webster, a stranger in the village, but in time of sorrow it is as if the village is one big family which shares the grief of each member and in the tragic circumstances which surrounded Mrs. Hunter's death, the feeling of deep sympathy for the bereaved family was given in large measure.

Mrs. Hunter is survived by four daughters, Mrs. John Macdonald and Mrs. Vance Daynes of Toronto; Mrs. C. F. Webster of Lakefield, and Miss Hilda who accompanied her mother on her ill-fated week-end journey. There are also three sisters, Miss Walker, Mrs. Macdonald and Mrs. Frank Payne, all of Toronto.

MRS. DAVID CURTAIN

LAKEFIELD, May 30.—(Examiner Correspondence).— The funeral of the late Mrs. David Curtain took place on Tuesday afternoon from her late residence on Burnham street with Rev. S. A. Kemp officiating.

The service was largely attended as Mrs. Curtain had been a life long resident of the Lakefield and its immediate vicinity.

Dr. Kemp's address was full of comfort to the bereaved family as he pictured the opening of the gate which freed her from all suffering and brought her to peace and rest forever more. Life had been a struggle for health for years and now all that was hard was over and for her was joy and health. A sad feature of the case was that Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Curtain's only surviving daughter is ill in Nicholl's Hospital, Peterborough and could not be with her mother at her death.

The pall bearers were Messrs. John Charlton, William Charlton, Melville Millar, Silas Pearson, Jabez Reid and John Hurl.

Mrs. Curtain was a daughter of Lemuel Godfrey and his wife, Alma Mowry of Smith, where she was born sixty-eight years ago. She was married first to Thomas Stinson, who pre-deceased her. Two sons, of this marriage, Cephas and Soloman Stinson, of Peterborough, survive. She was later married to David Curtain, who with one daughter, Olive (Mrs. R. A. Bell) are left to mour her loss. There are also two sisters, Mrs. John Allen of Lakefield, and Mrs. Sheldon Jewell of Midland, and two brothers, Charles of Smith and George of Peterborough.

Mrs. Curtain had been in poor health for years and for the past five weeks she had been confined to her bed. Although her health did not allow her to take an active part in village life for some time, she was keenly interested in all that made for improvement in her home town. She was a member of Regent street United Church.

SOVIET CONSULATES RAIDED BY TROOPS

Communists Are Believed to be Aiding Revolt in Central China.

TOKYO, May 30.— (Canadian Press).—Press dispatches from Harbin, Manchuria, to-day said Sino authorities had raided the Soviet consulates at Tsitsihar and Manchouli in addition to those at Harbin and Suifenho yesterday.

It was said it had been established reliably that the Chinese nationalist government at Nanking had ordered the raids, hoping to uncover a definite connection of the Soviet government with Marshal Feng Yu-Hsiang, who is leading a revolt in Central China.

All regular consular officials have been released but 35 alleged communist operatives were still being held.

NEWS FROM THE MINES

Solloway, Mills & Company Through

MAYLAND

With Mayland's drill now below 5,400 feet the limestone should be encountered any day. Home No. 2 encountered lime 65 feet higher up than Mayland is now at. Mayland already has a substantial production of crude oil. Mayland is one of the few companies in the Turner Valley with holdings one and a half miles wide, practically all on structure and a mile in depth on structure. Imperial Oil owns 51 per cent of Mayland's stock and has started drilling Mayland No. 2 well.

BALTAC

Baltac Oils has been selling much out of line of late. Company's holding ideally located to west of Home, with Calmont's lease adjoining partially on east and A. P. Consolidated on south. Modern rotary rig has been ordered to drill this ground.

LOW CAPITALIZATION

A factor that makes Southwestern Petroleum popular is that only 500,000 shares are outstanding and Imperial Oil owns over 50 per cent of these, which means that they are off the market. When it is considered that four individuals own over 50 per cent of balance, it is evident that floating supply is not large and any sizeable buying order is bound to be reflected in price of shares.

ASSOCIATED

Associated Oil and Gas, adjoining Home Oil on west, is now drilling below 5,000 feet and should encounter limestone at any moment.

SOUTHWEST PETROLEUM

Remarkable drilling record of Southwest Petroleum continues. Cutting Home oil sands, which horizon is a substantial crude producer, so high on structure at 3610 feet, augurs well for early completion of well. Unofficially estimated from record of Home No. 1 that around 650 feet should carry well to naptha producing horizon in limestone. There will be slight delay when limestone is penetrated to cement casing and install diamond drill, which is mode of operation Imperial Oil has adopted for completing well to productive zone. S. W. Pete has one square mile on structure and as land is freehold can be drilled to the line, whereas on leases line is restricted to 200 feet from boundaries.

MINING CORP.—QUEMONT

Mining Corporation's subsidiary, Quemont, now reported as diamond drilling from 500 foot level on Murray ground adjoining Noranda on north.

NEWBEC

Since big market on Newbec started May 7, total turnover has been 6,778,565 shares. Transactions 45 to 65 cents totalled 2,675,810 shares and since it passed 65 cent mark, 4,454,606 shares. If one could ignore short selling, a definite conclusion that practically all cheap stock out has been taken car of and that the market was pretty well cleaned up to 65 cents would be justified. It must be nearly so.

HOME TWO

In blowing in at 5,465 feet, just 122 feet in limestone, Home No. 2 well furnished a distinct surprise. General expectation was that not much action was to be expected until drill got between 150 and 170 feet into lime. Well showing about 175 feet of naptha and drillers are driving ahead fully confident now that they have a tremendous well in the making. Generally considered that outlook is more favorable than was case with Home 1 at same depth and later has proven to be by far the largest well in Turner Valley.

TECK-HUGHES

Crosscut on 20th level Teck-Hughes cut main ore zone and it shows high grade. Drive on 25th level, 3,000 ft., will reach ore in few days.

CENTRAL MANITOBA

Six week's production to May 15th Central Manitoba Mines, $71,500. Company plans deep diamond drill campaign and has drill capable of going to 2,200 feet on way to property.

ABANA

Result of ballot battle for control of Abana will be announced at adjourned meeting, Montreal, to-day.

BIDGOOD

New shares of Bidgood to be offered shareholders at 40c, basis one new for five held. Same rights to be offered Cambro shareholders. Bidgood capital raised to 6,000,000 shares.

MOST PROLIFIC AREA

Success of Home 2 proves beyond doubt that Home 1 was not a freak well, also that south end of Turner Valley looms as most prolific producing section of the whole 14 miles of proven structure. This substantially improves outlook for Lowery Petroleum, Baltac, A. P. Consolidated, Calmont, Associated, Mayland, East Crest, Southwest Petroleum and others.

SUDBURY ACTIVE

Great many exploratory operations are being resumed in Sudbury area. Sudbury Contact has resumed work on ground adjoining Sudbury Basin at Vermilion Lake.

SUDBURY BASIN

Many recommendations to grab Sudbury Basin, that recent decline has placed it on bargain counter, are going rounds. Press reports indicate that coming months may see subsidiary organized to operate Vermilion Lake group and that rights in subsidiary will be offered shareholders on attractive basis.

GRANADA

Granada picked up No. 2 vein on 625 ft. level east of fault showing exceptionally high grade ore faces in east drifts. No. 2 vein on 350 and 500 ft. levels also in ore west of fault, says a Northern engineering service.

NEWBEC

Newbec to install larger mining plant immediately. Drift still in high grade ore on 250 ft. level, says a Northern engineering service.

EAST CREST

East Crest resumed drilling after cementing hole. Now down 3,886 feet.

HOME STILL DRILLING

Home No. 2 steadily drilling with official estimate of 11,000,000 cubic feet of very wet gas.

SPOONER

Spooner annual meeting to be held June 10th. Transfer office closed from June 5th to June 11th, both days inclusive.

McDOUGALL SEGUR

McDougall Segur No. 2 will probably resume drilling to-day to deepen hole in effort to increase production which is now about 85 barrels.

MAYLAND 2

Mayland 2 cemented casing at 200 feet.

MINING BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner

Granada is said to have picked up their No. 2 vein east of the fault on the 625-foot level, showing very high-grade ore. The east drifts are said to be in this vein on both the 250 and 500-foot levels, while ore is also said to have been encountered at the 250-foot horizon.

The local office of the Alexandria Gold Mines Tuesday received the following wire from T. S. Davey, general manager at the property, B. C.: "Returned from Alexandria to-night. Excellent ore in shaft, assay of which will be out to-morrow. Good progress being made and things look most encouraging." Yesterday the following wire was received: "Ore in shaft over three feet wide assaying forty-four eighty per ton in gold and five point four ounces silver. Specimen of ore forwarded you by express."

Organized to carry on an extensive campaign of prospecting throughout British Columbia, Mining Adventurers, Limited, is offering 50,000 shares at $5. The company is capitalized at $500,000, divided into 100,000 shares of $5 each. As the name implies, this company has not acquired any property but proposes to engage in prospecting along scientific lines and to take over any developed properties having favorable indications.

A despatch from Kirkland Lake states that there is a probability of Kirkland Townsite resuming operations. When last heard from, this company was diamond drilling from underground. One drill was lost, and when this was finally recovered, after a lot of trouble, the bit was lost again. They managed to complete that hole, but results were inconclusive and the property was shut down.

Further news from Kirkland states that Lake Shore has now boosted tonnage to present daily capacity of 1,550 tons per day.

The Treadwell Yukon is now milling approximately 330 tons per day.

SUNLIGHT

Sunlight derrick nearly erected and big rotary drill on site ready for installation.

Southwest End of Sudbury Basin Attracts Attention; Geologists To Study District

Unusual interest has been aroused among mining men in Sudbury by the presence in this field of Professor A. P. Coleman, accompanied by Professor E. T. Moore, and a geological party selected from the University of Toronto.

Their study of the system of faulting in the Southwest end of the Sudbury Basin may result in a profound and even sensational change in current impressions of the geology and structure of an area which includes Treadwell-Yukon and Sudbury Basin Mines on the north, and the group of mines in the Worthington Offset area on the south.

This study is sponsored by the Gordon Lake Holding Company, a privately financed organization, which has acquired extensive holdings in between these mines on the north, and has Worthington Offset, covering particularly the line of faulting extending in a northeasterly direction from the Worthington Offset.

The Sudbury Basin is clearly entering upon the third act of a mining drama of giant proportions. The first which followed the discovery of nickel, extended over a period of more than thirty five years during which time the Basin became known as the source of the world's supply of nickel. This act came to an end when great deposits of lead and zinc were revealed through the instrumentality of Mr. Joseph Errington and the Treadwell-Yukon interests, and the simultaneously disclosed wealth of the Frood Mine.

The second act was based upon the lead-zinc discovery, and this was the great Sudbury boom of 1927, which collapsed as suddenly as it arose. The reason for the collapse is much clearer now than it was a year ago, and it is obvious that the entire boom was based upon a misconception of the structure and fault system in the Southwest end of the Basin.

The third act is being played by interests powerful enough to finally determine the source and course of the extraordinary deposits of ore associated with the Sudbury Basin. This is based largely on the Frood discovery, which holds out a hope of a great copper deposit in other parts of the Basin. The Lindsleys through their various organizations, particularly the Falconbridge Company, Mining Corporation, Consolidated Smelters and other powerful interests, are now actively engaged in exploration, and it is more than probable that the intensive work undertaken by Professors Coleman and Moore will bring to light several very important things which have undoubtedly been overlooked.

CURB LEADERS MAKE ADVANCES

Strong Recovery of Yesterday's Losses Features Session At Toronto.

TRADING EASY.

TORONTO, Ont, May 30.—(Canadian Press).—Strong recoveries in stocks which finished yesterday's session with marked losses, featured the morning's trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day. The market leaders, too, made some headway but declines were plentiful enough to make a general upward swing appear indefinite. Trading, on the whole, was easy. Service Stations made a smart recovery to 64½, up 4½ points, while Massey-Harris regained practically all of yesterday's loss by mounting 3¾ points to 54¾.

Pressed Metals, which suffered such a drastic decline yesterday, recovered 1¾ points to 28¾. Brazilian made a further advance of 1¾ points to 52¾, while Nickel, Ford, Cockshutt and Tip Top Tailors, all showed minor improvement. Walkers sold up 1½ to 20 and Canadian Industrial Alcohol 1½ to 29½. British American McColl and Canadian were the only oils to make any noticeable move, B. A. Gaining 1½ to 47½. McColl 1¾ to 36¾ and Canadian, in very light trading 2 to 42.

Alberta Pacific Grain appeared with a 2¾ point loss at 40, while Canadian Pacific slumped five to 220, Cosmos 1¼ to 19, Laura Secord 1½ to 40¾ and Page Hersey 1½ to 125.

CAMBRO

Cambro Kirkland shareholders approved deal to sell claims adjoining Bidgood on west to Bidwood for 1,000,000 shares of stock. Cambro agrees not to sell or distribute shares for six months. Cambro has $30,000 cash and 600,000 shares in treasury and 2,400,000 shares issued.

OIL STOCKS DROP LOWER ON STANDARD

Sudden Rise of Falconbridge Nickel One of Features of Session.

MAIN LIST STEADY.

Newbec Forced Down 13 Points in Turnover of 413,950 Shares.

TORONTO, Ont., May 30.—(C.P.)—Sudden rises in Falbonbridge Nickel and Ajax Oil and heavy reaction in Newbec and the oil stocks generally were outstanding features of the morning session of the Standard Mining Exchange to-day. Trading, except in Newbec and Ajax, was not overly active, and the main list of prices was steady. Newbec was freely offered and in a turnover of more than 413,950 shares, was forced down 13 points to 55, the morning's low.

Associated Oil and Gas broke 55 cents to 3.80, while Mayland suffered a smilar loss to 8.95. Home broke to 22.25 and held with a loss of 125 at 22.75. Ajax was an exception to its group movement, shooting up to a peak of 81, while the noon price of 73, indicating a net advance of 12 points.

Falconbridge first appeared at 12.00 and rapidly made its way to a high of 13.00, with the noon price of 12.75 recording a net gain of 95 cents. Noranda remained at the morning's high of 50.50, up 50 cents. Sudbury Basin reacted 20 cents to 7.60, while Ventures sold off 25 to 9.00.

charged with assaulting and beating his wife, causing actual bodily harm. He elected summary trial by the magistrate and pleaded guilty.

He declared it wasn't all his fault, stating that his wife annoyed him and was always most willing to engage in a fight. He bent his head and exhibited a scar on his crown which he said was a reminder of a previous marital struggle.

Explaining some of the details of the fight he said: "Well, I gave her a little tap on the chin, it didn't hurt her a bit(" He then seized the broom, he said and it was while he was chasing his wife with the broom that she injured herself when she squeezed through a partly open door hitting her head on the side of the door. He explained this was her own fault. He hit her once or twice with the broom.

The court reserved judgment until Tuesday to give Mrs. Sturmer time to recover so that she may appear and give her testimony of the struggle. Police said she was covered with bruises from beating that she had suffered on May 24.

CANADIAN SCULLERS OUT TO WIN

With preparations completed with the exception of raising all the money needed, to have the Argonaut senior eight and Joe Wright, Jr., sail for England and the Royal Henley, the double blue crews are beginning to round off their condition prior to sailing on June 8. It is felt that the Argo senior eight which threw a scare into the University of California eight at the Olympic games last year when they came within a quarter of a length of beating them, have a splendid chance of bringing the Grand Challenge Cup to Canada for the first time. Joe Wright, Jr., or Jack Guest is expected to win the Diamond Sculls for Canada for the third time in history. The layout shows: (1) Joe Wright, Jr., on the Argonaut Club house float, Toronto, just after stepping out of his shell, following a handicap race with the eight over the full Henley distance of 1 mile 550 yards. (2) Charles Haney, coxswain of the 150-pound four. (3) Coach Joe Wright, Sr., picking out faults and telling them to the crews as they near the club-house. LEADING MASON DIES SUDDENLY Outstanding Leader in Masonic Circles in Canada Passes Away.

TORONTO, May 30.—Henry T. Smith, Grand Scribe of Royal Arch Masons, brother of Grand Z. Edwin Smith, London, Ont., and one of the best-known members of the various Masonic bodies in Canada, died suddenly at his home, 28 Crang Avenue, aged 69 years. He was at Orangeville on a Grand Chapter visit Victoria Day, and at the week-end participated in the presentation of a gold medal to J. B. Nixon, the veteran Grand Chapter officer. Since Sunday he had complained of a cold, but was able to perform his duties at his home. His secretary, Miss Bird, was at the home ready to take some dictation, when the end came suddenly.

The funeral will take place Saturday afternoon at 2.30 to Prospect Cemetery, and will be under the auspices of St. Alban's Masonic Lodge, of which he was one of the charter members and officers.

Mr. Smith is survived by his widow, who has been in poor health for some time, and two daughters, Mrs. Maude Wright and Mrs. Ellwood Bush, both of Toronto.

BIG DEMAND FOR "HUSKY" HERE AT BOND DRUG STORE

Peterborough People Flock To Get This Medicine As They See Friends Relieved of Stomach Trouble, Indigestion, Constipation, Catarrhal Troubles, Rheumatism, Kidney Ailments, and Other Ills.

MRS. A. E. HAMMOND.

As thousands in Peterborough and vicinity find that "Husky" is just the medicine they needed. Bond's Drug Store is busy all day long supplying the enormous demand for this preparation.

This amazing demand began recently when local people noticed their friends who are using Husky, getting such quick relief from long standing ailments and gaining strength and looking better. They saw for themselves how Husky relieves indigestion, sour stomach, gas, constipation, catarrhal troubles, rheumatism, headaches, nervousness, and kidney ailments. And they noticed how thin, weak and run down persons are gaining weight, feeling stronger and looking better than they have in years.

Mrs. A. E. Hammond, of 313½ Main Street West, Hamilton, writes the following letter:

"I had headaches so bad and so often that they confined me to my bed at least one day out of every week. I would nearly die with these headaches, and I could not even bear a comb in my hair. I also suffered kidney trouble, causing great agony over each kidney. I was languid and had no pep for any thing.

"One time when I was down with the headaches, a friend asked me why I didn't try Husky. So I got a bottle and started right in taking it. The first bottle helped me so much I got another and I still improved, so I got a third, and now I am as well as can be. If anyone feels like I did they should get Husky, for it has absolutely saved me. It is wonderful, but every word of this is the truth as my friends all know."

Everyone who would like to learn more about the Husky treatment is invited to call on the expert from the Husky Laboratories at Bond's Drug Store. His information is free and he wants to explain to everyone how best and quickest results are obtained from the use of this medicine. Call at Bond's to-morrow and ask for the Husky expert. His information has led thousands to find the relief and new health they had been seeking for years.

SEA TRAGEDY IS RECALLED

Empress of Ireland Disaster Remembered By Salvationists.

FIFTEENTH ANNIVERSARY.

TORONTO, May 30. — Poignant memories of one of Canada's greatest tragedies, the sinking of the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Ireland in the early morning of May 29, 1914, were recalled yesterday at the memorial service held at Mount Pleasant Cemetery by the Salvation Army.

Grouped around the rough-hewn stone monument, raised to the 167 Army officers and soldiers who lost their lives in the disaster, Salvationists of Toronto, including nearly a dozen survivors of the disaster, honored in sacred song, prayer and eulogy those comrades who went down with the ill-fated liner. A wreath of remembrance was laid on the memorial by Miss Grace Hanagan, daughter of Band Master and Mrs. Hanagan, who were among those who perished, and who, although only 8 years old at the time was among the survivors.

Old Hymns Sung.

The service conducted by Colonel G. Attwell, was featured by the singing of hymns that had been sung by the Toronto Salvationists at the farewell service held in the Army Temple preceding their leaving Canada on the fatal voyage for the sessions of the International Congress in London, England. "My Faith Looks up to Thee" and "Lead, Kindly Light," were followed by "Precious Thought."Reading the roll call of the survivors, Colonel Attwell expressed gratitude to God for rescue and the protecting care during the fifteen years that have followed the tragedy.

The roll of the survivors included: Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. Attwell, Lieut.-Col. D. McAmmond, Lieut.-Col. Pugmire (now in Japan), Major Turpin of Churchville, Staff-Captain Spooner of Windsor, Staff Captain Wilson, Adjutant Keith of Montreal, Adjt. B. Greenaway of Columbia, S. C., Ensign Green of Peterborough, Mr. and Mrs. T. Greenaway, Mr. and Mrs. F.Brooks, W. Measures, J. Johnson, K. McIntyre (New York), Miss Bales (now Mrs. Shaw), Mr. and Mrs. Delamont, Arthur Delamont, Bandsman J. Fowler, Lieut. Delamont, Mrs. Cook and Miss Grace Hanagan.

TOURISTS HAVE STARTED TO ARRIVE

Advance Guard Has Already Arrived in District.

The advance guard of this season's tourist army is already in the district was the statement given out at three local hotels to-day. Commencing about a week ago the tourists began to trickle in and the number is steadily increasing. "The warm weather will bring them," one hotel proprietor said with a smile.

Cars could be seen going through the city carrying tents and other camp equipment on the side during this week. On the holiday many cars from Toronto and the United States were here.

The news comes down from Buckhorn that several groups of tourists have already located there.

All the hotel men and business men are prophesying the biggest tourist year for this district in history. They point out the good roads as the basis for their assumption. "I don't think there will be any detours on the highways leading to the city this year and this should make a big difference" said on store keeper.

B. C. Man Recommends Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mr. Ed. Holmquist Suffered With Bladder Trouble

Vancouver, B.C., May 29—(Special) —There is no more enthusiastic believer in Dodd's Kidney Pills anywhere than Mr. Edward Holmquist, 6373 Prince Albert St., Vancouver. He writes:—

"I took two boxes of your Dodd's Kidney Pills and I still think that they saved me from an operation. I suffered with bladder trouble and was relieved of my trouble. I will recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to anyone troubled with bladder trouble."

Availing oneself of the best information, the broadest and most practical system of relief in the world to-day, is the one in which the sufferer ascertains for himself the nature of his disease and then chooses the most certain means of healing; this has been known for the past thirty years as the Dodd's Kidney Pill treatment.

Dodd's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys. They have become a family remedy all over the world because people have tried them and found them good.

Scout News

TORONTO, May 30.— Fifty Boy Scouts of Ontario have been chosen to represent the Province at the celebration by Scouts of all the world of the twenty-first "birthday" of Scouting at the International Jamboree to be held in Arrowe Park, Birkenhead, England, from July 31 to Aug. 13. The names of these 50 Scouts of the Province were announced by the Provincial Jamboree Committee yesterday. Each one of these boys is at least a First-Class Scout, and a large proportion of them have attained the high standard of proficiency—King's Scouts.

Canada's Quota 64

Through the personal efforts of Viscount Willingdon as Chief Scout for Canada the sending of 22 Ontario Scouts to the Jamboree with all expenses paid was made possible. These 22, with 42 from other Provinces, will make up Canada's "official quota" of 64 Jamboree Scouts. Through local enterprise the increase of Ontario's delegation to at least 50 has been effected, and for the past ten days the Provincial Jamboree Committee and sub-committees have been busy studying the applications and nominations sent by troops and local associations throughout the Province.

Some months ago, in order to apportion fairly the Viscount Willingdon trips among the Scouts of Ontario, the Provincial Jamboree Committee divided Ontario into fifteen special "Jamboree districts." The first fourteen of these contained approximately 500 Scouts each, and the fifteenth (the district of Toronto) about 4,000 Scouts. From each of the first fourteen it was announced that one Scout would be selected for a free trip to the Jamboree and that eight would be chosen from the district of Toronto. Selections have now been completed in all districts except that of Toronto, and the names of the lucky Scouts chosen to make the Jamboree trip are now made public for the first time.

Know All People

That life's great victories as well as private achievements, are based on the actions of individuals.

(It is the individual soldier who brings victory to the army).

That no community cause can prosper except with the support of every member of the community.

That Peterborough is embarked upon a City Beautiful Crusade—for the delight both of those whose homes are here and those who will return for Old Home Week.

WHEREFORE know ye all that The Examiner and the Horticultural Society have united in common cause against weeds, unsightly lawns, unkempt flower gardens, and barren spots—and they call for recruits in the name of Peterborough The Beautiful.

Beautify Peterboro Campaign

CONDUCTED BY THE EXAMINER

Sign this pledge and bring it to The Examiner Office. You will be given two attractive "Please Keep Off the Lawn" signs, 8" x 6", printed in green.

I will endeavor in all possible and legitimate ways to preserve my lawn; I will check up persons who habitually walk on it; I will care for my lawn regularly so that it will be always attractive; I will not "cut across" any other person's lawn.

ONE FOOT FOREST FOUND.

What is believed to be the most remarkable forest in the world has been found on the west coast of Africa. Although the trunks of the trees are as much as four feet in diameter, they attain the height of only one foot. No tree bears more than two leaves, which attain a length of six feet and breadth of two feet. The forest covers a tableland six miles in width.

PAINTING POSTS

In keeping with their aim to make Peterborough "The City Beautiful," the Utilities Commission are painting their posts on the principal streets. These posts are being painted a green color which harmonizes with leaves and grass. They are painted half way up their length.

Before Old Home Week has swung around every Utility poll on Georg and Charlotte Streets will have been painted and also many of the polls which are prominently located.

FOUNTAINS FOR THIRSTY

Hot and prespiring citizens need no longer go thirsty. Water fountains, of the most modern and sanitary type, have been placed in Confederation Square and in front of the Police Station. The hot weather likely caused the City Fathers to order this to be done, perhaps earlier than they had planned. Be this as it may, workmen were engaged in setting up the fountains this morning and this afternoon pure, cold water was gurling up from them, inviting all who would to drink.

EASTERN GIRLS GO CARAVANING IN GREAT WEST

Gypsy Spirit and Desire To Help Send Out Motor Sunday School.

UNDER ANGLICAN CHURCH.

Each Caravan is a Temporary Summer Home For Two Girls.

TORONTO, Ont., May 30 (Special to The Examiner).—A gipsy spirit and a keen desire to do missionary work in the West have led at least three Toronto girls to leave the heat of the city in summer and follow the roads of the western provinces to help the pioneer farmers there.

These girls go under the auspices of the Sunday School Mission of the Church of England in Canada, which sends out caravans every year from the first of June to September or October. Each caravan is the temporary summer home of two girls, one to teach the people with whom they come in contact, and the other to drive the van. They leave shortly again for their annual gypsying tour.

Miss Dorothy Scott, of Toronto, who went last year for the first time, is an enthusiastic worker, and expects to go this year. The purpose of the caravan workers, she says, is to establish Sunday schools throughout the sparse districts of the western provinces. Where the farmers are scattered too far apart to establish a Sunday school, the van workers enrol the children in Sunday school by mail.

This Sunday school by mail, with its headquarters in Saskatoon, supplies the weekly lesson, as used in the Sunday schools in Toronto. Examinations are set, and sent to these far-away pupils, and the answers are sent back to headquarters, where they are marked and prizes awarded. These lessons are arranged not only for children, Miss Scott says, but also for the grown-up members of the family.

Miss Scott was accompanied by Miss Watson of Penetanguishene and covered the diocese of Saskatchewan from Saskatoon north into the Humbolt district. The other two Toronto girls who also work in the caravans are Miss Doris Miller and Miss Edith Moore.

Bathing Beauty's Complexion Secret

I have now used Kruschen Salts for a long time, and think it wonderful. Everyone tells me how well I look and what a beautiful skin I have. REGULAR MEETING.

The executives of the Life Underwriters' Association of Peterborough have been very fortunate in obtaining as their guest speaker at their regular monthly meeting on Friday night, Bernard Vise, of the Imperial Assurance Company.

Mr. Vise will speak on "Service to Policyholders." He is a chartered life underwriter and president of the $250,000 Club for 1929. For March, 1925, the speaker has a wonderful record. In that month he wrote 166 applications, totalling $213,000. Mr. Vise started to work at 6 a.m., and had his first interview at 8 a.m. He finished his day at midnight and made from fifteen to twenty calls a day, and wrote on the average of two applications an hour. The meeting is called for 6.16 p.m. sharp.

"NO QUARTER" BEING ASKED

Saskatchewan Is Nominating Her Candidates For Coming Election To-day.

ELECTION JUNE 6.

REGINA, Sask., May 30 (C.P.).—"No quarters" is the battle cry of the warring factions in the Saskatchewan general election campaign as names of candidates were officially recorded as nominations to-day. By mid-afternoon, when nominations close, a contest is expected to be assured in every constituency for election day, June 6.

With elections deferred in two remote constituencies, Cumberland and Ile a la Crosse, nominations were being recorded for 61 of the 63 places in the legislature. For weeks it has been the avowed intention of the Liberal government to have candidates in 60 ridings, and government support has been accorded W. Baker, Labor candidate in Moose Jaw.

Leader Almost Mobbed

Rt. Hon. J. Ramsay MacDonald, Labor leader, was almost mobbed by his admirers when he made a tour of the polling stations of his constituency of Seaham, which includes an extensive colliery district. He said he was pleased with Labor's prospects.

Premier Baldwin and Mrs. Baldwin left this morning on a cross-country journey to vote at Ellesborough in Aylesbury Division, Buckinghamshire.

In making a tour of the Liberal committee rooms in his constituency of Carnarvon district, Wales, Hon. David Lloyd George was given a tremendous reception as he drove along in his decorated motor car.

Riding in an old stage coach, drawn by four horses, Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Home Secretary, started his final tour of his division, Twickenham, Middlesex. He was accompanied by his wife and daughter.

Busy scenes marked the early hours of polling throughout the country. In the ten divisions of Liverpool hundreds of Catholics who had been at Mass on the Feast of Corpus Christi waited for the polling stations to open.

Large Roots Of Elm Trees Being Found In Excavation Work On Gilmour Street

Evidence of the days when this city's most beautiful residential streets were woods of tall elm and maples was brought to light when two large roots were found in the middle of Gilmour street yesterday. The men engaged in plowing this street in preparation for paving came upon these relics of a former natural grandeur.

The roots were firmly embeddd just beneath the surface over which horses, wagons and countless automobiles have run for the past thirty years or more. They were removed with difficulty. Ropes were attached to them and the big steam roller pulling on the ropes, puffed, grunted and jolted for a few minutes with the strain, then up came those long-hidden tendrils of a former forest giant.

The largest root measured 18 feet by 15 and the smaller 15 by 12. Both were elm.

EDWARD TAPP 92 YEARS OLD

Aged Glanmire Resident Recalls Many Recollections of Pioneer Days.

HAS GOOD EYESIGHT.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, May 30. — Edward Tapp of Glanmire, who celebrates his ninety-second birthday to-day, is still going strong and able to maintain the liveliest interest in current events.

Few of his years have such lively recollections of the past and are able to follow the trend of present events as this grand old veteran, concerning whom interesting facts appeared in The Examiner on the occasion of his last birthday.

Coming out from London, England, as a young man, he has been happy and content for seventy years of that long life to be known as a son of the soil, and has no regret that he never descended a mine or made an aerial ascent. Without the use of glasses he still is able to scan the newspaper page to discover for himself what is going on elsewhere, and his hearing is exceptionally good.

A.Y.P.A. ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

Lakefield Branch Closes Most Successful Year In Its History.

BALANCE SHOWN.

LAKEFIELD, May 30 (Examiner Correspondence).—The closing business meeting and election of officers of St. John's branch of the A.Y.P.A. took place on Monday evening, with a fair attendance of members present.

The statement of the treasurer, Mr. E. J. Robertshaw, showed a good balance in hand, the income for the year was derived largely from the proceeds of the weekly euchre parties, fees and donations. During the year the society has paid for the light and heat and repairs of the parish hall, paid the church's share toward the new fence at the Rectory, given $30 toward the church debt reduction fund. The branch also will bear its share of the expenses of the Church Army Crusaders, who will visit the parish shortly.

It was also decided to put in a better ventilating system in the hall which will be paid for by the branch.

The election of officers followed and resulted as follows: Patron, Rev. W. J. Creighton; President, Walter Chappell; Vice-President, Lawrence Charlton; Secretary, Mrs. Mendal Smith; Treasurer, Ernest Robertshaw; Property Committee, Miss Amy Watson, Mrs. Stenner, Mr. Milford Hampton; Lookout Committee, Milford Hampton, convenor; Visiting Committee, Mrs. Mahood and Mrs. Stenner; Dramatic Committee, Mendal Smith, convenor; Executive Committee, Misses Grace Watson, Mae Mahood, Verna Payne, Winnie Payne and C. C. Stenner.

A hearty vote of thanks was given the retiring officers, and in reply Mr. Chappell thanked the members for the support given during the past year and bespoke the same co-operation of officers and members for the coming year.

"A very pleasing contralto solo was sung at First United Church, Lindsay, on Sunday evening by Mrs. Burrows of Lakefield. It will be remembered that Mrs. Burrows' last appearance in Lindsay was with the Peterborough Male Voice Choir, when she was on the program as one of the assisting artists."—Lindsay Post.

SOCIAL CLASS IS PROGRESSING

Miss Hopkins Gives Pupils Demonstration On Cooking of Meals.

WARSAW NEWS.

WARSAW, May 20 (Examiner Correspondence).—Miss Hopkins held the second coaching class this season on Monday afternoon. Last Monday she gave the girls the theory of her subjects, and on Monday she gave them questions on her lesson. She had menus for each meal for three days. The class was asked to place each day's menu, according to its food value, balance for each individual meal, balance for the day, suitability to season, and farm resources, and attractiveness.

Some points to remember are that too heavy a meal is more injurious than too light a one. Cooked cereals, oats in Winter and wheat in Summer, are preferable to prepared cereals.

Another test was on a workroom kitchen, one in which there was no provision for eating. The points to be considered are size, doors and windows, shape of room, equipment and arrangement of equipment.

Charts were given of four kitchens, some too large, some short of equipment, too dark, no outside door. None were perfect, and one was glaringly wrong. In giving their placings, the girls had to give reasons.

The county girls' wardrobe was very interesting and the girls judged it quite well.

There was some amusement judging the outfits worn by the four ladies in the dress parade. Only one of them knew they were wanted for this parade, or to be dressed to walk to church on Sunday morning. One came without a hat.

The living room charts were rather difficult; one was too dark and oppressive looking; another was too cold; the other two were hard to choose between.

The competition is to be held in Lakefield on June 20. There is an entry fee of twenty-five cents.

Those who wish to enter the competition at Peterborough Fair must leave their names and fifty cents with Mr. Nelson by August 13. The fifty cents gives one admission to the fair and a reserved seat on the grandstand.

In come counties there are cups given as well as the money prizes.

WOMAN IS FOUND FLOATING IN CANAL

Screams Draw Attention of Mate on Nearby Steamer.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., May 30.—(Canadian Press).—A woman's scream heard by the tender of lock 7, Welland Canal at 11 o'clock last night calling the attention of the mate of the Steamer Winona in the lock, the boat's searchlight was swung about, revealing the body of a woman floating in the level below.

She was quickly rescued but resuscitation efforts were unavailing. Late this morning the body had not been identified. The woman was about 35 years of age, 5 feet 4 inches tall, dark brown hair and brown eyes. Coroner Currey believes it to be a case of suicide.

HONKING HORNS

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir.—There is a custom in this burg that is not in any other town or village in the world, viz., of drawing up before a house and blowing a horn as a notice to somebody inside. It is often a serious thing for sick people nearby and I would ask the police to stop it at once. That evil, selfish habit and filling the air with sidewalk sweepings in the mornings about 9 o'clock is the limit. Why is it allowed? What are our officers paid for?

YOUNG PEOPLE HOLD MEETING

Literary and Social Committee Has Charge of Weekly Program.

AT MILLBROOK.

MILLBROOK, May 30.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The literary and social committee had charge of the weekly meeting of the Young People's Society on Monday evening, the convenor, Miss Jean L. Burnham, being in charge.

The program was patriotic in character, the chief feature being a set of sixty slides on "The Wonders of the World," which carried the large audience over practically the entire globe giving views of beauty spots in nature, in architecture, and in art, as well as some of the wonders of plant and animal life, the explanatory lecture material being given by the vice-president who occupied the chair.

Jack Stinson contributed a patriotic reading, and the hymns carried out the topic being emphasied.

The president, B. B. Dawson, for charge of the business period, when it was decided to close the regular gatherings until fall, but to plan for at least two picnic outings during the holiday months. The executive will meet to arrange dates and details, and announcement will be made from the pulpit, and in the local press.

The young people began their organization last October, and the weekly meetings, and the various activities undertaken, have been highly successful under the able presidency of Mr. Dawson, and his staff of faithful officers. Two outstanding events during recent months have been the banquet where covers were laid for approximately one hundred guests, and when G. H. Holton, of Belleville, President of the Bay of Quinte Conference Y.P.S., was the chief speaker; and the play, "O-Kay", given in the Town Hall about ten days ago, when a capacity audience greeted the dramatic club who presented so successfully this three-act comedy.

Later the teachers and those helping to serve were entertained in the kindergarten room by the president, Mrs. Karl Simpson, when ice cream and cake were served and a social half hour spent.

Don't "Drive" Your Car to Old Age

PERHAPS your car has been "broken in" —and perhaps you bought it second hand—in either case its lubrication deserves the same attention as that of a new car. When you pass the six thousand mile mark, the car requires the same lubrication as when it registered half that distance.

To stop giving your car regular greasing service is just inviting repair bills and an early old age. Regular greasing service is cheaper by far than irregular towing service. Don't let your car grow old in one season—form the habit of having the grease in your differential and transmission changed every 3,000 miles. Your dealer sells and recommends "WHIZ" GEAR GREASE for this summer's driving. 103

SCHOOL WORK DONE BY I.O.D.E. SHOWS PROGRESS IN DOMINION

Most Popular Pictures Presented Are of Royal Family.

EDUCATION GIVEN.

Soldiers' Children Are Assisted By Many Chapters and Primaries.

Victoria, B. C., May 30 (By The Canadian Press).—The most popular of the British and historical portraits being placed in Canadian schools by the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire are those of the royal family, and especially of the Prince of Wales, it was noted in the report on national education presented to the order's convention to-day. Great progress was made throughout the dominion with the Order's policy of placing these pictures, library sets of varying size and many other useful gifts in the schools, and especially in the rural schools where they are needed most, the report said.

Concerning help with the education of soldier's children, the report said: "The work seems to be carried on chiefly by the Municipal Chapters of Hamilton, London, Montreal, Ottawa, Quebec, St. John, Toronto and Victoria, or by Primary Chapters under their jurisdiction. Some of these Municipal Chapters have a central fund, to which the various Primary Chapters contribute; in St. John each Chapter gives forty cents a week. From this central fund help is given to various boys and girls whose cases are reported to a central committee, and who are visited by representatives of Primary Chapters. In other individual Chapters take charge of individual cases as "wards of the Chapter.

"Hamilton has helped to send 14 children to school at a cost of $100 each, six to the Collegiate Institute, five to the High School of Commerce, two to Business College, one to the Technical School. The Municipal Chapter of London gave ten dollars a month to each of the two girls at the Collegiate Institute. In the report from the Province of Quebec all the soldiers' children helped, most of whom are looked after by the Montreal Chapters, are grouped together. During the year 37 soldiers children were helped to go to High School, at an average cost of $265.82 at Business College, at average cost of $41.75, one at Shawbridge, learning a trade, at a cost of $156, one at McGill University, at a cost of $150. In Ottawa 21 children have been helped during the year; the cost is not stated; formerly a certain amount was given each year to each child; now the assistance varies. In Saint John money from the central fund kept the same boy, Angus Cameron, at High School, where he has led the class for the city In Toronto 49 children were helped, 12 at Collegiate Institutes, at an average cost of about $60, 9 at Technical School at an average cost of about $300, 5 at Business College at an average cost of $90, 8 at Commercial schools at an average cost of $23, 2 at the High School of Commerce, at an average cost of $15, 4 at High School, at an average cost of $43; there are also 3 at public school at an average cost of about $60, and one at a cost of $100, while one Chapter pays for its "ward" at the College Hospital, looking after her completely at a cost of $373. In Victoria, 10 soldiers' children have been helped, 7 attending High School, one Normal School, one Business College, one the University Summer School; the average cost is about $70.

"In addition to these, a number of Chapters have given amounts varying from $11.50 to $250, and the help given has varied from providing books and transportation to school to paying fees at night school, or giving courses in music, painting, nursing, occupational therapy.

"In three Provinces no action has been necessary on the part of the Chapters; in Saskatchewan the Provincial Government educates soldiers' children at a cost of $240 a year; in Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island a survey made by the Chapters revealed no need at present for such help.

"Helping to educate the children of soldiers has led various Chapters to help other children. The largest reported gift to an individual was that of St. Dunstan's Chapter, which gave $200 for a boy's musical education. Other help ranges from an allowance of $12 monthly to clothing. Five New Brunswick Chapters by gifts of shoes and other clothing made it possible for the children in 48 families to go to school. The most specific Provincial report of money spent in this work comes from Quebec, where 11 boys and girls were helped in High Schools at an average of $44, one child at Business College at a cost of $100, and 24 children at various kinds of schools or in other training at an average cost of $50.

"The largest of scholarships is one of $300 given by a Toronto chapter and that of $250 given annually by the Tan-nis-uk Chapter to the best student in Grade XI or XII in Calgary whose father served overseas; this year it was won by Thomas Baker. Three othe scholarships are reported in Alberta. In British Columbia three scholarships of $50 are reported. In Manitoba the Teck Chapter gives the "Ethel M. Kerr Memorial Scholarship" in Grade XI. of the value of $25. In New Brunswick three scholarships of $50 are given, among others. In Ontario, besides the $300 scholarship already mentioned, a $25 scholarship is reported as given by a Toronto chapter and bursaries in occupational therapy to soldiers to a total of $575. Twenty-five dollar scholarships are reported from St. Catharines and London, and eight other chapters in the province are reported as giving scholarships ranging from $20 to $80. In Quebec four scholarships have been given, of the value of $15, $50, $279 and $187 respectively, while the Provincial Chapter has established two Bursaries in the two Agricultural Colleges of the province. In Saskatchewan the Battleford Chapter gives a $75 scholarchip for a course at Normal School, the Captain Mr. Nair Chapter gives one of $50, the Governor Laird Chapter two of $25, and the Victoria Chapter one of $20."

I.O.D.E. BALANCE $482,265

War Memorial Fund Increased By $8,500 During the Year.

Victoria, B. C., May 30.—(By The Canadian Press)—An excess of $6,174 in receipts during the past year over disbursements was reported to the national convention of the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire, to-day. This results in a balance as of April 15 last of $482,265.

Practically all of the balance—$460,911 to be exact—is accounted for by the war memorial fund. This in itself was increased by $8,500 during the past year. War Memorial Fund receipts were $32,101 and disbursements $23,500. For the whole organization receipts were $66,363 and disbursements $60,189.

MISSIONARIES ARE UNABLE TO LEAVE

Chinese Troops Destroy Railroads, Report States.

SHANGHAI, May 30.—(Canadian Press).—The Canadian church mission representative at Kweiteh, Honan, writing from Suchowan, Anhwei, under date of May 22, said fifty foreign missionaries were unable to evacuate the area likely to be affected by the impending Chinese civil war since General Feng Yu-Hsiang had destroyed the Lunghai railway. An overland trip out was being considered.

These missionaries, the letter stated, included 25 American and British at Kaifeng, and six at Chengchow. He said Feng's soldiers virtually wrecked Lunghai, destroying telephone and telegraph lines. They also tore up the railroad lines destroying the switch frogs which are not replaceable in this country.

The country was said to be full of Feng's soldiers who, however, were doing little fighting.

MARION'S MAIL

Address correspondence to Marion at The Examiner Office.

Dear Marion:

"I really am ashamed for not writing you and thanking you for the pattern I received some time ago. I am sending coin for another pattern for my little boy, and thank you ever so much.

I haven't neglected reading your Whatnot or the letters. I think they are just splendid. Well Marion, the country is just lovely now, we are having lovely weather just now. I was wondering if you have any more of the little girl's seleveless frocks left? If not, don't bother, I am making her some of the other helps."

Yours sincerely,
"Tinnia".

Thank you for your letter, "Tinnia". I'm glad the pattern turned out well. Yes, the country is beautiful—I was out on May 24th and thoroughly enjoyed my trip.

Dear Marion:

"It is a long time since last I wrote to you, but I read your page every night, and enjoy the neighbors letters so much, especially those by 'Quid Est'. Her letters are always so interesting and your Whatnots just the thing, no matter what the subject is that you write about, you certainly are a very clever person, one just feels that it would be a treat to have a good conversation with you.

The reason for the choice of my pen name was, I am of Scotch descent, and was called nothing else but Mack for years.

"It is just lovely at present to watch all the flowers, etc., coming up in the garden. As a child I lived in a large city, nothing but bricks and morter, and so knew nothing of the joys of gardening, and yet, out here, where every one could have a little garden of her own, so many seem to take no interest. I suppose the mothers feel they cannot be bothered, and yet, am sure it would keep the children out of mischief and help to pass many pleasant hours, what say you?

Here is a nice salad. Pineapple and Pimento salad: Two cups of chopped pineapple, one cup diced celery and two cups chopped red pimentos, Mix with mayonnise and serve on lettuce.

"Could any of the neighbors tell me how to keep lemons for a time?

"Hoping that you had a good time the Twenty-fourth."

Yours sincerely,
MACK.

Thank you for your appreciation, "Mack". I think your idea of gardening with the children is just splendid. There's nothing better for a child, I fancy. Thanks, too, for your salad recipe.

Dear Marion:

"As I have been a fervent reader of your page ever since it started I have decided to write to your club. I am starting to send in a few helps and hints which I hope will be successful to the members. I have saved every hint, help recipe, etc., and have pasted them into a book.

"I would like to get some recipes for preserving rhubarb and to make my flowers grow, which are geraniums, and to make them bloom. I see "Bashful Bride" sent in a help for making plants bloom, using Epsom salts, I wonder if she could tell me how to use it?

I would love if anybody could send me a few slips of house plants as we can't keep them in winter. It doesn't matter what kind they are. I love flowers but can't get them.

"Well I guess this is all for now as my letter is getting long."

One of your new members
MIKE.

We're glad to welcome you to the neighborly circle, "Mike", and I hope you come often. I'm sure you'll enjoy it, the neighbors are so pleasant. Just wait till you see the answers to your questions.

That Body of Yours

(By Jas. W. Barton, M.D.)

CURING STOMACH ULCERS

I find myself writing often about ulcer of the stomach and of first part of small intestine, that is the part into which the food passes from the stomach.

My reason for this is that many individuals are suffering from a small ulcer and are treating it as "indigestion."

Now my first suggestion is that these folks should see a doctor because his experience will enable him to diagnose an ulcer, as he will not only use test meals but also have an X-ray or barium meal taken. If there is an ulcer he will likely put thep atient on a soft diet and then use alkalies after each meal for a number of weeks. He will perhaps have the patient rest for a few days and will put him on a diet of liquids or semi-solid foods such as soups, soft boiled eggs, smooth cereal with milk or cream.

However if the ulcer is severe the patient is put to bed and what is known as the Sippy treatment is often used.

There have been changes made, or variations of this treatment, but the main thought is soft food and alkaline powders. There are just four points to watch. First that the patient rests quietly in bed; second that he gets his milk cream mixure practically every hour from 7 o'clock in the morning until 7 o'clock in the evening; third that he gets his alkaline powder ½ hour after every milk cream feeding, starting at 7.30 o'clock in the morning until 8.30 o'clock in the evening, with an hour's rest from them between 11.30 o'clock and 1.30 o'clock. This powder is a combination of carbonate of lime and baking soda; fourth that the stomach contents are removed at 9.30 o'clock in the evening.

You can readily see that this requires a lot of patience on the part of the physician and patient but has been the means of healing many ulcers. The thought then is that if you have "indigestion" regularly, that you do not try to take "home treatment" but consult your doctor as to the possibility of ulcer. Early medical treatment as above, will not only help to heal the ulcer but will give you relief from pain, and may prevent the need of an operation.

SOCIAL LIGHTHOUSE

LONDON, May 30.—American visitors to England this year can be assured that they will not get in with the wrong set of people. A social bureau has been formed by Cedric Alexander, nephew of Lord Cork, at which all the niceties of English society will be explained. Correct attire, proper publicity and social advice will be dispensed by some of the greatest social heads of England.

A Lover's Quarrel

By LEETE STONE

A lover's quarrel in the moonlight by a white gate had sent Ezra Hopkins away from Spoonville and had kept Sally Lathrop there. The man, having an income, drifted several times around the world, stopping a year or so wherever his aimless fancy dictated. The woman, having a living to earn, continued for fifteeen years to teach the juveniles of Spoonville the elements of almost everything.

There are not many towns like Spoonville left in New England; tiny, peaceful hamlets boasting a single, wide street lined with rows of graceful vase elms, stately maples, and low-built ivy-clad houses. Spoonville lies five miles from the railroad town of Ransom; and for twenty-five years there has been talk of putting a trolley line through; but it always has been and always will be merely talk.

At forty, after years of well-bred vagrancy, it was inevitable that Ezra Hopkins should be drawn back to his cottage, nestling behind an aged tamarack in Spoonville. The house, like himself, was sadly the worse for lack of being lived in. That was the trouble with Ezra. No guiding purpose had lived within him since he left Sally Lathrop's white, moon-lit gate the night of the quarrel. The roof of his cottage was quite as much in need of shingling as the top of Ezra's head was in need of hair.

One April night found him walking the highroad between Ransom and Spoonville. There were two Fords at the railroad station, both anxious for a passenger; but the cool spring-tonic air inspired walking, and, being a confirmed traveler, Ezra carried only the lightest type of overnight bag. His trunk could be sent over in the morning.

During all the weeks since the Spoonville home urge had sought him out in Shanghai, Ezra Hopkins had persistently refused to admit that a compelling desire to see Sally Lathrop again had anything to do with his return. She would be married, of course, the center of a thriving family. Hadn't Jimmy Vollens always been sweet on her?

Walking briskly now through familiar aisles, he reflected that the time had come for him to settle down; to cease roaming. There was a thrill in the thought of that old lea her chair he recalled; settling down in it before the bright glow of his smoke-grimed fireplace, an old-time student lamp at his elbow, and reading over again "The Anatomy of Melancholy."

While Ezra had changed, grown bald and a bit portly, Spoonville remained the same. He realized it keenly when he stepped into the post office next morning to speak to Perkins McCabe, postmaster, whose well-remembered grey chin scruff had turned a trifle whiter.

"Well, Ezry—bin away quite a spell, ain't you? Might a' brought us a better day, eh? . . Godfrey? . . . Winds in the nor'east! Storm may last another day, Ezry. Guess you won't plant any peas to-day!"

Cold it was, with a bitter, driving rain, and just as Ezra entered the post office he had heard a resounding thwack in the green little park at the head of the street. Glancing over, he saw that the wind in relentless and ironic fury had blown down the Spoonville wooden War Memorial Tablet with its twelve black painted names.

"Yes, it's sure some storm, Perk," Ezra said, "and I see it's just torn over the Town Tablet."

"Gosh!" said Perkins in dismay, peering out the rain-sloshed window. "Sure 'nough! Well, I told the Selectmen those posts should a' bin set in see-ment."

By covert means Ezra soon learned that Sally had not married; that she was off visiting her sister in New York after an illness, and that a substitute was teaching for her meanwhile.

This knowledge made his heart leap strangely. Ah; but then Youth, Romance and Dancing Blood—all had simmered down to the mere wish for security and peace. The same with Sally, he felt sure. And, no doubt, she hated him still for the adventure he could not explain that night so long ago. Yes, it had been his fault. His to suffer, now and always.

Nevertheless, Ezra threw himself zestfully into the rehabilitation of his run-down cottage in the faint hope that during the long winter of teaching, Sally would now and again stop by of an evening and chat with him before his fire. Naturally Spoonville would talk about that; but who cared?

Ezra, recently jaded and world weary, helped the carpenters shingle the roof and tear out a partition, making the living room larger and more inviting, worked with the paper-hangers, and did a myriad little jobs about the house to make it more livable and more in tune with the tastes he had acquired in roaming the world.

Ezra Hopkins did not dare go to meet Sally Lathrop at Ransom Station the May day she was due to return. He decided to defer his greeting until they chanced to meet on Spoonville streets.

It happened that Sally was just in front of him at the post office turn next morning; the same serene, sweet Sally with a broad band of silver in her thick, close-cropped hair.

"Hello, Ezra! Nice to see you home again!"

"I say, Sally—will you—have you—er—d'you think—".

Sally cut in severely:

"Ezra—please! The post office window is open. They'll be waiting to catch our every word—" She gave him a long indescribable glance. "But you may walk to the schoolhouse with me afterwards if you like."

B. C. EGG INDUSTRY IS NOW IN BAD WAY

Aid of Farmers Invoked to Save Omelets on West Coast.

(By Paul Pedley—Special to The Examiner).

VANCOUVER, B.C., May 30.—The omelets of the west coast are in danger and the farmers of the open spaces have been appealed to for aid.

When the Saskatchewan Grain Commission came to the shores of the Pacific from the middle west, a day was devoted to hearing the tribulations of the coastal poultry industry and the handicaps which the egg industry faces.

Feed is high-priced and unless some way is devised of cutting the costs of coarse grains, the hens of the Fraser River Valley may go hungry. The feed comes from the prairies and freight rates are given as the crux of the situation.

Saskatchewan farmers get 50 cents a bushel for feed at the elevators, it was stated to the Commission, but the poultry producer pays nearly $2 for the same commodity. Unless the spread for hauling and handling can be reduced, the poultry ranches will be forced into the discard, it is asserted.

Many agriculturists deserted the level wheat-fields for the beauty of mountain scenery. Now, they declare, they wish they were back on the prairies. In the meantime, they and their poultry raising neighbors are calling upon the mid-westerner for help in their campaign for cheaper fodder for the egg producers.

SUNSHINE builds strong, sturdy bodies! Everywhere physicians are urging "more sunshine" for young and old. Now a scientist finds a way to pass on to you the needed "sun vitamin" in the whole wheat biscuit . . . Muffets.

A "ribbon" of cooked whole wheat wound 'round and 'round and toasted to a brown crispness . . . that's a Muffet. Eaten with sugar and cream . . . berries or fruit added . . . Um-m-m! What a breakfast!

The "dash of sunshine" in Muffets is put there by irradiating this cereal with Ultra-Violet Rays. Taste and appearance are unchanged. The process is that developed by Professor Steenbock of the University of Wisconsin and acclaimed by nutritionists as the most important health discovery of the day.

Vitamin "D" — the "sunshine vitamin" — enables the body to build hard teeth, strong bones. Children need plenty of sunlight, or Vitamin "D" from other sources, to be well-developed physically. Adults likewise need plenty of the "sun vitamin". The lowered vitality you feel at the end of the dark winter months is due in part, say authorities, to "sunshine starvation." So hard is it to get sufficient "sunshine" that health authorities have long sought a way to increase the daily supply.

Now a way has been found. Begin tomorrow to enjoy this new source of "sunshine." Ask the grocer for irradiated Muffets. There is no increase in price.

This whole-wheat biscuit brings the needed health vitamin of sunshine.

All Muffets are Irradiated

All Muffets on your grocer's shelves have been irradiated, whether so stated on the package or not. There are two Muffets packages, but only one kind of Muffets—in every package the same irradiation, the same quality, the same wholesomeness of the whole wheat.

How to keep silverplate looking like new

I find that however carefully silverware is washed, it invariably retains a slight film of grease. And this must be entirely removed before the silverware can be polished properly.

To remove this grease wash all the silverware in very hot Princess Soap Flakes suds—they cannot be too hot. Rather than subject your hands to this very hot water, use a small dish mop for washing and lift out the separate pieces with a wooden spoon or fork. After washing, dry thoroughly. Then polish with fine silver-plate powder. For this purpose use two chamois leathers—one to apply the powder and the other to give the first polish. Following this, rinse off the powder with a very soft clean cloth.

I use the above method only for occasional cleaning—when the shine of the silverplate is becoming dimmed. Ordinarily, I make this high polish last as long as possible by simply washing the silver in fresh hot water and Princess Soap Flakes. Princess Flakes do not contain any harsh ingredients which might cause tiny scratches on the silverplate. And they are the most efficient soap I have yet discovered for removing all traces of grease.

Using Princess Flakes regularly I find reduces the number of special polishes necessary to keep silverware sparkling and clean.

Forks or spoons which have become blackened with egg stains, may be cleaned by dipping them for three or four minutes in an aluminum saucepan filled with boiling water.

I keep handy in a drawer a stock of soft cloths which I have previously dipped in liquid ammonia and then allowed to dry, and quite often after washing and drying my silverware, I give it a rub with one of these cloths to restore the polish.

There is nothing more gentle for cleaning than Princess Soap Flakes—or more effective. I use them for all my household washing tasks—dishes, floors, woodwork, and the family washing. Princess Flakes won't harm anything which will stand plain, tepid water and they will never give you red hands.

As Home Economics Counselor, I have thoroughly tested Princess Soap Flakes. I would like you to try these flakes which I so often mention in this column. Just write me at 64 Natalie St., Toronto 8, Ont., enclosing 4c in stamps, and I will see that you receive a free trial package. I will also be glad to help you with any of your washing problems.

Keep a clean refrigerator

Because the refrigerator is entrusted with the preservation of your family's food, it must be carefully guarded against any possible contamination. Refrigerators should be washed at least once a week with hot water and soap. You will be quite safe in using Princess Soap Flakes, because they are absolutely odourless. They do not contain any harmful chemicals and they really do clean.

Use Princess Soap Flakes for Washing your daintiest garments

This big yellow package of Princess Flakes is brim full of PURE SOAP. It does not contain any cheap chemical filler to make the package larger or any harmful free caustic. Princess Flakes are economical, too. A few of these pure soap flakes go so much farther than ordinary "filled" chips.

Guarantee

Palmolive guarantee to replace any washable garment which, by reason of its having been washed with Princess Soap Flakes, has been damaged in texture or its colour made to run, provided such garment has been washed in accordance with instructions. We suggest that you test garments in plain, tepid water to make sure they are washable, and that the colour won't run.

A presentation to Mrs. B. Heron, who is leaving the city in the near future to join her husband in Guelph, was made at the meeting of the Cheerful Workers' Class of St. James' Church, held this week at the home of Mrs. H. Refreshments were then served, under the convenorship of Mrs. Johnson, and a pleasant evening was brought to a close by the singing of "Blest be the tie that binds," by the sixty guests present.

A Column for Little Bits of Everything of Interest to Women Readers

Conducted by Marion (Copyright)

IN A letter which I received a few days ago, a correspondent in her teens asks about careers open to women, and for advice as to what she should take up. The subject is likely to be of so general interest that I will make it the text of this article.

Only generalities can be given, of course, because, like most other vital things in life, the choice depends upon the individual—her capabilities, her interests, and her personality.

If one were to ask you what fields of employment are open to women, you could recall scores—there are women chemists, operators of tea rooms, designers, artists, doctors, dentists, preachers, shoppers, accountants, printers, airplane pilots, proprietors of innumerable kinds of stores, managers of factories, and bureau secretaries. Then there are the more usual nurses, clerks, and stenographers In fact, one is ALMOST right in saying that woman has equal chances with men in the business and professional world to-day.

A couple of decades ago it was easy to choose. The choice was SO limited. Men had the monopoly on everything except nursing and stenography, and I more than suspect the only reason they left these open to US was because they didn't fancy such pursuits for themselves—or liked to have us around during working hours and when they were sick.

It is more difficult to decide, to-day, what one is to do with the talents one has. The important thing is to make up one's mind that they shall not be buried.

Probably it is well to start a dixcussion of woman's job with a consideration of woman's natural gifts—home-making, artistic sense, tact, and ability to stay with a job till it is done.

The home-making trait has led many women to success in many fields—Blanche Geary, director of the economic bureau of the United States National Board of the Y.W.C.A. is a case in point. Her mission in life is wholesome home-making. She lectures, works, and hopes for better housing and living conditions for everybody, especially professional and business girls and women. She started in the London tenement district, and crossed the ocean to manage a model tenements company in New York. Now she is in charge of hundreds of cafeterias, feeding millions of women.

This home-making urge has led other women into advertising, where their interest and knowledge give the advertisements they produce the authenticity and appeal that make advertising successful.

It has made still others teachers of home economics and dietetics, managers of public kitchens, proprietors of home-like hotels, and directors of equipment testing bureaus.

Woman's artistic sense has made her the interior decorator par excellence. Many women find lucrative and enjoyable employment in directing, planning, and carrying out schemes of interior decoration. This same ability makes women successful as needlework experts, dress, textile, wallpaper and floor-covering designers; operators of beauty parlors; milliners and dressmakers.

To her tact, many a woman owes her success as secretary and shopper. The latter appeals to many because of its variety, but is useful only in densely-populated centres. One shopper I knew said she got her greatest delight through satisfying a customer who didn't know what she wanted—and that takes both knowledge of human nature AND tact!

In everything to which she turns her hand, woman is helped by her "staying power". I think men are more apt to become discouraged when things don't come just right first time they try. If a man, making a table, isn't satisfied with the result, he'll throw it aside to be used in the cellar or for firewood; but a woman, making a dress, will painstakingly rip and sew, and sew and rip, till it comes right.

And that is something which every girl contemplating a career requires—the ability to stick with it. Nothing worth having comes easy. There is a lot of preliminary study required for the best of jobs, and the least interesting can be made worth while by attention and consideration.

Merely doing a task will never get anyone—woman or man—anywhere worth—reaching. One must look ahead, and prepare for the job next in line, if one is to progress.

The way to gain success is to deserve it. No matter if you are going in for nursing, or home making, or chemistry, or whatnot—be worthy of success and you cannot fail.

Disraeli declared: "Success is the child of Audacity", and certainly timidity will never beget it. Determine your life-work—and then go to it.

* * *

And good luck will follow, as it usually does, in the steps of endeavour.

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG, That old and antique song we heard, last night.

I'LL THINK OF MY MOTHER AT HOME

Oh, give me again those bright days of yore,
And the dear land where I was born!
And the bright little home with ivy covered o'er,
Where I left dear old mother alone.
That parting so sad I will never forget,
Where'er on the earth I may roam:
When I'm happy to-night by my fireside so bright,
I will think of my mother at home.

Chorus:

Then where'er I may be, on land or the sea,
Where'er o'er the earth I may roam.
She watched me with care, may God bless her gray hair,
I'll think of my mother at home.

I ne'er shall forget the last words she said,
As I kissed her that fond, sweet good-bye!
She cried: My dear son, my life's race is done,
If you leave me in sorrow, I'll die.
Who'll watch o'er with care those poor withered gray hairs,
While far from your mother you roam?
May the God up above, in His mercy and love,
Bring you back to your mother at home.

A letter she wrote me a short time ago,
And the words in my memory remain:
She said: My dear boy, my last hour is nigh.
And I'm longing to see you again.
Your father is dead, and he lies 'neath the trees,
Where you in your childhood did roam;
Oh, to see you again, it would free me from pain,
Then come back to your mother at home!

CANADA WILL ACT AGAINST RUM EXPORT

United States' Sincerity in Border Problem Is Questioned.

CO-OPERATION NECESSARY.

Statement of Minister of National Revenue Puts Subject in New Light.

By James A. Cowan

OTTAWA, May 30.—That Canada will, at the present time, do anything further towards closing her borders to outgoing rum shipments headed for the United States, seems scarcely likely

There has been recently, a very noticeable crystallization of opinion among Canadians, followed by an exceedingly frank and quite clear-cut expression of opinion on the part of the Federal Cabinet Minister most directly concerned, Hon. W. D. Euler.

Mr. Euler, in fact, rather startled the Canadian House of Commons by stating quite bluntly that he had investigated the matter at first hand and adding that he was forced, oy facts, to question American sincerity regarding the enforcement of the Volstead Act.

In brief, Hon. Mr. Euler takes this stand: Canada has already granted sufficient concessions to enable the United States to control the illicit traffic. If she refused clearance papers to liquor shipments, this would in no way halt the flow. It would simply divert it to secret channels. At the present time, American officials are informed of all movements. Refusal of papers would deprive them of this knowledge. Finally, the reports of Canadian government observers on the border have convinced the Minister that there is collusion between the rum-runner and the men who are supposedly out to get them.

That the situation did not call for additional action until the government had "more convincing proof that our neighbors are sincerely doing all they can to help themselves", were Hon. Mr. Euler's final words. This, till some later declaration from government sources, can be considered as the Dominion of Canada's policy.

Urge Regulations

What gives the remarks of Hon. Mr. Euler particular significance just at this moment is the fact that almost exactly three years ago, during another parliamentary debate over the border booze situation, the Commons went on record as urging that "as soon as possible, regulations be passed to prohibit clearances being granted to vessels carrying liquor as cargo, sailing from a Canadian port to a United States port." Involved in a customs' scandal of its own at that time, it was only by concurrence with this attitude that the government was able to live.

Now comes a very emphatic volte face and Hon. Mr. Euler's point blank statement apparently has behind it a great weight of Canadian public opinion. Even sections of the press opposed to the Minister politically show a tendency to uphold his general stand.

Could Do More

The belief that United States officials could do more than they now are to stop the influx of rum shipments has, as the Minister emphasized, had much to do with the change. Supplementing this, there is the fact that, only a few years ago, conditions were reversed. Canada had war-time prohibition and the United States was wet. During that period, large shipments of liquor entered the Dominion, contrary to Canadian laws, and little, if any, effort was put forward by American authorities to stop them.

The expenditures involved have also received consideration. Why a smaller national should shoulder costs in connection with the laws of another and larger one is a point which constantly crops up in the Canadian argument on the case.

American magazines and newspapers, of course, circulate freely through all parts of Canada and these, with their stories of gangland, enforcement laxity, illicit operations of breweries and distilleries, speakeasies by the thousand and various methods of evading the Volstead law have all done their bit to convince the Canadians that the amendment is being flouted, fairly openly and quite successfully, in its own bailiwick. He is not disposed to take a hand in it, especially since, in most provinces, government control of liquor has ousted prohibition and he has a feeling that such a move would be more or less of a reflection on the wisdom of his own laws.

Proposals at Washington to erect higher tariff barriers against Canadian as well as other imports, also play, if indirectly, some part in the affair. That an American government should ask for outside assistance in domestic law enforcement and, at the same time, be contemplating action to restrict Canadian trade, does not improve the situation from the Canadian point of view.

Hon. Mr. Euler's summary of conditions was lengthy and detailed. Always considered a very cool and deliberate administrator, he gave specific instances of what he felt could be rated as indications of American unwillingness to use a firm hand. Boats were being loaded with liquor in direct view of the U. S. customs at Black Rock. Others took on their cargoes while visiting American officials watched. Vessels crossed the Detroit river with booze in broad daylight. He listed half a dozen.

Concessions which Canada had already made were recapitulated. She had agreed to the treaty establishing a 12-mile limit, had undertaken to supply information concerning

GREAT SEMINARY FOR JUBILEE YEAR

Milan Marks Pope's Jubilee By Building Seminary For 1,000 Students.

ROME, May 30.—(By The Canadian Press).—About $50,000 has been collected towards the new seminary on Monte Venegono, near Varese, which the Diocese of Milan is erecting in commemoration of the jubilee of Pope Pius XI. Almost $88,000 is still needed for the completion of the seminary, but the money is coming in rapidly in large subscriptions from bankers and industrialists, in small subscriptions from working people, all animated by the same spirit of generosity that distinguishes the population of Milan, the richest city in Italy, whenever it is any question of useful public work.

The seminary covers almost the whole of the Venegono Hill, and consists of three lines of buildings, one behind the other connected by galleries and porticos, and having a large central church, besides a number of smaller chapels. There will be accommodation for a thousand students.

The engineer of the works expects that the seminary will be sufficiently advanced for its inauguration to take place next December, at the close of the Pope's jubilee year. Will the Pope himself, under the changed conditions now prevailing come back to his old diocese and preside at the ceremony? That is the question that every one connected with the seminary is asking, but so far no definite answe is available.

ALL SAINTS WINS CONTEST

Three Clubs Enter A. Y. P. A. Contest Held in Omemee.

LINDSAY FAILS.

OMEMEE, May 30 (Examiner Correspondence).—On Monday evening, May 30, the second series of plays in the Peterborough District A.Y.P.A. dramatic contest was staged in Coronation Hall, Omemee. The contestants were St. Thomas' of Millbrooke and All Saints' of Peterborough. In the event of Lindsay branch being unable to compete, Christ Church, Omemee, filled in the breach.

"Trying Them Out," was the title of the play presented by the Millbrook branch. It was a portrayal of a distracted business man's efforts to engage a stenographer. The replies to his advertisement were anything but satisfactory at first. A middle-aged applicant with unique ideas was followed by a young widow who wished to forget her recent bereavement by associating herself with the mundane cares of the business world. Next came a young lady of presumably high degree, who graciously condescended to enter business in order that the latter might profit by the prestige she would lend to it. A typical flapper who made an amusing attempt to fill the bill was followed by a true type of stenographer and the employer's troubles were ended. A lively office boy added considerably to the humor of the play, which on the whole was favorably received. The cast of characters follows:

Bill, Henry Raper; Mr. Brown, W. H. Jordan; Miss Sally Allen, Mrs. Hilton; Mrs. Mary Due, Miss Marcella Lang; Miss Covington, Miss Turner; Miss Hall, Miss Marguerite Lang.

An interesting half hour was next afforded by Omemee's presentation of "Who Kissed Barbara?" A kiss given to a young lady by an unknown young man causes the recipient endless enxiety and maintained a situation which seemed inexplicable. In the last analysis everything turned out all right, and the young lady's doubts and fears culminated in a triumph for Cupid. Following is the cast of characters:

Barbara Nichols, Miss Mabel Rowan; Katherine Blake, Miss Eileen Rutherford; Paul Blake, Mr. W. Stephenson; Horace Gregory, Mr. S. Tripp; James, the butler, Mr. H. Burgess.

The last event was given by All Saints', of Peterborough "A Jack for Every Jill," being its title. A well-meaning doctor attempts to smooth out the course of true love for an amorous couple. His efforts finally lead him into matrimony, himself. An eccentric old man and a designing spinster added a humorous touch to the sketch. The cast was as follows:

Dr. Robertson, James Morley; Charley Gusington, Jack Hope; Fred Fitz, Milton Fowler; Benjamin Harrison Jones, James Price; Mrs. Gilbert, Mrs. James Price; Miss Matilda, Boggs, Dorothy Worboy; Fanny Gilbert, Jessie Maconomy; Rosa, the maid, Helen Resko.

The Judges, Miss P. Burnham of Millbrook, Miss C. McCarthy of Peterborough, and Mr. O. R. Stalter of Omemee, gave their decision in favor of All Saints', Peterborough.

At the conclusion of the entertainment the Omemee branch served refreshments to the visiting artists and their friends.

ESTIMATES ARE FINALLY PASSED

Department of Immigration Has Its Note Endorsed by Committee.

$8,900 FOR ST. JOHN

OTTAWA, Ont., May 30.—(By the Canadian Press.)—After a somewhat tempestuous passage, all estimates of the Department of immigration have been finally approved by the Supply Committee of the House of Commons. Yesterday saw the committee pass items of $70,000 for Chinese immigration, $4,000 for the relief of distressed Canadians outside Canada, and $8,900 for immigration buildings at Saint John, N.B.

The passage of these items completed the total appropriation for immigration and colonization amounting to $3,462,900. In addition the committee approved Tuesday the civil government vote of $314,505 for salaries and $4,000 for contingencies in the inside immigration service.

The vote of $70,000 for Chinese immigration precipitated some discussion to the Orient immigration problem. H. J. Barber, Conservative, Fraser Valley, declared that there had been a general increase in Japanese immigration to Canada from 1923 to 1927. Mr. Forke informed him that under the agreement with Japan this immigration was limited to $150 per annum.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 30.—An exhibit of Canadian furs, valued at $75,000 will be included in the fur exhibition in Leipzig, Germany, this summer if plans of leading Canadian buyers mature. Consideration is now being given by Hon. James Malcolm, Minister of Trade and Commerce to a proposal that the government bear the expense of erecting and staging the exhibit. A collection of the most beautiful furs produced in this country is being made for the purpose.

ERECTS AWNING IN QUEBEC.

J. J. Turner and Sons are installing an awning on the Woolworth store in St. John's, Quebec. The work is in charge of George Gillespie of the erection department. The entire trip was made by truck from here and the mileage when covered will amount to about 800 miles.

VETERAN ENGINE HOUSE RAZED.

The engine house of the Canadian National Railways that suffered severe damages when it was practically demolished a few weeks ago by a stray engine has been razed. This famous old building served the railroad for over fifty years, but had in recent times with the coming of the larger engines grown very inadequate, so for this reason and because the city objects to building a similar structure on the same site, the railroad is looking for a place that will be more commodious and will serve in a better manner as a round house.

LOCAL AGENTS TO ATTEND GATHERING.

Superintendent J. I. Allen, Asst. Supt. R. F. Sedgwick and agency representatives A. Moffatt and W. McLaren of the Peterborough Prudential staff, as a result of their records in 1928 and in the first months of 1929 have been invited to attend a sectional gathering of field men to be held at Alexandra Bay, N.Y., from June 20-21. The party will leave Toronto by special steamer on Wednesday, June 19 and will return in the same manner on June 22.

WORK NEARLY COMPLETED

Work on the addition of the C.P.R. station, being built by W. H. Patterson, is nearing completion. The outside brick work is finished and only the interior remains to be completed.

STAFF PICNIC AT OSHAWA.

The Prudential staff of Peterborough district, comprised of the offices of Peterborough, Oshawa, Orillia and Cobourg are holding a picnic and dinner on the Oshawa beach Saturday. Arrangements have been made with the executive of the General Motors of that city to be the guests of the corporation at a tour of the plant on Saturday.

WORK PROGRESSING RAPIDLY.

The work in installing the talkies at the Capitol theatre will now progress at a faster pace. Engineers from the Northern Electric Company are in the city carrying on the work. The complete installation will now take about three weeks. The engineer in charge is the same one who had charge of public address system at the Peterborough Exhibition last year.

WOODEN POLES DISAPPEARING.

The wooden poles on Hunter street between George and Aylmer streets will soon disappear, as men for the Peterborough Utilities are at work substituting the neater iron ones.

NO COMPLAINTS HERE.

There have been in the Toronto papers complaints as to motorists passing Stop signs as they enter through streets. Police Inspector Reid states that Peterborough has not met this difficulty yet. People here do not neglect to stop unless through some oversight. The traffic signal at Charlotte and George street is always heeded by the motorists. In other place there are also complaints as to the use of cut-outs on cars. The police have not received any complaints in Peterborough as to the neglectful use of the muffler.

CIRCUS HERE IN JUNE.

Warm weather brings thoughts of circuses, elephants, peanuts and pink lemonade. It is true that a circus will make its debut in Peterborough this year on June 24. Arrangements have been completed with Webber Turner of the Exhibition Board to secure the Exhibition Grounds for that date. Advance agents were in the city yesterday.

HEAVY TRAFFIC ON HIGHWAYS.

Traffic on the Port Hope highway was quite heavy last evening as the warm spell brought out many motorists who sought a cooling breeze by driving in the country.

ONE CHIMNEY FIRE.

The Fire Department was called to a chimney fire at 504 George street at 12.14 yesterday. No damage was done.

WELL BABIES' CLINIC CONCERT IS BIG SUCCESS

Encores Are Generously Responded to By Artists of Evening.

PLANNED BY MRS. RITCHIE.

Very Pretty Setting Was Provided By Spring Flowers and Ferns.

(By Jeanette)

The concert arranged by Mrs. Ryerson Ritchie in aid of the Well Babies' Clinic and held last evening in Trinity Hall on Reid street, was very enjoyable. There was hearty appreciation for every number on a well balanced program of song and piano music. Encores were numerous and were generously responded to. A very pretty setting for the concert wasp rovided by the spring flowers, palms, and ferns that decorated the stage in profusion and by the dainty gowns of the ladies taking part. R. J. Devey made the announcements in a humorous fashion that gave a friendly touch of informality to the entertainment, which was more in the nature of a pleasant studio gathering than of a rigidly programed concert.

The vocal numbers were very pleasing, and were heartily applauded. Mrs. Ryerson Ritchie opened the program with two very dainty songs entitled "Spring's Singing" and "Voices of the Woods", the latter with a lovely piano arrangement to Rubenstein's "Melody in F." Her clear, high soprano, with splendid enunciation, was also heard to much advantage in Salter's "Sweet o' The Year", Eugene Field's "Little Boy Blu" and an encore number in "My Heart is Singing."

Enthusiastically Applauded

Mrs. W. McKee Bingham's lovely, rich contralto was enthusiastically applauded for her two solo numbers, a song in French, "Cherie, a toi mon coeur" ("Love, I give you my heart") and the favorite "Ramona" in which the soaring tones were very attractive.

Mrs. Bingham and Miss Alma Blanchard also had a captivating duett for contralto voices in a repetition of their song given at the Shakespearian recital at the Conservatory, last month. This was the selection entitled "How Sweet the Moonlight Sleeps" and illustrates the meeting of two lovers by moonlight at Belmont, from the play, "The Merchant of Venice." Mrs. Bingham as Jessica, was in a soft blue gown and Miss Blanchard, as Lorenzo, wore doublet and hose of blue and golden brown, with a feathered hat and white neck ruff.

Mrs. Percy Hooper's skill as a violinist and her mastery of difficult music on this kind of instruments was demonstrated admirably in her expert rendition of Wienlawski's lovely "Lenende" with piano accompaniment played by Mrs. W. A. Logan.

The two masculine vocalists of the evening were in splendid voice, and both were encored loudly. Maurice H. Park's fine, sympathetic tenor voice was outstanding in the haunting, lilting strains of one of the heart-throbbing songs of the Hebridean Isles, the exquisite bit entitled "The Eriskay Love Lilt" with its recurrent, soft refrain. Mr. Park's two solo numbers were "My Lovely Celia" and "Lassie O' Mine." Miss Gwen Mary Donley played accompaniments for Mr. Park.

Won Honors of Evening

To Douglas Carlisle went the honors of the evening. After giving three folk songs, he was encored so enthusiastically that he came back for an encore with the "Cornish Floral Dance" that glorious song that sets heads nodding and feet tapping in response to its flowing melody. His resonant baritone that adds such a charm to any program, was superb in the opening trio of old favorites, "Believe Me, if all those Endearing Young Charms", "Drink to Me only with Thine Eyes", and "Mary of Argyle."

Mr. Devey played accompaniments for Mrs. Ritchie, Mrs. Bingham, and Mr. Carlisle.

Last, but decidedly not least, on the program, was the piano playing of one of Mr. Devey's pupils, Tom Allen, a youthful musician whose virile tone and masterly handling of exacting music was a high light in the entertainment. With a manifest appreciation of his music, a soft, pliable fingering and a clear-cut tone, this young man pleased his hearers immensely. He played, with splendid interpretive force, two contrasting pieces; the temperamental music of Rachmaninoff in the "Prelude in C sharp Minor" with its smashing, crystalline chords, and the graceful-flowing melodies of Percy Grainger's "Country Gardens" that popular compcsition that is descriptive of dancing bird song and plashing fountain spray, and demands a plastic tone and a free wrist, for an adequate interpretation of its dancing music.

At the conclusion of the program, Mrs. A. Mowat, president of the Well Babies' Clinic, spoke briefly about the work of that institution and voiced a hearty appreciation of the assistance given it by Mrs. Ritchie and the musicians of the evening.

Heeney Is Winner On Foul In Eighth

MONTREAL, May 30.—Tom Heeney, New Zealand heavyweight, defeated Elzear Rioux, Montreal heavy, here last night in the eighth round of their scheduled ten-round set-to, when Rioux was disqualified for striking a foul blow. It was an unsatisfactory bout throughout, Rioux's holding tactics and low blows marring the bout.

Clippings From C.O.B.L.

Saturday's game will be played at James Stevenson Park and will be started at 3 o'clock with a number of local celebrities figuring in the opening ceremonies.

The sports writer has a ... scathing criticism from players and fans for maybe, leaves out of his write-ups of games. Giving ... it is justly due on sporting teams isn't always an easy task. At the same time facts must be considered.

If a pitcher on a team isn't good the team is going to have a hard time winning. At the same time if a pitcher is doing good work, and his team are falling down behind him, the game is a loss. In a Rugby game if the backfield stars are not getting away on the runs the team has little chance. Line-plunging will accomplish a certain amount and that is all. In basketball the forwards who toss the ball frequently and accurately through the hoop are praised for the victory no matter how staunchly the defence have protected the opposing forwards.

The fact remains that the players who are chosen for the important assignments on any team, and do their work well, get the lion's share of the credit. That should be remembered by all young players who are trying out with the faster teams in this community, in any branch of sport. Knock a home run or make a brilliant catch and you will get credit. Petes Defeat Nationals In Second League Game

PETES WIN SMART GAME FROM LAST YEAR'S ONTARIO CHAMPS; HARDILL OUTPITCHES UTRONKI

Belleville Are Beaten 6 to 3 on Own Lot in Fine Exhibition.

CIRCUS FIELDING

Feature Plays Give Belleville Fans Plenty of Thrills.

(By F. D. C.)

Playing smart defensive ball behind nice pitching by Jeff Hardill, the Petes' combination of veterans and youngsters spoiled a hot May afternoon for Belleville fans yesterday by beating Walter Gerow's provincial champions 6 to 3, on the home diamond of the Nationals.

The string of championship pennants floating in the breeze from the grandstand flag pole failed to throw a scare into Manager Swanston's crew who were on top of Belleville from the opening inning, when they scored two runs to get a flying start on the Ontario title-holders.

Vinny Utronki, the Renfrew submariner who subdued Prexy Elliott's Deloro Smelters in the League opener on Victoria Day was sent back to tame the Petes, but he was unable to keep the visiting talent from smashing through his service when hits meant runs. The winners crammed their eight safeties into three innings and they all counted in the run-making, spelling disaster for the Belleville cause.

On the other hands Jeff Hardill only allowed the Nationals five hits and they were spread over as many frames. A trifle wild at times, Hardill had a world of stuff and with able assistance in the form of clever fielding by his teammates had the Belleville hitters well in check all the way through.

It was one real smart ball game.

The defensive work of both teams bordered on the sensational at times and the many outstanding plays gave the crowd plenty of thrills.

Jimmy Hall and Fred Ash in the Petes' outfield, roamed over acres of territory to gather in seven flies. Ash had the premier circus feature of the afternoon in the sixth inning when he tore in fast for M. Green's sharp liner to short centre and engulfed the ball in his gloved hand an inch from the ground. Ash turned a somersault but came up firmly clutching the spalding, just before that piece of robb... Hall went back a ... a long dri...

The Petes broke in front from ... barrier. "Red" Hollingsworth start... ed them on the way in the firs... frame by a clean single to centre and Rose cut a fast one through short for one base. Swanston sacrificed neatly. Sweetman was out on strikes but Ash singled of Scott to score Hollingsworth and Jimmy Hall doubled to left to send Rose in. Beavis drove far to Sonny Green in right.

Scott opened Belleville's half with a single over second but Verne Weir struck out and Peeney Mills forced Scott on a fast hopper to Sweetman. Hardill tossed out Harry Mills

In the second Hickey flied to M. Green in left, Hardill struck out and Hollingsworth rolled to Weir.

Sonny Green first up for Belleville fanned. Blakely doubled to right. Weir struck out. Blakely stole third M. Green drew a pass but was forced on Utronki's tap to Red Hollingsworth.

The Petes added to their lead in the third. Rose drew a pass and Swanston sacrificed him to second. Sweetmean beat out a bunt and stole second to score behind Rose when Ash shot a double down the left field. Hall rolled to Blakely and Beavis struck out.

A momentary wild streak on Hardill's part gave Belleville a chance in their half to get that pair back. Jeff walked Scott, hit V. Weir and then passed W. Mills to fill the bases with nobody out. Scott scored on H. Mills' roller down the first line when Hickey's throw home was slow. Sonny Green's long fly to Hall scored Weir. Blakely also flied to Hall and Rose made a fast play on A. Weir's roller.

In the fourth Hickey struck out and Hardill and Hollingsworth were thrown out by Utronki.

For Belleville M. Green hoisted one to Rose. The Petes' second sacker also tossed out Utronki, while Sweetman did the same thing for Scott. Hardill only threw four balls in this frame.

The Petes got two out in the fifth without scoring. Rose flied to Sonny Green. Swanston walked. Sweetman rolled to Utronki. Ash was safe when Scott's throw pulled Mills off first, but Hall flied to right.

Belleville also had two left. Weir's roller got away from Hollingsworth. W. Mills flied to Beavis. H. Mills was hit. Sonny Green flied to Ash and Blakely followed suit.

Beavis, first up in the sixth, fanned. Harrison, who had replaced Hickey in the fourth, was robbed of a hit by Blakely's spectacular stop of a hot shot to short. Hardill walked. Hollingsworth cut what looked like a sure hit past second but Weir ran over and made a bare-handed stop in time to force Hardill.

The Petes' outfield did some spectacular fielding in Belleville's half. First Jimmy Hall ran far out into left field to make a perfectly-timed catch of A. Weir's long smash and then Ash dashed in to make his circus grab of M Green's liner to centre. Sweetman took Utronki's high one for the third out.

In the seventh Rose was thrown out by Utronki. Scott made a nice catch of Swanston's hard smash. Sweetman walked. Ash flied to S. Green.

An outfield error gave Belleville a chance to close the gap in their half of the seventh. Beavis dropped Scott's high one to right after running in for it and the batter reached second. Weir sacrificed and W. Mills scored the lead-off man with a single to centre. Hardill deflected H. Mills' hard smash over to Rose, who tossed the Nationals' first sacker out and then grabbed S. Green's roller to retire the side.

The Petes' got a similar break in the eighth when they put the game on ice. Hall was safe on A. Weir's muff. Heckman batted for Beavis and struck out, but Harrison rifled a triple to centre field to score Hall and then rode home himself when Hardill shot a single into centre. Hollingsworth forced the Petes' pitcher and then stole second only to be caught off the bag when he thought the batter had fouled one as he went down.

In Belleville's half, Blakely was thrown out by Rose. A. Weir singled over second. Hollingsworth making a fast play behind the bag to knock the smash down. M. Green forced Weir, Sweetman to Rose, and Sweetman tossed out Utronki to end the frame.

Rose flied to A. Weir to start the ninth and Swanston rolled to Weir. Sweetman walked and ... second. Ash struck out.

Belleville's last chance soon... Scott rolled to Rose and W... flied to Ash. W. Mills sing... second and H. Mills ... ramping one at He... out.

BEATEN BY TIGERS BROWNS FALL BACK

Victory Over Boston Increases Athletics' Lead—Senators Beat Yanks.

DETROIT, May 30. — Because the Tigers' hits were quoted at a higher value than those of the Browns yesterday the Bengals defeated St. Louis 7 to 6 and enabled George Uhle to chalk up his ninth victory in as many starts this year.

The veteran from Cleveland was nicked for 13 hits and often was in trouble but with the aid of three double plays to quell the enemy and five doubles as the nucleus of 12 Detroit hits, he was able to weather the storm.

CHICAGO, May 30. — The Cleveland Indians conducted a powerful offensive against Tommy Thomas and Grady Adkins yesterday and the result was an 11 to 1 defeat for the White Sox. Five runs were notched against Thomas in the first three innings.

Fonseca topped the Indians' attack with two home runs into the left field seats and a pair of triples, one to left, the other to right. Tavener also hit a homer when two were on base in the sixth.

ATHLETICS WIN AT BOSTON.

BOSTON, May 30. — George Earnshaw's pitching set the Athletics back in the winning track yesterday and the Philadelphia team gained a 7 to 1 victory over the Red Sox.Earnshaw allowed only six hits.

PLENTY OF HITS FOR SENATORS.

WASHINGTON, May 30. — The offensive of the Washington Americans came to life with a bang yesterday and New York was beaten in the second game of the series 8 to 3.

Pipgras was batted from the box in the third inning and Sherrid also was hit hard. Marberry went the route for the Senators, ... although Gehrig got his 11th home run of the year.

Gehrig's homer was his eleventh of the season, ... placed him two ahead of Ruth for the American League leadership and sent him into a tie with Melvin Ott of the Giants for the major league title.

PILES GO QUICK

Piles are caused by congestion of blood in the lower bowel. Only an internal remedy can remove the cause. That's why salves and cutting fail. Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, a harmless tablet succeeds, because it relieves this congestion and strengthens the affected parts. Hem-Roid has given quick, safe and lasting relelef to thousands of pile sufferers. It will do the same for you or money back. McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store and druggists everywhere sell Hem-Roid with this guarantee.

uniform yesterday and twelve of them got into the game. Hickey, the Renfrew boy, worked the first three innings at first and then was replaced by Harrison while Heckman batted for Beavis in the eighth and Len Hollingsworth finished the game in right field.

Wicky Ross was missed from the Belleville outfield. The fleet centre fielder's shoes will be hard to fill.

The Nationals still have their championship infield and they are going nicely but their outer works are not as strong as last year with Ross missing and it looks as if the pitching problem will give Walter Gerow some sleepless nights, unless Jack Shea comes to the rescue and is able to take his regular turn.

Not one of the Petes' eight hits was wasted. That's making them count with a vengeance.

LEAFS AGAIN BEAT WINGS

Fourteen Hits Credited To Toronto Players As They Score 12-8 Victory.

ROYALS BEAT BISONS.

ROCHESTER, May 30.—Four Rochester pitchers wilted under the hot sun and Toronto hitters, and the Leafs took the first game of the series here yesterday afternoon by 12 to 8. The victory placed O'Neill's men three and a half games behind the Wings, at the top of the International League heap.

From the fourth inning, the Redwings were not in the picture. They failed to produce a pitcher who could halt the batting rampage staged by the Leafs. Walter Leverenz, crack southpaw, of the Toronto outfit, was touched for eleven hits in the seven innings he worked, but, together with the lead established for him by his mates and errorless fielding, pulled through safely. Satterfield relieved Leverenz at the beginning of the eighth, and got by with but one hit being made off his deliveries.

ROYALS BEAT BISONS

BUFFALO, May 30.—Elon Hogsett, Indian hurler of the Montreal Royals, curved the Bisons into submission here yesterday by a score of 4 to 2, marking the third straight setback for the locals and forcing them to fall to seventh place. Corsairs' Eighth Straight Victory—Cards Win Twice.

PITTSBURGH, May 30.—The Pittsburgh Pirates assumed leadership of the National League yesterday by defeating the Chicago Cubs, 7 to 2. It was the eighth straight win for the Corsairs.

Malone, who started on the mound for Chicago, was driven to the showers in the fifth, when Pittsburgh scored four runs.

FOUR IN ROW FOR PHILLIES.

PHILADELPHIA, May 30.—Phil Collins pitched the Phillies to their fourth successive victory over the Boston Braves yesterday afternoon, 12 to 2. This is the first time in more than two years that the Phillies have won as many as four games in a row. Collins was wobbly in the first inning when he walked Maranville and Lance Richbourg hit a home run. Art Delaney, who started for Boston, was tagged for a pair of runs in the second and third innings and was driven from the box in the fourth inning when six Phillies scored.

CARDS TAKE TWO GAMES.

MIKE TYMCO FEELS QUALITY OF MERCY

Sentence For Perjury Is Dated Back So It Ends Before He Begins To Serve It.

EDMONTON, May 30.—(Canadian Press).—Mike Tymco is in the peculiar position of having served a three months' sentence before the sentence began. It was this way: Mike was serving a sentence for having contributed to the delinquency of a juvenile when an additional sentence of three months was imposed by Justice Ives for perjury, the prisoner having committed the perjury in giving evidence in his own ... on the delinquency charge. ... ever, the judge exercises ... an order that the ... by making ... back so ... extra term should ... to run concurrently with the original sentence, which was shortened by 12 days because of the prisoner's good ... nduct. Thus it came about that Mike's two terms in prison were served at one and the same time.

BUFFALO ARE NOT SOCIABEL

The buffalo in Buffalo national park at Wainwright, Alberta, are not disposed to be sociable, and visitors are warned against any efforts towards making friends. Only one buffalo in the park permits intimacy. This is "Ollie," a splendid young bull who has become used to being fed oats out of a small black pail and will now approach the moment he sees this object.

CANADIAN SCULLERS HEAD FOR ENGLAND SEEKING NEW HONORS

Wonder Eight-Oared Crew and Joe Wright Sail On June 8.

GUEST THERE NOW.

Champion Sculler Has Been in Training Since Early March.

(Special to The Examiner, Copyright)

TORONTO, Ont, May 30.— The greatest eight-oared crew that Canada has ever produced and two of the best scullers that the continent has known, Joe Wright, jr., formerly of the Penn Athletic club of Philadelphia and now of the Argonaut rowing club of Toronto, who holds the Diamond Sculls, emblematic of the world's sculling championship, and Jack Guest, his clubmate and rival, will attempt to bring rowing titles to Canada this year that have never yet entered this country.

The eight expects to beat several English crews and one American eight for the Grand Challenge cup at the Royal English Henley on the Thames river during the first week in July.

Joe Wright, Jr. figures that he can again win the Diamond sculls and be the first Canadian to capture the trophy for the second time. He figures that he can again win the Diamond sculls and be the first Canadian to capture the trophy for the second time. He figures that there is not a sculler in the United States at the present time that he cannot beat over the Henley distance of one mile 550 yards. The majority of the English entrants he defeated during the past two years, Bobby Pearce, the Australian wonder who took the Olympic single event from Ken Myers of the Penn. Barge Club of Philadelphia in Amsterdam last year has not been heard from and may not be a competitor.

Argonaut Eight Is Good Crew

Joe Wright sr., who coached the University of Pennsylvania crews to success for ten years and guided the Penn. A.C. fours and eights to more national titles than they had ever won in a single year before, declares that the Argonaut eight is as good, if not better than any crew he has had anything to do with.

They average 178 pounds in weight and 6.2 in height and are as game as have ever graduated from the Canadian courses. Most of them are young fellows, 23 or under, and only three of them had had more than three years rowing experience. Last year when they came within a quarter of a length of beating the University of California eight at the Olympic games they had been rowing together only for one season.

This year they figure that they are two length faster in the Henley distance and, if they can raise the necessary money to get to England, feel that they will take the cup. At present, however, Canadian sportsmen have been slow in offering money to defray the costs and there is a possibility that they may not make the trip. Those who know "Old Joe" Wright declare that the crew is going.

Wright Training Hard

Wright was on the machines on the first of January. Started daily workouts early in March and has been training twice a day for well over a month. He is in perfect condition for this time of the year. For the next week he will train hard until sailing for England on June 8th. On the trip over he will workout on the machines.

It appears as if his clubmate, Pack Guest, who rowed with him in the doubles at the Olympic last year and were beaten by the United States crew, will be the man that Joe jr. has to beat in the Diamond Sculls.

Guest has been in England since the winter and has been working out on the Royal Henley course almost daily.

C.G.E. BEATS WOOL WORKERS

Weakened Woollen Team Proves Easy Mark For Electric Boys.

FINAL SCORE 5-0.

Ideal soccer weather prevailed last evening for the Canadian General and Dominion Woollens match at King Edward Park, when the former won by five goals to nil, before a large attendance of spectators in a City and District League encounter. The weakened team of the Woollens enabled the Canadian General to gain two valuable points.

Opened Fast.

From the kick-off the C.G.E. made straight for the Woollens citadel, where Montgomery saved from B. McMaster's header. Then a hot one was rapped across the goal that the Woollens' custodian stopped nicely and Mitchell failed to take advantage of the rebound by missing the upright.

A Misunderstanding.

Continued pressure by the C.G.E. terminated in Rankin scoring an easy goal when the full backs misunderstood one another to allow Rankin to tap the ball into the net. The Woolens travelled into the dreaded area to test Bolton time and again, only to find the defence giving nothing. Blowers carried the sphere to Burgess' taste, which finally brought out the qualities of Montgomery, who made a brilliant save from Rankin's right footer after the McMaster brothers missed the ball.

Montgomery Brilliant.

Repeated attacks continued in favor of the C.G.E. who manipulated the ball around the goals in an endeavor to get an open shot, but the Woollens' goalkeeper was the master of the situation until Hillman sent his forwards away to the other end to test Bolton. Exchanges were even thereafter with throw-ins predominating the play.

Adds Two Goals.

After the Woollens had peppered Bolton's charge they left their defence wide open ,which proved fatal to themselves, the C.G.E. forwards making two snappy raids to prove successful through Burgess from a scrimmage, after Montgomery had made three spectacular saves. A minute later Rankin grasped the opening presented to him when he came from his position to accept it by sending a low grounder that found the net, just two minutes before the interval.

Half-time: C.G.E. 3, Woollens 0.

Half-time.

On resuming, the winners took up the attack. Individual play by J. McMaster caused excitement inside the Woollens' territory where the defence allowed the attacking forwards too much latitude. The inside man made no mistake when he went right through on his own to pick the corner of the net.

Played on Defensive.

The Electric boys seemed satisfied with their lead and played more defensive than offensive tactics. On one occasion Mayette dribbled the ball down the wing to beat the fullbacks in front of goal and if it had not been for Bolton a tally would have been the result. Thereafter the C.G.E. custodian picked a hard shot from the corner of the goal posts from Gore's oblique effort. The winners repeatedly broke through the defence to find Montgomery holding all the shots ranged at him. A free kick outside the penalty area taken by Mann found the rigging. Nothing interesting transpired until the final whistle left the Canadian General 5, Woollens 0.

Goal scorers—C.G.E., Rankin (2), Burgess, J. McMaster, and Mann.

Dominion Woollens — T. Montgomery, goal; Wade and Read, backs; Parker, Hillman and Venette, halves; Mayette, J. Mitchell, J. Montgomery, Whitely, and Gore, forwards.

Canadian General — Bolton, goal; Figg and Wade, full backs; Robb, Mann and Blowers, halves; Rankin, J. McMaster, B. McMaster, Mitchell, and Burgess, forwards.

Referee—J. Middleton.

PETES' WIN HAS FANS EAGER TO SEE HOME GAME

Victory at Belleville is Adding Interest to Opener Saturday.

WILL BE BATTLE

Deloro at Full Strength and Confident of Winning Here.

The clean cut victory of the Petes over Walter Gerow's Nationals in Belleville yesterday has put the finishing touches on the keen interest displayed by Peterborough fandom in this year's Central Ontario team and guarantees a record opening day crowd when Deloro come here Saturday for the first home game in the League schedule.

President Elliott promises the Petes a real battle and the home talent are expecting nothing less. Deloro did not play at Oshawa yesterday so they will have Carl Wood all primed and ready to toss in against the Petes in Saturday's fixture and the same Wood will give the local entry plenty to worry about. Manager Bill Regan of Deloro has a smart ball squad and they will form a splendid attraction for opening day.

The Petes played real ball to take the Nationals yesterday and if they can repeat the performance Saturday they will have the home fans raving. The two youngsters down on the third base side of the diamond, Red Hollingsworth and Bill Sweetman, are fitting nicely into the inner circle while with Jimmy Hall, Fred Ash, Red Legon and other ball hawks available the outfield is causing no worry.

Al Heckman will likely draw the pitching assignment against the Smelter crew.

Saturday's game will be played at James Stevenson Park and will be started at 3 o'clock with a number of local celebrities figuring in the opening ceremonies.

Heeney Is Winner On Foul In Eighth

MONTREAL, May 30.—Tom Heeney, New Zealand heavyweight, defeated Elzear Rioux, Montreal heavy, here last night in the eighth round of their scheduled ten-round set-to, when Rioux was disqualified for striking a foul blow. It was an unsatisfactory bout throughout, Rioux's holding tactics and low blows marring the bout.

NEWS AROUND THE C.O.B.L. CIRCUIT

Clippings From C.O.B.L.

Once again the efforts of this generation to further clean, healthy sport has been retarded by what is commonly called a "dirty trick." Last winter the Oshawa Curling Club had some spiteful person play not only a well, and this trick was an expensive one to the club while the miscreant received no benefit at all from it unless his warped mind could honestly call putting the curlers to a great expense and inconvenience a benefit. In the winter months, just before the playing of some friendly games with a visiting club, the members of the curling club were dismayed to find that during the night previous to the playing of these games someone had entered their new home and turned on the water tap at the end of the rink and let the water do its damage unmolested to the sheet of ice throughout the night.

This City and the surrounding territory was surprised and shocked to learn that any one so small was living in their midst. There is still another.

This one, however, may derive a small amount of financial benefit from this dirty trick as the baseball equipment that was stolen from the judges' stand at Alexandra Park is for the most part, things that are difficult, if at all to trace, and the sneak thief may be able to sell them at a low figure. There is one thing certain, that is, that they will not be bought in Oshawa.—Oshawa Daily Times.

Local fans who attended the opening games of the C.O.B.L. season at Belleville on Friday last weren't overly impressed with the work of the two teams. Deloro had the edge for the most of the game, only to see their pitching fail, while the Nationals didn't appear nearly the team they were last year.

The Kingston fans at Belleville intend carrying field-glasses with them the next time they watch the game from the stands, as they are so far away from the plate that when the umpire calls "Strike" they have to wait for the echo to find out what was called.—Kingston Whig.

BOOSTS AND KNOCKS For EVERYONE

(By "TED" OUTRAM)

HASTINGS HERE ON FRIDAY NIGHT.

Most of the ball teams are still unknown quantities, but fans will get a good opportunity this Friday evening to get a line on two of the East Peterborough outfits. Hastings come here to play a twilight fixture with the Crescents at the Exhibition Park that day. Nothing is known of the Hastings team,except that it won the country section of the league last year, and gave the Raybestos a good run in the play-offs. There will be many changes on the Crescents this year, but this team seems always able to trot out a smart bunch of players, and this year promises no exception to that rule.

* * * * * *

CITY PLAYERS WORKING NICELY.

The three Peterborough players who have joined the Bethany nine, came through ace-high in their first game with the western village team. Ralph pitched a nice steady game and scored a run. "Maggie" McGee, playing in right field, slammed out two clean hits, and Jack McDonough, who will also twirl for the team, poled out a two-bagger in his only appearance at the plate. They fitted in nicely with the other members of the team, too.

* * * * * *

CHALLENGE FROM BELLEVILLE.

The Junior Order of Moose of Belleville has a junior ball team and they write in hope of securing a game or two with a local team. These games the letter states, would necessarily have to be twilight affairs. Perhaps the Order of Moose team here would take on their Belleville brethren. The secretary of the club is Joseph Delaney.

* * * * * *

PROBLEMS OF A SPORTS WRITER.

The sports writer has a difficult task. He often comes in for scathing criticism from players and fans for what he puts in, or maybe, leaves out of his write-ups of games. Giving credit where it is justly due on sporting teams isn't always an easy task. At the same time facts must be considered.

If a pitcher on a team isn't good the team is going to have a hard time winning. At the same time if a pitcher is doing good work, and his team are falling down behind him, the game is a loss. In a Rugby game if the backfield stars are not getting away on the runs the team has little chance. Line-plunging will accomplish a certain amount and that is all. In basketball the forwards who toss the ball frequently and accurately through the hoop are praised for the victory no matter how staunchly the defence have protected the opposing forwards.

The fact remains that the players who are chosen for the important assignments on any team, and do their work well, get the lion's share of the credit. That should be remembered by all young players who are trying out with the faster teams in this community, in any branch of sport. Knock a home run or make a brilliant catch and you will get credit. The same applies to the player who concentrates on the game, and is ever on the job to do his part.

IMPOSSIBLE TO BEAT THE RACES.

Systems to beat the races are as old as racing itself. Generally speaking there are no systems to beat racing. Still many who follow the ponies make a great living out of it, while a great many who follow it with enthusiasm are often on the fringe of abject poverty.

There are numerous advertised systems that make extravagant claims and promise opulence to those who follow its tenets. All those who follow racing are familiar with their claims, and most of those who have followed systems know that racing is an unbeatable game.

The New York Press, a sprightly publication which deals largely with turf affairs, says "All horse players must die broke." Bert Collyer, one of the greatest race track handicappers in the world, a man who has made a million by his ability to turn turf gossip and news to account, says: "You can beat a race, but not the races." Both these authorities know whereof they speak.

AT THE CAPITOL

COLLEEN MOORE BRINGS FLAMING YOUTH UP-TO-DATE IN "WHY BE GOOD?" NOW SHOWING AT THE CAPITOL.

America's carefree, unchaperoned youth, super-sophisticated and scornful of propriety, is colorfully pictured at the Capitol Theatre's "Why Be Good?", in which Colleen Moore plays the stellar role.

The story of this comedy-drama is of the type that first carried Miss Moore to the heights of popularity, although the plot is decidedly original, and the characterizations of the most up-to-date variety. Miss Moore appears as a typical example of the modern girl, her costumes and personality being the last word and her speech full of flippant wisecracks.

Although the story of "Why Be Good?" is essentially humorous there are moments of serious drama interspersed with the frivolous episodes, the question propounded in the title being answered in a dramatic climax that is said to equal the finest work Miss Moore has ever contributed to the screen.

Neil Hamilton, in the chief supporting role, is seen as Miss Moore's leading man for the first time, while others playing important roles are Bodil Rosing, Edward Martindel and Louis Natheaux. "Why Be Good?" was directed by William A. Seiter for First National Pictures, the story having been written especially as a vehicle for Miss Moore by Carey Wilson.

EXAMINATIONS START JUNE 17

Upper and Middle Schools First Examinations To Be Written Off.

ONE IN JULY.

In a few weeks school will be out, but before this freedom comes the test of examinations that is the fear of every scholar's heart. On Monday June 17 the departmental examinations for the Upper and Middle schools of the collegiate begin. On Thursday June 20 for the Lower school of the collegiate and on Monday the 24th, the candidates for High School and Model School entrance will write.

There is one consolation this year and that is the examinations are over earlier than they have been for many previous years. The majority of candidates will be finished on Friday June 28, there being only one examination held over until July.

Application forms have been distributed and have been completed by the students, so all that remains is to wait and to hope for the best. The student who has religiously applied himself to his books is not worrying while the average scholar is wondering what the future has in store for him and is making the age old resolution: "Next year I will study from the start and will not neglect my homework."

In the Upper School in the collegiate there are 37 candidates who will be trying while 125 scholars intend to write the Middle School papers.

The Time table is as follows:

Upper School—Monday June 17: English composition, Problems. Tuesday 18—Algebra and History. Wednesday 18—English Literature. Thursday 20—Geometry and Chemistry. Friday 21—Latin Authors, Latin Composition. Monday 24—French Authors, French Literature, French Composition. Tuesday 25—Spanish Authors and Spanish Composition. Wednesday 26—Trignometry and Physics. Thursday 27—Botany and Zoology. Friday 28—German Authors and German Composition. Tuesday July 2—Greek Authors and Greek Composition.

Middle School, Monday 17—English Composition and Physics. Tuesday 18—Algebra and Canadian History. Wednesday 19—English Literature, Ancient History and Music; Thursday 20, Geometry and Composition. Friday June 21—Latin Authors and Latin Composition. Monday June 24—French Authors, French Composition and French Literature. Tuesday 25—Spanish Authors, first year Agriculture, Spanish Composition and second year agriculture. Thursday 27—Arithmetic, Household Science, 1, Household Science 2, Friday 28—German Authors and German Composition.

Lower School—Thursday 20—Agriculture (1st and 2nd year), Friday June 21—Geography and Arithmetic. Monday 24—English and French Grammar and Zoology. Tuesday 25—Art and History. Wednesday 26—Physiography and Botany.

Model School Entrance—Monday June 24—English Grammar and French Composition. Wednesday 26—French Composition. Thursday June 27—English Composition and French Literature. Friday 28—English Literature, English Spelling and French Spelling.

High School Entrance—Tuesday 25 French Literature. Tuesday 25—French Grammar, French spelling, French Composition. Wednesday 26—English Composition. Thursday 27—English Literature, spelling and grammar. Friday June 28—Arithmetic and Geography.

The wrestling game in this country has been dead for some time but recently the ambitious promoter, Ivan Mickaloff, a former grappler, has been waking things up by putting on several high-class mauling matches in Toronto.

The young Canadian wrestler, Jack Taylor, has been getting plenty of breaks in these matches and is rapidly becoming a world title contender.

He has won his bouts against men of the best calibre in the game. Not only has he been making good in Canada, but has made several successful invasions of the United States.

BASEBALL CLUB LOSES EQUIPMENT

Valuable Articles Stolen in Robbery At Oshawa Ball Park.

OSHAWA, May 30.—The General Motors Senior Baseball Club received another setback over the past week-end when some person or persons broke into the shed in which their equipment was stored and stole a number of necessary articles.

Some time between the finish of the game on Friday last (the holiday) and Monday evening the judges' stand at Alexandra Park, which is stationed alongside the track and just to the south of the grand stand was entered, the locks on the strong boxes were broken and every baseball along with a catcher's mitt, several fielding gloves and pair of shoes were stolen. Entrance was gained by knocking out a board near the top on the right hand or north side of the building, after which the miscreants had only to descend to the ground floor and proceed with their work. The locks on the strong boxes, the property of General Motors Baseball Club, must have proved more difficult as each lock was of a reliable make and evidence shows that they took some breaking. Broken they were however and the listed equipment was taken. The motors Club is the only Club that had any equipment stored in this building and are the sole losers through the malicious pilfering of the week-end sneak thieves.

Nothing was known of the robbery until Monday evening when Manager Matt Sutton had his squad out for its first work out since their game on Friday. On entering the building it was plain that all was not well within and on investigation the loss was valued at close to one hundred dollars. The practise was not held up however as Matt made a flying trip to the shopping area of the city and secured enough baseballs to hold the usual workout.

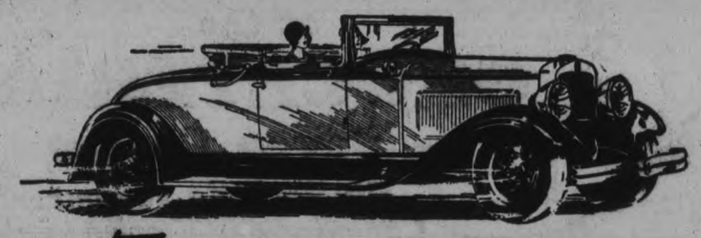
Leads the World in Motor Car Value



3 Cabriolets

STANDARD SIX Delivered, Fully Equipped $1314
SPECIAL SIX Delivered, Fully Equipped $1942
ADVANCED SIX Delivered, Fully Equipped $2401

Lower, Delivered, Completely Equipped Prices

FOR those who like to be out and going—top down—nothing but blue skies above—Nash designers built three smart "400" Cabriolets.

With the top up and windows raised, they are luxurious closed cars—with the top down and windows either down or up, they are smart open cars. All have a big, comfortable, roomy rumble seat.

The Standard Six Cabriolet is one of the most popular cars in its price field, because it combines the smart open-enclosed motoring vogue with Standard Six performance superiority.

It has a big, high compression, 7-bearing motor for power and speed—"400" steering for the world's easiest driving—Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers, for cushioned smoothness over all kinds of roads.

The Special and Advanced Six Cabriolets are distinguished by such "400" features as the new Twin-Ignition motor, Bijur Centralized Chassis Lubrication—press a pedal, your car is oiled—Lovejoy and Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers.

And, every "400" model comes from the factory equipped with bumpers, hydraulic shock absorbers, spare tire lock and tire cover, at no extra cost. Some dealers, charge as much as $50 or $60 extra for bumpers alone.

Compare these Cabriolets to others, then compare their fully equipped, delivered prices. You'll see the advantage in buying a Nash!

HON. RAMSAY MACDONALD.
First Labor Premier of Great Britain, and whose Party made a Strong Come-Back at the Polls Yesterday.

ANXIETY ABOUT KING'S HEALTH RELIEVED BY BULLETIN TO-DAY

Doctors, However, Say His Majesty Must Remain in Bed.

CONDITION GOOD.

Minor Operation Indicated By Wording of Official Statement.

WINDSOR, May 31. (C.P.) — The thrill of anxiety for the safety of the nation's sovereign, which had pulsed throughout the country since yesterday's announcement that King George was again confined to bed, was somewhat relieved this afternoon by the issuance of an official medical bulletin.

This showed that although His Majesty was suffering from an abscess in the chest, which was the seat of his grave illness last winter, his general condition was good. There was seemingly no cause for immediate alarm.

Another reassuring statement by the doctors was that while the King must keep to his bed, his condition was not such as to preclude his transacting such public business as it might be necessary to bring to his attention.

Although it was not explicitly stated in the bulletin, there has apparently been a minor operation on His Majesty. This was indicated by the statement that drainage was in progress from the abscess.

Lord Dawson of Penn, His Majesty's court physician, was recalled from a continental holiday to the King's bedside. Sir Stanley Hewett has been in constant attendance on the Kng here at Windsor, while Dr. Martin, the third physician, is the doctor of the Royal Family at Windsor. The three physicians had a lengthy consultation this morning.

SUNDAY SHOWS BANNED

MONTREAL, Que., May 31.—Admission of minors under sixteen years of age to moving picture theatres of the Province of uebec and the opening of such theatres on Sunday are denied in judgments rendered by the Courts of Appeals to-day.

In unanimous judgments of the Court rendered by Mr. Justice Dorion, the Quebec Moving Picture Law, which prohibits minors from attending picture shows is found to be legal, and valid, and Sunday shows are found to be illegal, under the Lord's Day Act.

TELLS POLICE HE KILLED MAN

Authorities Drag St. Clair River For Body of Victim.

MOTIVE UNKNOWN

WINDSOR, Ont., May 31.—(C.P.)—Following a statement made by Lawrence Desrosiers, 20, of Tecumseh, Ont., that he had killed Ernest Ducharme, aged 32, of the same town last Monday morning, police are now dragging the St. Clair river for the body of Ducharme.

Desrosiers, who was arrested yesterday, is said to have admitted to Chief Gerald Desjardins, of Tecumseh, that he struck Ducharme on the head with a piece of scantling, killing him, during a fight in front of Desrosiers' home. According to his story he removed the body to a deserted summer cottage, weighed it with

British Election Results In Detail

Political Leaders Elected

Ramsay MacDonald, Labor Leader, Polled Crushing Vote Over Two Opponents.

TORY MAJORITY LOST

Female Representation in the Next Parliament Was Increased to Eleven.

Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary for the Colonies in the former Labor government, was re-elected as one of the two members for Derby.

Major Rt. Hon. G. C. Tryon, Minister of Pensions, was re-elected. The Duchess of Atholl, Parliamentary Secretary to the Board of Education and the only woman among Premier Baldwin's ministers, was also re-elected as was the Solicitor General of Scotland, Alexander MacRobert.

At 4.30 p.m. the Government's absolute majority in the House of Commons had been lost. At that hour the Labor party's representation totalled 256, the Liberals 43, and Independents 7, which is one more than half the total of the House of Commons. The Conservatives had elected 218 members, as compared with 400 at dissolution.

LEADERS ELECTED.

LONDON, May 31 (Canadian Press Cable). — All three political leaders have been re-elected to the House of Commons. Right. Hon. J. Ramsay Macdonald, Labor leader, was elected in the Seaham Division of Durham.

Premier Baldwin was re-elected in Bewdley, Worcester, with a plurality [illegible]

Lloyd George also came through from his own constituency of Carnavon district, Wales, by a wide margin, the vote being as follows: Lloyd George, 16,647; J. Bowen Davies, Cons., 7,516; and Thomas A. P. Rhys, Labor, 4,536.

MacDonald's Victory.

Mr. MacDonald polled a crushing vote over his two opponents, totalling 35,615, against 6,821 for W. A. Fearnley-Whittingstall, Conservative, and 1,431 for P. Pollitt, one of the leaders of the British Community Party, who waged a particularly bitter campaign against the former Prime Minister.

WOMEN MEMBERS.

LONDON, May 31 (Canadian Press Cable).—Female representation in the next Parliament increased to 10 with the re-election in North Lanark of Miss Jennie Lee, daughter of a miner, who won the seat at a recent by-election She defeated Lord Scone, Conservative, again.

Mrs. Walter Runciman, Liberal member of the last Parliament, was defeated in Tavistock, Devonshire. Her husband was re-elected, however, in St. Ives, Cornwall, Mrs. Runciman's last seat. She had spent a large part of her time in her husband's constituency in this campaign owing to her husband's illness.

The eleventh election of a woman candidate to the next Parliament was reported from Sunderland, where Dr. Marion Phillips of the Labor party won one of the two seats in that borough.

Searchers Recover Bodies

Third Is Found To-day Four Miles Down the River.

CAME TO SURFACE.

Girl's Remains Brought To City Late This Afternoon.

The bodies of the three unfortunate persons who lost their lives in the flood waters of the Otonabee thirteen days ago, were recovered by three o'clock this afternoon.

The body of Anne Lucas was the last to be recovered and was found this afternoon about 3 o'clock floating four miles down the river on the Otonabee shore, just this side of the T.A.S. Park. James McMartin, resident of that district, telephoned the police, who immediately notified friends at the Empress Hotel and proceeded to the scene where the body was recovered from the river.

Two bodies, that of Dick Bell and of Alex. Scobel, were recovered from the river late yesterday afternoon. Twelve long days, almost to the hour, after the three young people had disappeared beneath the flood-current of the Otonabee River, the two bodies were taken from the river's grip. They were both first glimpsed as they floated within a hundred feet of the tragic scene.

It was while the heavy thunderstorm was raging that the first body was seen and recovered. This led the searchers to believe that the loud crashes of thunder caused the bodies to come to the top.

No sooner was one body found than the men manned the boats and plied to-and-fro, eyes intently fixed on the river. At 6.20 last evening Chief Gimblett called for volunteers. At once the men responded, and with a complete crew the search was resumed. At daybreak this morning the men were out looking for the one remaining body.

Dr. T. W. H. Young said that an inquest would be held, but as yet no date had been set for it.

The body of Dick Bell was the first to be removed from the river. It was seen about 3.40 p.m. as it floated down, head and shoulders above the surface, some 125 feet below the dam on the east bank just below where the tragedy had occurred.

The men occupied in the search had been forced by the heavy downpour of rain to seek shelter in automobiles on the west bank. It was while they were sitting in the cars, with the rain teeming down and thunder echoing noisely, that the shout went up, "There's a body" Instantly the men sprang from the cars, climbed into the boats and set the motors chugging.

The body had floated down, with the current, which is still swift to a point nearly opposite the old street railway wharf before the first boat

NEWS IN BRIEF

(By Canadian Press)

REPARATIONS AGREEMENT

PARIS, May 31.—Germany and the creditor experts to-day agreed on the question of lifting the lien on the German railways and on several other German conditions to acceptance of the Young plan.

It was definitely decided also that the question of the reimbursement of Belgium for German war-time marks shall be eliminated from the experts' report, leaving the two governments to negotiate their differences.

FIVE DEATHS

SYRACUSE, N.Y., May 31.—Four persons were drowned, one was killed and 12 injured in automobile accidents in central New York on Memorial Day.

250 ON HUNGER STRIKE

MEXICO CITY, May 31.—Two hundred and fifty Mexican railroad men were on a hunger strike in the chambers of the National Supreme Court to-day in protest at the court's having rendered a judgment adverse to them.

The court's decision was rejection of an application to overrule an arbitration committee which took from them their status as union employees after a strike in 1926. The arbitration committee ruled that the strike was illegal and that the men who struck could not return to their jobs.

PARACHUTES TO DEATH

SCRANTON, Pa., May 31.—A holiday crowd at the Ackerly Speedway auto race saw a parachute jumper fall 2,700 feet to his death when his parachute failed to open in a leap from an airplane.

Edgar R. Knocks, 22, of Mullica, N.J., was to make the leap as an exhibition feature of the program.

X-RAY TAKEN

HARTSDALE, N.Y., May 31.—X-ray photographs were taken to-day to determine whether Miss Evangeline Booth, Commander of the Salvation Army in America, suffered a fracture of the skull when she was thrown against the top of her automobile a week ago.

Dr. Walker Clark Tilden said that Miss Booth had spent a restful night and continued to show general improvement. The photographs were not expected to be developed until tonight or tomorrow.

LIBERALS INTACT.

Loss to Opposition of More Than Half Seats is Conceded.

LONDON, May 31 (By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent). — The Baldwin Government is defeated. At a quarter-past five this afternoon the combined Opposition had secured well over half of the total seats in the new House of Commons.

But it was equally clear Labor could not secure a majority, although well in the lead.

The story is told by these figures:

Lloyd-George with his 46 Liberals is master of the situation. His losses and gains have been equalized, and his party is intact.

That is to say, 46 Liberals are already elected, and 46 Liberals sat in the last House at dissolution. Lloyd-George, therefore, has the cheering prospect of adding to his following from the 67 ridings yet to report; some Welsh are certain for his column. In the gains and losses column to date, Liberals have won 22 seats and lost 14, pointing to a final net gain of at least eight seats, which would give Lloyd-George 54. With the Conservatives and Laborites not far from balanced the little Welsh Wizard thus holds all the trumps. It is a situation reminiscent of the eighties and nineties when the Irishmen held the balance of power as between Liberals and Unionists. One hears on every side gossip about a possible coalition against the Socialists. But that is easier said than done. Failing that, what? Another election in the late autumn?

A Dramatic Hour

At this tabulation the Conservative net losses were 113 and Labor net gains 105, the account being balanced by eight net Liberal gains. Ridings yet to report will mean some readjustment to these figures, but not material, for the situation is at last definitely defined. The ballot box has said its say and soon it will be time for the statesmen to talk. The hour is intensely dramatic.

But on the other hand it is common knowledge that Labor leaders believe if they are called upon to form a government a number of the more advanced Liberals will swing to their side, thus definitely breaking up the historic Liberal party. This assumes Labor will not only have the largest group in the house—which appears certain—but they will be so close to a clear majority that the accession of a few radicals from the Liberal fold will complete it. That is assuming a good deal. And it leaves that most astute political leader, Lloyd George, quite out of the picture.

Majority Over 10,000

LONDON, May 31 (C.P. Cable).—James Maxton, fiery leader of the Independent Labor Party wing of the Labor party, was re-elected in the Bridgeton division of Glasgow by a majority of more than ten thousand votes.

"By getting control of the government machinery of this country," he

KING GEORGE SUFFERS RELAPSE ABSCESS FORMS ON SIDE OF CHEST

To-day's' Bulletin Said His Majesty Passed Fair Night.

MUST REMAIN IN BED.

Will Be Able To Transact All Public Business Bulletin States.

LONDON, May 31 (Canadian Press).—A bulletin issued at Windsor Castle to-day said "King George had fair night."

"An abscess has former under site of old scar on right side of his chest and is now draining. His general condition remains good.

"Though the King will need to remain in bed, His Majesty will be able to transact public business."

(Signed) "Henry L. Martyn.
"Sir Stanley Hewitt.
"Dawson of Penn."

The shock caused by news that His Majesty had suffered a relapse was twofold. First, from its unexpectedness, since most of his subjects thought their ruler normally convalescent, and second, from the gravity of the King's malady. Empyema is considered a dangerous disease, particularly apt to strike a sudden mortal blow.

Few persons knew that His Majesty had suffered a relapse. The fact was not published in London, and the voting in the general elections yesterday had distracted and absorbed the attention of everyone in England.

The entire nation was looking forward to a thanksgiving service for His Majesty's recovery at Westminster Abbey, June 16, once the general election was disposed of. The program for this service was issued only yesterday and is "in thanksgiving to Almighty God for His providence, whereby our most gracious Sovereign has been delivered from severe illness to the comfort of the whole realm, and for the signal love and loyalty of his people made manifest in the time of trouble."

Lord Dawson of Penn, the court physician, came to Croydon airdrome from Paris yesterday afternoon, but it did not necessarily follow that his presence was urgently required by the gravity of the King's condition. The chief court physician is required to be present at even the slightest malady of the Sovereign.

King George has not been mentioned in the court circular of Windsor Castle since last Sunday, which was the birthday of Queen Mary. The King and Queen, together with Princess Mary, Viscount Lascelles, and the

JUDGMENT IS RESERVED IN ARSON CASE

Warsaw Man Appears On Serious Charge Following Recent Fires.

EVIDENCE HEARD.

Citizens Tell of Two Blazes Within Week in Dummer Village.

Two charges were laid by the Crown yesterday afternoon against John S. Moore, former Warsaw resident, at the preliminary inquiry, held in the Town Hall of that village. The first charge was for an attempt to set fire to buildings on March 20, and the second was the more serious charge of arson, resulting from the fire which destroyed his house and contents with the butcher shop owned by him on March 26, 1929.

Magistrate O. A. Langley, of Peterborough, conducted the proceedings. The Crown was represented by Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K. C., while the defendant was represented by J. A. O'Brien.

Roland McCaully, a resident of Warsaw for five years, was the first witness called. On August 28, 1928, he owned property which he sold to the defendant for $1,650, and received payment by a cheque for $1,000, notes he owed for $400, and the balance in cash. The property was used as a butcher shop. On March 20, when the first fire took place, the witness stated tht he was in Pyne's and Darling's store, and noticed sparks and smoke about 8 o'clock in the evening, which on investigation was found to be coming from the property of John Moore. The accused told the witness that he did not know how the fire started.

Second Fire Week Later.

About a week later the second fire occurred. That night the witness was at Payne's and Darling's store until about 10.30, after which he went to George Wells', where he played cards. About 12.30 someone was heard to run up the street and kick at the door. On leaving the house the reflection from the fire was seen at Moore's place. On hurrying to the fire he helped to save the other buildings as the house was practically gone. Later McCaully saw the accused on the roof of the stable, fully dressed in rubbers and overalls putting out the fire.

He admitted that he and Moore were not the best of friends, and also admitted that he had not heard that there was a rumor in the vil-

PRESENTATION TO YOUNG COUPLE

Members of Young People's Society of Warkworth Church Hold Social Evening.

WARKWORTH, Ont., May 31 (Examiner Correspondence).—A most enjoyable time was spent when a large representation of members of St. Paul's Church met in the Sunday School room Wednesday evening to show their esteem to Miss Verna Thompson and Mrs. O. E. Kelly, each of whom were active workers in the Young People's society and Sunday school.

The following program was given and much appreciated: Piano solo, Ina Bowen; reading, Jack Allen; vocal duet, Elizabeth and Mabel Duncan; reading, Jean Walker; piano solo, Clara Helson. Following these numbers contests conducted by Mrs. G. B. Bowen, Mrs. E. Edgar and Jean Walker afforded much amusement. The chairman, Mr. P. S Ewing, then addressed the young couple in his usual, pleasing manner, and Jean Bowen presented Miss Thompson with a half dozen silver knives and forks, while Allen Buchanan presented Mr. Kelly with a club bag. Each in turn, in a few well chosen words, expressed their thanks and appreciation. A sing-song followed after which dainty refreshments were served and brought the evening to a close.

Anniversary services are being held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Sunday, June 2. The speaker for the day being Rev. W. M. Rochester, D.D., Toronto, editor of The Presbyterian Record.

Tory Party Loses Out

Labor at 3 P.M. Is Running Neck and Neck With Other Parties.

206 MEMBERS ELECTED.

203 Seats Remain To Be Heard From—Liberals Secure 26.

LONDON, May 31 (Canadian Press Cable). — At three o'clock this afternoon the Labor Party was running neck and neck with the aggregate membership of the other parties.

To-day's early returns from yesterday's general election brought Labor gains from the Conservatives in Nottingham South, the Peterborough Division of Northampton, Carlisle, Leeds Central, Coventry, West Ham and Frome. In Coventry the Laborite, P. J. Noel Baker, defeated Major Sir Archibald Boyd-Carpenter, former financial secretary to the Admiralty in the Conservative government.

In the Central Division of Nottingham and East Harwich, the Liberals made gains from the Conservatives. In other divisions the Conservative majorities were cut down, except in Eastbourne and Oxford, where the Government candidates increased their votes over the 1924 election.

In Shoreditch, London, Labor gave a knockout to Viscount Knebworth, well known amateur boxer, running as a Conservative, Ernest Thurtle, Labor member of the last House, was the successful candidate. Viscount Knebworth is the son and heir of Lord Lytton. Thurtle has been a consistent advocate of the abolition of capital punishment in the Army.

L. H. Gluckstein, the Conservative in East Nottingham, was the tallest candidate in the field. He stands six feet, seven and a half inches in height.

Father of 20 Children.

A. Hayday, the Laborite elected in West Nottingham, is the father of 20 children. He increased his majority from 2,992 in the 1924 election to 10,317 yesterday.

First election result received last night recorded election of R. C. Bourne, Conservative in Oxford. He was a member in last house.

FOUR MEN KILLED IN TRUCK CRASH

MEDICINE HAT, Alta., May 31.—(Canadian Press). — Four persons were killed on the Shannon Ranch, north of here to-day when a truck went over a twenty foot embankment. The dead are:

Dave Shannon, ranch owner; Ivan Northcott, Frank Berry and Jack Hoffman, employees.

Details of the tragedy are lacking. The truck was proceeding along the road until it reached a sharp turn and for some reason failed to make the turn, plunging over the bank. The accident occurred within a short distance of the ranch house.

TORONTO, May 31. — Egg receipts continue to be fairly heavy, notwithstanding the fact that production is falling off slightly due to the warm weather. Trading is fair, and eggs are moving into storage freely. Prices are holding steady, and dealers report that there is no indication of stronger price tendencies in the immediate future, but that if the warm weather continues production will undoubtedly show a sharp reduction, which will automatically impart a firmer feeling in trading circles.

Quotations to country shippers for ungraded eggs, delivered, and cases returned, are as follows: Fresh extras, 27c to 28c per dozen; firsts, 25c to 26c; and seconds, 22c to 23c per dozen.

Butter-Making Active.

Domestic production of butter is active throughout the country, and receipts on the local market are increasing daily. Supplies are sufficient to meet the demands of the retail trade, and, although trading is not active, butter is passing into buyers' hands as quickly as it arrives.

No. 1 finest creamery is quoted at 36½c per pound, with No. 2 grade 1c per pound lower.

The cheese market is quiet, and prices are unchanged.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, May 31. — The lowest levels since 1923-24 were touched by wheat prices yesterday when the bottom fell out of the market through unexpected weakness at Liverpool, stop-loss selling and unloading by tired holders. The market, after falling as far as 5c in the October future, closed with losses of 4⅝c to 4⅜c for the day. Further heavy rains in the West were also a factor in the drop.

May wheat dropped 4⅞c to $1.06¼, July 4¾c to $1.05¼, and October 5c to $1.03¼. The market rallied somewhat from these low points.

Reports from Liverpool indicated an improvement in export trade, but this failed to stem the downward trend.

Dullness marked the cash wheat trade, practically no demand being shown for any of the grades. Prices were unchanged to ¼c easier.

Declines also appeared in coarse grains, oats at one period dropping nearly 2c and barley falling 1½c near the close. Rye declined in sympathy with wheat, while flax ruled 1¾c lower throughout the session.

JUDGMENT IS RESERVED

lage that he was accused of setting fire to the place. In the building that was destroyed he had some personal property such as lumber and rope and that he had been informed that the accused had been used for rabbit pens. Several attempts were made by McCaully to secure these, but he was warned by Moore to stay away from the place until taxes that were in arrears were paid by him. Dates other than the nights of the fire were not recalled when he was cross-examined by Mr. O'Brien.

The next witness called was William A. Richardson, representative of the Economical Insurance Company in Norwood, who gave evidence as to the amount of insurance carried on the buildings and the contents.

William J. Moore, uncle of the accused, next gave evidence. He said he had loaned Moore $600 to purchase the property. He was in the house when the first fire started. John was upstairs putting the baby to bed. In ten or fifteen minutes the fire was discovered, and the witness than rushed out for pails. When he returned there were many men on the scene who had extinguished the blaze. The fire was peculiar in the respect that it had broken out in several places. It was suggested that the wood piled in the shed be thrown out, but this was not done, as the accused objected, because he believed it was not necessary, and he would watch for a further outbreak. There was no peculiar odour noticed at the time.

Loaned $1,000.

Everett Moore, another witness testified that he loaned John $1,000 on his endorsed note to purchase the building. Payment for this was not yet received, as it was not due.

David Craig, of the Pinkerton Detective Agency, at the request of Fire Marshal Heaton, investigated the fires, and made a number of statements that were not taken as evidence.

Rufus Payne, of Warsaw, the proprietor of Darling & Payne's store was in his shop at the time of the alarm. The rest of the men in the store went to the blaze while he remained behind in the store to put away his books, after which he went and helped to extinguish the blaze. There was a peculiar odour in the building where the fire occurred, he stated, smelling something like gas or coal oil.

No Fire Outside.

Uriah Payne, a native of the district, stated that the blaze shot along the ridge of the wood shed inside and that there was no fire outside. He saw the accused throwing water on the woodpile and trying his best to extinguish the fire. Some of the wood was thrown out, but Moore did not want the rest thrown into the yard, even after neighbors offered to help him put it back in again. When talking with Moore next day, the latter stated that it was a mysterious fire and that someone must have started it.

George Lonsberry did not arrive at the fire until it was nearly out, but he saw small sticks smouldering after the main blaze had been extinguished. Lonsberry was employed on Saturdays by Moore to help in the butcher shop and stated that there was not enough money taken in to keep a man and his wife. Mr. Moore did not peddle meat, but kept rabbits and bees. The witness was unable to say if there was any money in these or not. However, business was not too good.

Mark Lonsberry, son of George Lonsberry, was next called, but added no new evidence. This was the case, and Mr. O'Brien asked for dismissal of the charge on the grounds of insufficient evidence, while Mr. Hatton, on the grounds of circumstantial evidence, claimed there was sufficient evidence to call for trial at the June sittings.

Magistrate Langley rested his verdict until June 4th.

Second Charge.

Witnesses then were called for the second charge, which was arson. The evidence was similar to the first case. David Crary, the detective, read to the Court a signed statement by the accused of the happenings at the fires. The details of this was similar to the evidence given. Roland Payne was at the fire and pumped water, but noticed no peculiar odours. William Richardson again explained the insurance policies as given in the first charge and applying to the second. Roland McCaully's evidence was practically the same as in the first case. Uriah Payne saw the accused trying to save the stable when all hope was given up for the house, which was a total mass of flames, but did not know what time Moore left the burning house. John Digweed, storekeeper and telephone operator, received a call about 12.15 that John Moore's house was on fire, and he then notified various people, after which his wife took over the work while he filled fire extinguishers. Mr. Moore lived across the street from the fire, but the witness stated that it was quicker to telephone than to run across the street to give the alarm on the part of the accused. He could not identify the voice that sent the alarm, but did not deny that it was Moore's.

Judgment on this case was reserved by Magistrate Langley until Tuesday, June 4. The prisoner was allowed to go on $500 bail.

SUNDAY FLYING.

The Stratford Ministerial Association is butting up against a stone wall in protesting against Sunday flying on the ground that it introduces an element of noise into the quiet of an Ontario Sabbath.

Why worry about the occasional hum of an airplane engine when there are thousands of automobiles, young and old, big and small, running around?

So far as is known there have been no complaints in regard to Sunday motoring, so it is a little difficult to understand why aircraft should be singled out for attack.

Besides, if many authorities are right, it will not be long before airplanes will be in common use by hundreds of people, who certainly will refuse to accept restrictions covering the use of their aircraft when there are none dealing with the use of land machines.

The Stratford ministers might as well save their ammunition for a more serious emergency; the airplane is here to stay and people might as well get used to it as soon as possible.

NOT HELPING A GREAT DEAL.

It is far from likely that the process of Canadianizing some of our new citizens has been helped by the bitter discussion over Central European immigration that has been heard in the House this week.

The remarks accredited to Bishop Lloyd of Saskatchewan and the heated reply to them by M. Luchkovich, United Farmer member for Vegreville, Alta., make difficult the task of weaving these new Canadians into the ways of Canadian citizenship.

Most Canadians would prefer to see more Britishers settling in this country, and to know that new arrivals from the Old Country outnumber immigrants from the Continent.

In fairness, however, it must be admitted that many of these latter immigrants have made good in Canada and have made a notable contribution to the growth and development of sections of the Western Provinces, and it is surely possible to press for more British stock without finding it necessary to irritate and hurt those of other nationalities who have come to make their homes in Canada.

The bitterness that has developed will be regretted by every fair-minded Canadian.

SHOULD BE CONTROLLED.

Sooner or later it will be necessary for the Ontario Government to deal with the question of licensing the places offering accommodation for tourists.

These shelters, for the most part small one-roomed cottages, are to be found in ever increasing numbers along the provincial highways.

Everywhere more of them are being built this summer, indicating that the business has hitherto been a lucrative one for the pioneers in the movement.

It is obvious that the time has come for these places to be taken under control.

Licensed hotels are under constant supervision and must keep a register, while false registration is an offence punishable by a heavy fine.

These tourist huts, which compete with the hotels, are free from all such restrictions; there is no register and no questions are asked when parties apply for accommodation.

Admittedly, we have an abundance of laws and regulations in this country, and there is natural reluctance for that reason about advocating further restrictions, but certainly the present conditions in regard to tourist stopping places along the highways open the way to abuses and call for attention on the part of the authorities.

THE HORN NUISANCE.

With the citizen who wrote to the "Voice o. the People" column last night to complain about the motorists who make their auto horns service in place of ringing the door-bell, we have every sympathy, but we're afraid there is little to be done about it.

We've tried it; we've poured out yards of reputed sarcasm for the benefit of these misguided youths, and that very same night a couple of swains played auto-horn music in our block for ten minutes until the girl friends condescended to go out.

Writing about the nuisance gets exactly nowhere; a shotgun might do the trick, but the police are inclined to frown down any attempt to discourage this form of music by gun-play.

There should be no closed season for the fellow who sits outside and tootles his motor horn to tell the object of his affections that he has arrived, nor for his cousin who away back at the end of a line of stationary cars plays a horn rhapsody, nor the driver who thinks that a wedding isn't legal unless the plaxons are almost put out of business, nor the auto salesmen who put on a parade of new cars with motor horn accompaniment.

But, unfortunately, all such are protected by the game laws, and the rest of us will have to keep on suffering.

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS.

An analysis of crossing accidents investigated by the Dominion Board of Railway Commissioners last year makes interesting reading. It is a matter of record that in all the jousts between trains and automobiles the trains have never come out second best, but motorists continue to hurl their reckless challenges. The driver of a motor car who would deliberately run into a stone wall would be considered to be a fit subject for padded-cell treatment. What, then, of the 400 motorists who last year crashed into crossing gates that were lowered to protect them from approaching trains? In 100 other cases investigated by the board, it was brought out that the motorists had attempted to beat the trains to the crossing and had lost the contest. Eternity claimed many of these drivers and others were maimed for life. There were 44 others who drove motor cars into the sides of moving trains and 18 who crashed into standing trains. There is not a railway crossing in a civilized community in Canada that is without a warning sign. Those signs are put there for the protection of the public and constitute an invitation to exercise caution. The attitude of a lot of motorists, it seems, towards these warning signs is that they were put there for the other fellow. Consider the case of the man who stopped his car on a railroad track and walked back along the road to pick up something he had dropped. And the episode of the truck driver who parked his car on a track while he busied himself adjusting the load. An interesting case, worthy of psychological study, too, was that of the motorist who stalled his car on a railroad crossing and then stretched out on the cushions to enjoy a nap, running the risk of taking one from which he would never awaken. All motorists have to pass driving tests before licenses are granted them to operate cars on the public highways, but we are getting close to the day, it seems, when applicants will have to be subjected to mental examinations as well. Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Highways in Ontario, has launched his annual campaign to reduce the terrific traffic toll and he asks motorists to be particularly careful over the holiday and week-end, when it is to be expected the highways will be congested with motor vehicles. Drivers are asked to be content with the traffic pace, which automatically fixes itself. Consideration of the other fellow is the best safeguard of one's own life and limb on busy highways, it has been demonstrated.—Hamilton Spectator.

FARM JOBS.

It is to be hoped that instances of young men turning down farm jobs while waiting for something else to turn up, which were quite frequent in Saskatchewan last year, and which have also been the case in other years, are not going to be repeated on any wholesale scale at any rate, this year. A dispatch from Saskatoon suggests that this may be the case. A group of unemployed there staged a demonstration of protest when they failed to get railway jobs which they had expected, but it transpires that many of them had refused jobs on farms where the wages were $50 a month and board. Some men turned down jobs of this nature while complaining that they had not had a meal for two days.

There can be no sympathy with men of this type, yet it is regrettable that they do not discern that in agriculture in this Province, as also in the other Provinces of Canada, there is a bright future. The main thing is to get a start. One doesn't need to remain the "hired man" very long. Out of one or two years' savings as "hired man" the frugal worker is in a position to make a payment on a quarter section, also a payment on home and implements, and "go to it." This was done in some instances in the West, last year, in the case of British miner-harvesters and they are now succeeding on the land—self-respecting and experienced farmers after only a year or two in the country. It has been the same with men who recently told of their experiences in a contest conducted by this newspaper. The winner of this contest was a bookkeeper in Ireland until he came to this country three years ago. He now owns a farm in Tugaske district, a farm acquired out of his savings as a hired man, and he is branching out in agriculture steadily.—Regina Leader.

RADIO'S MISSION.

Federal control of radio broadcasting was urged before the Dominion Radio Commission by Mr. George Williams, president of the United Farmers, in Saskatoon, on the ground that private control and operation might prove inimical to the co-operative movement. Mr. J. F. Garrett, of the Western Producer, while arguing for the continuation of operation by commercial stations, also desired a "more vigorous and intelligent control" by the Dominion authorities. The commission which is now taking evidence in Western Canada will not be swayed by partisan consideration; it will take a broad, national view of its responsibilities and will not be actuated by a desire to serve any particular interests; but the fact that the published opinions of the commissioners favored the British system of Government control would support the belief that, when the report is eventually published, this aspect of the question will be given special prominence. Mr. William R. Castle, Assistant Secretary of State for the United States, in his speech at the Montreal Canadian Club on Monday, touched upon the subject of American broadcasting in its relation to Canada. He said that there was an insistent demand in this Dominion for concerts emanating from the United States, and advised Canadian stations to make their programs so attractive that not only citizens of Canada but American listeners as well would clamor for more. Canadians are not ungrateful for the privilege of listening to United States programs, many of which are excellent, but it is natural to desire an extension of the broadcasting facilities now available in this country. The influence of radio on the national spirit is unquestionably great; more Canadian programs for Canadian citizens is the ideal. It is scarcely realized how limitless are the possibilities of radio in the elevation of popular taste. The use of wireless in education has been carried to important lengths in Great Britain, whereas scarcely a beginning has been made in Canada in this direction.—Hamilton Spectator.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

It is estimated that the number of people who asked yesterday, "Is it warm enough for you?" broke all previous records.

Peterborough bathers will now begin to regret the shortsightedness of the taxpayers in voting down the Inverlea Park by-law.

With a circus coming June 24 and Old Home Week following immediately after, the small boy will refuse to listen to anybody who tries to tell him there is a better place than Peterborough.

The Globe has taken Mr. Sinclair to task for attacking the Ferguson educational policy. The Liberal leader would have been on surer ground, so far as the Globe is concerned, if he had assaulted the Government's liquor policy.

The Memorial Day rush of American motorists over the border yesterday augurs well for this summer's business, which promises to assume tourist proportions.

A Thought

STRIFE AND FREEDOM.

The fool impatient of control,
Must prove himself in every strife;
Age finds him with a withered soul,
Not Nature only he defies,
The forces from the old obeyed,
But ever lifst the bitterest cries
Against the bonds himself hath made.

The wise man sees in every let
The purpose of the soul made plain,
A warning and a signal set
To point it to its own domain.

The wise man storms not nor complains,
But lets his quiet spirit shine,
And knows himself beyond his chains
A boundless mood of the divine.

Horoscope

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

Saturday, June 1, 1929.

(Copyright McClure Newspaper Syn.)

Astrologers read this as a favorable day in planetary direction. Certain adverse influences are active, however.

It is a date most fortunate for all amusement enterprises and especially promising for musical programs.

Theatres should benefit from this direction of the stars which encourages beauty and idealism, rather than sordid realism.

Gardens are to become extraordinarily lovely in America where supreme art will be brought to country estates, it is foretold.

All the signs appear to presage for the United States a period in which superb achievements will be the rule in the arts as well as commerce or business.

It has been frequently prophesied by those who read the future that immense wealth will continue to pile up and many new millionaires result in the year 1929.

Lovers should flourish under this sway which is believed to incline both men and women toward romance.

It is a lucky day for weddings for long and harmonious association is indicated. Prosperity should attend to-day's marriages.

While the planetary government encourages activity in the realm of intellectual or artistic pursuits it is not favorable for financial ventures.

The wise will defer dealings with bankers or creditors until a more auspicious date.

Writers of every class may find this rather an unsatisfactory direction of the stars, but it merely arrests activity before assuring improved work, the seers declare.

Again the rise of new authors of splendid attainments is prophesied. Fiction as well as biography and history should benefit greatly from the planetary government of the next few months.

Persons whose birthdate it is, have the forecast of a year of fair prosperity but there may be law suits. Caution regarding legal papers is recommended.

Children born on this day probably will be fascinating in personality and artistic in their tastes. These subjects of Gemini may have varied talents and surprising careers.

Eben Tourgee, musician, was born on this date 1834. Others who claimed this as a birthday were Junius Tilton, 1745, famous physician, and Brigham Young, 1801, Mormon leader.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE WORK THE OUIJA BOARD

The ouija board has almost passed out of sight and mind. Some few years ago it was quite the rage, just as was mah jong, the Chinese game, which came and went like any other fad.

Nevertheless many people are still mystified by ouija, which is a board on which the alphabet and various signs also the words yes and no in the upper right and left hand corners, respectively, are written. The rest of the apparatus consists of a heart-shaped piece of board about three or four inches long, mounted on three tiny wooden legs. This indicator is placed on the larger board.

In operating the ouija, usually two people place the tips of their fingers ever so lightly on opposite ends of the heart-shaped indicator and ask ouija some question, such as "Ouija, does Harry love Ethel?" And immediately the indicator goes to "yes" or "no". If the question has to do with figures it will point out the various numbers and give the answer in that way. The same process is followed out in the case of answering questions requiring words which the indicator spells out by pointing to the various letters of the printed alphabet.

The mystery and the puzzle consist in the fact that the people operating the pointer avow that they are not pushing it, that it moves of its own accord.

Your muscles will act according to your innermost desire without any conscious effort on your part. And they are more reliable than your tongue. A man may deliberately lie with his tongue but his muscles will give him away. They always tell the truth.

Unconscious and involuntary muscular activity accounts for the movements of the indicator on the ouija board. Of course the ouija board can't do anything of itself. It certainly can't foretell the future. The answer to the questions registers the hopes and fears of the operators. The reason this sort of thing is possible is due to the division of labor in the nervous system. The muscles are accustomed to carrying out orders of the spinal cord and the autonomic system without the notice or command of the central nervous system, which alone is conscious.

If the ouija board has any value apart from the fun of seeing it do queer things, it consists in revealing what is on the mind of the operator.

The Tule Marsh Murder

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

Story of a Missing Actress and the Taxing of Wits to Explain Her Fate

THE STORY THUS FAR.

Sheila O'Shay, formerly a popular actress, and now the wife of the young multi millionaire Don Ellsworth, disappears, leaving no trace behind her. Don visits Dr. Cavanaugh, the famous criminologist and confesses that his married life has been very unhappy. Dr. Cavanaugh agrees to investigate the case. Peter Piper, enthusiastic young reporter of the Herald is sent to cover the case. He goes to Dr. Cavanaugh's home. By accident he meets the Doctor's adopted daughter, a beautiful young woman. Peter learns that she is intensely interested in the Ellsworth case for some reason, and he decides that she is a real girl. Barbara Cavanaugh confesses that she was engaged to Don Ellsworth before his marriage to Sheila O'Shay.

CHAPTER 7.

Barbara pondered Peter's last statement, with its sudden shift of ground.

"No," she said finally. "I don't see what interviewing my father can possibly have to do with it."

"You thought my hypothesis flighty and libellous and a few little things like that not a nice hypothesis at all. Well, I'm not wedded to it. Only I'm addicted to theories—I really can't live comfortably without one. Your father might present me with a pleasing substitute, devoid of dynamite. Even if he doesn't, he's always good copy. He would distract my attention from these imaginative flights."

"This sounds like a novel sort of blackmail." Barbara's face was white, but her voice was cool. Not for nothing had she spent the first fourteen years of her life on the defensive against the world. "Naturally, I don't care to have the fact that Mr. Ellsworth and I were once very good friends dragged into print in connection with a sensational story. I should dislike it extremely. The rest of your flight into the blue is sheer piffle, and you know it." Her voice vibrated in a quick gust of anger—but under that burst of indignation Peter listened for the note of anxiety. "You wouldn't dare print a word of it—you're trying to frighten me with bogies. I used to cry all alone in the dark, because I knew there was a black leopard crouched in the corner of the room, where the broom and dustpan stood in the day time. Nobody ever bothered to come and console me. Well, it was good training. I had to learn to meet and know my bogies, alone and in the dark—and to conquer them. So, you see, I recognize a bogie when I see one—even a grown up one."

For an instant, a whimsical smile flitted across Barbara's eyes, like a shadow of a cloud drifting across a meadow. Then her face hardened again.

"It comes to this, doesn't it? You offer to sell your silence about my personal affairs for an interview with my father."

"Not exactly though I admit you sound quite devastingly logical." Peter remained invincibly debonaire. "But it really isn't so bad as that. Remember, there is an actual possibility, even a probability, that the disappearance of Mrs. Ellsworth involves a crime. At least we'll have to go on that assumption until the lady herself turns up blithely to tell us differently. If that assumption is correct, finding out the facts is a far more important consideration than your very natural dislike of having your personal affairs become public property. I have gained the definite information that you were formerly engaged to Ellsworth; and there's nothing to prevent my making use of the facts gleaned in this interview with you. On the other hand, if I had a chance to talk the case over with your father, he might see things from an unguessed angle-turn up something quite different and more important. I'm more than willing to admit that he's a darn sight smarter sleuth than I am. I'd cheerfully let him knock all my flights of fancy into a cocked hat."

The slight figure in the driver's seat turned sidewise, facing Peter squarely, rigidly erect.

"You said you were being frank. Well I'm going to be frank too, Mr.—"

"Piper—James Aloysius Piper, commonly called Peter."

"Mr. Piper, I'm not a society bud—at least, only a grafted one. I'm a gutter snipe, really. I grew up in a foundling's home. I was a homely, scrawny little thing, and my hair was straight, so the ladies looking for blue-eyed, curly haired darlings always passed me by. They'd come and look us over, you know. And at last they didn't send for me any more, even to be looked over. After you're seven years old, there's not much chance. They put me down as 'unadoptable.' And all the time, as soon as I was old enough to think anything at all, I lived in two worlds. There was no hope for me, except to be put out to service as soon as I was old enough."

Barbara's eyes were gazing, sightless, through the window of the coupe beyond Peter's shoulder. Her voice rushed on, low and breathless.

"But I vowed I wouldn't be a gutter snipe—in my soul. Somebody sent an old set of Howard Pyle's King Arthur books to the orphanage in a Christmas box. I read about those knights over and over. I lived in those stories. I didn't think much about honesty, but I came to care a lot about honor. Loyalty. The aristocratic virtues. The kind that are useless and expensive and that are not calculated to get you anywhere if you are a gutter snipe. They had a reality beyond the reality of a foundlings' home. Incorruptible. Incorruptible beauty."

The hurried boice died away. Peter crouched forward in his seat, saying nothing.

"Well, when I was fourteen years old, Dr. Cavanaugh was called in as consultant for one of the children, who had what they call a neurosis. Sensory anaesthesia, it was—it doesn't happen very often." Barbara's voice resumed its normal tone. "He is like that, you know. He will take any case, no matter how poor the patient, if it interests him. He saw me in the hall—almost ran over me, in fact, in the dim corridor—and when he had set me on my feet, he stopped to talk to me, casually. I stood there with my back against the wall, and before he had left I had told him what I had never told any one. I had told him about the other side of me—the side that wasn't a gutter snipe.

"That's all, really—except that the chance stumble over an awkward little girl in an orphan asylum corridor changed all of life for me. I didn't know then, of course, that Dr. Cavanaugh was a great man, that I was the simplest sort of 1-2-3 problem in his hands. I only knew that I wasn't turned in on myself any more. There was some one else, now, who knew about that inside world of mine. I used to slip around the corridors, like a little gray flitter-mouse, on the days when he came to visit his patient. I wouldn't have taken a step towards him nor spoken to him for the world. But he always found me, and stopped to talk or to let me talk, rather. I'd save up things in the night to say to him, hoard them and then pour them all out, pell-mell. He was the first human being, remember, to whom I had ever really talked."

Barbara paused, her dreaming eyes fixed on vacancy. There was no sound from the figure besides her. She might even have forgotten his presence.

"And then, as soon as the papers could be put through, he adopted me—me, the 'unadoptable' child, who had no other expectation in life than to live in that gray limbo of drab painted walls. He gave me more than luxury, and education, and normal amusements. He gave me life itself. If there happens to be a heaven, the thing that will shine out in Dr. Cavanaugh's record isn't the books that he's written, nor the cases he's solved, nor the cures he has made. If St. Peter tried to shut him out, there'd be the ghost of a little girl in a gray orphan asylum frock, pulling the gate open with her scrawny, unkept hands." Barbara glanced down at her slim manicured fingers. "So you see," —she leaned back against the side window and turned on Peter the clearest, most ingenuous of smiles—"I'm not likely to try to bamboozle Dr. Cavanaugh for anybody, in any circumstances whatever."

Peter shook himself. He came, with an inner crash, out of a daze into the bumptious world of reality. His eyes scanned the face, tilted slightly upward, confronting him. There was a trace of inner triumph in that lingering smile.

"It it possible," Peter mused aloud, "that you were clever enough to tell me all that in order to tie my hands—because you know that I can't possibly write anything about you now unless you're willing? I'm a bum reporter, I guess," he added disgustedly, "but I couldn't do it."

"It is quite possible," Barbara assented calmly. "I spent the most impressionable years of my life in fending for myself, single-handed. You musn't forget that I'm essentially a gutter snipe."

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS— by John Hix

LAUGHS FROM LIFE

"Come on Joe, we'll go to the hockey game to-morrow night and see a real fight."

THE BALANCED MIND.

Dante and I were strolling down the road
Close to the border-line where Paradise
And Purgatory join.
The day was sultry;
The asphalt pavement bent beneath our feet;
We would have sunk knee-deep in Purgatory
But for our snow-shoes of asbestos weave.
"Who is that man?" I asked.
I pointed to a high and narrow wall
Upon the border-line;
Erect he sat astride upon its rim
In neither Hell nor Heaven.
"On earth," said Dante, "he was never sure;
Thus when his land was torn with civil war
This one refused to say
Which cause he stood for. When his dearest friend
Was brought to trial he dared not testify
Lest he should harm the plaintiff.
Every choice
He put aside for fear he might choose badly."
"Unfairly judged!" the man cried as we passed.
"I suffer punishment for breadth of mind—
I merely saw both sides. . . ."
"You see them now!" called Dante.
The wall was very high;
It was surmounted by a row of spikes
Set rather close together
I wondered as we left him perched aloft
Where all the others were!

"Let's play 'Cornet Bridge.'"
"Whaddya mean—'Cornet Bridge'?"
"Play yer ace and I'll trumpet."

FOR A BRIGHT CHILD.

Some children hate to take a bath,
And thus incur their parents wrath.
If you a tiresome job have found it,
I'll tell you how to get around it.

First wet the soap; then put it back
Into its little hanging rack.
Next with your hand just splash about
Whistle and sing, and even shout.
Then wet the towel pretty well.
And not a soul can ever tell
But what you've wallowed in the tub
And had a grand and thorough scrub.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

THE SIMPLE ROAD OF HONESTY.

The simple road of honesty
Is any man's to tread,
The longest road, the slowest road
The surest road ahead.
Though some may take the lower road,
And some may take the high,
The honest road's the only road
For man to travel by.

The simple road of honesty
But little seems to climb,
A narrow road, a steady road
A little at a time.
But they who take the lower road
May land in muck and mire,
And they who take the quicker road
Are they who quicker tire.

The simple road of honesty
Is, after all, the way,
The safer road, the sunny road,
The road as plain as day.
Oh, some may choose the higher road
And some the low to wend,
But he who takes the honest road
Will pass them in the end.

MANY ISSUES DROP LOWER IN EARLY TRADING

Action Follows Reports of Heavy Losses Suffered By Large Operators.

CALL MONEY STEADY.

Bullish Enthusiasm in Rails and Public Utilities Checks Reaction at Midday.

NEW YORK, May 31 (By Stanley W. Prenosil, Associated Press Financial Editor). — Persistent but unconfirmed reports that a few of Wall Street's large operators had taken terrific losses in the recent decline, and that at least one of them had been "taken over" in a pool specialty, brought about a drastic decline in prices in the early part of to-day's market. Scores of issues were hammered down 2 to nearly 9 points, with such recent favorites as General Motors, Chrysler, Montgomery-Ward International Combustion, and Wright Aeronautical sinking to new low levels for the year.

The reaction finally was checked around midday by a fresh outburst of bullish enthusiasm in the rails and public utilities, several of which were marked up to new high records by gains running as high as 7 points. Strength of these groups led to heavy covering in the general industrial list, recoveries of 1 to 4 points being quite common in the early afternoon.

Early selling also was influenced by a further break in Chicago wheat prices, which followed the sharp decline in Winnipeg yesterday. While rumors of stock market casualties are always hard to confirm, persistent weakness of all the stocks in which the unlucky operator was interested seemed to furnish proof of the truth of the reports.

Rails again responded to the appearance of fresh buying power under the leadership of Atchison, which ran up 8¼ points to a new high at 223¾. New Haven crossed 106 for the first time in years and Canadian Pacific ran up more than 6 points. Missouri Pacific Common, Chesapeake and Ohio, New York Central, Erie, Union Pacific, Frisco Common, Great Northern preferred and Lehigh Valley sold 3 to 4 points higher.

Call Money Steady

There was no change in credit conditions, Call Money renewing at 6 per cent. and holding steady at that figure despite the heavy month-end demand for funds.

American Waterworks, soaring 6 points to a new peak at 107, assumed the leadership of the public utility group. Western Union climbed 8 points, Abitibi Power 6½ and American Power and Light, Commonwealth Power and North American advanced 3 to 4½ points.

In the early break, Commercial Solvents fell 8½ points, Case Threshing 8, Marmon Motors 7⅜, Sears Roebuck 7, Wright Aeronautical 6¾, Vandium Steel 6½, Electric Auto Lite 6⅜, General Electric and Superior Steel 6¼, and Johns Manville, Ingersoll Rand, Montgomery Ward International Harvester, Advance Rumely Common, International Combustion Packard Motors, Westinghouse Electric and American Machine and Foundry, 4 points or more.

CHICAGO'S GANGLAND KING IS MOST COMMANDING FIGURE

Al Capone Serving Year's Prison Term To Escape Growing Danger.

GRAPHIC STORY TOLD.

"Big Shot" Bring Organization To Gangdom, Reckon With Enemies.

NEW YORK, May 30 (Special to The Examiner).— "Scarface Al" is in jail, and a new king has come into the underworld. He is John Torrio, known as the "nize baby."

For the first time in his vicious career Alphonse Capone is on the inside looking out. His enemies—and they are many—suspect that Al is behind prison bars because he wants to be. The outside, it seems, was getting too hot even for Al.

Capone took the rap for a year in Philadelphia last week after pleading guilty to carrying concealed weapons. To plead guilty is unprecedented in gangland, hence the suspicion.

Eight days after "Scarface" made his debut in a "hoosegow" Torrio announced that the lords of gangland had signed a peace pact. They had decided, he told reporters, to end the bloody gang wars, work in harmony and split the spoils. All of which led armchair investigators to start piecing the sequence together.

Gave Himself Up.

The armistice meeting was in an Atlantic City hotel. A short train ride from there is Philadelphia. To Philadelphia went Capone with his extensive bodyguard. Fortnwith he was arrested, arraigned, sentenced, jailed. Very smooth indeed. Too smooth to suit the wise guys so they stepped up and cried "fake." Up stepped Torrio again. He denied the fake. He said Capone's arrest had been legitimate police work.

But who is this "Scarface Al?"

James O'Donnell Bennett will tell you. Mr. Bennett is on the editorial staff of the Chicago Tribune. He has written a pamphlet entitled "Chicago Gangland—the True Story of Chicago Crime," and it has received widespread comment in other news papers for its outspoken denunciation of gangsters as moronic, dope-crazed cowards.

Through Mr. Bennet. we meet Alphonse Capone.

Behold "the big shot" of Chicago boozedom. He is Alphonse Capone, alias Al. Brown. He is also called, by those who wish to speak respectfully of him, "the big fellow." But those who are not solicitous of his favor sometimes call him "Scarface Al." They do not do that in his presence, for he is a man capable of wild and frightening rushes of temper.

Drives in Big Car.

Note well the ponderous automobile in which he moves rapidly from point to point when business occupies him in Chicago. The ordinary car weighs three tons. The big fellow's weighs seven tons. In effect it is an armor-plated vehicle. Its doors are set with bullet-proof glass. When that glass was placed in the doors it imposed such a weight that the original hinges would not sustain it and heavier ones had to be submitted.

All this protective material was built into a car especially designed for Capone after one of his old cars, in which he was supposed to be riding, but was not riddled with shotgun slugs fired by his rivals in gangdom.

That happened in January, 1925.

The attempt upon his life was a typical gangdom performance. A black touring car with closely drawn curtains swept alongside his car at State and 55th streets, and delivered a fusilade. Capone's chauffeur was wounded in the back. Two other occupants escaped by dropping to the floor of the car.

Has Body Guard.

Nor are armor plate and bullet-proof glass Capone's sole protection against the murderous rivalries and rancors of boozedom. When he is on the Chicago scene and when the chronic suspicions of boozedom have suddenly flamed into active warfare, as on St. Valentine's day, 1929, when "Bugs'" Moran's seven gangsters were machine gunned to death, the big fellow has a bodyguard which for fidelity and alertness a Balkan monarch might envy. If, under those disturbed conditions, Capone rides abroad, a car with four "torpedoes" in it precedes his car. "Torpedo" is gangdom's pet name for a quick killer. A car occupied by four more torpedoes follows him.

When Capone takes a member of his family or a friend to the theatre, not two seats but six or eight, are bought, and the extra seats are occupied by blue jowled keen eyed members of the bodyguard. They are devoted little men, mostly of Italian or Sicilian origin. They receive $100 a week each. They do not clutter the air with questions, but they can search out impending trouble when it is in a closed car a block away—with the curtains drawn. Their whole philosophy of life and death contains but one clause. It is this:

A Smith and Wesson makes all men equal.

And so Capone lives on.

Alone of all the more notorious and sinister founders of Chicago boozedom, he still is a commanding figure.

The first comment "Bugs" Moran made when seven of his henchmen were machine-gunned to death in the massacre of last St. Valentine's day was:

"Only one gang kills like that—the Capone gang."

DISCUSS CONTROL OF NOXIOUS WEEDS

County Weed Meeting Held at Orono is Successful Affair.

That keen interest is being taken in the eradication of noxious weeds throughout the county was shown by the attendance of farmers and weed inspectors at the Weed Meeting held in the Council Chamber of the Town Hall at Orono, on Tuesday, May 28. Agricultural Representative J. Y. Kellough, Port Hope, was chairman for the meeting and weed inspectors from each township except Cavan were present. J. G. McLeod, Dunvegan, Ontario, Provincial Weed Inspector for Eastern Ontario, was present and went over the Act with the inspectors explaining any points which came up for discussion. T. G. Raynor then gave a talk on the weeds which the Act had deemed noxious. A discussion of the various phases of the work then followed, which brought out many interesting points. It is hoped that road superintendents, farmers and others will all co-operate this year in making a better clean-up than ever on the noxious weeds along the highways, on the farms and around the homes in the county. We must control the weeds or they will control us.

VISITORS TO CAMPBELLFORD WILL NOTICE MANY CHANGES

Town Has Made Great Strides Since Landing of First Settlers.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS

Possibilities of Power From Trent River Attracted Many Industries.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 31.—(Examiner Staff Correspondence).—When nine more weeks have passed, Campbellford's Old Home Week will be a thing of the past. During the eight weeks that are left before the big event everything possible to make it a success is being done. There will be thousands of visitors, most of them former citizens, but many who have never seen the town before. It is the desire of everyone that the town and township show up to the best advantage. Time has made many changes in the community, and the present state of affairs will be a revelation to many. People who have lived here continuously are not so apt to notice the changes from year to year.

Until almost a century ago, the spot that is now known as Campbellford, was merely a small part of a hardwood forest. Then came a few settlers. Later the railroad came northwest from Belleville. Eventually it was continued on to Peterborough to connect with the lines there. Roads replaced the forest trails over which the pioneer men, and occasionally the women too, carried their grain to the mills at Cobourg and Belleville. While the grist was in the mill, the weary packer rested and when it was ground, he once more shouldered his burden and turned his face toward his distant cottage or log cabin. In those days people made their own soap, their own cloth and clothing, and most of their household utensils and furniture.

The possibilities which the mighty flow of water in the Trent River held out attracted industries and a road was opened up from the present village of Brighton north. Since that time, the Campbellford-Brighton road has been the main artery of transportation into this section of the country from the lake front. At various times, delegations have waited on the provincial government to request that this road be pased. So far these requests have borne no fruit. The road remains as an improved gravel highway and under the jurisdiction of the counties.

Many Improvements.

In the town itself, improvements have been going on for many years. The little settlement considered it was immensely prosperous when it owned several short stretches of board sidewalk in the centre of the community. They saved muddy skirts from becoming muddy. The streets and roads were mostly merely underbrushed trails once outside the corporation limits. Of comparative recent years, concrete has replaced the boards till practically every sidewalk in town is of the former material. Last year the corporation took the great step and laid four miles of pavement on the streets through the centre of the town and along the county road connecting links. This will be the most noticeable feature to the returning former citizens.

Until comparatively recent years, the Trent River through the town was held in check only by a small wooden dam just south of the Bridge street bridge and another near the paper mill. Along both sides, south of the dam, were raceways which furnished the water power for the several industries located there. There was another further south on the west shore which furnished water for the paper mill. These were the days of the open bar when the river drivers or as they were often called, Foam Eaters, came down with the drive of the Rathbun Lumber Company and called it a day in Campbellford. Many and interesting are the tales of those early times.

The Rathbun mill has passed out of existence and the site is now being used as an ice house. There are no more great booms of logs along the upper reaches of the river. There is no longer any hilarious celebration when the late Spring comes. The reason is that the river is no longer "driven" and the town is not the pay off place for the men who have been in the woods all winter. Occasionally a crib of timber is towed through this section but it does not draw the crowds of spectators that the loose drives did when the drive gang rode through the chute in the dam with nothing more stable under foot than a fair sized log.

Since that time the corporation has kept abreast of the times. One of the first to own and operate its own power plant, the original small system has been replaced by a modern outlay of generators housed in a modern building of steel and concrete. The streets are lighted, factories are run and domestic needs are supplied from it at a cost that is surprisingly low to people from other places who are sufficiently interested to inquire.

Prosperous Industries.

From an industrial point of view, the town is well supplied but always ready to accommodate new arrivals. At the present time the local plant of the Canadian Paperboard Company is not in operation. But its neighbour the Hydro Electric Pulp Mills are running full blast and double shifts. The Weston Shoe Company recently came to the fore by being the first shoe manufacturing concern in Canada to install a machine which welds leather soles making them water proof and capable of longer wear. The process was demonstrated several months ago and since then the produce of this machine, capable of three hundred pairs per day has found a ready market. Smith's mill is being operated but under a different name, McKelvie and Beattie. The Trent Valley Creameries, operated by H. N. Carr have brought fame to Campbellford by prizes won for high grade produce exhibited recently. There is no more tannery. The bridge works has become a machine shop and part of the old building has been wrecked.

These are but a few of the changes which the returning Old Boys and Girls will notice as they wander around the town renewing old friendships and recalling old times.

FORMER DAYS ARE RECALLED BY OLD CHURCH

Edifice On Mohawk Reserve Is Being Re-decorated This Year.

ALTAR OF OLIVE WOOD.

Communion Set Was Presented By Queen Anne in 1712.

MARMORA, May 31.—(Examiner Correspondence). —Interior decorations extending over the period of a month are now going on at the beautiful and interesting old church on the Mohawk Reserve in Tyendinago erected in 1843 on the site of an earlier church. Christ Church, as the church is named, was visited by The Examiner on Thursday and though to aid the decorators, choir stalls and pews had been carefully piled up and scaffolding erected in the chanell, the normal glory of the church was found to have little suffered. The walls hitherto painted a dark green, will now be brightened with a rich cream muresco and two members of the congregation are attending to what to them is a loving task. The sacred edifice is built of stone and over the western door a tablet records its erection as an out of remembrance of God's mercies and preservation. The eastern window is a fine specimen of stained glass art and is dedicated to the memory of the famous chief, Oronhyatakah, whose grave in the adjoining churchyard is marked by a handsome memorial stone. Beneath the window are the Ten Commandments, Lord's Prayer and Apostles Creed, written in the Mohawk language. The altar cross is most unique and because upon it are depicted the seven stations of the cross, is supposed to have been originally intended for a church of the Greek Orthodox faith. It is of olive wood beautifully inlaid with mother of pearl and was obtained in Jerusalem by Mrs. Johnson, daughter of Chief Oronhyatakah. So zealously did this lady guard it that she suffered no one else to carry it on the long journey home. There is also an olive wood altar desk with Hebrew inscriptions on it. The wood of which is made came from the Mount of Olives.

Presented by Queen Anne

In the year 1712 Queen Anne presented the Mohawk tribe a set of handsome silver communion vessels and these do not remain in the church after usage but are kept in the tribe. Mrs. Hill, a niece of the famous chief, is the present custodian. The rectory, a little distance from the church from which it is separated by glebe land, is also of interest. Over the front door is a wolf's head carved in wood. The wolf, bear and turtle were the totems of the tribe and a wolf's head carved in stone also projects from the masonry of the western wall of the tower. A part of the rectory is 128 years old. The present rector is the Rev. Herbert Pringle who in selecting the totem when given the privilege of initiation into the rites of the tribe, chose the turtle, it being the animal who, though slow, is sure. The Bishop of the Diocese, Canon Creegan, the preceding rector for a term of twenty five years, and Rev. Jack Creegan, the latter's son have also been initated, the Bishop's title signifying "Flying Sun." At the rectory one is shown through the kindness of the rector and Mrs. Pringle. Among other things, a hickory walking stick with the carved head of a man at the top. This was the work of one Joe Johnson who made another for Sir oJhn A. McDonald. This craftsman did good business during his life time carving this class of sticks, it being understood that as much as $250 was once paid for a single one. With the forthcoming U.E.L. celebrations at near by Deseronto ,the usually large number of tourists of other years to this interesting and historical spot, it is expected, will be considerably increased.

BIG BUSINESS ON RAILROADS

Both Companys' Managers in City Claim Times Never So Good.

LITTLE GRAIN MOVEMENT.

Both railway companies are enjoying splendid business over local lines, was the report gathered at the C.N.R. and C.P.R. offices to-day. "Business has never been better," was the laconic, yet emphatic, statement of Alpine McNab, C.N.R. agent, when asked concerning conditions. "The industrial firms in the city are having increased business and we are enjoying prosperity with them," J. W. Anderson of the C.P.R., declared.

It has always been said that the railways are the barometer of business and, if this is true, business in Peterborough is hitting a new high peak.

"We are carrying a great deal of material for the Quaker Oats, both to and from their plant. This week we conveyed a car load of highest grade rugs manufactured by the Brinton Carpet Company. These rugs were destined for the Royal oYrk Hotel and it is the second shipment of these prize rugs that they have sent." Mr. Anderson gave these illustrations of the trend of business in the city as they come under his close observation.

"The C.G.E. are busy and we are conveying load after load to and from that plant," said Mr. MacNab.

Both explained that the grain movement had not come up to expectations. The cause of this was given as being the unprecedented tie-up of grain boats in the port of Montreal. The Georgian Bay ports have their elevators brimful with last Fall's golden harvest of the Prairie, but the railroads cannot move it, since boats are crowding Montreal waiting to be unloaded. "Such conditions are unprecedented," said Mr. McNab

It was suggested by Mr. Anderson that perhaps the British elections were having some effect on the extreme low price of grain, which is said to be the cause of the tie-up in shipping, and he expects that the grain trade will pick up after the elections have been settled.

Meanwhile Peterborough's industries are riding on the crest of business activity, judging by the reports from the railways.

LARGE WORLD TRADE IN WHEAT

International Prices Have Remained At Lowest Level Since 1923-24.

RECORD VOLUME.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, California, May 31 (C.P.).—International wheat prices remained at lowest level since 1923-24, between the month of December, 1928, and April, 1929, according to a study recently issued by the Food Research Institute of Stanford University, California. The prevailing wide margin between exportable wheat surpluses and import requirements changed only a little. Nevertheless there were fairly wide fluctuations in prices. An extraordinarily cold winter throughout the Northern hemisphere seemed likely at the time to have damaged winter wheat sowings, and this situation led to an increase of prices from early January to mid-February. The advance was considerably greater in Chicago and Winnipeg than in Liverpool and Buenos Aires. After mid-February a sharp decline occurred and continued through the first third of May. It was nearly as great in Liverpool as in Chicago, but was smaller in Winnipeg. The decline seems to have been due not to a change in conditions of demand and supply for the present crop year, but rather to accumulation of evidence tending to show that winter wheat had not suffered unusual damage from the cold winter. Other factors were important in the decline; the most noteworthy of these was the pressure of extraordinarily heavy stock in exporting countries. This pressure began to be felt especially when the new Argentine crop began to move in large volume in late February.

International trade in wheat and flour was of record volume, as it had been in earlier months. Prevailing low prices encouraged importation and consumption, especially in ex-European countries. These imported much more wheat and flour than ever before. But in spite of the record shipments, the accumulation of stocks in exporting countries remained extraordinarily large. The prices of representative wheat in the United States were relatively too high to permit exportation in a volume consistent with the available supplies, and here the accumulation of stocks in commercial channels was particularly striking.

The volume of world trade for the crop year now seems likely to prove by far the largest in history. Net exports will probably approximate 950 million bushels, around 100 million bushels more than ever before. Year-end stocks also seem likely to be of record size, with the greatest accumulation in the major countries. Increased wheat consumption for food and feed in 1928-29 seems not to have caught up with increased production.

The Postmaster-General in the Baldwin Cabinet, Sir William Mitchell-Thomson, and his assistant Lord Wolmer, weer both re-elected.

The voices of Prohibition will continue to be heard in the next Parliament. E. Scrymgeour was re-elected as a Prohibitionist candidate for one of the two Dundee seats.

Right Hon. F. O. Roberts, Minister of Pensions in the MacDonald Labor ministry, was re-elected in West Bromwich.

SEARCHERS FIND BODIES

reached it. The boat was a small one and it was found that the men could not lift the heavy body over the gunwale without the danger of tipping over. The white boat, the largest of the fleet, came up and the body was safely taken aboard and conveyed to the pier near the locks. An undertaker immediately took it away.

Bell's watch, an open-faced gold one, which was found in his watch pocket, had stopped with its pointing to twenty minutes to four. This would indicate that it had kept running twenty minutes after submersion.

Bell was wearing a gold signet ring. Found in his pocket was a bill-fold with his name, "Richard Bell, 247 George street", neatly written inside its flap. Thirty-two dollars was contained in it—three tens and one two.

It was easily noticed that the trousers were badly torn as though by some sharp object. This would indicate that at some time that grappling irons had caught in the clothes, but had torn free. The searchers, remarking upon this fact, were positive that last Thursday they had touched something that felt like a body with the hooks, but it had worked free. Later in spite of all effort its exact location could not again be found.

A few minutes later something was again seen floating down the far shore, following the same course of the body that had been recovered. The men hastily put out in the boats. On approach, however, it proved to be merely the body of a dog or some animal, the true nature of which the men did not delay to make certain.

The men in the boat which reached Bell's body were: Bill Lightheart, Leonard Foster and Larry Gibson.

Second Body Recovered.

The whole squad in the three boats continued to ply the waters, and over an hour later, at 5.40, they were again rewarded. The same men who recovered the first body came upon that of Alex Scobel, as it floated just below the street railway wharf close to the shore.

The body was brought to the same place as was the other and then, at once taken away by an undertaker.

The pockets of the clothing were thoroughly searched in the expectation that there might be a letter containing the address of the dead man's sister, Mary Scobel, who, it is understood, lives somewhere in the province of Quebec. Her address is not known, and no news of the tragedy has been sent to her. Although, there was a picture of a pretty girl with the words, "Mary, myself," written in a fine hand on the back, there was no letter or address found. The picture had been carefully carried in diary, which the man had used to put casual jottings in, but he did not use it for its true purpose as a diary.

Also found in his pockets were some loose silver a religious book, and a pocketbook, which was empty, with his name inside.

Both bodies were greatly swollen and decomposed, almost rendered unrecognizable by their long submersion in the water.

KING GEORGE HAS RELAPSE

ladies and gentlemen of the court then attended Divine service in the private chapel of Windsor Castle. The Prince of Wales also lunched with his parent on that day.

All news since then indicated that the King was progressing normally. His Majesty was reported to be taking the keenest interest in the general elections. He had prepared to listen in for the returns at the Castle last night.

The King fell sick with a cold and fever November 21, 1928, and was kept in bed by his physician. On November 23 it was announced that he was seriously ill. His malady was subsequently diagnosed as empyema, a collection or formation of purulent matter in the pleural cavity.

The order for the thanksgiving service in Westminster Abbey was issued only yesterday, and inquiry at the deanery last night elicited the statement that while news of the King's illness had been received, no suggestion had been made for a change in the arrangements for the thanksgiving.

The court circular last night consisted of only a rare announcement that the two young sons of Princess Mary and Viscount Lascelles had left the castle.

The thankoffering fund from the British people for charity yesterday reached the total of 398,000 pounds sterling.

OBITUARY

MRS. ROBERT NOYES.

CROOKSTON, May 31.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The death took place at her home in Belleville, of Elsie, beloved wife of Robert J Noyes, after an illness of some months duration.

The late Mrs. Noyes, who was 43 years of age, was born at Queensboro and with the exception of about three years spent in Saskatchewan, had spent all her life in the vicinity of Madoc, until in September of last year, when she moved with her family to the city of Belleville.

The funeral service was held at Bethesda United Church, where for many years Mrs. Noyes had been an untiring worker.

As a tribute to her memory the altar was banked with spring blossoms, placed there by former members of her Sunday school class. The service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. N. Lovelace, assisted by Rev. Truscott, of West Huntingdon. Among those attending was a delegation of members of the Madoc branch of the W.C.T.U., who assisted the local choir in the service, Mrs. Ludbrook presiding at the piano.

Burial took place at White Lake Cemetery. Mrs. Noyes leaves to mourn her loss beside a sorrowing husband, one daughter, Edna, her father, Mr. Al Jeffrey, one brother, Charles, and a sister, Mrs. Fenwick, of Toronto.

MARION'S MAIL

Address correspondence to Marion at The Examiner Office.

"Dear Marion:

I intended writing sooner to tell you what success we had with our bathroom, but with measles, chicken pox, whooping cough, and the spring cleaning, I have been kept busy. Of course the last mentioned was the worst, but I am practically through now, except for some finishing touches, and they always take time.

We asked a reliable painter about painting over the sanitas paper (as you advised) and he said not to try to remove it, so we went ahead, and I would like you to see what a good job my husband made of it. It required three coats, but the result quite justifies all the trouble taken. The paper makes a good foundation, and so far it hasn't chipped off. I have seen some bathrooms, where the paint has been applied directly to the plaster and the walls were badly chipped in spots. We used very pale blue for the lower walls, and white for the upper and ceiling.

Is it too late for me to get the instructions for making a little girl's sleeveless dress? I looked for the coupon in tonight's paper but couldn't find it. I will enclose a stamp, and hope I can have the instructions.

Could you give me any information about the I. O. D. E.? If not, where could I get such information? I would like to know of the foundation of the society, its aims, the different chapters—how and why formed—how the members are selected and what fees paid. Anything you can tell me will be greatly appreciated. I hope I haven't asked you about something I "hadn't ought to." In such case, just tell me so, and I won't be a bit offended. I'll enclose a stamp, in case you do not care to publish this.

I am like Tennyson's Brook, I go on and on forever, but I'm through now. Perhaps it is just as well I don't come oftener, for I never know when to go.

Thanking you for all favors, I am still

Xped."

I'm sure, "Xped," that your bathroom is charming, and I am pleased to have the information you give. Plaster is very likely to "scale" in bathrooms and wherever there is a lot of steam, so probably your system is better.

You may obtain the information about the I. O. D. E. from the Regent of any Peterborough Chapter, Mrs. C. E. Jamieson, Mrs. F. L. Robinson or Miss Olga Johnston.

Your letter is not a bit too long, "Xped", and I hope you return often.

"Dear Marion:

May I come again or have I stayed too long? Well from one thing and another I never got writing, not but I thought of it often enough.

Well, since I wrote last, the stork visited our home and left a fine big boy. He weighed seven and a half pounds at birth and he is just a month old. He is very good, wakes up every two hours for feed. So now my family consists of a girl two years old and a boy.

I guess by reading the letters that come from so many good neighbors they are all busy. Spring seems to be a busy time. I am enclosing a coupon and stamp asking for helps. I hope I'm not asking for too much, but the other helps I received were so good I am calling for more. Sometimes one imposes on good nature and that is me for one, for I am always asking for help and never give much. Aren't some of those old songs wonderful? Our page is sure a great addition to the paper.

Oh well I must close for my letter is too long now. I am enclosing a couple of recipes.

Your as B 4

Betty Lou."

I'm very pleased to hear from you again, "Betty Lou," and with all the neighbors certainly congratulate you on the addition to your family. May he have many happy birthdays, and be a real joy to you.

The helps have been sent you—you needn't be afraid of asking for too many, ever.

"Dear Marion:

As I have greatly enjoyed the Old Songs which others of your readers have sent in, I am sending in a contribution which I hope will be of some interest to those who read your page. I am copying them from a paper dated February 14, 1899, in which they were printed in response to a request for old military songs. Hoping to see some, or all of them in print and thanking you, I am

Sincerely,

Bus."

I will be delighted to use your contributions, "Bus" within a few days. Everyone seems to enjoy our old song column. Come again.

"Dear Marion:

I received the helps and found them just fine, but have been a long time thanking you for them. I am sending for some more, if I am not too late and will thank you for them now.

I enjoy your page very much, but do not get much time to read as we live on a farm, and this is a busy season. I am sending a recipe for cookies which I find very good. Can any one tell me how to can corn for winter use? Would any one care to exchange a Dahlia root for Gladiolus? I have a lot of Gladiolli. This is getting rather long, so wishing you success, I am

Tilly II"

I am inserting your SOS, "Tilly II", and I'm sure some kind neighbor will send you instructions for canning corn. I will be glad to forward roots sent me for you.

"Dear Marion:

I wonder if it is possible for you to get me the dress pattern which appeared in The Examiner on April 1st? The number was 3231. I hope I'm not too late in sending. I just mislaid that paper and being house cleaning time I just forgot what paper it was in. So yesterday I went through them and found it.

I enjoy the Whatnots very much and enjoy making up some of the recipes, but most of all the different letters from the neighbors. I was sorry to hear about the newcomer to Peterborough finding her neighbors so unfriendly. I found just the reverse when I came here; every body was very nice and lots of offers of help too. I am sending for some more of the free helps, too, Marion, and are the number of stamps correct? Thanking you in advance.

Mrs. G. H. C."

I have ordered the pattern requested, "Mrs. G. H. C." and the helps have been sent you. It is nice to know that you enjoy the Whatnot and the letters. The neighbors' letters ARE nice, aren't they?

I'm glad you found Peterborough people friendly—I did, when I came here, and through our page I've made simply hosts of good neighbors.

"Dear Marion:

Just a short note enclosed with some cuttings which you may care to use sometime.

Old Home Week, will soon be upon us, with all its bustle. I am quite looking forward to it—my first one. We are having visitors too, so it will behove me to get a good stock of groceries.

Hoping that this finds you well. I am still enjoying your page and all the neighbours helps and letters.

Yours Sincerly,

Eleanor."

Thank you, "Eleanor" for your appreciation and for the clippings. I will be very glad to use them sometime soon.

Yes, we will all be busy soon with Old Home Week activities, and a little planning now will save worry in a month.

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG,

That old and antique song we heard, last night.

IS LONDON LIKE IT USED TO BE?

(Contributed by "Leatherhead")

Two friends met in a land afar across the ocean's spray,
And one who'd sailed from London town had landed there that day.
Then after a shake and a friendly drink, the other murmured low:
Come tell me about the old town lad, tell me all you know.

Chorus:

Is London like it used to be, is the Strand still there?
Do the boys still stroll down the west with its light and glare?
Are the girls as fair and beautiful,
are my friends all right?
What would I give to be with them in the old town to-night!

Each well known spot was spoken of,
each landmark he'd recall
In cheery tones, he spoke about his favorite music hall.
Some street or shop he'd enquire about, out there across the tide,
His mind wandre'd back to the dear old scenes again he cried:

He asked about a little girl, then murmured with a sigh
If she had been more kind to me, we'd ne'er have said good-bye.
A tear came tumbling down his cheek, his heart was sad and sore,
But the sob quickly changed to a smile of joy, as he cried once more:

Windshield wipers are being installed on the captain's bridge of a new British warship.

A Debt Of Honor

By JANE OSBORN

Eleanora had picked up her overnight bag and suitcase the instant the train had left Morristown. It would be ten minutes before the train reached Windemere.

She had carefully looked at all of the other passengers when they had left the city. Perhaps, she hoped, George Taylor would go out on the same train. Surely he would not miss this fifth annual reunion of their class at the Windemere High School! But no George was in sight.

In their school days, Delia and Eleanora had been inseparable companions. Delia had invited her to stay at her home for the reunion and Eleanora looked forward eagerly to half-the-night talks in the old parsonage.

"Did you see George?" was almost Delia's first word.

Eleanora tried to keep her voice steady and her cheeks from coloring: "Why no. Did he come?"

"Did he come!" echoed Delia, dimples dancing in and out of her cheeks. "Oh, did he come! And how! In a car that would just make your mouth water. That boy's been making his pile, that's what he's been doing.'

Eleanora's mind ran swiftly to her suitcase that was empty save for the rose chiffon dress that had cost her sixty-nine and a half the day before. No matter how well-to-do George might be, that rose chiffon would match him.

"If the banquet's going to be at half-past six as usual," Eleanora said, flushing, "we'd better start dressing."

"I'll help you get ready," Delia said. "I'm not going."

"Not going?" demanded Eleanora. "And you the secretary of the class? Why not?"

"Because I haven't a rag to wear,' simply answered Delia. "I sent my one and only pretty dress to the cleaner and it shrank so much that I can't get into it."

"You'll wear the rose chiffon I brought," said Eleanora.

Back and forth they argued the matter.

"Whether you wear it or don't," said Eleanora firmly, "I am going right in this blue ensemble— and a pretty smart looking outfit it is, too, if you ask me. Entirely suitable since I came in on the train, whereas you—right in town—would have to wear a fluffy affair. Matt's going to be here tonight?".

Delia in turn flushed and nodded. When nothing more was said, Eleanora understood well enough that Matt had not said the words that Delia had longed to hear. Eleanora scowled. She hadn't seen George for five years and had heard from him in only occasional letters. Delia had seen Matt almost every day since he was assistant cashier in the local bank. And neither girl had had the proposal which in school days had seemed almost inevitable.

Old Prof. Myers was still to give his long talk of the evening when Delia slipped up to Eleanora with shining eyes. "Matt—Matt said he never knew I was so pretty—" she whispered, "and he—he—oh, Eleanora! He—"

"Eleanora," came George's voice interrupting, "I've got to leave again tonight and I'll have no other chance to talk to you. I've a prospect at nine in the morning and if I drive all night I'll just get there. Will you drive down to the river bridge with me?"

In the luxurious four-passenger car, George talked swiftly. Eleanora looked at the car. Expensive, beautiful and comfortable in all weathers.

"I'm not going to mince matters with you, Ellie," he said, when he had pulled the car up in a moon-lighted patch of grass at the side of the river bridge. "They all think back there," he went on with a nod toward the town, "that I'm a rich man. I'm not," he continued with a short laugh. "I've some good clothes and this car and a few hundred in the bank. In real estate, a fellow has to be well-dressed and he has to have a good car to take out his prospects. And—and—Ellie—are you going to marry me anyhow, even if I haven't anything to offer you?"

Eleanora stared at him.

"I've enough to start the furniture and I have a dandy little house in view for us. I—I took an option on it earlier in the week so that if you liked it—I would have made a down payment, only I thought if you were dressed wonderfully and had made a wad of money in the city, it would be useless to ask you—"

"And if I had worn a beautiful gown—" said Eleanora.

He laughed. "Well, figure it out for yourself! If you'd been frilled out like Delia, for instance. I couldn't afford gowns like that yet. In a few years, yes. But why waste all of your youth, Ellie—what do you say, Ellie?"

"And if I'd worn that rose chiffon that Delia is wearing!" Eleanora kept saying over and over again when his arms were around her so tightly that she could hardly catch her breath. "Why, Matt asked her to marry her because she wore that dress!"

"Well, Matt's in the bank," laughed George. "And if you want to get married tonight—Chesswell will fix up a license for us and Delia's father's a preacher—we could drive right through tonight and be—home in the morning, Ellie. The house—oh, you'll like it, Ellie—"

"I'd like any house with you," said Ellie, her mind's eye still dwelling on that rose chiffon frock. "And if Chesswell—"

"I told him I'd probably be around," said George, stepping on the starter and snapping on the lights. "He's waiting up for us."

How do YOU tell the difference?

Solid silver and silver plate may look very much alike. Pure soap and impure soap may also look very much alike.

Yet it's easy to tell the difference if you look for the "sterling" mark on silver and the "purity" mark on soap. But this "purity" mark is not on every soap. Sunlight is the only soap which is so carefully made from highest grade ingredients that it is stamped: "Guaranteed pure and to contain no adulterant whatsoever."

Being all pure soap, Sunlight dissolves readily. It forms plenty of suds so quickly . . . lasting suds which cleanse most economically. They wash more clothes beautifully clean without harm to fabric or colours . . . and Sunlight's pure, gentle suds never could roughen or hurt your hands.

To the women who have once used Sunlight, other soaps are never really satisfactory. Look for the $5,000 Sunlight Guarantee of Purity on every carton. It means real economy—longer life to your clothes—protection to your hands.

The Mirror of the Mode

By Mary Marshall

The fashion for unstiffened, stitched fabric hats was set at the Riviera last winter—and simultaneously at Palm Beach and other Southern resorts in this country.

They are limp and collapsible, easily packed and easily worn, yet they are so made that they do not lose their shape.

All sorts of materials have been used for these little hats. Thin velvet in soft coloring was often chosen for hats worn at the Riviera, while for the present season linen and shantung silk have been used extensively.

There is, of course, a temptation and a tendency every summer to go hatless whenever possible. So general was the bare-headed vogue among many young women in this country last summer—and indeed throughout the year among many college girls—that one began to wonder whether the wearing of hats for any occasion would eventually become optional. But this season's collection of wearable, light-weight hats has come to check any such tendency, and the woman who wants to look her best on all occasions realizes the importance of wearing a hat when exposed to the bright and uncharitable glare of the bright summer sun.

The very fashion for sun-tanned skin has had something to do with this: Arms, back, neck, must be of an even coat quite as deep as that of the face. The combination of pale shoulders with a face of lobster hue is no longer tolerated

The hat with a brim that shades forehead and nose not only prevents excessive sunburn but graciously protects the eyes and casts a generally becoming halftone over the face.

Natural color tweed straw fashions this sports hat that is soft and pliable.

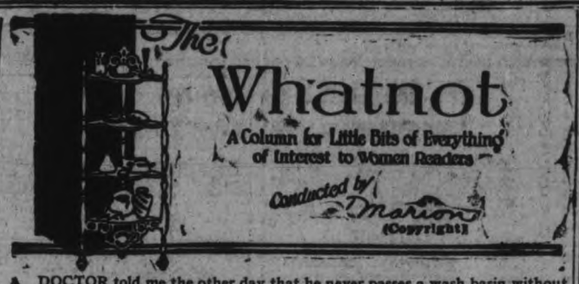
MODERATOR LEAVES

BROCKVILLE, Ont., May 31.—Rev C. G. Graham, Moderator of the Brockville Presbytery, has resigned the pastorate of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Winchester, to accept an invitation to the Presbyterian Church at Southampton.



A DOCTOR told me the other day that he never passes a wash basin without wishing to wash his hands. He learned the habit in hospital, and believes it not a bad practice even now.

And I was told about a banker who, when it was impossible to leave a money-counting task to wash his hands, wrapped a handkerchief around the sandwich so that his fingers should not touch the food.

* * *

Both these men have learned in their business that cleanliness pays—the doctor because of the contact with many patients and many diseases, and the banker because he handles money that has passed through no one knows whose hands.

I wonder if we are half as fussy as we should be in such matters? I know that until my conversation with this Peterborough doctor, and until I heard about the banker's carefulness, it never occurred to me that there might be danger. Of course, everyone washes before eating a meal, but most of us are likely to dip into a candy box without thinking to wash our hands.

* * *

The general subject of cleanliness is interesting, and vital to every mother. A teacher told me she could tell what children came from homes where cleanliness ruled—it's not a matter of clothes, but how well-kept the clothes are; or of grooming of the girl's hair, but how clean the roots are.

* * *

No mother ever fails to bathe her small baby every day—it's almost a rite, and it has become the acknowledged things to do. But as the children grow older, daily baths are frequently forgotten, and we all kmow of families where there is a grand scramble for the bath tub on Saturday night.

* * *

But think of the dust and dirt the youngsters get into every day, and the germs that must lodge among it! And look at the exercise the children take, bringing out the perspiration all over their bodies. The daily bath would wash away the dust, dirt and germs, and clear the pores of that perspiration waste.

The time to start to keep that schoolgirl complexion is when one is a schoolgirl—and mothers would do well to see that every child has the daily bath that will keep the skin pure and dree from clogged pores.

Then, having assured clean bodies, the mother's next duty is to attend to the clothes. Too many, I'm afraid, have in mind the constant question: "How can I keep down the size of the wash?"

* * *

All, of course, cannot afford to have the cupboards and drawers filled with linen and clothes, but it should be the aim of every mother to have as much well-laundered linen and clothes on hand as possible.

Another way that mother can help is by being a good advocate herself of cleanliness in clothing and appearance. Children who become accustomed to seeing mother around the house in a soiled dress before they go to school are likely to be careless of their own appearances.

* * *

Some housewifes make it a point to change both bed sheets twice a week, and think that it pays in comfort and that clean feeling. If this regimen is followed, then pillow cases should be changed three or four times a week, because they become soiled so quickly. The pillow case, too, is more exposed to the ordinary dust of the house, and it is with the pillow case that the breathing apparatus is in most intimate contact.

* * *

A good housewife will always wash before turning to the preparation of food, and immediately after sweeping, dusting, or performing other household tasks.

She who would be the best exponent of cleanliness in the home will have a regular plan of housecleaning, so that the house will give, every day, the same lesson in cheerfulness and the importance of cleanliness.

* * *

It's not the outside appearance of the house, but the spic-and spanness of even secondary things, such as curtains and cushion covers, woodwork and linens, that counts most in making any place, modest or pretentious, a real HOME.

* * *

In fact, I sometimes think that there is more real fun in fixing up a place that can never be perfect than in taking pride in a house that has everything one could desire.

Certainly, she who thrives on achievement—the woman who wants to DO things—will have more genuine satisfaction through making her modest home the most attractive it can possibly become on her means than all the fashionable mistresses can obtain from their entertainments made possible through their ability to keep servants.

* * *

If a woman can once get the viewpoint of her handyman husband, who would rather patch and fix up than bring in plumber and carpenter, painter and glazier, she will have attained the right frame of mind to achieve in her home making.

* * *

A housekeeper—as I pointed out before—may merely keep house, but a home manager get sa real joy out of her work.

And here's a hint to those who don't have to work in the house. You can get more enjoyment out of doing something you don't HAVE to do than out of doing a hundred things your means make your privilege.

* * *

Just as a girl told me once: "The only real pleasure I get in life is in doing things that either I shouldn't do, or needn't do."

* * *

If you've never tried these ideas, now's the time. And if you DON'T get a thrill, write and tell me!

That Body of Yours

(By Jas. W. Barton, M.D.)

SAVING THE LIVES OF CHILDREN.

When you remember that formerly nearly 40% of children died at birth or during the first year, and now the percentage is only about 10%, you naturally ask for the reason.

Of course there are a number of reasons, mothers get and give themselves more care before and after the youngster is born, but the big factor is the feeding.

And while nothing can take the place of a healthy Mother's milk, nevertheless our baby specialists are now able to save thousands of lives by proper feeding. And the basis of all this feeding is still that natural food-milk, cow's milk.

Milk can now be obtained as whole powder, skim milk powder, condensed or evaporated milk. These of course need the addition of water because as a matter of fact, milk is about 90 percent water anyway. This makes it possible to obtain or carry milk anywhere or everywhere. However the hospitals now, especially the children's hospitals, prepare feedings of what is called "butter soup" which is rich in butter fats and especially nourishing to the child deprived of its mother's milk. It is not unusual to see a number of folks, men, women, and children, calling daily at the dairy of the hospital, and getting the feedings of this butter soup to take home to the young infant.

My thought in speaking about the value of milk as a food is that where the parents are not having any luck with other methods of artificial feeding, that a baby feeding specialist should be consulted, who will direct them to the nearest hospital and obtain this butter soup, certified milk, orange juice, or other preparations that are obtainable there. These are prepared fresh daily, and are usually retailed at a very reasonable price so that parents can be assured of the proper food for the particular needs of their children.

For after all, the lack of proper feeding is the cause of practically all the deaths in very young children.

So don't delay in consulting your doctor about this if the youngster is not gaining a half pound a week.

YOUR HOME AND YOU

By BETSY CALLISTER

If you know how to make bread then you only have a step to go to be able to make a variety of delicious rolls, rusks and buns—which all start with a regular bread dough.

When the bread dough has risen for the first time, when it is ready to separate into loaves, is the time to take what you wish for rolls. The simplest sort are made by cutting the dough into small pieces, forming into round balls and placing in a pan, brushing with butter and cooking in a quick oven for twenty-five minutes.

A sort of Parker House roll may be made by cutting the plain dough into small pieces, flattening each piece, spreading lightly with butter, and folding it into a purse. Place these purses in a pan and cook in a hot oven.

Bread sticks may be made by cutting pieces of dough from the first rising, rolling them out with the fingers to the size of a pencil and then cutting in lengths and laying in a pan to rise. Put in a hot oven, and when nearly done brush with an egg white.

To make kringles you should weigh off a half pound of the risen dough. Work into the dough two full tablespoons of sugar and two eggs with two tablespoons of butter. Add a little more flour to make it knead well. Roll to pencil sticks, and then form on baking pan into rings or long shapes. Let rise and bake in a hot oven.

Currant and raisin buns may be made by adding currants or raisins or bits of minced citron to the bun dough. If you wish you may brush with egg white when nearly done, and then sprinkle with sugar, or you may sprinkle with a mixture of sugar and cinnamon.

MAN FOUGHT DEATH AND WON DOCTORS HAD GIVEN UP HOPE

Lewis Cronin, 26, Fractured Spine and Paralyzed Over Half Body.

ABLE TO GO HOME.

For Eighteen Months He Lay in Hospital in Toronto.

TORONTO, May 31.—(Special to The Examiner, Copyright).—Lewis Cronin will never walk again, but he is happy to-day for the doctors have told him that he is to leave the hospital for his father's home in Dundalk, Ont. That means a lot to Lewis, and to his young wife of two years. Fresh country air, friends and relatives around him, his wife with him all the time. Yes all these things, and much more too. It means to Lewis that he has won a great fight. Eighteen months he has fought death after the doctors had told him that life was impossible.

Lewis came to the hospital eighteen months ago with his legs and part of his abdomen paralysed. He had fallen from the top rung of a ladder to the sidewalk when he was attempting to put up the aerial for his radio. When they found him he was unconscious, had been so for some time in fact, nobody knows how long. They rushed him to the hospital, but the doctors shook their heads. A human wreck which could not be saved. But science bases its estimates on the norms of experience. There was something they had not reckoned with in this lad of twenty-six years. Courage, unshakeable courage, and belief in himself. He could not die, he would not. For the sake of his young wife he hung on to life. The threads between life and death were few at times, but they sufficed. Anyone can pass out with a fractured spine and paralysed limbs and body, but it is only a Lewis Cronin who pulls through. If you talked to Lewis you would realise that the physical ability to "stick it" is the least of the battle. It is the mental suffering that takes pluck.

Eighteen Months in Hospital

Bed, plasters, splints, pain at every move, not a hope of ever walking again even if he did pull through. Eighteen months of it. "What did it Lewis?" we asked as he smiled up at us from the hospital bed. "I still have my hands, and the book here," and he pointed to a Bible on the table beside his bed. "And then I have the radio and the papers," and his mouth twisted slightly into a smile which had far more of humor in it than bitterness. Lewis has become a complete fatalist, not a fatalist resigned to his lot though, but one who is not mourning the past, but resolved to make the most of the future. "It had to be—it was—well it was—that's all" and he dropped back on the pillow.

Lewis Cronin is not going to depend on other people for rest of his life either. Already, as he has retrieved his faculties from the shadow of death, he has begun to learn to use his hands to make his livelihood. "Can't use my feet any more but I still have my hands. It might have been much worse, you know" and he pointed to a group of leather purses which he has been learning to make.

Then he turned to talk of his young wife. "It has been hard on her," he said, "but now that I am going to be with my Dad it will be easier for her". Not easier for Lewis Cronin, mind you. "Easier for her." And that from a man who has been told that as far as the normal enjoyments of life go, he is out—for good.

But Lewis Cronin is not out. He will take the final count before he is through. There is no throwing in the sponge for men like this.

HUNDREDS HERE GET WELL WHEN THEY USE HUSKY

Quick Relief Obtained From Long Standing Cases of Indigestion, Stomach Trouble, Constipation, Headaches, Catarrhal Troubles, Nervousness, Rheumatic Pains, and Weak, Run-Down Conditions.

MRS. MYRTLE MOORE

Hundreds of residents of Peterborough have received remarkable and lasting benefits from the use of "Husky," the marvelous medicine being introduced here by Bond's Drug Store, and it is hoped that every sufferer in this city will talk with those who are using it.

The makers of "Husky" know absolutely how quick and splendidly this medicine relieves many of our common ailments, but they would like for you to see the absolute proof of its work among the hundreds in this city who are using Husky.

Local people say "Husky" takes the gas off their stomachs, does away with bloating, heartburn and other forms of indigestion, gives natural and lasting relief from constipation, eases and strengthens weak and aching backs, relieves headaches, nervousness, catarrhal troubles and kidney ailments. They say Husky gives them an appetite, makes them sleep sound and restfully, invigorates them and gives them new strength.

"And the people of Peterborough are not alone in their praise of Husky," said J. E. Leduc, of the Husky Laboratories, who is at Bond's Drug Store explaining this medicine to local people. "I was in Hamilton the other day," he said, "and Mrs. Myrtle Moore, of 14 Beatty Ave., that city, was telling me about how Husky is helping her. I asked her if I could publish her statement and picture in The Examiner and she gave me permission." Mrs. Moore's statement follows:

"I had very bad indigestion and most all solid food gave me severe pains in my side.

"I didn't have any appetite and was so weak and nervous I could hardly keep going," she said. "I was wakeful at night. Before I had finished a half bottle of Husky I felt ever so much better.

"Now I can eat what I like and don't have any pains in my side, and I'm a lot stronger since my digestion has gotten all right. I am feeling fine and praise to Husky for it."

When stomach trouble and indigestion afflict you, it generally means catarrh or a similar trouble is irritating the delicate stomach lining and causing it to secrete mucus. This mucus fills your stomach, surrounds the food you eat, causes gas and acidity and constipates you. Weakness, headache, dizzy spells, nervousness and other troubles follow as your food is a soured mass and sends impurities instead of rich, red corpuscles into your blood.

Husky's ingredients cleanse the system of this mucus and soothe the irritated membranes. That's why Husky makes you feel better so quick and why a treatment of several bottles gives permanent relief and new strength. Begin using Husky to-day and see how soon your food tastes better, sleep is more sound and you feel stronger.

Call at Bond's Drug Store and see the authority from the Husky Laboratories who is now making his headquarters at this store. He will gladly explain to you how best and quickest results are obtained from the use of this wonderful medicine. Call on him to-morrow, your visit no doubt will lead you to relief from suffering just as such visits have already brought new health and strength to hundreds in Peterborough.

In Police Court

This morning for the first time in three weeks there were no cases awaiting Magistrate Langley's attention in the police court. The usual idlers waited patiently, then in disappointment dispersed.

Yesterday a Keen man was fined the usual 2 and costs, amounting to $6.95, for driving his car without 1929 license plates.

A local man pleaded guilty to being drunk in a public place. "His second offence, your worship," said the Crown. He will pay a fine of $50 or spend a month in jail.

THE OL' SWIMMING HOLE.

About twenty-five swimmers were noticed yesterday afternoon taking shelter from the heat in the cooling waters of the canal at the bridge on the Warsaw road. The main dressing room seemed to be directly under the bridge.

BRIGHTENS UP CORNER.

The Shell service station at the corner of Rubidge and Charlotte street is sporting a new coat of paint that livens up the corner considerably. The manager told The Examiner that the new paint was acquired on the behalf of the returning Old Boys and Girls who will be in the city over Old Home Week. The work was done by Harris and Boddy.

BETTER GARAGES FOR NORTH-ENDERS.

When better garages are built the people in the north end of the city will build them. A house and a garage in construction at that end of the city were quite marked in the number of men employed on each. Three laborers were diligently erecting the dwelling while the automobile house had nine workers all busily engaged in the erection of the building. While the carpenters at the house had plenty of elbow room, the men at the garage were literally falling over each other.

HAVE WE AN OWLS' CLUB HERE?

Major Hoople's horseshoe courts have appeared in the city. At corner of Robinson and Burnham streets, each evening, from shortly after supper until dusk, a number of ardent fans gather at this spot and throw the famous shoe. Accurate measuring and sometimes heated arguments follow a close toss. The ladies in the neighborhood have not yet organized as did the Major's friends, according to residents of the district.

STORM DAMAGES CABLES.

The electric storm in Peterborough gave the Bell Telephone considerable trouble yesterday when two of their local cables went out of commission. Work was started on these at once to put them in normal shape again and the work is expected to be finished to-day.

LITTLE DAMAGE FROM STORM.

The trouble department of the Peterborough Utilities Commission reported no trouble of consequence and the fire department received no alarms from lightning. The fire alarm system was not damaged by the storm

POSTMEN IN NEW TOGS

With the introduction of hot weather the postmen have shed their winter uniform and are wearing the cooler Summer togs. Starting yesterday the postmen were seen on the street dressed in blue pants, grey shirts and straw hats.

BENCHES FOR TIRED PUBLIC

Benches with the compliment of the Sanitary Ice Supply are located at the corner of Albert and Park Street, the Hunter Street Bridge and on the way down from Nicholls Hospital. They are placed in these places for the benefit of the tired public. While Reg. Turner is not a member of the campaign to beautify Peterborough, one has only to pass his plant or house to see that he is playing his part to make the city more beautiful.

POSTMASTER ISSUES WARNING

From Postmaster C. Lacheur comes a warning to the children of the south end, that if the practice of throwing rubbish into the letter boxes and breaking the glass in them does not cease, stringent police action will be taken.

WORK IS PROGRESSING

Work on the hardwood floor at the fire hall is progressing in spite of bruised thumbs and chisel cuts that the workmen are receiving. The foundation floor has been finished and the hardwood is now being put down.

MAIL DELIVERY ON MONDAY

Monday being June 3rd, there will be only one delivery in the morning by letter carrier. The rural delivery will be the same as every day, while the post office will only be open from 8 a.m. to noon.

GRILL ROOM AT HOME LUNCH

Work is being carried on at the Home Lunch Restaurant in the construction of a ladies' dining room upstairs. A new stairway from the front entrance will lead directly to the new dining room. Half-sized stalls will be used, so that these can be removed and the room be turned into a banquet hall suitable for private parties.

P. Menogue is in charge of the carpentry, and B. Doupe is looking after the decorating. The interior fixtures are furnished by the McDonald Lumber Company of Peterborough. According to the management the opening will take place on June 15.

A. Y. P. A. CUP IS AWARDED TO ST. LUKE'S

All Saints and East City Anglican Young People Entered Finals.

DRAMATIC CONTEST.

Pleasing Musical Program Was Rendered During the Intermissions.

By a unanimous decision of the three judges, the silver cup which goes annually to the winner of the Dramatic Contest in connection with the Anglican Young People's Associations of the city and district, was awarded last evening to the A.Y.P.A. of St. Luke's Church. This is the second time in the three seasons during which the cup has been presented that St. Luke's received the palm. They were winners in the first year, while All Saint's who were close runners-up last night, got the cup last year.

The trial last night was between the two winners of the first sections; St. Luke's and All Saints' associations, and it was staged in the parish hall of St. John's Church. There was a good attendance and interest was keen in the presentation of the two one-act plays, which were a decided contrast in their atmosphere and action.

The decision gave 90% to St. Luke's group, out of a possible 100, and 86% to All Saints' cast. The judges were Miss Cathleen McCarthy of The Eaminer staff, Alex Clark, and S. J. Mackey of Omemee, who acted as neutral adjudicator for the occasion.

J. A. Bent of Omemee, who is convenor of the Dramatic section of the district A.Y.P.A. acted as chairman and also passed the votes of thanks at the conclusion, to St. John's Church and to the judges of the evening.

A very pleasing musical program was given during intermissions, by Jack Marshall's orchestra, the skilful and melodious playing of the trio of young men in this snappy aggregation being much appreciated. Jack Marshall at the piano, Alex. Robertson, violinist, and Ken Brown with the xylophone, are the players in this tuneful combination.

At the conclusion of the program, dainty refreshments were served by the A.Y.P.A. of St. John's church.

All Saints First

All Saints' group was first, with their play, "A Jack for Every Jill." It is a light, humorous affair that depicts the trials of a well-meaning man who essays to help out a pair of young lovers. He gets entangled with a widow and an ancient damsel who is of a romantic turn of mind, but the final is satisfactory to all concerned.

St. Luke's A.Y.P.A. chose "The Ghost Hunters" as their play and did it in a manner that was extremely dramatic and intense. On a darkened stage, a quartette of adventuresome young people visited a haunted house at midnight and the ghost arrived at the fatal hour, with consequences that were quite unlooked for.

W. Hepburn directed St. Luke's play and James Price was director for All Saints. Both plays were splendidly presented.

The cast in All Saints' play included: Mrs. James Price as Mrs. Gilbert Miss Jessie Maconomy as Fanny Gilbert, Miss Dorothy Worboy as Matilda Boggs, Miss Helen Resko as Rosa, Jim Morley as Dr. Robinson, Milton Fowler as Fred Fitz, James Price as Benjamin Harrison Jones, and Jack Hope as Charlie Gushington.

For St. Luke's A.Y.P.A. the cast was as follows:—Mrs. W. Hepburn as Madge, Miss Queenie Hope as Bunny, Morgan Perry as Homer Jones, Cecil Hope as Bob, Roland Krant as Tim Hennessey, the policeman, and W. Hepburn as the ghost.

At the conclusion of the program, the decision of the judges was explained by Mr. Clark, and Miss McCarthy presented the cup to Mrs. Hepburn, for St. Lukes A.Y.P.A.

Al Capone's proud boast that he had "never done a minute," was shattered on May 17, when he was sent to jail for a year in Philadelphia for carrying concealed weapons. He was arrested coming out of a theatre with his personal bodyguard, Frank Cline, and both admitted carrying sawed-off shotguns. There is a suggestion that Capone, fearing that rival gangsters would take his life, purposely exposed himself to arrest in order to get protection which only jail can give. ABOVE is shown (1): "Bugs" Moran, O'Banion's successor as leader of Chicago's north side gang, and the "menace" to Capone's safety. Moran is Scarface's most dreaded enemy; (2) is the rogue's gallery picture of Capone, taken following his sentence, while (3) is a photograph showing the gangster's smile taken in the days when he was supreme as dictator of the Chicago bootleggers.

HORSE KILLED DURING STORM

Roseneath Farmer Slightly Injured When Struck By Lightning Bolt.

DAMAGE AT FENELLA.

ROSENEATH, May 31.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—During the electric storm on Thursday afternoon a horse belonging to John George was killed by lightning. The shock of the bolt stunned Mr. George and his hired man, Harold Blodgett. Two horses that were in the barn also suffered from the shock.

HEIFER KILLED.

FENELLA, May 31. — (Examiner Correspondence.) — Wilbert Rogers suffered a loss yesterday afternoon when a young heifer owned by him was struck by lightning during the severe storm which passed over this district. The chimney of the Fenella United church was also struck and a number of shingles torn from the roof.

OBITUARY

GEORGE HAROLD JOHNSTON

The death of George Harold Johnston, 45 years of age, occurred suddenly at his home, Crawford's Grove on Thursday May 30.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his beloved wife Annie E. Sisson, six children, Wilma, Harold, Alma, Eric, Beryl and Billie, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Johnston, of North Monaghan and also one sister, Mrs. Gordon E. Deyell of Peterborough.

The late Mr. Johnston was predeceased by two sisters, Vera A. a graduate nurse who died in June 1915 and Edna, late of the De Laval staff who died in July 1920.

The funeral will be held from his late residence at Crawford's Grove on Saturday at 2 o'clock. The Rev. J. D. Paterson of All Saint's Church officiating. Interment will take place in Little Lake Cemetery.

MRS. THOMAS GEORGE

ROSENEATH, May 31. — Another old pioneer of this district in the person of Margaret McDonald, widow of the late Thomas George, passed away on Saturday morning, May 25, at the advanced age of 71 years.

Deceased had been in declining health for the past three years and much of her time she was confined to her bed, yet she bore her illness with patience.

All who knew Mrs. George testify to her loving spirit and Christian character. In times of distress and sorrow among her neighbors she was ever ready with her help and compassion and to give a word of cheer and comfort.

It was a long funeral cortege that wound its way from her late residence to the little Centenary cemetery, of friends, relatives and neighbors.

Rev. M. R. Brown officiating and the simple service was decidedly impressive. Taking his words from i Corinthians, 13: 12, "Then shall I know even as I am known," saying: Ths planet on which we live is a very puzzling place. Ask a man of science what is man, and they can give no answer. You see a boy or girl on the road radiant with youth and health. Do you say, 'There goes a few score pounds of dust which has been seized by some life form and shall be held by that force for sixty or seventy years'? No. Behind the machinery of the universe lies a purpose. God has works and has given to it spirit.

"We are not earth bound creatures, mere products of time which time will destroy. In putting on Christ, we put on immortality. How little we know. Is it possible that in a few years I shall die and never know the Breat Purpose? No! God has a scheme for us that we cannot know in this life.

"'Ours is not to answer why,
Ours it not to make reply,
Ours is but to do and die.'

"We all admire the glory of a cloudless, setting sun. Yet if a few clouds gather at the western gates they take on the appearanec of the pearly gates themselves. We all have the clouds in our experience, all our sky is not clear, yet if we let the presence of Christ shine on our distresses they will be beautiful."

The pall-bearers were Corille Thackeray, Archie Mouncey, Archie Campbell, Harry Mouncey, Albert Halstead and William Taylor.

Those left to mourn her loss are her four sons, Edward, Frederick, Harold and John, with whom the mother lived, and three daughters, Mrs. Alfred Braithwaite, Mrs. Silas Sherwin and Mrs. Robert Buttars, and one brother, Alexander McDonald, Guelph, and one sister, Mrs. Thomas Graham, Port Hope.

There were many floral tributes from friends, who with flowers expressed the sympathy in their hearts for the family circle, bereft of a loving and faithful mother and sister.

CAMPBELLFORD.

Mrs. F. H. Neale, Kingston, is visiting her son, Mr. S. H. Neale and Mrs. Neale, Grand Road.

Miss Helen Jeffs has resigned her position in the local post office.

Mr. D. F. Robertson, Montreal, was a visitor in town yesterday.

Mr. R. J. Allan is in Toronto today.

Mrs. Fred Free and Miss Emma Meiklejjohn were visitors in Peterborough yesterday afternoon and evening.

AT CAVAN.

Mrs. M. G. Matchett has returned after spending a few days visiting friends in Peterborough.

Mr. Eric McLean, Mount Pleasant, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Sutton on Sunday.

Miss Telford, Peterborough, is visiting her cousin, Mrs. L. Sutton.

Apple trees are beautiful with bloom. Cherry trees and plum trees are also showing great promise of fruit.

A. Y. P. A. CUP IS AWARDED TO ST. LUKE'S

All Saints and East City Anglican Young People Entered Finals.

DRAMATIC CONTEST.

Pleasing Musical Program Was Rendered During the Intermissions.

By a unanimous decision of the three judges, the silver cup which goes annually to the winner of the Dramatic Contest in connection with the Anglican Young People's Associations of the city and district, was awarded last evening to the A.Y.P.A. of St. Luke's Church. This is the second time in the three seasons during which the cup has been presented that St. Luke's received the palm. They were winners in the first year, while All Saint's who were close runners-up last night, got the cup last year.

The trial last night was between the two winners of the first sections; St. Luke's and All Saints' associations, and it was staged in the parish hall of St. John's Church. There was a good attendance and interest was keen in the presentation of the two one-act plays, which were a decided contrast in their atmosphere and action.

The decision gave 90% to St. Luke's group, out of a possible 100, and 86% to All Saints' cast. The judges were Miss Cathleen McCarthy of The Examiner staff, Alex Clark, and S. J. Mackey of Omemee, who acted as neutral adjudicator for the occasion.

J. A. Bent of Omemee, who is convenor of the Dramatic section of the district A.Y.P.A. acted as chairman and also passed the votes of thanks at the conclusion, to St. John's Church and to the judges of the evening.

A very pleasing musical program was given during intermissions, by Jack Marshall's orchestra, the skilful and melodious playing of the trio of young men in this snappy aggregation being much appreciated. Jack Marshall at the piano, Alex. Robertson, violinist, and Ken Brown with the xylophone, are the players in this tuneful combination.

At the conclusion of the program, dainty refreshments were served by the A.Y.P.A. of St. John's church.

All Saints First

All Saints' group was first, with their play, "A Jack for Every Jill." It is a light, humorous affair that depicts the trials of a well-meaning man who essays to help out a pair of young lovers. He gets entangled with a widow and an ancient damsel who is of a romantic turn of mind, but the final is satisfactory to all concerned.

St. Luke's A.Y.P.A. chose "The Ghost Hunters" as their play and did it in a manner that was extremely dramatic and intense. On a darkened stage, a quartette of adventuresome young people visited a haunted house at midnight and the ghost arrived at the fatal hour, with consequences that were quite unlooked for.

W. Hepburn directed St. Luke's play and James Price was director for All Saints. Both plays were splendidly presented.

The cast in All Saints' play included: Mrs. James Price as Mrs. Gilbert Miss Jessie Maconomy as Fanny Gilbert, Miss Dorothy Worboy as Matilda Boggs, Miss Helen Resko as Rosa, Jim Morley as Dr. Robinson, Milton Fowler as Fred Fitz, James Price as Benjamin Harrison Jones, and Jack Hope as Charlie Gushington.

For St. Luke's A.Y.P.A. the cast was as follows:—Mrs. W. Hepburn as Madge, Miss Queenie Hope as Bunny, Morgan Perry as Homer Jones, Cecil Hope as Bob, Roland Krant as Tim Hennessey, the policeman, and W. Hepburn as the ghost.

At the conclusion of the program, the decision of the judges was explained by Mr. Clark, and Miss McCarthy presented the cup to Mrs. Hepburn, for St. Lukes A.Y.P.A.

Keech Is Winner at Indianapolis

Death and Destruction Strewn in Wreckage of Automobile Sweepstakes.

YOUTHFUL DRIVER KILLED.

Winner's Time Did Not Even Threaten Speed Record For the Race.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 31 (Canadian Press). — Death and destruction were strewn in the wreckage of that scorching torch called the 500-mile automobile sweepstakes at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway yesterday.

With a record-smashing crowd of 150,000 viewing the spectacle, Ray Keech, daring 28-year-old driver of Philadelphia, bounced his tiny eight-cylinder racing creation past the finish tape, a winner in 5.07.42. Louis Meyer, of Los Angeles, winner of the 1928 race, finished second, nearly six minutes behind, with Jimmy Gleason, another Philadelphia driver, pulling in pin third place.

Twelve of the 33 drivers who started survived the terrific test of speed. Keech averaged 97.585 miles an hour, a performance that did not even threaten speed records for the race.

The race resulted in the death of William Spence, 24-year-old driver of Los Angeles, and the miraculous escape of five other drivers. Spence, bounding over the perilously bumpy 2½-mile brick course at terrific speed, was killed when on his 40th mile. As he was shooting out of a turn his car struck a retaining wall on a skid, threw Spence into the air, turned completely over, and then came to a stop far down the track.

Philadelphia Widens Gap At League Top—Browns Break Even With Tigers.

BOSTON, May 31.—The Athletics hit fiercely to win both games of a double-header, 9 to 2 and 9 to 3, from the Red Sox here yesterday. They have won 14 out of their last 15 games.

Hale hit a double and three singles in the first game and Simmons a home run and two singles in the second. A double play in each game, both begun by Rothrock, Red Sox centre fielder, after difficult catches of fly balls, were the fielding features.

Foxx, Philadelphia first-baseman, ran his string of consecutive games in which he has hit safely to 14 by hits in each contest.

TIGERS AND BROWNS DIVIDE.

DETROIT, May 31.—The St. Louis Browns and the Tigers celebrated the holiday by spanking out 52 hits in two games and declaring their series a draw. St. Louis won the afternoon game, 13 to 9, after the Bengals had captured the breakfast contest by 14 to 6.

Each team used four pitchers yesterday afternoon, one after another fading in the face of continuous shelling by both sides. Credit for the victory goes to George Blaeholder, while the stigma of defeat rested on "Lil" Stoner, although he pitched only one inning.

EVEN BREAK FOR WHITE SOX.

CHICAGO, May 31.— The White Sox and Cleveland Indians broke even in their holiday double bill, the visitors taking the first by 6 to 5, and the home talent the nightcap by 3 to 2.

Great fielding by "Bib" Falk stopped the Sox in the first affair. The second was decided in the eighth when Kamm and Clancy singled and were driven home on a double by Watwood. Ted Lyons held the Indians to nine hits in the opener.

Smelters Will Be Here To-morrow to Help Petes Open Season.

A REAL TUSSLE

Petes Will Have Strongest Line-Up Against Invaders From East.

The Deloro team which to-morrow will help the Petes pry open the Central Ontario League season so far as the local end of the schedule is concerned, is picked by the experts as the club to beat for the pennant this season.

This prediction is based on the fact that since last year that the Smelters have been strengthened by the addition of two smart young ball players, Elliott, the fast fielding second baseman of last year's Kingston Ponies and Harold Buck, also of Kingston, a decidedly useful all-round star who can play the outfield like nobody's business, hit, run bases and do a turn on the rubber. Ibey, the big Hastings pitcher, has been added to the hurling staff and reports say that he is in for a big season.

At all events the Smelters crew will give the Petes plenty of opposition in the opening clash at James Stevenson Park to-morrow afternoon and the game should be a great start to what promises to be a spectacular race.

Manager Swanston expects to have his team at full strength to-morrow and the game will serve to introduce some of the recruits who are making their debut in senior ball.

There will be a real crowd out to see the lid lifted off the local season at 3 o'clock.

LEAFS SPLIT DOUBLE BILL

Rochester Takes the Afternoon Session 10-2, But Lose in Morning 5-1.

EIGHTH WIN FOR CANTRELL.

ROCHESTER, May 31.—The Toronto Maple Leafs will go into the fourth game of the series with the Rochester Red Wings here to-day, holding a one-game lead. In the Memorial Day double attraction yesterday the teams each took a game, the Leafs winning in the morning, 5-1, and the Wings slugging their way to a 10 to 2 victory in the second affair.

Guy Cantrell and Abe Martin held the league leaders at bay in the first contest, allowing but four safe hits. Although he was the winning hurler, Cantrell's wildness forced him to give way to Martin in the sixth inning.

In the afternoon battle "Tex" Carleton was too good for the Canadians, giving eight hits, five of these in the first two frames. Eight extra base hits by the Red Wing sluggers kept the game safe at all stages.

The Leafs took an early lead in the first game, scoring in the second inning when Burke was hit in the leg with a pitched ball by Reinhart and came home on successive singles by Sheedy and Cote. Another hit batsman accounted for a tally in the third. Rabbitt was hit and came home on Bedore's triple to left centre. Reinhart got himself into hot water in the sixth, when Toronto got three runs, sewing up the contest. He walked Ruble, and, after getting Sweeney to hit back to him, he threw wild to second with an easy double play in sight, and both men were safe. Burke sacrificed and Sheedy came through with a hit to centre to score Burke and Sweeney. Sheedy was out stealing, but Cote squeezed out a pass. O'Neill's single sent him to third, from where he scored on a double steal with his manager. This trio of runs ended the Leafs' scoring.

Speed— and Balance

SPEED to carry you along the wide, clear highway; road balance to give you unlimited confidence on the turns; brakes to slow as though by magic the flying landscape on either side—these are your passports to happy motoring with a Ford car.

Ford engineering has developed a new principle of weight distribution that gives the Ford car a tendency to hug the road when travelling rapidly. The engine, the heaviest part, acts in a sense like the barb to the arrow in flight. Torque tube drive transmits thrust to the front of the car. Unique transverse, semi-elliptic springs and the finest shock absorbers in the world, Houdailles, deliver balanced, smooth riding. Therefore, when speedy travel is required, the Ford car develops a road tenacity hitherto unknown in the light car field.

Grips with Silent Power

The smooth, even braking of the Ford car yields more advantages than maximum safety at all times, since it makes tires last longer and adds immeasurably to riding ease and driving comfort.

LOW UPKEEP—The maintenance of Ford performance is in keeping with Ford traditions; given care and proper attention, no other car on the road may be driven at less cost per mile. And the price of the Ford car spread over a number of years of motoring pleasure and satisfaction, reduces to an absolute economy this mode of comfortable, convenient transportation.

DEMONSTRATION—Ask your Ford dealer to let you drive a Ford car. He will be glad to take you out. Select the steepest hills, the heaviest going—you will be amazed at the power at your command. Head for the busiest streets. Drive alongside other cars. Try the quick getaway, the swift pickup in second, the easy gearshift. Feel the smooth, sure action of the six brake system.

A demonstration will convince you of the outstanding merit of the Ford car. Drive it yourself, there is no better test.

Also request your Ford dealer to show you the hidden, inbuilt quality features of the car which make it so enduring.

TIME PAYMENT—If you prefer to buy out of income you will find the authorized time payment plan offered by all Ford dealers most attractive.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

COLLEEN MOORE IN "WHY BE GOOD"

The Capitol screen is going to talk for the first time on Monday, June 10th. So Manager Stewart announces, and the opening will be a looked-for event.

Colleen Moor in "Why Be Good?" is as preppy and vivacious as ever. She is on the move every minutes except when she is lolling on the counter of the department store where she spends the major portion of her daytimes.

Although the picture doesn't provide a decisive answer to the question in the caption, it illustrates the decided success attained by the youthful maiden who trips hard and fast and remains good at the same time. There is a remarkable bit of truth in the explanation given by Pert Kelly to the young man who suspects her of many things because she kisses and "necks" and flirts. She asks him if he would look at her if she worel ong skirts and sat at home knitting, and the poor youth has no comeback at all.

The modern conflict between youth and age is well exhibited in this picture. Her mother assures Pert that she knows she is a good girl and the daughter answers that she realizes the fact herself, but she has an awful time hiding it. "I'd be disgraced if it ever leaked out" she remarks, and the mother nods in agreement.

"Why Be Good?" is fine entertainment as a picture and it has nothing wrong in its portrayal. Just what effect these productions of flaming youth have on the minds of sweet sixteen and her companion of seventeen and eighteen, is a query.

The comedy is a Bobby Vernon piece of fun and the short reels are the usual run of excellent material.

Giants Thrill Fans As They Win Twin Bill

NEW YORK, May 31.—The Giants won both games of the Decoration Day double-header from the Robins here yesterday before a roaring crowd of 55,000. The first game, a see-saw thriller, was decided in the last half of the ninth when the home team scored twice to win by 8 to 1, but the Clan McGraw rode in front all the way in the second, triumphing by 15 to 6.

In the first game home runs by Travis Jackson and Bob O'Farrel gave the Giants three runs and an edge of one in the home half of the eighth, but this advantage was replaced by a deficit when Johnny Frederick hit for the circuit in the Brooklyn section of the ninth with one man on base. The Giants then turned on their winning rally.

MOOSE PLAY IN LINDSAY TO-MORROW.

The nifty little nine of the Loyal Order of Moose will get a real test in Lindsay this Saturday when they stack up against an all-star outfit picked from the junior teams of the Scugog town. The Moose team played sparkling ball in their opening game of the City League, and they loom up as one of the best minor teams that has ever been assembled locally.

Lindsay has a flourishing junior league and they sent down a challenge asking for a game with a good Peterborough team. The Moose immediately accepted the challenge, and will give Lindsay fans an opportunity to see baseball as it is played by the youngsters here.

The Moose team has also picked up the challenge thrown out yesterday by their brethren in Belleville. No dates have yet been arranged, but it is likely that a friendly pair of home-and-home games will be played in the near future.

The local members of the Loyal Order of Moose are solidly behind their team, and they should be commended for the efforts that they are putting forth to encourage baseball.

Manager Des Hunt requests that every member of his squad be on hand for the workout this evening at six o'clock on the King Edward School grounds. There still remain a few rough spots to be rubbed off their play, and they will be in first class shape for their game in Lindsay to-morrow.

RAYBESTOS PLAY AT PORT HOPE.

The Raybestos play the Port Hope Ontarios in the water-front town to-morrow afternoon. The Hopers are a new parcel to the Rays but they should not be troublesome.

Manager Art Primeau has been giving his team a series of stiff practises since the opening game in which the Rays lost to Oshawa Arabs. The locals played smartly for most of the game, and it was only a few costly errors that lost them the game. "Sailor" Maudsley is all ready to set the Hopers on their ears with his port-side curves, and the team was workng smoothly in practise last night.

KEEN COMPETITION IN SCHOOL LEAGUE.

Keen competition has held sway in the Public School baseball league this season, but now two teams have drawn out in front, and the cup and honors lies between them. King Edward looms up as the strongest team in the league, not having lost a game; while King George can tie the south end team by winning on their own diamond against King Edward and Prince of Wales.

King George School is taking a front rank in athletics, having been strong in hockey last winter, winning in every event but one at the Field Day last Saturday, and now they are right on King Edward's heels in baseball.

CARPENTIER BACK IN STATES.

Georges Carpentier is back in the United States. Rubbing his chin reflectively the other day, he opined that he would like to take a whirl at the present heavies, with Dempsey excluded. I' was the same chin he stroked that Dempsey had leaned his "iron mike" on that boiling day at Boyle's Thirty Acres, and while Corp. is a bit shop worn, he still looks as though he might make affairs hum for a few rounds anyway. Carpentier mantains that so long as he fights around his weight he can more than hold his own, and be well paid for it. That is the principle that he emphasizes—that he would have to be well paid. Nobody is particularly impressed by this statement outside of Carp. himself. If he should step in and knock out a pushover or two the easily excited fight populace might react to the orchid man, who after Jim Corbett, was the greatest factor in establishing boxing at its present high status—if any.

Husband and Wife To Sit in Parliament; Both Win Election On Labor Platform

LONDON, May 31 (C. P. Cable) —At least one husband and wife will sit in the next Parliament. Lady Cynthia Mosley, daughter of the late Lord Curzon, and her husband, Sir Oswald Mosley, were both elected in yesterday's general election, as Labor members. Sir Oswald created a stir last year by his hesitance to accept the title falling to him from his father. Lady Mosley was elected in West Bristol and Sir Oswald was re-elected in Smethwick.

Premier Baldwin's son, Oliver Baldwin, and Lloyd George's daughter, Megan, also will be in the next House of Commons with their parents. Oliver Baldwin, who is returned from Dudley, Worcester, the same county as his father, is a Laborite and for some years has been opposed to the policies of his father's party. Megan Lloyd George on the other hand is a Liberal.

Yankees Again Fall Before The Senators

WASHINGTON, May 31. — The Washington Senators continued their tactics of regaining against New York percentage points lost to the Athletics by trimming the Yankees in the holiday double bill yesterday 8 to 5 and 4 to 3.

A ninth-inning rally against Johnson, Moore and Zachary good for hits and three runs gave the Senators the second contest after Hadley had been driven from the mound. They pounded Miller Huggin's once-brilliant left-hander, Herb Pennock, and Thomas for the first victory.

HOW TO CONTROL CABBAGE MAGGOT

To Save Crop, Control Measures Must Be Practised Immediately.

Now is the time to take precautions against the cabbage maggot which attacks such plants as cabbages, cauliflowers and radishes. The flies are on the wing at the present time and are already laying their eggs on the stems of these plants. To save your crop, control measures must be put into practice at once.

Experimental work carried on over a series of years has proved that these insects can be best controlled by the use of corrosive sublimate. This material can be procured at your local seed houses and when used is diluted in water at the rate of one ounce to ten gallons. As corrosive sublimate loses much of its strength when brought in contact with metals it should be mixed and applied from glass or earthenware or wooden vessels. This point is very important.

Two or three days after the cabbage and cauliflower plants have been set out in the field, the solution should be poured over the stem and around the base of each plant, using about half a cupful per plant. Care should be taken to wet the stems thoroughly as well as the soil immediately surrounding the base. Two subsequent applications should be made at intervals of ten days, making three treatments in all. It is very important to get the first application on early, as the success of the control depends very largely on this point.

In the case of radishes the solution should be poured over the young plants about three days after they appear above the ground and a second application made a week later. Do not treat the radishes when they are nearly ready to use as the practice is dangerous.

In view of the fact that corrosive sublimate is a very deadly poison to humans and animals, great care should be exercised in its use.

Further information may be secured by writing the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, or the Entomologist in Charge of Vegetable Insect Investigations, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Uncle Wiggily

A Bed-Time Story by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY FOOLS THE FOX.

Copyright, 1929, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

For nearly a week the Fuzzy Fox had been keeping close watch over Uncle Wiggily. The Bad Chap had not tried to catch the rabbit. But early in the morning the Fox would get up before breakfast and hide himself in the high grass near Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow.

"What are you doing here?" a hopping black cricket once asked the Fox as the Bad Chap was hiding in the grass.

"I am watching to see what Uncle Wiggily does," was the answer.

That's all the Fox said just then. But he had made up his mind that when he next tried to catch Uncle Wiggily there would be no fooling—he would surely get the rabbit.

"And to do that," said the Fox to himself, "I must watch Uncle Wiggily a few days and see just what he does and where he goes. He will not know I am watching and when I find out which path he takes I can easily follow and grab him."

So, for nearly a week, the Fox had hidden and watched the rabbit gentleman hop away each day, from his bungalow. Each day Uncle Wiggily went the same way. He would hop out, look up at the sky, twinkle his pink nose and then go along a path through the woods.

He made up his mind to catch Uncle Wiggily.

"But the funny thing about it," said the Fox to his wife one night when he reached home after watching the rabbit hop away, "the funny thing about it is that Uncle Wiggily always wears his old clothes. He used to hop around all dressed up, but for the last week he has always worn an old, ragged suit. Once I stayed hidden in the grass until he came back, and he was all covered with mud. It must be queer adventures that Uncle Wiggily finds. I wonder what they can be?"

"Why don't you sneak along after him and find out?" asked Mrs. Fox.

"I will," said her husband, and he did.

The next day, while he was hiding in the high grass, the Fox once more saw Uncle Wiggily come out of his bungalow dressed in an old, ragged suit, covered with dried mud.

"Now I shall find out his secret," thought the Fox sneaking along behind the bunny gentleman so softly that Uncle Wiggily never heard him at all. "I'll see where he goes."

It did not take the Fox long to find out, for Uncle Wiggily went to the secret slide where he had seen Oscar Otter and the two beaver boys, Toodle and Noodle Flat Tail having fun one day. The slide was on a slippery mud hill leading down to a brook and, after seeing the otter and beavers sliding down the wet, muddy hill Uncle Wiggily had tried it himself. But first he put on his old clothes. He had lots of fun sliding.

Uncle Wiggily did not slide all the way down the muddy hill into the water. That was all right for a beaver or otter, as these animals live half the time under water. Near the end of the slide was a low hanging tree, with strong branches. And, as he slid under these branches, in his mud coasting. Uncle Wiggily caught hold of the tree limbs and so saved himself from going into the brook. Each time he slid down the rabbit did this and he had been coming to the slide every day for a week.

"So this is his secret snickered the Fox as he saw Uncle Wiggily stop at the top of the slide and get ready to coast down. "This is where he has been coming in his old, muddy suit. No wonder he gets all dirt. But this will be his last slide. I'll catch him now."

Hiding in the bushes, the Fox watched Uncle Wiggily get ready for his first slide of the day. The rabbit was just crazy happy over this secret slide. He thought no one knew about it except the two beavers, Oscar Otter and himself. But now the Fox had found it.

"As soon as he slides down!" chuckled the hidden Fox to himself, "I'll slide down after him. At the bottom he'll be so excited he won't be able to run and I'll get him. I'll slide down right after him."

The Fox didn't know about the deep brook at the bottom of the slide.

"Well, here I go!" cried jolly Uncle Wiggily and he started down the slippery slide.

"Yes, and here I come after you!" chuckled the Fox to himself. "Oh, how surprised you are going to be, Uncle Wiggily!"

Faster and faster Uncle Wiggily slid down the other side. It was wet and muddy and slippery for the beavers had been sliding on it earlier that morning. Down, down, down went the rabbit. After him, making not a sound, slid the Fuzzy Fox.

But, all of a sudden, as he passed under the low branches of the willow tree, Uncle Wiggily reached up and caught hold, lifting himself from the slide, and saving himself from going into the brook.

But the Fox didn't know enough to do that. On and on he slid, ker splash! Right into the water! It went over his head!

"Oh, bubble, gluggle, wuggle!" howled the Fox. "What happened?"

"Ha! Ha!" lauched Uncle Wiggily, swinging by the tree branches off the slide to dry ground. "I fooled you! Ha! Ha!"

HOW TO CONTROL CABBAGE MAGGOT

To Save Crop, Control Measures Must Be Practised Immediately.

Now is the time to take precautions against the cabbage maggot which attacks such plants as cabbages, cauliflowers and radishes. The flies are on the wing at the present time and are already laying their eggs on the stems of these plants. To save your crop, control measures must be put into practice at once.

Experimental work carried on over a series of years has proved that these insects can be best controlled by the use of corrosive sublimate. This material can be procured at your local seed houses and when used is diluted in water at the rate of one ounce to ten gallons. As corrosive sublimate loses much of its strength when brought in contact with metals it should be mixed and applied from glass or earthenware or wooden vessels. This point is very important.

Two or three days after the cabbage and cauliflower plants have been set out in the field, the solution should be poured over the stem and around the base of each plant, using about half a cupful per plant. Care should be taken to wet the stems thoroughly as well as the soil immediately surrounding the base. Two subsequent applications should be made at intervals of ten days, making three treatments in all. It is very important to get the first application on early, as the success of the control depends very largely on this point.

In the case of radishes the solution should be poured over the young plants about three days after they appear above the ground and a second application made a week later. Do not treat the radishes when they are nearly ready to use as the practice is dangerous.

In view of the fact that corrosive sublimate is a very deadly poison to humans and animals, great care should be exercised in its use.

Further information may be secured by writing the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, or the Entomologist in Charge of Vegetable Insect Investigations, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Uncle Wiggily

A Bed-Time Story by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY FOOLS THE FOX.

Copyright, 1929, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

For nearly a week the Fuzzy Fox had been keeping close watch over Uncle Wiggily. The Bad Chap had not tried to catch the rabbit. But early in the morning the Fox would get up before breakfast and hide himself in the high grass near Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow.

"What are you doing here?" a hopping black cricket once asked the Fox as the Bad Chap was hiding in the grass.

"I am watching to see what Uncle Wiggily does," was the answer.

That's all the Fox said just then. But he had made up his mind that when he next tried to catch Uncle Wiggily there would be no fooling—he would surely get the rabbit.

"And to do that," said the Fox to himself, "I must watch Uncle Wiggily a few days and see just what he does and where he goes. He will not know I am watching and when I find out which path he takes I can easily follow and grab him."

So, for nearly a week, the Fox had hidden and watched the rabbit gentleman hop away each day, from his bungalow. Each day Uncle Wiggily

HOME HANDICRAFTS MUST BE REVIVED

Speaker at Kiwanis Club Makes Plea For Old Things.

"If we do not take steps to revive the handicrafts of the home, it soon will be a resurrection instead of a revival, which will be a much harder task," stated George Bouchard, K.C., Member of Parliament for Kamouraska, Quebec, at the Kiwanis luncheon held in the Empress Hotel today.

Mr. Bouchard, expressed his pleasure of being a guest of the Peterborough Kiwanis club. It is the first time that he has been in the city and he told how he walked about the streets, noticing their cleanness and the tidy houses. "The river," he said, "that flows through your city and does so much work for you, as it leaves seems to linger as if it is sorry to part. I will be like the river and try to linger also. I will hate to leave."

"There has been developed in the club here," he continued, "a national responsibility. Agriculture is at the basis of our national wealth and prosperity. You have before you a ghost, rising up from the past, an old fashioned habitant that you have often seen in home-mode clothes, a man led astray by politics.

"I was pushed up by election in 1922 when I was the youngest man in the House of Commons, because the electors did not know better, while in 1925 I had to fight to be elected. You see before you a man rooted in the soil not only of his country but of his district, a descendant of ten generations, being one of the first to travel Canada and Europe of the family that settled in Quebec in 1860.

"As a guest of the club I bring goodwill from the old habitant of Quebec and invite you to visit our old-fashioned province. Come and see it; I am proud of it!

"After all, in Quebec there are not those differences existing that are related in the papers. The better we get acquainted the better we will like each other. We all belong to the same nation.

"I have in mind my hobby in home-crafts of the old days, one that should not die. If our grandmothers would come back to earth they would not scold the girls for their short dresses or bobbed hair, but they would regret the loss of the artistic activity."

He then implored the men of Kiwanis to take some steps to revive the old handicrafts. "Do you realize what a home would be with everything money could buy, but nothing made by hand? You would have everything, but yet nothing. The pendulum has swung too far to the manufactured article. Do you realize what we will have lost if one generation forgets the home arts? The FrenchCanadian has kept this art alive more than anyone else.

"Ontario has not shared in the same development because of its greater wealth, shorter winters and larger industrial centres. The popular arts of the home are delicate flowers and cannot stand the smoke of the factory or the railroad."

Mr. Bouchard suggested an institution that would foster this development, of the old spinning wheel, the loom, the flail and the fireplace.

Kiwanian J. Wearing introduced the speaker and Kiwanian J. Marshall thanked him on behalf of the club.

Kiwanian J. A. McKone initiated a baby member of the club into the organization, Dr. C. B. Waite, who received the emblem of Kiwanis at the hands of Mr. McKone, was the new members.

Kiwanian Richard T. E. Hicks-Lyne was the booster for the day, and Kiwanians Tom Mark, Harry Boyle and Wilfred Huycke were the prize winners.

The visitors were H. H. Graham of Peterborough; W. J. Anderson of London, and H. M. Sutcliffe of Lindsay.

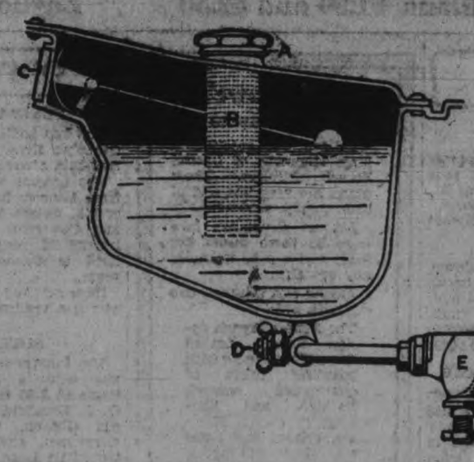
THE FORD CAR FUEL SYSTEM



A—Filler Cap.
B—Filter spout screen filters gas and prevents splashing through filler opening.
C—Gas guage.
D—Fuel line main shut off valve.
E—Gas filter.
F—Carburetor Connection.

Simple— Safe— and Dependable

THE Ford car fuel system is simple because it is direct. Gravity flow does away with forced feed. A short feed line with a minimum of elbows and connections is easy to service and eliminates approximately 100 parts required by the vacuum tank or fuel pump system.

The nine-gallon tank is so placed that it is well protected from front or rear end collision. Any overflow runs off on the ground with no serious results, since the only point of possible spark contact is the rear end of the exhaust. Three screens instead of one, as in most fuel systems, prevent foreign matter reaching the tank. A solid steel dash separates the Ford gas tank from the engine.

The gas guage on the dash of the Ford car is controlled by a simple float as shown in diagram, being more direct, simple and accurate than any other type. Another point of driving convenience made possible by the gravity flow system is the ease with which the tank may be filled, while the driver supervises the operation without moving from behind the wheel.

Around the City

The services of the Fire Department were required at the home of B. R. Wease yesterday at 12.27 noon as the result of a peculiar accident. A power line came in contact with the soil pipe which acts as a ventilator from the top of the house to the sewer. The short circuit caused the sewer gas in the pipe to ignite and the fire came up the sewer pipe to a basin up-stairs. A brass pipe was burned off but the arrival of the fire department prevented any further damage.

Another run was made to 189 Simcoe street at 11 a.m., where a bus belonging to Edward Cooney caught fire when a battery wire came in contact with the transmission case of a big truck. Considerable damage was done before the fire was extinguished.

A false alarm called the firemen to 252 Brock street a few minutes later at 11.35.

LABOR WILL NOT FORCE SECOND ELECTION

Experts Complete Work

LIBERAL PARTY IS BEING BLAMED FOR STALEMATE

Tory Papers Severely Criticise Actions of Lloyd George in Past Election.

SOCIALIST HAD HAND.

Troubled Career of New House Will Be Fascinating But Not Long-Lived.

LONDON, June 1 (Canadian Press Cable).—A stalemate with the accompanying spectre of continuously imminent dissolution presents a problem whose successful solution will need a more accommodating spirit between the parties than has been evident hitherto, according to opinion reflected in the newspapers.

The Liberals, upon whom so much depends, are the objects of the bitter attacks by Conservative newspapers, the newspapers arguing that Liberal intervention in hopeless constituencies not only contributed to a Labor victory but ejected from Parliament some of the most promising young Conservatives.

Political Discredit.

The morning Post says Lloyd George may flatter himself upon holding the balance of power but he will duly discover it will not bring consolidation for the political discredit of his "adventure."

The Daily Telegraph calls upon Premier Baldwin to bodily reconstruct his Ministry and meet Parliament, "not meekly extending his neck to the sword of the executioner but with a program of useful non-controversial legislation throwing upon the Opposition the responsibility of ejecting the Ministry."

"Another immediate election would produce the same results and would be regarded by the country as an outrage," the Daily Telegraph states.

The Daily Mail says that by devoting most of their attention to Liberal antagonists, the Conservatives left an "insidious Socialist enemy" a free hand.

The Daily Express asserts that any party that forgets the watchword, "The nation first, the party second," will incur swift and formidable retribution.

The Liberal newspapers while seeking consolation for defeat in reflection upon the improved quality of their representation do not provide a clue to the all-important question of the party's tactics.

Inefficient Government.

The Daily Chronicle says an unpopular and grossly inefficient Conservative Government was heavily defeated. This newspaper adds that the Labor Party won a fair fight, but is not entitled to override the other parties, though as the biggest party they are entitled to a corresponding hearing. "Nobody need assume the days of the new House will be necessarily few or barren," The Daily Chronicle says.

The Daily News believes the troubled career of the new Parliament will be full of fascinating interest, though probably not long-lived.

May Be Fusion.

The Daily Herald greets Labor emergence as the strongest power in the country for the first time in history, and credits this to an uncompromising attack on all opponents not forgetting the Communists to whom "industrial workers meted the spittle of contempt." The Daily Herald calls upon Premier Baldwin to resign in order that "the people's chosen representative, Ramsay Mac-

Delegates Marking Time

Single Question Remains in the Way of Final Settlement.

BELGIUM REPARATIONS.

Rapid Progress Was Made During Morning Session in Paris.

PARIS, June 1 (Canadian Press).—A single question remained in the way of a settlement on the reparations problem at noon to-day and the experts were awaiting word from Berlin which it was expected would remove that.

The question was that of remuneration to Belgium for German marks left in that country after the occupation. It was thought first to have been settled yesterday with agreement between Belgium and Germany to handle the matter with private negotiations after the experts' conference had closed.

Overnight it developed that while Belgium had appointed its representative for such negotiation, M. Gutt, Germany had not named its man. Emile Francqui, head of the Belgian delegation here, refused to sign any settlement or conference report until the negotioations were under way.

The experts were given reason to believe that the situation merely was the result of an omission at Berlin, and that it would be reminded shortly. Until some further word was received from the German capital they, therefore, were making time. They had expected to complete their settlement by 1 p.m., until the hitch developed.

Progress Is Made.

Quick progress was made during the morning with other phases of the settlement and an agreement was reached on the German demand that some of the burden of the last 22 annuities under the Young plan be lifted. This agreement included a promise that if the United States reduced the sum of the German creditors' debts to America there would also be a reduction in what Germany owed to the former Allies.

It was also agreed that of the last 22 annuities a share of the present value of 1,000,000,000 marks (about $240,000,000) will be brought in immediately through a fund to which both the Allies and the Germans will contribute.

The Belgian demand to which the Germans have so strenuously objected has been that they be paid 37 annuities of 25,000,000,000 marks (about $6,000,000) to cover the depreciated currency. It was the German contention, in which many of the Allied experts concurred, that the question was outside the scope of the conference.

CITY TAKES OVER LOCAL GAS PLANT

Department Is Now Known As Gas Department of Utilities Commission.

PERSONNEL UNCHANGED.

H. L. Beal Is Retained To Carry On in the Position of Manager.

At midnight last night, the City of Peterborough officially took over the management of the local gas works. A communication from the Hydro Electric Commission of Ontario indicating its intended withdrawal from the managership at 12 o'clock, was reported by City Clerk Armstrong at a meeting of the Utilities Commission yesterday afternoon. Although the purchase of the local Gas Department of the Hydro Commission took effect on January 1. Up to last night the Hydro Commission, acting as agents retained control. The Department will now be known as the Gas Department of the Peterborough Utilities Commission.

Personnel Unchanged

It was indicated at the meeting that the personnel of the Department would remain unchanged, and a resolution was adopted by which H. L. Beal was retained to carry on in his position of managership. The chairman of the Commission, G. S. Matthews, stated that the employees would be treated under the new management with the same fairness and consideration to which they had been accustomed in the past. On being questioned concerning the feelings of the men regarding the change of management, Mr. Beal stated that the employees of the Department had shown no dissatisfaction. However, he expressed the opinion that some adjustment might have to be made in the wage scaled ue to the fact that the men would no longer enjoy certain pension rights that the Hydro Commission afforded. It was decided to look into the matter more fully later.

HYDRO MATTERS ARE DISCUSSED BY ASSOCIATION

Central Ontario Power Organization Meets in Cobourg.

PURCHASE GATINEAU POWER

Engineers Advise Municipalities To Purchase Their Distribution Plants.

In his address at the annual meeting of the Central Ontario Power Association in Cobourg yesterday afternoon the president, F. L. Mason of Oshawa, referred to the supply of Gatineau power which has been obtained for the Central Ontario system, which includes Peterborough.

Since the formation of the Central Ontario Association in February 1927 some of its members, including representatives of Peterborough, Oshawa, Belleville and Kingston have expressed concern about the future supply of power from the limited resources of the Trent waters. When the Hydro-Electric Commission proposed to tap the Gatineau by arranging for a large block of power and transmitting it across the eastern end of the province from Ottawa to Toronto, the Central Ontario Association suggested that its steadily increasing need and consumption of electricity should be provided for from the Gatineau dam.

Mr. Mason reported yesterday that the Hydro-Electric Commission had been impressed by this appeal, and in June 1927 called into conference representatives of the Association to discuss the project.

Bringing Blocks of 6,000 H.P.

"Followin this conference" Mr. Mason related on Friday afternoon, "a block of 100,000 horse power was secured from the Gatineau Company, to be taken in blocks of 6,000 H.P. each year, the Hydro Commission to have the right to take larger blocks should the situation warrant it. Your officers are in receipt of information that the first block of 6,000 H.P. taken in 1928 has been fully utilized and that by October 1929 the Hydro Commission will be taking 12,000 H. P. from the Gatineau Power Company for the Central Ontario system. This power is transformed at Smith's Falls, and the Commission at present has plans under way for further re-inforcing the lines to supply additional future power for transmission to more Central points at 110,000 volts.

Your officers regarding the matter of available power supply for the Central Ontario system as being adequate for some time, under this contract."

Must Use More Power

At the conclusion of the meeting Mr. Mason returned to this subject and pointed out that the Central Ontario system must endeavour to make full use of this new resource of power which the Hydro-Electric Commission has placed at the disposal of the municipalities in this district..

"We've got to increase our industrial activities in Central Ontario," Mr. Mason declared, "or it will be found that we are not active enough to take care of that supply. We all know what it means to pay on a peak load and not use it. Let us see that we get power at a minimum cost and also that we use it. We must get our power charges down to a minimum."

The Gatineau power for the Central Ontario district has been available since November 1st, 1928.

The Success of Hydro

Hon. J. R. Cooke, of the Hydro-Electric Commission was unable to attend yesterday's meeting, but the commission was represented by two of its assistant engineers, R. T. Jeffrey and G. F. Drewry.

One of Mr. Jeffrey's statements was to the effect that the results of the Hydro-Electric enterprise were so profitable to the municipalities that the people might not believe the results when they hear them.

"The Government wants you to participate in the benefits of owning and operating your local distribution systems. The Hydro has been so successful that there is no longer any doubt about the advantages of owning your own systems. It is true that in municipalities that do not own their distribution systems the rates are slightly more than enough to meet the costs," Mr. Jeffrey stated, "but if a municipality takes over the local distribution plant and operates it on a cost basis that municipality can reduce its rates. Of course if you don't want to take over your local distribution system, we will carry on at the present rates and turn the surplus money into the Central Ontario System's treasury. We don't take the money out of the System. The surpluses are used for reserve funds

PUBLIC SCHOOLS LAUDED.

King Edward School in Past Three Years Won Cup Twice and Tied Once.

(E. A. O.)

Young Peterborough made an impressive appearance when the Collegiate and Public School Cadet Corps marshalled for their annual inspection at Confederation Square yesterday afternoon. The precision and perfection of the company drill and maneuvers and the upstanding soldiery bearing of each individual cadet created a feeling of admiration and respect in the hundreds of interested spectators.

Both corps were highly praised for their smart showing by Officer of Cadets Captain G. Isbister, who represented Brigadier W. B. Anderson, C.M.G., D.S.O., as inspecting officer in his unavoidable absence. Members of the Board of Education also congratulated them, and the loud ripples of applause that came spontaneously, expressed the enthusiasm of the large throng of watchers.

Public Schools Lauded

At the conclusion of the inspection Captain Isbister in conversation with The Examiner said, "The parade of the Public School cadets was the best of its kind that I have ever witnessed. The Public Schools in Brockville are splendid, but even they cannot come up to a parade such as I have just seen staged by your Peterborough school boys."

For the second time in succession B company, King Edward School, won the Denne Trophy, emblematic of the highest proficiency displayed by any of the schools in the company drill. Captain Isbister, when presenting the cup, stated that the selection had been difficult.

Since the cup was was first presented for annual competition by Mayor Denne in 1924 the following schools have won it: 1924, Central; 1925, Queen Alexander; 1926, Queen Alexander; 1927, King Edward and Central(tied), 1928, King Edward.

In the P.C.I. Cadet Corps' No. 1 platoon in A Company and No. 5 Platoon in B Company were selected by Captain Isbister as being the best.

The Collegiate Cadets were first inspected. Drawn up in two long ranks, with the colors in the centre and the bugle band and Rangers' band in the rear, the corps presented a snappy appearance. At 2 o'clock the inspecting officer walked to the saluting base and instantly the long ranks snapped to rigid attention and the "General Salute," player by the Rangers' band, rang out.

Following the inspection, the corps marched past the saluting base in column of fours. Then came separate company drill under the watchful eyes of the inspecting officer. A Company did snappy rifle drill, under command of Cadet Commanding Officer Hedley Vickers. The right-half of A Compan Company were put through open-order maneuvers by Cadet Captain Rodney Ecobichon. B Company did physical drill in perfect

KING TO SPEND BIRTHDAY IN BED

His Majest's Condition Was Reported As Satisfactory Today at Noon.

POSTPONE SERVICE.

LONDON, June 1. — (Canadian Press).—Monday is King George's sixty-fourth birthday but he probably will spend it in bed. It was understood to-day there was little hope he would be able to be up.

His room in the Victoria Tower of Windsor Castle, is an exceptionally cheerful one, overlooking a broad walk with beech trees.

Many members of the Royal family are expected to join Queen Mary at the Castle in celebration of the occasion even if the anniversary must be spent quietly.

Not Seriously Ill

Medical disclaimers that King George is not so seriously ill that he cannot attend business of state has failed to quiet anxiety in his behalf. It was felt generally his illness of last winter had left him in a greatly weakened condition which would militate against recovery in any new illness.

It has been disclosed that delay in announcing His Majesty's new trouble was occasioned by his own wish that it not be allowed to disturb normal polling activities for the general elections. The sovereign was confined to his room since Sunday with an abscess at the old lung scar but there was no public announcement of his indisposition until the morning of the election.

Postpone Service

It was expected in view of the new illness the thanksgiving service in Westminister Abbey in gratitude for

COMMITTEE RECOMMENDS RESTAURANT

V. J. McElderry Makes Appeal For Permit For New Eating House in City.

WILL COST $6,000.

Finance Committee Discusses School Tax on Recently Annexed Property in Monaghan.

The question of a restaurant over Payne's drug store at the corner of George and Simcoe streets was again presented to the finance committee of the city council last night by V. J. McElderry, K.C., who is acting for the applicant. Mr. McElderry asked that the permit be granted and guaranteed that there would be no cabaret or dance hall and thought that as his client was going to spend the sum of $6,000 in the city it was not the duty of the council to put a monopoly on any business as long as that business abided by the city by-laws.

After considerable discussion in which Chairman Phelan took a very decided stand against the proposition, stating that he believed there were enough restaurants in the city and that he would for the present oppose any additional restaurants, on motion of Alderman Huffman and Hamilton the project will be recommended to the city council provided that suitable fans and gas outlets are built. Five members of the committee voted for the motion, while the other five failed to register their votes. The question it is expected will come up for further discussion at Monday night's council meeting.

Engineer Parsons asked for a ruling on stalls in restaurants and wanted to know if that meant an open front. The members were of the opinion that the by-law meant that were stalls are built in restaurants there must be an open front.

Annexation of the land in North Monaghan, north of the Queen Mary school, was discussed. The Municipal Board recently granted the request of the city that the land be annexed and also that North Monaghan be recompensed for what it would lose in the amount due in taxes on this land to pay off the debentures of the new school recently built in that section. Some of the aldermen were of the opinion that the Toronto Loan and Savings Company ought to pay this money, while others interpreted the Board ruling that the city would have to pay. Finally it was left to the treasurers and the solicitors of the two municipalities to come to an agreement.

The matter of booths and eating stands for Old Home Week was left with the chairman with power to act. It is understood that outsiders and those not actually engaged in business of selling will not be allowed to have booths with the exception that churches and charitable institutions.

At the meeting of the Board of Works which followed that of the Finance Committee it was decided to advertise that Murray street would be paved between Reid and Downie streets and that at the same time notice would be given that the council intends to pave Wolfe street.

An attempt had been made by the chairman to have Dr. Bary of Toronto come down and explain the sewage disposal project to the members, but Dr. Bary had been unable to attend.

The matter of allowing the softball association to play in East City near James Stevenson Park was left with Alderman Stocker, with power to act.

Chieftains Summon Forces

Labor Will Do All In Its Power To Prevent Second Election.

CONSIDER POSITIONS.

Labor Administration is Only Alternative as Country Rejected Present Government.

LONDON, June 1 (Canadian Press Cable). — Right Hon. J. Ramsay MacDonald, Labor leader, declared to-day he would do everything within his power to prevent the necessity of another general election within the next two years. "If I can prevent it, there shall be no disturbance of the country by an election within the next two years," he told newspapermen. It was also announced officially to-day that there would be a meeting of the chiefs of the Labor Party shortly to consider the position growing out of the general election. In Liberal circles it was understood there would be a meeting of all successful candidates to discuss the party's position. Meanwhile Premier Stanley Baldwin has retired to spend a quiet week-end at Chequers where he may confer with some of his party colleagues. He will hold a Cabinet meeting early in the week.

Feels No Fatigue

Mr. MacDonald, hatless, bronzed and in excellent health as he stood in the garden of his Hampstead home, said he felt no fatigue except for a slight soreness in his throat.

"I am so much concerned for the quiet development of industry, the peaceful mind and confidence both at home and abroad, that I will use every ounce of influence I have to prevent another election for the next two years," Mr. MacDonald declared emphatically.

"I think Parliament ought to last even longer. That statement must not be taken by either of the other two parties to mean that we are going to submit to any unfairness.

"I wish to make it quite clear that I'm going to stand no 'monkeying.' It will rest with the other two parties and not with us whether there is to be an election sooner than two years.

"That is the only thing one can say, just now. I have seen the troubles and upsets to industry, finance and internal development, of unnecessary elections.

"Whatever government is going to make itself responsible for the conduct of national affairs both at home and abroad at this time ought to have a chance to develop its policy.

"The way they broke the development of my policy as Foreign Secretary in 1924, is a thing that ought not to happen again.

Only Able to Start

"I was only able to start it and then leave it to others to develop. They did that with regard to Locarno and the admission of Germany to the League of Nations, and then the whole of the policy was dropped.

"I don't think that is fair or in the interests of the country," the Labor chieftain concluded.

The Labor leader added that it was quite clear the country had rejected the present government, and he indicated that the only alternative in his opinion was a Labor administration.

"Mr. Lloyd George and his colleagues have declared they will not put the Socialists in office as they did in 1924 without a guarantee of any sort or kind. Mr. MacDonald has declared with equal vehemence that he will not come to any terms or bargain with the Liberals. There is all the more reason, therefore, for Mr. Baldwin to go straight on and meet the new parliament with LONDON, June 1. — (Canadian Press.)—Only 13 of 69 women candidates were returned to the British House of Commons in the general elections Thursday. The number, however, is greater than any previous total of women in Parliament.

Six of the women elected are entirely new to Parliamentary work. The successful candidates were:

Miss Megan Lloyd George, daughter of the Liberal leader, who will sit for Anglesey, Wales, the first daughter to sit as a member of Parliament with her father.

GOOD DISPLAY IN FLOWER EXHIBIT

Entrance Window of Teco Store Centre of Attraction To Hobbyists.

PRIZE WINNERS.

The Horticultural Society's Spring flower exhibit brought out a very creditable display of tulips with one nice entry of narcissus.

A striking background was formed of a display of fancy, named, tulips supplied by Messrs. Carter and Hall the Chamberlain street flower hobbyists. This made the exhibit as a whole much more interesting and the entrance window of the Teco Store was the centre of attraction all day. A vase of Doronicam, by Miss Eason, also contributed to the general floral effect.

A noticeable feature of the exhibit was the presence of so many new and old shades in the tulips, showing that growers are experimenting in the producing of the finer varieties, and experiencing the pleasure of having something different in their gardens.

Mr. McGiffin, of the Horticulturist, acted as judge. The winners in the several classes were as follows:—

Class 1—Best 3 tulips, one variety—1st, Y.W.C.A.; 2nd C. McBride, 180 Antrim.

Class 2—Best 5 tulips, any variety 1st—Mrs. G. S. Shearer; 2nd Mrs. Al Spencely, Monaghan Road.

Class 3—Vase of 10 tulips, any variety, 1st—Mrs. Shearer; 2nd Y. W.C.A.

Class 4—Daffodils, 1st— W. J. Smith, 306 Mark street.

TRIPPED UP BY TRIANGLE SAYS LEADER

Lloyd George, On Arriving In London, Declares King's Government Must Be Carried On.

REALIZE POSITION.

At Present Time Country Requires Stable Government, Says Liberal Leader.

By George Hambleton.
Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, June 1.— The Baldwin Government has lost control of the House of Commons. In effect, it has been defeated at the polls. But if Labor is called upon to form a government it also lacks an absolute majority in Parliament. Once again it will be in office but not in power.

The Liberals have scarcely increased the number of seats they held at dissolution, yet neither a Conservative nor a Labor Government could function without support from either the Liberals or other Opposition members.

"We have once more been tripped up by the triangle," said Mr. Lloyd George last night on his arrival in London from Wales. "The Conservative and Labor parties have each secured one member for every 33,000 votes. We, on the other hand, have obtained one member for every 100,000 votes. Although full returns are not in, it looks for the moment as if we will hold the balance. That is a very responsible position and we fully realize it, and you can depend upon it, we shall make no unfair use of it. A strict King's government must be carried on and in the present state of the country it is essential that it should be steady. We shall certainly bear that in mind in any course we shall decide upon."

18 Seats To Be Heard From.

With but 18 more results to trickle in, the position is regarded as unchanged and unchangeable. Neither of the major groups can secure a majority and the Liberals hold the balance of power.

The remaining seats will not be decided for some days. Among these is the postponed Rugby Division of Warwickshire, due to the death of the Labor candidate, which went Conservative in 1924 by four thousand. Then there are 11 University members, the English Universities voting June 3 and 4 and the Scottish June 10. In 1924 these did not elect a single Labor candidate. Oxford and Cambridge returning four Conservatives, London an Independent, the smaller English combined Universities two Conservatives and one Liberal and the University of Wales one Liberal.

Putting these deferred elections out of the picture and granting Ramsay MacDonald every one of the seats still in doubt yesterday—which is manifestly absurd—he would still be short one of a clear majority.

LABOR GAINS 113 SEATS

102 of These Were Won From Conservatives and 14 From Liberals.

BALDWIN LOSES 137.

LONDON, June 1 (Canadian Press) —A net gain of 113 seats was made by the Labor Party, according to returns available up to a late hour last night, with the likelihood the total would reach 119 to-day.

Analysis of the voting shows Labor gained 102 seats from the Conservatives, 14 from the Liberals, and three from others. As against this, the party lost six seats held by them in the last Parliament.

While remaining the weakest wing in the House, Liberals made a net gain of 14 seats. They gained 27 seats from the Conservatives and two from Labor, while losing out in 15 of their former strongholds.

The Conservatives fared badly. While gaining three seats from Labor and one from the Liberals, Stanley Baldwin's adherents suffered a net loss of 137 seats, if last-minute tabulations are correct.

SLAYER OF THREE IS ELECTROCUTED

Henry Sherman Dies in the Electric Chair in Lincoln, Nebraska.

LINCOLN, Nebr., June 1 (C.P.).—Henry Sherman, slayer of three persons, died in the electric chair at the Nebraska State penitentiary early today.

No eleventh hour efforts to save the life of the 22-year-old killer were made nor were any of his friends present.

Sherman's crime included the killing of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Pochon, his employers on a ranch near Burwell, and the slaying of Mrs. Eugenia Pochon, mother of the former, the violation of 14-year-old Nellie Pochon, and the beating of a six-months'-old baby.

MACHINE GUNS BEING USED BY DETROIT BOOTLEGGERS

Rum Runner Opens Fire On Boat Used By Customs Officers.

NO ONE INJURED.

Officers Were Rapidly Overhauling Carrier When Shooting Took Place.

DETROIT, June 1.— For the first time in history of Detroit river rum-running, machine guns are being used by bootleggers. This was revealed in a report yesterday to Cary D. Ferguson, Collector of Cusoms, by two officers, who said a bootlegger sprayed the water about their boat with bullets when they tried to overhaul his craft.

Two bootleggers had just finished unloading their cargo Wednesday morning, and the officers reported that when they saw the government boat approaching through the fog the runners speeded up their fast boat in an effort to get back into Canadian waters.

The officers were rapidly overhauling the carrier when one of the runners opened fire from a machine gun in the stern of the boat. Bullets splashed on all sides of the boat, they said, although none hit the government craft. The agents emptied their pistols at the men, who did not cease firing until the boat was in Canadian territory.

BODIES FOUND BY SAME BOAT

Craft Which Victims Used On May 12 Solves Tragedy 13 Days Later.

SEARCH ENDS.

Fate played a queer part in the aftermath of tragedy of May 12, when the body of Anne Lucas was recovered from the waters of the Otonabee yesterday afternoon at 2.40, which refused to give up its victim until 13 days after the drowning. The same boat that the victims started out in for their pleasure cruise that ended in such a sad manner, was the one that finally located the body, which was located on the left bank of the river caught against a tree.

The boat was in charge of B. Carr, master mechanic of the Peterborough Fire Department and in the boat with him were W. Hunt, W. O'Rourke and L. Field. The party started out at 1 p.m., and were proceeding down the right bank of the river, when the body was noticed floating face down near the opposite shore. The boat immediately cut across the river and the body recovered about a mile above T. A. S. Park opposite Johnston's farm.

CANCER TAKES HEAVY TOLL

One Out of Every Eight Women Die of Disease Before Reaching Forty.

250,000 CASES IN U. S.

HAMILTON, Ont., June 1 (C.P.).—"Among women more than 40 years of age, one out of every eight will die of cancer, and one out of every nine and a-half in men," said Dr. Charles H. Mayo, Rochester, Minn., speaking at the final session of the Ontario Medical Association annual convention here last night.

Cancer appears to be a family disease, the speaker continued. There are individuals who appear to be immune. In the United States there are 250,000 cases of cancer, he said, and recommended the establishment of special hospitals for the study of these cases. Investigation is going on, but Dr. Mayo believed that better results would be obtained if those in charge of the numerous investigations could be brought together in their work.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 1.—On a vote of 80 to 32, the measure for the establishment of separate domicile for women for divorce purposes was given third reading in the House of Commons last night. The bill was sponsored by J. W. Ward (Liberal-Progressive, Dauphin), and the members divided, irrespective of party lines.

ESTIMATES CONSIDERED.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 31 (C.P.).—Slow progress on estimates was made in the House of Commons yesterday. Complaints of the heat in the Commons chamber featured discussion when estimates of the Public Works Department came before the House in committee of supply. Doors were flung open and an effort made to cool the atmosphere, but with little success.

Votes under consideration included the appropriations for the telephone and telegraph lines which are operated by the Department of Public Works.

Shortly before adjournment the House gave consideration of a vote of $5,300,000 to provide additional car ferry facilities between the mainland and Prince Edward Island. This appropriation came under the head of Railways and Canals estimates.

To a question by Hon. R. J. Manion (Conservative, Fort William), Mr. Dunning replied that the ferry boat had made 160 round trips in 1928, carrying 73,000 passengers and 7,416 automobiles. The annual charges to be carried will amount to $800,000.

The vote was not passed before the House adjourned at 11 p.m.

INJURED BY CUT-IN DRIVER.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., June 1. — When her father's car was knocked into a ditch, Miss Reta Roberts, resident north of Trenton, suffered severe injuries to her leg. The accident was caused by a Detroit driver who "cut in" and did not return to the scene. His number has been given to the police.

IT seems to me that this community cannot appreciate too highly the spirit that animates the owners of a newspaper which has vision enough to devote part of its space to the running of a Church Page from week to week. Of course, like all things into which the human element enters, The Examiner is not perfect! But, with whatever faults it may have, it is a splendid institution; and the city has good reason to be proud of it. To have its editorials quoted so frequently and extensively in Toronto and elsewhere is one of the best advertising assets we have, whether we realize it or not. In talking the matter over with John Plane we were one in wondering how The Examiner manages to retain the services of so gifted an editorial writer, when his worth as an observer and thinker is admitted by some of Canada's greatest newspapers! Perhaps his place on the pay-roll might explain it—although I have never heard that he was charged with being Scotch! I am rather inclined to the belief that one reason why he refuses to go elsewhere is that he prefers ball as it is played here. Whatever the reason for our good fortune in being able to enjoy his facile pen, along with a host of other reads, I take off my hat to him as we wish him long life and increasing success in his chosen field. No one is responsible for this mild form of deserved praise but John Plane and your humble servant, the writer of these lines. My chief concern now is that it may escape the vigilant eye of the managing director till such times as it will have gone beyond recall.

Our Bill of Fare.

While looking around the workshop of John Plane this week I discovered some material which may serve the purpose of kindling a fire on the altar of some heart. Should it succeed in doing this I shall feel amply repaid for the effort expended during this sudden attack of hot weather. To have had a part in starting such a fire, and to know that, ever after, it continued to burn brightly in the service of Jesus Christ, is to be assured that one has not lived in vain.

The first item on the menu is a recipe from Miss Helen Thoburn, formerly of Shanghai, China, now of New York, where she is acting as secretary of international education for the Y. W. C. A. She says: "You cannot preach the religion of Christianity and at the same time practice the religion of material success." Such a statement is only another way of saying, as Jesus said, "Ye cannot serve God and Mammon," and it is a statement that cannot be disputed.

Spoiling the Meal.

There are thousands of silly people who, in actual life, are trying to contradict such a formula. All I have got to say is that they must be very stupid if they think they can get away with it! I believe it is still true in the physical realm that you cannot mix oil and water—but whether it is or no, this much I do know, they cannot be mixed in the spiritual realm, although many are acting as if they were clever enough to do it.

An eminent speaker once said at an international conference to show the trend of thought underlying many such gatherings: "Material success is the creed of a great part of the Western world, and it is a true competitor with Christianity for the allegiance of mankind. It is not a question of diluting the claims of Christianity, but of assertng its right to conquer a new province. It is not a question of a church allying itself with this political party or that, but of defining its own position and allowing political parties to adjust, as they think best, their own attitude towards it."

We spoil the simplest spiritual meal when we introduce ingredients which are contrary to the mind of Christ. What is needed is a return to the simplicity and spirituality of the Apostolic days.

Stanley Jones Speaks.

In reading a brief report of his final message to the American people, given through the Christian Herald by the author of "The Christ of the Indian Road," I have been so greatly impressed with some of his utterances that I feel justified in mixing some of them with other chips and shavings gathered in the workshop of John Plane.

It seems to me that his one outstanding thought is the overwhelming selfishness which characterizes so many people to-day.

"I once asked Gandhi to give me a message to the Western World about living the Christ-life. He pondered a moment and said: 'Such a message cannot be given by word of lips; it must be lived out. I can only try to live it out.' In giving a message to America I think I can do no better than adopt Gandhi's message as my own. Along the roads of India I shall try to live out the message I should like to give to America.

Contradictory Impressions.

"As to impressions of the religious life I find myself caught between contradictory impressions: one of the beauty of the fellowship, the unutterable generosity of the American people toward me, and the winsome yearning of the great crowds after something—Someone. The other is that along with this is an increased facility and ease with which we turn life and situations toward ourselves. The world's pain and need get us for a moment and then the old life reasserts itself and we sink into its sway. We can spend on ourselves in a way that is appalling. One faithful church member remarked that he felt that he was fortunate if his personal expenses did not go over two hundred thousand a year. Two hundred thousand on one's self in a world of this kind with its hunger and sin and need!"

How tragically true it is that we are willing to expose ourselves to any amount of Christian truth so long as it leaves the essential self alone. Our condemnation is that at the centre of our gospel stands a cross.

"We get rid of that cross by putting it on our sky lines and on our watch chains—anywhere except face to face with that essential self.

Three Classes of People.

"I find three great classes of people: the selfish, the sentimental and the sacrificial. Very often we move into the second to cover an underlying selfishness. Because we can feel over things we take it for granted that it is necessarily operative in our lives. We live in a motion-picture age where we are supposed to look at the most moving dramas and perhaps weep over them and go off and do nothing about it. The emotions are stirred, but the will is unmoved. If one subjects himself to that from childhood to middle age he finds himself capable of looking at the most tragic things, but turning away with a remark that it is interesting. The religious life of America is liable to be, yes more than liable to be, it is being infected with a sentimentality that feels, but will not act. Soul-hardening may—is, setting in.

Main Street Mentality.

"If these vast material resources which have fallen into our hands can have back of them a Christian passion, they can be lifted from the sordid to the sacred, but if Christianity (the only thing that I see holding back this vast upheaving selfishness) grows weak and partakes of Main Street mentality and outlook, then we are doomed, and the monument that Carlyle suggested might be put up to his age might be reared to ours with this inscription upon it, 'Soul dead, stomach well—alive'."

Not the Only Alternative.

In his concluding remarks, Stanley Jones says: "But I must not leave the impression that this is the only alternative. I have seen too much of real Christianity, of taking the way of Christ seriously, of launching out upon his mind on the part of so many that I believe the future may be different as we get over this first flush of material advance and turn it no longer to merely personal gratification, but to world redemption. In that lies the only hope of the world and of ourselves. For it is still true of individuals and social groups and nations that he that saveth his life in selfishness shall lose it, but he that loseth it shall find it."

Why Such Things?

Why should such a condition of things exist after two thousand years of gospel preaching? Why should it be possible for a man like Nietzsche to say: "There has only been one Christian, and He died upon the Cross?" Is it not possible that if the preaching were as it ought to be conditions would be better than they are? Apostolic doctrine preached with unction will still produce apostolic results. In all charity it is difficult, if not impossible, to find even a single congregation of which it could be said: "And they continued steadfastly in the apostles' doctrine and fellowship, and in breaking of bread, and in prayers. And fear came upon every soul: and many wonders and signs were done by the apostles. And all that believed were together, and had all things common; and sold their possessions and goods, and parted them to all, as every man had need. . . . And the Lord added to the church daily such as should be saved."

The messenger of God must insist upon regeneration as an absolute necessity for all who would bear the name Christian. At present the trouble is that we are too prone to accept into the membership of the visible church any half-decent individual whether he has had any spiritual experience or not.

I shall bring this collection of chips and shavings to a close to-day with a saying of Alexander Peden, the Scottish Covenanter: "It is wherever a praying young man or woman is at a dykeside in Scotland: that's where the church is."

—Allan Fairbairn.

LIVING IN GLASS HOUSES.

JESUS once laid down a law which has never been repealed, when He said to the scribes and Pharisees who had laid certain charges against a poor unfortunate woman, "He that is without sin among you, let him cast a stone at her." It is so easy for some natures to condemn others that it might be better for all concerned if we always remembered that since we all live in glass houses we can't afford to throw stones at others! Don't judge any man by his occasional lapses: the only reason why you don't fail where he fails may be because you have ice water in your veins where he has red blood. When tempted to pass judgment upon some poor unfortunate it might be well to ponder the apostolic injunction: "Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall." Were this more consistently carried out I am convinced that more charity would be extended to those who have found in their own bitter experience that it is human to err. —A. F.

Children's Corner — TELL US A STORY

I have read that Sir Peter Lely made it a rule never to look at a bad picture, having found by experience that, whenever he did so, his pencil took a taint from it. "Apply this," adds Bishop Horne, "to bad books and bad company." Lord Collingwood, writing to a young friend, said: "Hold it as a maxim that you had better be alone than in mean company, for the worth of a man will always be ruled by that of his company."

The converse, of course, is also true, for nothing is of greater value than the influence of good surroundings and noble friends. The Persian poet Sadi has a lyric in which a clod of clay is asked how it has come to smell so sweet. The clay replies, "The sweetness is not in myself, but I have been lying in contact with the rose."

One of the names that Jesus bears is "The Rose of Saron." And since He has said, "Suffer the little children to come unto Me, and forbid them not," let us seek the shelter of His Cross and live so close to Him that the fragrance of His life will become the fragrance of ours.

Some Suggestions for the Aldermen, the Churches, the Service Clubs, and Citizens of Peterborough.

What Do You Think Of Them!

I see where a group of young people attending a conference was asked to state briefly what in their estimation young people have a right to expect from the present-day church. Two young men represented high schools, while two young women represented colleges; and one young woman spoke from the point of view of a director of young people's work.

In summing up the discussion the secretary of the Council writes that "If this discussion is indicative of the mind of young people it is plain—

"(a) That they want to be trusted. They ask advice but reserve the right to make their own decisions and their own mistakes.
"(b) They wish to be consulted and given a real place in the direction of church affairs.
"(c) They think that the church service of worship can be much better adapted to their tastes and needs.
"(d) They look to the church to furnish them right opportunities for recreation, including dancing, not, however, in church buildings, and they want themselves to determine what shall and shall not be done on these occasions.
"(e) They expect those who explain things to them to talk right out and to say exactly what they mean."

Far be it from me to argue that all this may not be good so far as it goes! But I cannot get rid of the conviction that it does not go far enough. The trouble with it all is, that it does not really touch the root of the matter. What assurance have we that this was a group of young people who had experienced the grace of God in their hearts through the operations of the Holy Spirit?

If there can be brought together a company of young men and young women whose hearts have been touched by the life-giving Spirit of God; who know what it is to pray in the power of that Spirit; who find increasing delight in the study of the Word of God; and into whose being there has come a great passion for the salvation of others from the awful power of sin and spiritual death—then we shall be interested to hear what they have to say, and probably be more favorably impressed by their findings. —A. F.

THE CADET INSPECTION.

Congratulations are in order to the officers and members of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute and the Public School cadet bodies upon the fine showing made at the annual inspection yesterday.

Each year public interest in this event seems to increase, and the attendance of proud parents and citizens generally at yesterday's inspection in Confederation Square would seem to suggest that the views of the Agnes MacPhail school are not shared to any great extent in this community.

It was noticeable that a good deal of the work done consisted of physical exercises, and these, as well as the marching and drill generally, were smartly performed and indicated adequate instruction and training.

IMPORTANT PROPOSALS.

The general program of the British Labor party contains many features that will attract attention at the present moment with Labor almost certain to form the next Government.

A few of the most important of these affecting industries, unemployment and the development of industry and trade may be mentioned.

Labor's industrial legislation is represented by the following proposals:

1. The repeal of the Trades Union Act and the restoration of trades union rights.

2. The establishment of a 48-hour week.

3. The improvement and extension of factory acts, mines regulation acts, minimum wage acts and other similar legislations.

In regard to unemployment, the Labor party's program includes national enterprises, such as road-building, drainage and reclamation, but does not include the Lloyd George pledge to solve the problem within a year, nor his proposal to borrow in order to finance the scheme.

To further the development of industry trade, Labor advocates among other things the establishment of a national economic committee to advise the Government as to economic policy, and of a national development and economic board to prepare schemes for the development of national resources.

Labor also favors the transference to public ownership of the coal, transport, power and life insurance companies.

It will be interesting to see how far along the way of implementing this program Mr. MacDonald will be able to go under the conditions as they will exist in the next Parliament.

THE LABOR PARTY.

With a Labor administration, kept in office by Liberal support, likely to take over the task of governing Great Britain, the policies of the party led by Ramsay MacDonald become of much greater importance and interest.

It is certain, of course, that while Labor holds office on suffrance, dependent upon its Liberal associates, that nothing startling radical need be expected.

The British Labor party differs widely from the brand of socialism found on the Continent.

It is a federation of the trade unions, the trade councils, the local party organizations, the Independent Labor party, the Fabian Society and a number of other professional, co-operative and socialist societies, but the trade union membership constitutes the main rank and file of the party as well as its chief financial support, as can be realized when it is known that in 1926 out of a total membership in the Labor party of 3,388,266 there were 3,352,347 trade unionists.

Briefly the chief aim of the party is to promote the interests of the working classes, and by strictly constitutional means to work toward the ideal of industrial democracy.

Thus the Labor party's constitution defines its objects as follows:

"To secure for the producers by hand or by brain the full fruits of their industry, and the most equitable distribution thereof that may be possible, upon the basis of the common ownership of the means of production and the best obtainable system of popular administration and control of each industry or service.

"Generally to promote the political, social and economic emancipation of the people, and more particularly of those who depend directly upon their own exertions by hand or by brain for the means of life.

"To co-operate with the Labor and Socialist organizations in the Dominions and dependencies with a view to promoting the purposes of the party and to take common action for the promotion of a higher standard of social and economic life for the working population of the respective countries.

"To co-operate with the Labor and Socialist organizations in other countries, and to assist in organizing a federation of nations for the maintenance of freedom and peace, for the establishment of suitable machinery for the adjustment and settlement of international disputes by conciliation or judicial arbitration, and for such international legislation as may be practicable."

THE HIGHEST TARIFF.

Congress yesterday passed the Republic's 37th tariff bill—with the duty rates the highest in history. The measure now goes to the Senate, where, presumably, it will also meet with approval.

A wide range of articles figure in the new schedule. Shingles, lumber, bricks, plate glass, pottery, textiles, canned tomatoes, onions and live cattle are among them.

Canada suffers by the new tariff, of course. Many Canadians find it difficult to understand why a nation that has our country for its best customer, and that enjoys an enormous balance of trade, already, at our expense, should seek to further penalize Canadian producers. However, that is the business of the United States. The tariff is essentially a domestic matter, although it has foreign effects. Taking it for granted that the Senate will accept, substantially at least, what the lower house has already accepted, Canada will simply have to make the most of the situation. The Hon. Lucien Cannon, in his speech here a day or two ago, intimated that while this country was not looking for a tariff battle with her next door neighbor, Canada would not decline the challenge if it were offered. Apparently it is about to be offered. Developments at Ottawa should be interesting, for not all the cards, by any means, are held by the political poker players at Washington.—Border Cities Star.

THE BRITISH RESULT.

The British election has developed what many people regard as the worst possible result, a situation that finds none of the three parties with a majority of seats in the House, and makes certain the carrying on of public business by a Government with no independent majority of its own and forced to depend upon the support of a minor party for its existence.

The Baldwin Government has been defeated, but the Labor party, led by Right Honorable Ramsay MacDonald, has not been given a clear majority, and another general election in the near future is already being predicted

In the meanwhile, the balance of power is in the hands of Lloyd George, who in spite of the fact that his program was rejected in the vast majority of constituencies, finds himself in a position wherein he has his choice of saving the Conservative Government by giving it his support or of forming a more or less temporary alliance with the Labor party and making it possible for Ramsay MacDonald to carry on government.

The situation, in fact, is identical with that which followed the general election in 1923, and it is believed that the Liberals will follow exactly the same course as they did in that crisis when they voted with Labor to carry a vote of "no confidence" in the Government, compelling the Conservatives to resign and paving the way for a Labor administration.

The position of the Liberal party, therefore, from a strategic viewpoint is of great importance, and Lloyd George, not brilliantly successful in his campaign achievements, is nevertheless the key to the whole situation.

For those who do not believe that the three-party system is a success, the result of the election, making the indefinite continuance of that system possible, offers no comfort.

THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION ON PATRONAGE.

A few weeks ago in the House of Commons considerable discussion was provoked by a motion from the Opposition benches charging that a member of the Liberal Government had acted in "utter disregard of the letter and the spirit of the Civil Service Act," in the matter of a certain appointment. It was inevitable, of course, that, despite its support by a majority of the Progressives, such a motion should be defeated, considering the constitution of the present Parliament.

Perhaps the choice of that particular appointment on which to base a case against the Government was unfortunate.

The annual report of the Civil Service Commission which was tabled in the House of Commons on Thursday, but which has only just been distributed, makes it clear, however, that the "spirit," if not always the "letter" of the Civil Service Act, is not being lived up to in some departments at least. That report throws a lurid light on some practices which still obtain in the Government service, despite the fact that attention has been previous called to them by the Commissioners.

Among these practices is that of making "acting" appointments. The Civil Service Commission states this practice "frequently has been found to exist." They draw attention to the fact that they commented on this in their previous report. As they have found it necessary to repeat the assertion it can be presumed that the protest of a year ago was in vain and the "spirit" of the Civil Service Act is still being violated in that respect. The Commissioners go further. They complain that officers are placed in "vacation positions in an acting capacity for considerable periods of time," before the Commission is asked to take steps to fill the vacancies, either by promotion or by open competition. They complain also that this practice gives the temporary incumbent of the position an obviously unfair advantage over other competitors. Their request is that earlier requisitions should be sent in, either for promotions or appointments. Acting appointments would thus be rendered unnecessary and the new appointees could take over their duties at once.

Delays in promotions in the Government service are also complained of by the Commission. They charge these are due to failure of departments to furnish them, "with reasonable expedition" with the reports upon the qualifications of candidates. They state that it is upon these reports, in large measure, that selections are made for promotions.

The Civil Service Commissioners also charge "undue delay" in the installation of their appointees. Months have sometimes been allowed to elapse, they declare. And, what is worse, "persons for whose employment no legal authority exists have been placed in office by a department and retained."

Violation of the "letter and spirit of the Civil Service Act" is obvious in such cases.

Another serious charge made by the Commissioners is that "rather than accept the person certified by the Commission after competition as provided by law," a department has withdrawn its requisitions. The comment of the Commissioners is illuminating. They state they are left with the impression "that the requisition has been designed to provide employment for some particular individual, rather than to obtain additional and justifiable assistance for the work of the department."

Surely such practices are very little removed from the old system of patronage in the service, a system which the Civil Service Act of 1918 was designed to entirely eliminate. It is all the more serious that the Commission finds it necessary to renew its protests against such practices.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Great Britain is apparently in for a reign of government by suffrance.

Still, so long as the Derby and the Cup ties are not interfered with the Britisher is not likely to lose any sleep.

May's temperature for the last week was evidently a belated attempt to keep her from being listed among the winter months.

Mr. Baldwin will be able to take some consolation out of the fact that his son will be a member of the next Government.

Bob Hall, one of our leading legal lights, made a trip to New York, southeast of here, last week, to present a Canadian flag to the Associated Glee Clubs. Being as it wasn't in Chicago he didn't have to wear a bullet-proof vest.

Bill Beamer, who has been looking after the wrong numbers and other telephone business here for the Bell concern has been transferred to Montreal, due east of here. The phone business is good down that way and Bill oughta get along fine.

The only thing that stands between your scribe and a new straw lid is a plate glass window.

The village ball team bused to Belleville, east of here, Wed., and beat the lads of that place in a game of rounders. The score was Them 3, Us 6.

A new tailor firm on Main street has put up a sign so bright that the folks can't see the traffic lights at the corner. You don't hafta go to New York to get your eyes knocked out now.

Golf pants is being featured on our streets and the competition to see which can find the brightest and baggiest pair is getting hectic, so to speak.

The Sparks fellows what has run a circus here several summers is bringing their show to the village next month and Sandy MacTavish has promised his kids, should they do well at school, they can go see the parade.

Several of the village eating houses is getting ready for Old Home Week, when the boys expect to grab enough jack for a little holiday trip to China, in the far East.

The sporting world is shocked by the news that rascals has stole some of the equipment of the Oshawa rounders teams. All the club's baseballs was stole, your scribe learns, and so far they aint been any one of the three returned.

Your scribe has 1 late model 1928 straw hat. Small mileage, worn only by the owner, good paint job and stream line body. A snap for cash or will trade in on this year's model. State all in your first.—Advt.

THE PERFECT VACATION.

Father, mother, the young man and sister, how often do they all get away together on a vacation, and even if they do what sort of a vacation is it for mother? A cottage in the country means for her only another place where cooking and domestic work—those two villains of the household play—still pursue her. Yet there is a clear solution of the great vacation problem all ready to hand.

Those who take the Dean Laird "Across Canada and back" tour this summer will spend three weeks in that amounts to a perfectly appointed hotel, which moves from place to place continually revealing new beauties and interests and when the tickets have been bought from the nearest Canadian Pacific Railway agent, you can forget everything save anticipation of one of the brightest and most enjoyable vacations you will ever have had—all worries about accommodation, transfers, baggage, etc., are eliminated.

The trip will be the sixth annual tour conducted by Dean Laird of Macdonald College, this fact alone testifies to the smoothness with which all obstacles have been overcome. Starting from Toronto July 22nd, it will go through to Victoria and back, visiting major cities of the west enroute and passing through the beauty spots of the Canadian Rockies, with hundred-mile motor trips through the mountains and sailings on Gulf of Georgia and Great Lakes steamships.

The Tule Marsh Murder

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

Story of a Missing Actress and the Taxing of Wits to Explain Her Fate

Sheila O'Shay, formerly a popular actress, and now the wife of the young multi-millionaire, Don Ellsworth, disappears, leaving no trace behind her. Don visits Dr. Cavanaugh, the famous criminologist, and confesses that his married life has been very unhappy. Dr. Cavanaugh agrees to investigate the case. Peter Piper, enthusiastic young reporter of the Herald, is sent to cover the case. He goes to Dr. Cavanaugh's home. By accident he meets the Doctor's adopted daughter, a beautiful young woman. Peter learns that she is intensely interested in the Ellsworth case for some reason, and he decides that she is a real girl. Barbara Cavanaugh confesses that she was engaged to Don Ellsworth before his marriage to Sheila O'shay. Peter is a hard-boiled reporter but Barbara persuades him to leave without seeing Dr. Cavanaugh.

CHAPTER 8.

Peter Piper drove "Bossy" back to the "Herald" office in a state of inner turmoil such as he had seldom known.

"Well—for the moment—you win!" he had said. And Barbara had not refused the hand which Peter extended. At that moment of parting she had looked more than ever like Alice in Wonderland grown up.

Impossible to connect a girl like that with a secret—perhaps a sinister secret. Why, she would not have looked out of place playing house with acorn dishes under a spreading tree! Peter smiled at the picture—a dreamy boy's smile, such as no member of the "Herald" staff had ever seen on his face.

He brought himself up with a start. Because a girl was young and pretty—childlike even—was no reason at all why she might not be capable of the whole range of human passions and acts. The cleverst woman forger of her time, interviewed by Peter in the city jail where she awaited trial, had been a neat, motherly person, who looked as if she had spent her afternoons in baking cookies and her evenings in tatting. Mary Saunders, the "tiger woman" who had killed her rival by inviting her to eat and then efficiently battering her skull with the fire tongs, had a sweet, appealing face and the air of one misunderstood by a cruel, and captious world.

And there was more—much more—to Barbara Cavanaugh than an attractive face.

"That's where women have the edge on us every time!" Peter growled. "There's something to that Turkish veil idea. If they all wore veils, they'd get away with considerably less."

He forcibly clawed his mind away from the intrusive image of Barbara's yellow-brown hair, curved above small, close-set ears. He even shut his eyes, thereby narrowly missing collision with a lumbering truck.

"All that aside—" he murmered.

All that aside, a wave of spontaneous admiration lifted him on its crest.

"Hoo-oo-oo, hu-hu-hu-hooo," he whistled under his breath.

"That girl is no fool!" he crowed, and found an inexplicable delight in the admission. Well, he was no fool either, if it came to that. Suppose, with those fantastic, storybook notions of honor in her head, she had felt that Don Ellsworth's defection was an affront to be avenged. Suppose she had taken matters into her own hands to oust Sheila O'Shay as an interloper. Suppose—nothing was to be proved as yet, but a good deal that was worth watching. Peter Piper was seized with a desirre to understand Barbara, to know of a surety what unifying reality lay behind that wide brow, and tiptilting nose, and firm chin. He wanted to know. He wanted to know, not because it might be news, but because the knowledge had somehow become important to him.

And meanwhile? Meanwhile he had a great "follow" story. Dr. Cavanaugh, when he had moved west from New York, officially retired—though his reputation made complete retirement impossible—had introduced Barbara as his daughter, which, indeed, she legally was. The romantic, Cinderella story of her adoption from a foundlings home, her secret engagement to Don Ellsworth, the spectacular young multi-millionaire—a great story! And written as Peter Piper would write it—delicately, with the fairytale quality in it.

"There's a little thing like loyality." Peter found that, remembering her words, he remembered almost audibly the tone of her voice, like a little wind in the trees.

But his loyalty was to a paper, not to a girl whom he had seen only once, just as hers was to her father, not to him. Personalities must not interfere. That was the code. He remembered the legend of "Big Joe" McCullen, owner of a paper in Sacramento, who had refused to suppress the story in his own paper when hisown boy went wrong and was picked up for stealing an automobile in the course of a drunken spree. That was the honor of newspaperdom.

And yet—was it all warped, perverted, narrow, this code that the paper came before all else? There was more to life than the newspapers. This girl's life——

Peter shot across a boulevard stop-sign, and listened with unaccustomed meekness to the irate words of the traffic cop. The neatly printed "Press Car" sign on Bossy's grimy windshield, goaded the policeman to fury.

"You reporters think you own the earth!" he bellowed.

But Peter did not respond with the expected "comeback," and the policeman, somewhat disappointed by a too complete success, retired to his corner.

However, the encounter served to clear Peter's mind. He found that, unawares, he had arrived at a decision. It was a compromise decision, and he admitted with wry honesty that it marked his first divigation from the singleness of his newspaper code. Nevertheless he knew what he would do. He would 'hold' the story but he would keep an eye on Barbara Cavanaugh. He gave that hostage to his gods. And if it 'broke big'—then there would be no question. If there was a direct connection between Barbara Cavanaugh and the disappearance of Sheila O'Shay he would have no choice but to act. For the present Jimmy would have to be satisfied with a report of 'nothing doing' and if he didn't like it he could jolly well do the other thing! At the thought of facing Jimmy Sears Peter felt unaccountably and most unjustifiably like a champion defending with his body a damsel in distress. And Barbara would have no inklings of this sacrificial heroism—she did not know Jimmy Sears!

When Peter banged open the door of the local room however he was immediately aware of fresh hurricanes.

"My God Piper I thought you were dead!" The city editor's eye shade was pushed far on his bristling red hair—a sure sign of excitement. "Where have you been to Los Angeles? Copee bo-oy!" He snatched the telephone with one hand and thrust a bundle of copy paper across the desk with the other. "Shoot this down. More to come on the tule marsh story!" he shouted over his shoulder to the semi-circle of the copy desks where metal cylinders bearing copy and galley proofs spouted clattering out of their long black tubes or were sent rumbling down those same tubes to the composing room below.

"You Piper get busy on this. Unidentified body found in the tule marsh beyond El Cerrito. Go over to city hall and get Camberwell of the identification bureau. Find out what if anything they know. I've been waiting for you. You're the only man sure to get the Camberwell thanks to that story you wrote when he was being razzed by the department. Tell him we won't print without permission of course but get him to give you something. It looks like murder!"

The city editor pushed his eye shade even farther back on his brow at the angle though far from the effect of a mediaeval halo. His harsh voice was jubilant. Any one would have thought that muder to him was a joyous occasion—as indeed it was.

Peter exhaled a tremendous breath of relief. After all he had not let the paper down. With a new front page story breaking, the affairs of Barbara Cavanaugh could well afford to wait.

"Hoo-oo-oo hu-hu-hu-hoo" whistled Peter in a waiting mincr and darted crosswise of the traffic to the city hall.

I'd like to know
What makes them starve
Their eyebrows;
And how some of them
Can stay
In a continual Blush
On the cheek-bones;
And how their

Can gossip-hunt
When they're already Occupied by Hair.

Some of the blondes
Have eyelashes
That must have been
In bathing in an

Some of the brunettes
Have a way of Completing their faces
And leaving their

Just so,
Which shows them up

I would laugh,
Only I realize
That if tears
Were shed,
They would have a

Horoscope

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

Sunday, June 2, 1929.

(Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syn.)

This rather an uncertain day in the direction of the stars, according to astrology. The early morning is favorable.

Under this sway the clergy should benefit, and the day should be fortunate to the churches and their work.

All the signs seem to indicate a united movement among members of church organizations for civic reforms.

The seers long have prophesied a national uprising on the part of those who uphold the laws. A war against crime conducted on a large scale is foretold.

There is a sign of promise for those who travel or who begin their summer vacations.

This should be rather a lucky day for wooers, since there is likely to be a tendency to idealize even the most commonplace person.

Judgment may not be reliable while this rule prevails, but there is promise of friendship after disillusionments.

One of the best promises read in the stars appears to foretell increasing stability of marriage and decrease of divorce.

Farmers may find some disappointing condition at this time, but the seers prognosticate great good luck for them.

Mexico continues under a sinister planetary influence that seems to presage storms and earthquakes as well as other disasters.

Labor troubles in certain parts of the country appear threaten for this month and July.

Strange crimes indicating various forms of mental and moral degeneracy will be uncovered as the summer advances and the warfare against narcotics will be pressed with renewed energy.

Persons whose birthdate it is, have the augury of surprises and unexpected experiences. Prosperity is indicated.

Children born on this day probably will be endowed with varied talents. These subjects of Gemini are generally courageous, strongly individual and extremely executive.

General Philip Kearney was born on this date, 1815. Others who claimed it as a birthday were John Randolph, 1773; and John G. Saxe, 1816.

Monday, June 3, 1929.

An unimportant day in planetary direction, according to astrology. Benefic aspects seem to dominate.

The early morning is an auspicious time to push all constructive work. Engineers and builders should benefit.

The trend while this direction of the stars prevails may be definitely toward large combinations of capital and world-wide commercial co-operation.

Big business is subject to the most stimulating and most profitable planetary influences.

This should be a lucky day for diplomats, bringing into world consciousness the wise understanding of international relations.

While there are aspects boding ill for British affairs, civil and foreign, the summer is to bring adjustments, it is foretold, after dangers of war and revolution pass.

This should be a lucky day for all who seek employment or promotion. It is an auspicious sway under which to assure advancement in the autumn.

For the President of the United States and governors of states the rule of the stars is most favorable since it encourages wise administration of the business of the people.

Those who read the stars prognosticate for the occupant of the White House tremendous achievements that will make history in its broadest sense.

Under this planetary rule it may be most unlucky to speculate. Stocks will show uncertainty and will be subject to sudden fluctuations, it is foretold.

This is not an auspicious date for starting on a journey for delays are indicated.

There is a sinister sigh for aviation to-day and it is wise to be especially cautious lest accidents happen.

Persons whose birthdate it is, have the augury of many changes and probable travel in the coming year. Gain through speculation or legacies is indicated.

Children born on this day probably will be inclined to make the best of whatever life gives them. These subjects of Gemini usually have patience and adaptability.

King George V of England, was born on this date 1865. Louis Constant Sartori, 1812, famous naval officer also claimed this as his birthday.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE HATE TO BE CAUGHT IN A MISTAKE.

No one like to make mistakes. It is a mark of carelessness and stupidity. To make mistakes, to be in the wrong, is not complimentary. There is nothing in it to increase our prestige and self respect. Rather just the opposite effect is produced.

That is why we cover up our tracks as best we can, to make a virtue of necessity, to blame someone else, to make alibis, and to pass the buck. Our inherent dislike for getting caught in a mistake leads to a number of well-known acts of this sort.

One of the chief reasons why making mistakes is unpopular is that the erring person is liable to ridicule. We are so sensitive to the good will of our fellow beings that we can't stand being laughed at. The person who does the laughing holds the whip hand. He is the superior person. At least he assumes that position. This will explain why we are so eager to laugh at people and to poke fun at their ideas, their judgment, their mannerisms and their personal appearance.

Some form of punishment is always in order when one is caught in a mistake. It may take the form of physical punishment, loss of prestige and power, getting fired, or in some other way feeling the pressure of disapproval. In any case apologies are in order and to apologize is like having a tooth pulled. It is extremely painful. It plays havoc with our self-assertive impulses.

Making a blunder occasions disgust. This unpleasant emotion wells up in us and must be got rid of. One way is through physical activity. Even kicking one's self is preferred to inactivity.

Kicking one's self appeals to our sense of justice. We are accustomed to inflicting punishment on others for negligence, mistakes, wrong doings and all sorts of offenses against society. A price has to be paid. We feel like kicking ourselves as a means of compensating our outraged sense of fair play. That is why we gladly do penance. It is a way of paying for the luxury of making mistakes. After being punished or doing penance we feel that we have paid the price of our folly and hence feel better about it.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

TO MY SON, ON HIS BIRTHDAY.

One year older, so you say—
Son, that's not the only way
Boys grow older day by day.

One inch taller, maybe two—
Not the only way that you
Are older when the year is through.

One year farther with your class—
But the test you'll have to pass
Is not only that, alas.

One year older—may you find
Knowledge of another kind,
Cleaner heart and clearer mind.

One year older, more the man—
One year braver, may you plan
Things to do, and find you can.

One year older—and I pray
One year wiser every way,
In the things you do and say.

One year older! Yes, my lad,
And, with every year you've had,
One year dearer to your dad.

Heavy Buying Sends Chicago Prices Up

CHICAGO, Ills., June 1. (C.P.) — With foreigners reported as seeking purchases of United States hard winter wheat, the wheat market here showed an early upward trend to-day. Future deliveries offerings were noticeably scarcer than has been the rule of late and the market appeared oversold. Opening at 1-4c decline to 7-8c advance, wheat later showed gains all around. Corn and oats developed strength, too, with corn starting 1-4c off to 3-8c up, and subsequently scoring a general advance. Provisions were easy.

NOT IN NEED OF SYMPATHY

Ground For Belief Seen That May Wheat Will Be Pratically Liquidated at End of Season.

MARKET ANALYZED

(By Thomas W. Banton)
(Special to The Examiner. Copyright 1929.)

TORONTO, June 1. — "If you have tears to shed, prepare to shed them now."

But be sure you do not waste your sympathies where they are not wanted. And if what the little birds are whispering be true, then it is a sure bet that the Canadian wheat pool, over which a few crocodile tears have been shed, is not at all in need of them, and is in fact inclined rather to sit back and smile at such wasted sympathy.

It is said indeed by those who know a little of what has been going on of late in the wheat markets, that amid all the frantic changes of moods and sentiments, crashing and tumbling of wheat values which have been daily scenes in the big trading "pits" in the past few hectic weeks, that the "Pool" has been sitting pretty, its surface as placid and unruffled as a well ordered pool should be and as its name implies.

From certain "reliable sources" it is learned that "away back in the days of higher prices," that is to say a couple of months ago, when May wheat was selling around $1.35, the "pool" was selling freely, and that the closing of this month will see their May wheat practically liquidated. Be this a fact or not, for the "pool" has been in the past very chary in giving out information concerning its own business affairs, there are very good reasons for believing that the pool will have but a comparatively small "carry over at the end of the season.

During the recent congestion and blockade of wheat vessels coming down the lakes, when it was reported that as many as 76 vessels lay in the harbor of Montreal unable to unload their wheat, and when at the same time the rush of Argentine wheat into the Liverpool market, almost put a stop to the export of wheat from Canadian and American ports, we have it on the authority of a high official, that the "pools" were continuing to do a normal business through both Pacific and Eastern parts."

Pools not Worrying.

Commenting on the wheat situation and quoting E. B. Ramsay, manager of the Central Agency, the "Western Producer" says: "The pools are not worrying. They have conducted their operations on a safe margin." And goes on:

"In what was probably the most difficult marketing year since Canada became a factor in the export trade, they have already paid a price per bushel much higher than the average pre-war price. They have not been stampeded by the trade into sacrificing their wheat and they have not been stampeded by the pressure of farmer demand behind them, into paying higher initial and interim instalments than the peculiar situation warranted. Although the price this year is not as high as in former Pool years, and although the final payment cannot be expected to be startling, it is generally realized that it was in this year the Pool did its best work. A little reflection will serve to show that it actually saved the wheat growing farmer, whether he was in the Pool or outside, from a very definite disaster."

From all of which, it is evident that the "Pools" are neither asking for, nor needing the sympathies of anyone, in the present trying times.

But what about certain other interests "outside the Pools?" Judging from the daily despatches coming from the seat of war "Across the border" and notably from the city of Chicago, there has of late been felt the need of a good deal of sympathy, and of help of some sort, "farm relief" or what not.

Seldom have changes "come o'er the scene" so rapidly and in such quick succession as have been seen in the tone and "sentiment" of the market in the past week.

Forced Below Mark

Opening the week in a bad fit of the doldrums, Chicago traders on Monday plunged the May wheat option down to below the dollar mark, which up till then had been more or less a mythical sort of a figure, having some relation to an existence somewhere about the year 1915. Several times of late had the market been forced down dangerously close to the dollar, but on each occasion succeeding in coming to the surface again.

In Monday, however, a more than usually determined "bear" attack forced Miss May's head well under. To accomplish this "objective," advantage was taken of "scattered showers" and at one or two points, good heavy rains, in Saskatchewan and Alberta. This timely appearance of "moisture" was deemed sufficient to avert possible distaster to Canadian crops, which from suffering from serious "lack of moisture" a week suddenly made promise of another record crop year.

The alleged huge supplies of "carry overs" from the 1928 U.S. crops, were again well advertised to a wondering world, and as a logical result of said advertising, prices tumbled to the lowest points in many years.

After sending the July option down the following day, to keep company with May, Chicago market "leaders" suddenly adopted other tactics, and by the middle of the week were talking of a revived export demand, with over three million bushels a day going out. Under this new stimulus, markets made a moderate rally, and things were looking brighter. This state of affairs lasted but a day, and again the market plunged to still lower depths of gloom and despair.

All of which seems to indicate that somebody has become nervous, and high strung, jumping quickly from one extreme to another.

Whoever this "somebody" is, may certainly be in need of your sympathy and support. But just as clearly, that "somebody" is not the Canadian Wheat Pools.

Output Of Toronto Ford Plant Scaled Down Western Business Is Restored To Regina

Seasonable curtailment in automotive production schedules will account for a scaling down of approximately 30 per cent. in the output of the local assembly plant of Ford Motors of Canada.

During the present month, scaling down in assembly at the Toronto branch has been in progress, with the ultimate basis of about 50 per cent. of peak being reached in June. A gradual and slight reduction will be made in the number of hands employed, but no drastic cut will be made, an official stated. A report on the street indicated that some 200 men had been "laid off." This is accounted for in part by a change in policy at the Regina assembly plant of the company.

A large proportion of the western unit's regular production has been handled at the Toronto branch, and with the re-establishment of this output in Regina, the local factory was affected. The staff has been augmented, said an official of the company, for handling this extra output, and since it was cut off, the extra hands were not needed.

The local unit has a peak capacity of 150 cars per day, but the present rate per day is considerably under that figure. June, July and August are the ebb months for operation, with the August level maintained through September and October, a further reduction in November and December, then a sharp step-up in January, with gradual gains till the peak is again reached in March. Toronto assembly branch of Ford of Canada serves the territory extending from Gananoque to Sault Ste Marie to London. It is one of the eight extending across Canada.

A Special Service to the Examiner

Hopes Raised that Dominion Stores Directors Will Increase Dividend

Hopes are raised that Dominion Stores Limited directors at their June meeting will increase the dividend rate. The present rate on the old stock is $3.00, equal to $1 on the split shares. Profits on the stock in the past three years have averaged $5.60 per share per annum, while dividends have ranged from $2.40 to $3.00. This is on the old stock. Net earnings in the first three months of 1929 were up 30 per cent, and if this rate of increase is maintained the company will show $778,000 earned as against $598,819 share now outstanding. There is every reason to expect an increase in the distributions, and forecasts range from 40 to 50 cents quarterly or $1.60 to $2.00 per annum.

Low Prices Hit Amerada Profit

Despite the fact that Amerada Corporation earnings in the first quarter of this year were affected adversely by reduced prices for crude oil and lessened crude production, company's cash position is such as to permit directors, when they meet late in June, declaring the quarterly dividend of 50 cent. In the first quarter, this year, net earnings were $50,702 after all charges, equal to six cents a share on the outstanding 922,075 share of no par value.

At the end of December, last year, cash amounted to $3,435,347, equal to $3.72 a share on the capital stock Cash on hand at present is in excess of $2,000,000 and the quarterly dividend would call for about $461,000.

Hayes Wheels Plant Will Be Increased

Hayes Wheels and Forgings, of Chatham, Ont., is about to broaden the line of its output, according to a statement made by William Kistler, the general manager, who was a visitor to Toronto during the present week. The addition to the plant at Chatham, which was undertaken at an estimated cost of $1,000,000, is expected to make a difference of $2,000,000 in the business of the company.

Power Corporation Will Close Favorable Year This Month.

The financial year of Power Corporation of Canada closes at the end of June, and there is every assurance that the report when it appears will prove gratifying to shareholders. In the first nine months, ended March 31, the company is reported to have shown an increase of $30 per cent in net earnings as compared with a year ago, and this rate of increase is promised for the full year. Gross earnings in the year ended June 30, 1928 amounted to $2,128,641, with net earnings $1,802,557, which after preferred requirements left $5.67 per share on the common.

Edmonton City Dairy Makes First Report

Edmonton City Dairy Limited has forwarded to shareholders its first annual statement since reorganization and consolidation of Edmonton City Dairy and Woodland Dairy, Limited.

Earnings before depreciation and income tax of $150,807. Depreciation allowance of $56,392, income of $31,431 amounted to $94,973, leaving net profit of $55,834. Interest charges of $21,473 had also been deducted from gross profits. A large part of this amount will be saved this next year as a result of the new money received from the recent financing.

The net earnings are applicable to all the outstanding share of the company's subsidiaries. As at March 31, 1929, over 99 1-2 per cent of the outstanding capital stock of the subsidiary companies was held by Edmonton City Dairy, Limited.

Since March 31, 1929, the balance of the oustanding shares of the subsidiary companies has been acquired.

The balance sheet indicates the liquid position of the company, current assets being $448,761, against current liabilities of $106,213, or a ratio of over 4 to 1.

Included in current assets are cash, $75,947; receivables less reserve, $215,723; merchandise and supplies, $157,091. Assets also include investments of $9,865; deferred charges to operation, $11,557; building and equipment less reserve, $888,241, and goodwill, etc., $1.

Current liabilities all comprised of payables, $89,125; accrued interest, $4,408; minority shareholders interest in subsidiary companies, $2,600; capital account, $1,249,619.

Canada Bread Shareholders Confirm By-Laws

Shareholders of Canada Bread at a special meeting confirmed the by-laws of directors, calling for a split in the common stock, on the basis of 8 for 1. The shares will be increased from 25,000 shares of no par value to 200,000 shares of no par value, all of which will be issued. On the basis today's price for the present stock, the new stock will sell at between 23 and 24. As current dividends are at the rate of $6 per share per annum, distributions on the new stock on the same basis would be 75 cents per share per annum.

Other by-laws submitted and ratified have aroused considerable comment. Changes in the wording of previous by-laws relating to the "B" preferred stock is taken as foreshadowing retirement of this issue at an early date. Canada Bread Company earned $17.83 per share on its 25,000 common shares during the year ended June 30th 1928, and can well afford to increase distributions on the common stock to 10 per share, equal to $1 per share on the new. The participating feature of the "B" preferred stock, however, is a barrier. The company has a right to retire the "B" preferred stock, and the changes in the wording of by-laws, apparenty removes any possibility of complications in carrying out redemption, after which an increase in common dividend returns may reasonably be expected.

Tooke Bros. Doing Record Shirt Business

Following the recent favorable court decision regarding royalties on Van Heusen collars, it is stated a marked quickening in all departments of Tooke Bros. has taken place. This has been particularly the case in the production of shirts. Inauguration of an aggressive sales policy has brought immediate results, and economies in production costs have been a big factor in a substantial gain in net sales profits.

Tooke Bros. is recognized as being among the largest, if not the largest, manufacturer of shirts in Canada, and its product enjoys a wide market throughout the Dominion. At the present time it is stated the company is doing a record business in this particular line. Some years ago it retired from the retail business, and at present deals only with the trade.

Four Distinct Types Investment Trusts

Diversification is the cornerstone of sound investment. The experience of investors is continually demonstrating that greater safety is secured through diversification and that, over a period, capital appreciation is on the average achieved to a greater degree from planned than from haphazard investment, state Cochran, Hay and Co. Ltd. in a booklet on the Investment Trust.

There are four distinct types of investment trust and the hundreds now in operation on this continent are adaptations of one or another of these four basic structures.

The investment trust of orthodox British type—one that has found most favor in the United Kingdom. It has definitely proved its worth by its continued success over a great many years and through periods of depression, wars and financial panics. Provision is made for a wide diversification of investment. Usually risk is distributed over many countries, industries and types of issues. The powers of the management are limited by the company's charter, preventing the trust from buying control of a company or investing too large a proportion of its funds in any one security.

MEN CHORISTERS WELCOMED BACK

Ladies of St. Paul's Choir Hold Social Gathering After Practice.

Last Sunday the choir service of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church was undertaken by the ladies, the majority of the male sections having been associated with the male choir visit to New York over the week-end. The ladies, with Emma Lou Chenhall ably presiding at the organ rendered splendid and praiseworthy service, and arranged, furthermore, a welcome to the men of the choir. This event took the form of a social gathering on Thursday evening at the close of choir practice. Miss Simpson, in a graceful manner, welcomed and congratulated the male choir on their triumph in New York. This appreciation was followed by the presentation of adainty vase and marigolds to Emma Lou Chenhall for her duties at the organ on Sunday. The affair was enjoyed by the choristers, Mr. Chenhall returning thanks to the ladies for these kind thoughts.

a newly-constructed government."

Dignified to Resign

Other Conservatives think it would be a more dignified course to resign at once. Following the indecisive election of 1923 Mr. Baldwin met parliament and was defeated on the address in reply to the speech from the throne by a combined vote of the Labor and Liberal parties. But Mr. Baldwin then occupied a position similar to that now occupied by the Labor party. He had the largest representation but not an absolute majority. And Conservatives who favor resignation hold because of this fact what happened in 1923 should not be taken as a precedent. The Prime Minister should, therefore, so they argue, accept the decision of the polls and give Labor an opportunity to present the King's speech at the opening of the new parliament.

Mr. MacDonald would then have to decide whether or not to invite the co-operation of the Liberals.

It is freely predicted that the former course will prevail and Mr. Baldwin will meet parliament. Sir Austen Chamberlain favors this course. "It is for the prime minister and for him alone, after taking such advice as he likes, to decide what he will do in the circumstances" Sir Austen said at West Birmingham, "but I hope that he will face the commons and leave Lloyd George and what is called the Liberal party responsibility for the situation they have created."

Lloyd George "tripped by the triangle" with a net gain of only 14 seats finds himself in the position of holding the balance of power.

"The Liberal Party" significantly comments Sir Herbert Samuel, chief Liberal organizer, "is likely to exercise considerable influence in the councils of the nation. Almost all our members—all but one—are 100 per cent. Liberals, and we are not likely again to have difficulties from the cross-voting which weakened our power in Parliament just dissolved. We shall probably hear little more of the policy of safeguarding."

Reform Electoral Laws.

Mr. Lloyd-George, it is thought, would, as the price of his co-operation ask:

1—Reform of the electoral laws to secure better relationship between the seats held and the vote cast.

2—Acceptance, in part at any rate, of the Liberal unemployment policy.

But the ability to swing the balance lies in the ability to maintain an undivided group. All along Labor men have maintained that in the event of Labor being called upon to form a Government without an absolute majority they would be able to count on the support of some of the more advanced Liberals.

"As far as Labor is concerned," The Daily Herald comments, "it will go steadily on its way. Baldwin says the fight is against Socialism. Lloyd-George says the same. So let it be. This great appeal to the people has shown that Socialism has no terrors for millions of men and women in this country of all classes and callings."

Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, was re-elected handily in yesterday's general election, polling a total of 23,972 votes against 19,005 votes for C. L. Sharp, Liberal, in the Epping division of Essex.

Hon. C. Rhys, parliamentary private secretary to Premier Baldwin, lost his seat in Romford, Essex. Mr. Rhys accompanied the Prime Minister on his Canadian tour in 1927.

Three of Family Members.

Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, home secretary in the MacDonald Government, had another son elected in Cardiff, Arthur Henderson, Jr., winning the South Cardiff seat from the Conservative party for Labor. Another son was elected yesterday, while Mr. Henderson himself was re-elected in Burnley.

SNOWDEN RE-ELECTED.

Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer in the former Labor Government, was elected in Colne Valley, Yorkshire, over Conservative and Liberal opponents.

Malcolm MacDonald, son of Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald, Labor leader, will form another father and son combination in the next parliament. He won Bassetlaw, Nottingham, from the Conservatives for the Labor party by a majority of 711 over the former member, Sir Ellis Hume-Williams.

John Gilmour, Secretary of State for Scotland, and W. W. Ashley, Minister of Transport, were both re-elected.

Polled 242 Votes

Sir John Simon, one of the Liberal leaders, was re-elected in the Spen Valley division of Yorkshire over Labor and Communist candidates. H. Elvin, Labor, was only two thousand votes behind Sir John's total of 22,039 but the Communist, Shakat Usmani, polled only 242 votes. Usmasi, President of the Indian Trades Union congress, is in jail at Meerut, awaitin gtrial for alleged sedition, and his candidacy was a protest aainst Sir John's chairmanship of the Indian Statutory Reform Commission. He will of course lose his deposit.

Rt. Hon. Walter Runciman, leading Liberal, was re-elected.

Another of Premier Baldwin's ministers was re-elected in the person of Lord Winterton, Under Secretary of State for India.

The gross earnings of the Canadian National Railways for the week ending May 21st, 1929, were $4,991,272, as compared with $4,833,465 for the corresponding period of 1928, an increase of $127,807 or three percent.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, June 1.—Supply of cattle for sale at the yards this week was light for the time of year, volume showing about even with that of last week at some 4,700 head. Trade was again draggy, with bids steady on butcher steers and heifers and cows, and a shade easier on bulls. Holdovers were in order up to closing day, when a practical clean-up was effected.

Heavy steers were very slow, selling at a range of 10 to 11¼ cents per pound for the bulk, with just the odd small lot at a top of 11½ cents. Handy weights sold anywhere from 9 to 11¼ cents, according to quality, and best heifers failed to better 11¼ cents per pound. Cows were taken more readily than steers or heifers at steady prices showing 7 to 9½ cents per pound in the butcher range and from 4½ to 6 cents for canners and cutters. Grass cows made 7 to 8 cents.

Most of the stockers offered at the yards came from the West, some eight car loads arriving for sale locally. Prices after Monday were a shade easier at 8 to 9½ cents per pound for plain to fairly good light stockers, while native feeders sold steady at prices up to 10¼ cents per pound. Milker and springer trade was fairly active, with best springers a shade stronger at an outside top of $135 each and prices on fair kind and good fresh cows firm at last week's level.

Calf receipts were a shade lighter than last week, but the market was weak, in part due to reduction in requirements for export. United States buyers taking only 700 calves, as against 1,200 in the week previous. Prices on medium to good calves were 50 cents per cwt. lower than last week and only a small share of the offering made the steady 14 cents top. From 11 to 13 cents per pound took the bulk and common calves sold downward to 7 cents.

Bulls were a shade easier at 8¼ to 9¼ cents per pound for butcher kind, with bolognas mostly at 7½ to 7¾ cents per pound.

Hog receipts were 1,000 lighter than last week at 3,800 for sale locally, while billed through supply was only half that of last week at 400. Sales were made generally at a quarter lower than last week, or $13.50 per cwt. for selects, w.o.c. Packers' bids for week-end loading were $13.25 for w.o.c. selects.

Sheep and lamb receipts totalled 100 more than last week. As high as 20 cents per pound was secured for the odd prime lambs, and 18 to 19 cents per pound was general for choice, the market holding firm up to the close. Cull spring lambs and a very few yearlings sold from 13 to 15 cents per pound. Sheep trade was draggy, with prices off $1.50 per cwt. in the week, good butcher ewes closing at 6½ to 7 cents per pound, with culls downward to 3 cents.

Quotations:

Heavy beef steers, $10.50 to $11.50; butcher steers, choice, $11 to $11.50; fair to good, $10 to $11.75; common, $9 to $9.50; Butcher, heifers, choice, $11 to $11.50, fair to good, $10 to $10.75; common, $9 to $9.50; Butcher cows, good to choice, $9; common to medium, $7; canners and cutters, $4.50 to $6; Butcher bulls, good to choice, $8.50 to $9.50; medium, $8 to $8.50; bolognas, $7.25 to $7.75; Baby beefs, $10 to $13.50; Feeders, choice, $9.75 to $10.25; fair to good, $9 to $9.50; Stockers, choice, $9.25 to $9.50; fair, $8.50 to $9; Calves, good, $12.50 to $13.50; medium, $9 to $12; grassers $7.50 to $8; Springers, $85 to $130; Milkers, $75 to $110; Lambs, per cwt. $15 to $15.50; culls, per swt, $10 to $13.50; Spring lambs, each, $13 to $19; Sheep, choice, $6.50 to $7; medium $5.50 to $6; culls, $3 to $4; Hogs, selects, w.o.c., $13.25; selects, fed, $12.95; f.o.b., $12.25; thick smooths, w.o.c., $12.75.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, June 1. — Egg prices held steady on the local wholesale market this week, and receipts continued to be fairly heavy, in view of the fact that the warmer weather has had a dampening effect on production throughout Ontario. Receipts included several car lots from Western Canada. Trading was quiet, and most of the supplies were placed in storage.

Large dealers reported that the market has not shown any signs of higher prices in the near future, due to the falling off in production, but it is only reasonable to expect that small shipments will impart a stronger feeling to the market.

Quotations to country shippers for ungraded eggs, delivered, and cases returned, are as follows: Fresh extras, 27 to 28 cents per dozen; firsts, 25 to 26 cents, and seconds, 22 to 23 cents per dozen.

Butter Prices Sag.

An easier price tendency was in evidence durin gthe week on the local wholesale butter market, and the price of No. 1 finest creamery was reduced to 36¼ cents per pound, with No. 2 grade quoted one cent per pound lower.

The warm weather has caused a stepping up in domestic production throughout Ontario this week, and fairly heavy shipments reached the market. The demands of the trade have been steady, and supplies were only slightly in excess of the requirements.

The reduction in prices is attributed to the seasonal increase in production, and large dealers stated that prices are barely steady at present levels.

The cheese market remained quiet, and the price of No. 1 large, colored, paraffined and Government graded supplies was unchanged at from 18 to 18¾ cents per pound.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, June 1.—Light offerings and higher prices featured yesterday's wheat market, which held firm, although both Liverpool and Chicago market declined. Closing quotations were 2¼c to 1¾c higher for the day.

Exporters entered the pit today and bought a fair amount of wheat.

Cash wheat was in good demand at prices generally unchanged to ½c higher.

Demand was fair for oats and rye, both moving higher in sympathy with wheat but flax and barley were neglected and prices in both these commonities declined fractionally.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 1.—Tomahawking of grain values took a fresh start yesterday and wheat, corn, oats and rye all suffered infliction of worse and worse low-price records. New selling tension which brought about this result had its original in Winnipeg, where quotations on wheat were cut right and left Thursday during the time United States grain exchanges were closed in observation of Memorial Day. A reason given for the Canadian price-slashing was that the German wheat tariff is likely to be raised, following jumps the last few days in the French duty and in the Italian import rate as well.

Chicao closing quotations on wheat yesterday were unsettled, 2⅝c to 2¾c net lower, with rye 2½c to 6¼c down, corn 1½c to 2¼c off, oats at 1c to 3⅛c drop, and provisions varying from 25c setback to a rise of 10c.

Factors Aiding Decline

Adding to the violence of yesterday's breaks in grain prices was the fact that month-end settlement of accounts was in progress. Besides, a leading crop authority here estimated that the United States winter wheat yield this season will be 40,000,000 bushels in excess of last month's official forecast. Relatively little notice was taken that he also figured the condition of domestic spring wheat to be 85.3 per cent., with a 5 per cent. reduction of acreage, whereas the 10-year average condition is 88.4 per cent. Meanwhile, rains beneficial to Canadian crops counted as a further influence toward lower prices.

unison at commands given by Cadet Sergeant Jim Turner, physical instructor.

Praises Showing

With the inspection of the P.C.I. Cadets completed, the corps was drawn up in a square and Captain Isbister and Dr. J. J. Craig, Chairman of the Board of Education, briefly addressed them. Captain Isbister said that he had nothing but praise for their remarkable showing.

eH outlined plans for a Cadet Camp to be held in Kingston this summer and to which P.C.I. can send a quota of thirty cadets. He also spoke of the shooting competition for the cadets of the Empire. The King's Cup for this competition had been won by Canada in 1927, but last year it was carried off by South Africa. In all 234 silver and bronze medals were won last year by Canadian cadets, which was more than by all other parts o fthe Empire grouped together, he said. There are 33,000 cadets in this Dominion and some 10,000 in this district alone, which includes 178 cadet corps in 78 towns and cities. Again, in conclusion, Captain Isbister thanked the corps for their splendid effort, remarking that the officers knew their orders, and the men the drill.

Dr. J. J. Craig spoke of the benefits in physical well-being derived from cadet work." You boys of today will be teh men of to-morrow, and you will need strong bodies. The cadet drill is helping you develop those strong physiques that are required," said Dr. Craig.

Three hearty cheers and a tiger for the King echoed from the throats of the cadets, and Captain Isbister was also cheered and the corps then dismissed.

Immediately following the P.C.I. inspection the files of public school cadets marched on to the parade grounds. The appearance they made as they drew up in two long ranks awaiting the inspecting officer drew loud and continued applause from the spectators. The boys, some of them very small, marched with heads up, chest out and feet tramping the ground in unison. All were out to do their best, in eagerness to help their school win the coveted cup.

The "General Salute" again rang out and the cadets snapped smartly to "Shun" as Captain Isbister appeared. Not a move or a shuffle as he walked down the files.

Then following the march past in column of fours, the battalion went through a series of physical exercises as one man to the whistle blown by Battalion Commander Norman Calladine, who stood in company with Sergeant-Major T. Thomas and Cadet-Sergeant John Langley, physical training leader, on a raised stand.

The six companies went through company drill under command of their individual company commanders. It was during this company drill that they were judged for general perfection and skill in manoeuvres for the cup.

Best Ever Seen.

At the conclusion of the inspection the battalion was formed in a square and the inspecting officer addressed them. He said: "On my first visit to Peterborough to inspect the cadets, it is very gratifying to see this splendid parade. Each cadet has put forth his best effort and he has cooperated to make the finest parade of public school cadets that I have ever seen. I have never seen the same thing carried out with as great efficiency and snap. I thank you for this parade.

"The Principal of the Collegiate is to be congratulated on having such a fine group of boys coming up into his school," he continued. He then explained the Cadet Camp to be held this summer. He said that choosing the winner was a most difficult task. He selected King Edward and presented the Denne Cup to that company.

Mrs. W. R. Morris presented the company commanders with the Strathcona medals. Lieut.-Colonel D. A. Lawrie, commander of the Third Artillery Brigade, presented the medals for proficiency in rifle shooting to Cadet Sedgewick, of Central, Cadet Routier of Queen Mary, Cadet Hunter of King George, and Cadet Reid of Queen Alexandra.

After giving three lusty cheers for the King and Captain Isbister, the battalion was dismissed.

The inspection of the P.C.I. Cadets was attended by four officers of the Lindsay Cadet Corps, as a thoughtful gesture of comradeship. Lieutenant R. Devey was an official representative of C.M.G.C. at the inspection. Cadet-Instructor Sergeant-Major T. Thomas was present and also Corporal Nixon of R.C.O.C.

The officers of the P.C.I. Cadet Corps are:

The Peterborough Lumber Company held its settling day in Apsley on May 28, Dickson Davidson, president, and Mr. Overend, secretary, coming up from Peterborough to transact the business. Very few of the men who had taken out logs came out in the morning, when business should have been very brisk, and as a consequence, if Mr. Davidson had not kindly extended the time and stayed longer than his business engagements in Peterborough could well allow, several would have been disappointed.

MANY MATTERS DISCUSSED BY SCHOOL BOARD

Members Fail To Reach Agreement On Matters Pertaining To Educational Question.

HEATED DISCUSSION.

Inspector's Report Shows That School Has Enjoyed Successful Year.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 1.—(Examiner Staff Correspondence)—With the present system of the Wednesday half holiday and open night Thursday, the school trustees, many of them affected by the arrangement, scheduled their regular meeting for nine-thirty Thursday night rather than eight o'clock, the usual hour. There were not enough members present at the appointed time, but as soon as a quorum collected, the meeting was opened. J. C. Birmingham, vice-chairman presided and there were present, Chas. Benor, William Cock, Dr. Richardson, D. J. Lynch, James Loucks, Dr. Watson, George O'Sullivan, Dr. Longmore and J. C. Anderson. Wesley Stephens, the secretary of the board, was on deck to attend to his duties. For several months past he has not been able to be present. James and Clarence Massie, the caretakers of the buildings were the only interested parties there.

Matters of moment to the educational side of the town were discussed and the chairman seemed to find it difficult at times to keep pace with the affairs. At one time toward the close of the meeting there was a motion, an amendment, and an amendment to the amendment. The discussion rose to interesting heights and whenever the chairman attempted to put the motions, another trustee had some further discussion to make and the next minute the chairman's voice was lost in the conversation of the others. Eventually the meeting adjourned without a vote being taken at all. This will be the first subject to be discussed Friday, June 7th, when the board meets again at eight o'clock.

Correspondence Read.

The first communication to be read was the high school inspector's report. This was attended to once the minutes had been received and accepted. The report was not discussed in detail since it had been shown to the principal and there were only one or two recommendations for the board.

Inspector's Report.

The report of the High School Inspector, R. W. Anglin, this year as presented was highly complimentary to the school. Under the head of accommodations, there are seventeen items. Each and every one of these was graded number one. In his comment, the inspector said: "The accommodations are now graded first class in every respect. I understand that tennis courts are under consideration. Flower beds and shrubs in front would enhance greatly the appearance of the fine building. An apparatus room is badly needed off the gymnasium." In commenting on the values of the equipment, etc., he said that very substantial additions had been made to the equipment, and that it was a wise policy to keep up or raise the standard in this manner.

The ratio of pupils to teachers is as 197 to 7 or as 28 to 1. The division of duties among the teachers is describe as satisfactory though more preferable to have geography and physiography handled by the same teacher. Under the head of provision for teaching the courses, the inspector advised an increase in the time devoted to English but reported the provision as otherwise satisfactory. Discipline was satisfactory, the attendance, boys 79, girls 118, all regularly admitted. Authorized text books used and registers regularly kept. The equipment catalogue was entered to date. The English literature texts were satisfactory but should be more satisfactory. The usual plan of supplementary reading was being followed and synopses required. Provision had been made for sight translation of Latin and French. No additions had been made to class room decorations and fire drill was being held once each month. The concluding comment on the teaching was that it was all good and the average high.

Pupils' Work.

In the special tests, sixty-three pupils were examined. In writing, ten won good standing, twenty-one were fair, twenty-six were poor and six were bad. The spelling tests were slightly less satisfactory with nine good, sixteen fair, seventeen poor and twenty-one bad. The bookkeeping sets were satisfactory and the art folios quite satisfactory. The records of practical and experimental work in science were also satisfactory.

Section seven of the report dealing with special reports, refers to the teachers as a well qualified staff. In a concluding general comment, the inspector says, this school has reached a high standard of efficiency. The building is thoroughly modern and well kept up. The grounds are fairly large and make good provision for sports. With shrubs and flower beds the front would be very attractive. The staff is well qualified and efficient and the principal very capable. The whole spirit of the school is excellent and good work is being done.

Under date of May 30th, there was a request from the Girl Guides to be granted the use of the school lawn for a lawn social on June 29th, the camp this summer. The request was funds to be used for their annual granted on condition that the grounds be left clean at the end of the affair.

The third letter was the resignation of Miss C. H. McGirr, kindergarten-primary teacher to take effect at the end of the present term. The resignation was accepted. Two other resignations were also submitted but before they are accepted or otherwise treated, the internal committee will interview these teachers and report to the board. The possibility of reducing the teaching staff of the public schools was also discussed and his was left for the internal committee to investigate and report on.

Softball Diamond.

Dr. Richardson opened the softball question that has been hanging fire for so long. He informed the board that white clay had been dumped and spread on the grounds north of the school by the Softball Association, and he wondered on what authority it had been done. He agreed that the cinders which had been originally placed there for playground purposes should be covered up, but he thought the board ought to do it. The boys, as he referred to the softball association, had spent practically all their money in doing this work, and he did not think it proper. He favored a ball diamond being laid out there and also other accommodation for sports such as tennis and perhaps hard ball. But he was in favor of returning the boys' money and having the school board to do the work. It would come in as local improvement and the counties would pay half the cost. He very much regretted that the municipality had no public playground. Other members of the board agreed with Dr. Richardson and on motion of Stephens and Loucks, the money was ordered returned to the softball association. The grounds are to be put in shape for ball and other sports and the work was left with the property committee.

Contracts and Salaries.

At various meetings during the year the matter of teachers' salaries and also their contracts had been discussed. The matter came up again last night when the two resignations were discussed and the report of the internal committee was given verbally by Dr. O. C. Watson. The two details seemed to run hand in hand. Some time ago, Miss Ferris and Miss O'Shaughnessy had asked to be released from their contract as they were the only two of the staff of seven to be so held. At that time it was decided that all the teachers should be asked to sign a contract. Owing to the illness of the secretary, it was thought that this had not been done and the teachers had once more inquired about the matter. At the meeting last night it was stated that all had signed their contracts with the exception of the principal, E. H. Greig, and Earl Stephens the assistant principal. It was understood that these two would sign. No contract had been submitted to the principal since this had not been the custom in the past.

The discussion of this point and other relevant points took up the rest of the evening till eleven-thirty. Motions were moved and seconded but never put till some one decided it was getting late. A couple of trustees put on their hats and moved as though they were going home. Some one called for the accounts to be brought in and when these were passed the meeting was adjourned till Friday, June 7th at eight o'clock.

to wipe out capital indebtedness, and generally for setting up funds for amortization purposes."

Embarrassing Profits

Continuing in the agreeable key of successful public service, Mr. Jeffrey said: "We have reached the point that many municipalities are wondering what to do with their surplus revenues. Their plants are paid for, rates have been reduced to rock bottom, and they are giving rebates amounting to three or four months charges."

Mayor M. J. Elliott of Bowmanville asked Mr. Jeffrey to explain the meaning of rock-bottom rates.

"A rock bottom price for light would be 2 and 1 cents, (Peterborough's rates for 1929 to domestic users are 2½c an hour for the first 50 kilowatt-hours and 1¼c for all additional), below that people never turn the light off, they use it for which is not efficient, except for auxiliary use. They should use coal."

"When we made our rates for this year there were 150 decreases, and in 54 instances the decreases amounted to from 10 to 30 per cent. of the annual revenue. This was handed back to the consumers in the form of rebates on their power and light accounts. For example the rebate in Picton amounted to the total of the light bills for two months."

To Vote On Purchases

Most of the enquiries yesterday came from the Belleville and Oshawa members. In both these cities the people are to vote in the near future on by-laws authorizing the purchase of the local power distribution systems. In his presidential address Mr. Mason alluded to these approaching polls saying: "Your officers cannot too strongly urge upon the municipalities in the Central Ontario System the purchase from the Hydro-Electric Commission of the local distribution systems so that at as early a date as possible the Central Ontario District may become a proper Hydro district. If this were accomplished all the municipalities would own and administer the local distribution systems, purchasing the power from the Hydro-Electric Commission at their transforming stations at cost, as defined by the Power Commission Act."

Mr. Mason cited the experience of Lindsay, which bought its distribution system from the Hydro-Electric Commission and began operations as a "cost town" in April, 1928. A nine months' statement shows that Lindsay had a net surplus of $15,825, and a recent report indicated that they contemplate a 20 p.c. reduction in rates. Whitby, another "cost town" has paid off $25,826.24 of its debentures. It has a fund of $11,000 invested in securities and a surplus of $2,473.33. Picton has paid off almost its entire debenture indebtedness and has accumulated an operating surplus of $88,334.11 invested in plant securities, and is able to show a net surplus of $3,378.73.

"In addition to these examples, it may be pointed out," Mr. Mason continued, "that all the other municipalities in the Central Ontario System operating under cost contracts with the Hydro-Electric Commission have been able to show surpluses for 1928."

Results in Other Communities.

Peterborough's surplus last year was $28,353.94, which the Utilities Commission intends to use for extensions, other improvements, etc. The value of Peterborough's distribution system and sub-station is shown at $612,135.54, the debenture balance $527,920; renewal reserves $60,448.74; accumulated surplus $78,721.92.

Havelock's plant value is $36,018.16; debenture balance $24,365.76; renewal reserves $3,464.76; accumulated surplus $4,050.18; and 1928 surplus $681.10.

Lakefield's plant value $39,434.80; debenture balance $29,591.70; renewal reserves $5,399.14; accumulated surplus $14,158.41; and the 1928 surplus $3,829.03.

Norwood's plant value $39,722.45; debenture balance $32,343.07; renewal reserves $4,783.13; accumulated surplus $3,393.22; and 1928 surplus $776.04.

Warkworth's plant value $11,292.44; debenture balance $10,391.31; renewal reserves $699.67; accumulated surplus $3,335.13; and 1928 surplus $197.86.

Marmora's plant value $31,062.64; debenture balance $11,800.10; renewal reserves $2,212.17; accumulated surplus $5,223.88; surplus for 1928 was $504.98.

Omemee's plant value $17,569.06; debenture balance $7,398.60; renewal reserves $3,845.58; accumulated surplus $2,781.87; and 1928 surplus $384.81.

Cities Lose Surpluses.

Referring to the forthcoming voting in Oshawa and Belleville on the purchase of their distribution systems, Mr. Jeffrey said that the surplus from operations in Belleville last year was $81,000 gross, and $60,000 net, and the price the Hydro-Electric Commission had placed upon the Belleville plant was $190,000.

The net surplus from Oshawa last year exceeded $100,000. The gas and electric plants were valued at $525,000 and the price fixed by the Hydro Commission is $310,000.

Leon Fraser of Oshawa, said he had estimated that Oshawa's rate was 63 p.c. higher than Peterborough's; Cobourg was also 63 p.c. higher; and Port Hope 74 p.c. higher than Peterborough. Cobourg is another town that has been discussing the advisability of buying their distribution from the Hydro-Electric Commission.

Mr. Jeffrey replied that the rates were higher than Peterborough because the Hydro was not supplying power at cost to these other municipalities.

Mr. Fraser mentioned Oshawa's power consumption of 9,000 h.p., but Mr. Jeffery replied that the rate would be affected more by the diversity between different power loads than by the actual extent of the load. In other words, the power of factory load may be greater than the light load.

Recommended By Denne.

Mr. Fraser remarked that the Hydro had made a profit in Oshawa of $85,000 on $450,000 revenue. "You are forcing us to buy it," he added.

Mayor Denne: "It will be to your advantage to buy it."

Mr. Fraser: "Some municipalities have not yet decided what to do about it."

Mayor Denne: "This has all been explained before."

Mr. Jeffrey reviewed the purchase of the Trent power system and the gradual elimination or unloading of the Peterborough street railway and gas plant, and of similar utilities which were included in the original purchase. He explained how the system was owned by the Ontario government and operated by the Hydro-Electric Commission; also how some municipalities like Peterborough had bought their own local distribution systems, and others like Cobourg, Oshawa and Belleville were on a non-hydro basis, that is the individual power consumer buys his power directly from the Hydro Commission. Eastern Ontario would not attain the same cost levels as western Ontario municipalities until the constituent communities all owner their own local power lines and sub-stations.

PEACE OF MIND—HIS SUMMER COTTAGE IS PROTECTED

FOR two successive summers Charles M. Bremner of Toronto worried about his family in their Muskoka cottage. Mainly, he worried about fire. Suppose sparks or flying embers from some nearby fire lodged on the roof. Suppose, while he worked in the city, his summer cottage became a prey to flames!

The very idea made him shudder—not the thought of losing his cottage, but the danger to his family.

Finally Mr. Bremner did a very sensible thing. He reduced the fire hazard in his summer cottage by roofing it with Brantford Asphalt Slates. He thus not only recovered his peace of mind, but immeasurably beautified his summer home as well.

Hundreds of owners of summer homes are this year following Mr. Bremner's example. They are roofing their cottages with Brantford Asphalt Slates because Brantford Asphalt Slates combine distinguished beauty and permanence with the utmost in fire and weather protection. Sparks and flaming brands from a nearby fire die out harmlessly on their slate-coated surface. They are vigilant guardians of your home the year around—the months you live in it and the months you are away.

BOARD LOSES IN FIRST CLASH

Judge Refuses to Dismiss Injunction at Des Moines University.

MAY WITHHOLD DIPLOMAS.

DES MOINES, Iowa, June 1 (C.P.) Des Moines University trustees yesterday lost the first step in a court battle to obtain control of the Baptist fundamentalist institution. Judge Frank Shankland overruled their motion to dismiss a temporary injunction under which the school has been operating since May 13.

He announced, however, that the writ would not be made permanent until after another hearing, date for which has not been set. Students obtained the injunction on May 13, after Dr. T. T. Shields, of Toronto, president of the Board of Trustees, ordered the school closed because of student riots.

Although they had won temporary victory yesterday, the undergraduates were still uncertain as to whether the trustees would recognize their credits for work done while the school has been open in violation of the board's mandate. Seniors especially were wondering whether they will receive diplomas of graduation next Tuesday.

Judge Shankland refused a request of Dr. Shields' attorneys to modify his decree so that it would not interfere with the trustees' legal rights. They asserted the board could delay granting of diplomas and credits until it completes investigation of the student riots.

PRECISION WORTHY OF THE COSTLIEST CARS

NOT only in its impressive appearance, but in every detail of its construction—in every phase of its performance—Oldsmobile is comparable to the more costly of fine cars. This all-round, well-balanced excellence of Oldsmobile Six is obtained in only one way . . by the strict Oldsmobile policy of precision workmanship and rigidly maintained standards of quality.

You will find the results of this fine-car precision in the smoothness, ease of handling, absence of vibration, response to acceleration of Oldsmobile's 62 horsepower engine. You will find evidence of it in the harmonious working together of all Oldsmobile parts, regardless of speed or road or distance.

You will find, too, quality features unapproached by any save the higher-priced cars . . rubber engine mountings; rubber chassis insulation; fabric beading to prevent metal-to-metal contact; pressure-lubricated piston-pins; high-compression cylinder head . . to name but a few.

To discover the satisfaction of fine-car ownership, let us arrange a trial drive in the new Oldsmobile Six. 6-1-6-29B

History of Peterborough

CHAPTER VI

The Peterborough Militia in 1837-8—Continued

It was a cardinal point in the political creed of the Governor, Sir Francis Bond Head, that the people of this colony existed for the Government, rather than the Government for the people. To the carrying out of this fallacious theory, the greater portion of the agitation of the country, resulting in open rebellion, may be traced. The Legislative Assembly had practically no control in the government of the Province,—in the disposal of its revenues, or in the appointments to office. These latter were in great part confined to the members of a few leading families, their friends and partizans, who were paid salaries relatively much higher than those enjoyed at present.

Mr. McKenzie, by his pen and voice, did much to expose the defects of the system of government then in vogue; and in doing so, more than once suffered severely both in person and property. He was five times expelled from the House of Assembly on paltry pretexts, and each time promptly re-elected with overwhelming majorities, and in spite of all opposition by the intelligent electors of the County of York, who presented him with a massive gold medal in acknowledgment of the valuable services he had rendered to the country.

The chief demands made by the Reformers of that day were: That the Executive Council should be held responsible to parliament,—that the control of the revenues of the Province should be placed in the hands of the Legislative Assembly—the secularization of the clergy reserves and the abolition of exclusive privileges conferred upon particular religious denominations,—the exclusion of judges and ministers of the gospel from the Executive Council and the Legislature—an elective Legislative Council; the abolition of the rights of primogeniture, and some other minor reforms made up the list of grievances, which the Imperial Government were not unwilling to consider upon their merits, but their good intentions were defeated by the blindness and obstinacy of Sir Francis Bond Head, whose conduct was at once felt, and declared to be arbitrary and vindictive.

It must be conceded, however, that Responsible Government was as yet only a shadow in the future, and that the system of Colonial Government which Sir Francis Bond Head found in vogue in Canada, to some extent justified his policy, although under the circumstances, and with the strenuous opposition which that system had already evoked, persistent adherence to it was at once difficult on his part, and dangerous to the colony.

Among other unjustifiable acts of the Governor, was the dismissal of Judge Ridout from the bench, and from the militia, in which he had served with honor under General Brock. This was done without the slightest trial or investigation, and even without informing the victim of caprice of the reasons for so grave an act. The Home Government reversed the sentence, and ordered the Governor to reinstate Judge Ridout in both his offices;—a humiliation to which he refused to submit, and which contributed largely to his resignation and recall.

It will be seen that the very demands then made have long since been conceded, and had the Reformers of 1837 abstained from actual rebellion, their conduct in other respects would have entitled them to the plaudits of all subsequent times. Lord Durham, in his admirable report on the state of the Province in 1839, which led to the union of Upper and Lower Canada in the following year, stated that "common prudence and good management would have prevented the outbreak"; and more than hinted that the rebellion had been purposely invited by the Government, for the purpose of crushing the leaders of the reform movement.

The people of Lower Canada were laboring under evils and abuses nearly similar; but while in Upper Canada, an Executive Council, responsible to the Assembly, was regarded as the true remedy for the grievances of the times, the politicians of the Lower Province fancied an elective Legislative Council would leave them nothing to desire. As Lord Durham stated, "both, in fact, desired the same object, namely, an extension of popular influence in the government," but pursued a different theory in their efforts to attain it.

The attempt at insurrection was "as foolishly contrived and ill-conducted as it was wicked and treasonable," but now that the passions of the hour have had time to subside, some allowance must be made for men goaded to desperation by long years of mis-government, in the correction of which every moral and constitutional mode of redress appeared to have been exhausted.

This explanation will show why we have stated that the Government of that day ill-deserved the tribute of loyalty and devotion shown by the militia of the Province. The great majority of the people of Canada shrunk from open rebellion, and nobly rallied to support the Government, in numbers, and with an enthusiasm worthy of a more deserving administration.

Newspapers in those days were not plentiful, and the people of the rural districts, actively engaged in warring with the forest, and pre-occupied with the stern struggle for existence amid the hardships of the bush, had but few sources of general information. A few persons, here and there in this county, thus understood and estimated the merits of the questions at issue, and when the insurrection came, either held aloof from the preparations made to sustain the Government, or sullenly acquiesced in a movement it would be useless or fatal to resist. In the Newcastle District, twelve persons in all were arrested on a charge of sympathizing with the rebels, and after a temporary detention were dismissed. Among these was Dr. John Gilchrist, afterwards member of Parliament for the county.

A Yarn of The Old Days

By W. A. BROWN, Australia

This may interest some of the old identitees in the West, and is all true. In the old days of 70-80's. I being out of work decided to take a voyage of discovery to have a look for gold. This was before the digging days of Cooxgardie or Kalgourly and I being young and strong looked out and found a mate to go with me. He was an old ship's cook of the name of Nelson, a very handy thing to know as I found out to my comfort in the days that followed. We left Perth one morning, travelled through Newcastle and Northam and arrived at New Norcia mission, and stopped there that night. Next day we called in at McPherson's station. Mr. Mac asked us if we were looking for work as he had a job at fencing. We agreed to try it, but as we knew nothing about it, we only earned our tucker at the 1-mile contract. When we were finished that he pursuaded us to take on a 12-mile one at £10 a mile. It was to repair the old fence, put in new posts where required and make it into a7-wired sheep proof one. We finished the job to the boss' satisfaction and saying good-bye went on our way with a good cheque in our pockets. The next part of our journey was across at 30-mile sand plain. When we got half way, we struck a government well about 200 feet deep, and to get the water up such a long way was rather a job. When we got it up, we found there was a big dead possum in the bucket. We had to boil it, skim it and make it into very strong tea, but the taste of that animal lasted us into Geraldton. Next day we went on and struck a station. I forget the name of it. I may tell you that we started out carrying a 60-lb. swag, but we made that lighter as we went along. We went over another sand plain and came to another station.I think Conolly's where we spent the night in a big bunk room. The men were a mixed lot, some white, a couple of darkies and two Chinamen, the latter of whom kept us in fits of laughter with their yarns, some of which were anything but chaste. All this time we were doing a bit of prospecting, but never got a speck.

Next morning being Sunday we started off across another sand plain, which they told us was 40 or 50 miles across, but there was a government well half way, but when we got there the well was so dry we had to go on for our water bag was empty. We traveled all that day, very hot, and Nelson commenced to knock up and I was not too good myself. We went on and on Nelson wanting to lay down, but I made him go on till we were thinking we would have to give up when we saw a light and going around the Allinooks swamps came to a little tin shanty, which on asking we were told it was a hotel, opened the night before. We hurried into the bar, asked if they had any beer, and being assured yes bought one bottle each, another two in a minute or two at 3 bob a bottle. The moment we drank it we went outside and threw it up. We stopped at the hotel for a week, but had to sleep outside as the hotel Cecil only had two rooms. Nelson was a sick man, so sick I thought he would have died there and then. I reckon that the only thing that save me was carrying a bottle of pain killer, a few drops of which I put into the water and tea. We travelled to Geraldton in a bullock dray and Nelson went into the the hospital, where he died of dysentry a few months later. I went to work at my trade, a jeweller, for two years, but my wife who had joined me could not stand the discomforts and getting sandy blight, we went back to Melbourne. We have been in Victoria ever since.

A Message To St. John's

"The Rev. R. C. Blagrave,
The Rectory,
Peterborough, Ontario.
My dear Dr. Blagrave:—

Your letter of the 14th is most welcome and I feel very much flattered that you should ask me to preach at St. John's Church on the 30th of June. I wish that it were possible for me to accept the privilege. The opportunity of association with St. John's Church again adds immeasurably to my desire to be included among the returned and returning prodigals of Old Home Week. I am, however, obliged to deny myself both of these privileges. Obligations to the chuch here as well as the designs of my family forbid. They expect me to start with them for Maine about the same time as the Peterborough Home Week is projected.

I am quite disappointed that your invitation did not come earlier. Having no notion whatever of your prospect nor of a Reunion at Trinity College, which has just been announced to me, I planned and made a trip to Toronto last month. Had I known in time there is no reason why this trip could not have been made to accord with the Peterborough celebration, and I am quite disappointed that my plans were not better arranged.

I am certainly highly complimented that the city of Peterborough should count me as one of her old boys. I have the most affectionate memories of Peterborough and of course more intimately and peculiarly of the good people at St. John's Church. That there should still be friends in that congregation who would care to welcome me is a very touching tribute to their memory and their indulgence. May I burden you with the responsibility to convey to these generous and indulgent friends my kindest Christian greetings, and to invite from them prayers for me as I shall pray for them.

Well, I guess E. S. Martin did go to school with me and did most everything else with me when we were boys together. He ought to tell you that the Grand River People to which we mutually belong form a close corporation. They don't easily forget one another and of course we think they are the best people in the world. They were originally, in more primitive days, euphemistically called the "Grand River Roarers," and E. S. M. could I think, if he only would, tell you some of the most interesting traditions about them. When I have nothing better to do I'm going to indite a book to the memory and on the subject of these old boys, and I wish to assure you it will be worth the price when it's finished. When you are in the Bank of Montreal will you please convey my very cordial regards to Stratford, —that is to say to 'Mr. E. S. Martin.'

Please ask me again, and soon, or my friends will all be dead; also give me more time to arrange plans.

Invariably when in Toronto I hear glowing accounts of the progress of St. John's Church in Peterborough.

With my kind regards and good wishes,

Believe me to be
Very sincerely yours,
E. VICARS STEVENSON."

FROM JERUSALEM.

Monday morning Mayor Denne received a cordially worded letter coming from Jerusalem, Palestine, enclosing the card of Rev. Edward Arthur Wicher, D.D., and expressing pleasure at the receipt of an invitation to the Old Home Week, in this city, which had been sent to him some time ago and forwarded to his attention from San Anselmo, California.

He writes from the American Colony at Jerusalem, where he is filling the position of the Robert Dollar Professor of New Testament interpretation, in the ancient city. In his letter he assures the Mayor of regard and interest in the celebration, being a veritable old boy of Peterborough, having attended school here, but left the neighborhood forty years ago, and adds that he still cherishes warmest affection for the country of his birth and the home of his boyhood, hoping for the complete success of the great event.

It is understood that his mother was a sister of David Lowery, of Peterborough, and that his father was a clergyman at one time living at Keene, Ont., in the earlier years.

SERVICE LEADING TO BUSINESS EXPLAINED TO UNDERWRITERS

Bernard Vise Delivers Address To Banquet of Local Organization.

TYPES OF SELLING.

Service Can Always Be Rendered To Prospective Policy

"How Service leads to Business" was the subject chosen by Bernard Vise of the Imperial Life Assurance Company, when he addressed the Life Underwriters at their regular monthly meeting, held in the Empress Hotel last evening.

"Life Insurance service in the broad term is a service to humanity," said Mr. Vise. "When you place a policy for definite needs, be sure that the needs will be fulfilled by that policy, that is service in the narrower sense of personal service.

"There are three types of selling," continued the speaker. "The first is the good fellowship method used by the newer men who sell to their friends. The fact that the friend is buying the policy is a secondary method, he wants to help you out. Then there is also the exchange, whereby the agent purchases a radio or an automobile, and the seller of the article buys insurance in return. The last under this head is when professional services are rendered and your doctor or dentist buys insurance in return for your business.

"The second method is the price method also applicable to new men, who show the prospect what they get in return for their money and tell him a lot of amazing figures that are not undegstood, but the buyer believes he is getting something worth while.

"Then there is the service method, which is quite prevalent in the United States, and is used by those who write a great deal of life insurance. It is simple and appealing, which is a reason why the largest sellers of insurance use it. Service," explained the speaker, "is whereby you carry out the purpose for which the life insurance was contracted.

"The buyer is always on the defensive, and this method disarms him. You are not there to sell but to do something for somebody, and talk along those lines intsead of trying to take something from the prospect.

Prove Age at Once.

"There are means of service that all life underwriters can use. Prove a man's age at once and save the trouble after he is dead, as it often is difficult to obtain the proof then, and the claim is held up. It is much easier to prove age when the man is alive.

"When a man contracts to pay a premium, a very one-sided contract is formed. The buyer can drop the policy at will but the company while the policy is in force is bound to the risk. Insurance is the means of preserving happiness of the children."

Then Mr. Vise explained how he accomplished his wonderful record in March, 1925, when he wrote 166 applications. In all this business which totalled $213,000 there was only a lapse of 4 per cent., with renewals of 96 per cent. He employed only his usual methods in this renewal achievement. On the day the policy lasped he called on the holder, who appreciates the attention.

"It is simple," stated Mr. Vise. "Warnings are given to the agents by the companies or you have your own records to guide you. People need insurance in later years more than in the earlier years of life, and it is merely a matter of watching to conserve the business in force, which is conservation in the matter of service, and is a vital factor.

"Service can also be rendered to a prospective policy holder. Most prospects know nothing about life insurance. It is good business then to try to keep every policy in force whether in a strange company or not. We do not live in a world by ourselves and sooner or later the effects will be felt; service in this way is to advise policyholders, who are contemplating buying more insurance, as to their present policies, and not to urge them to drop these for insurance in another company.

"Service along legal lines is important. There are very few lawyers who understand insurance law and the agent can do a great deal in explaining clauses involved in various policies.

"Life insurance loans are important and are very often a great help. Try and see that when policies are taken out, that they will be free from binding clauses," advised Mr. Vise. "When the benificiary is a minor the money cannot be secured, try and investigate these items that are liable to creep into a policy.

"The most important type of service in the newer type of service, is where you call on a holder of insurance and ask him for his policies, and present him with a wallet made especially to keep the documents. Now you have made a friend, and the holder appreciates the interest.

Survey Method.

"Then there is the survey method, whereby you check the policies, to age and old fashioned clauses, as aviation items. Everyone is enthusiastic now about aviation, and some of the older policies contain clauses that are not liable if the insured is killed in an airplane crash. Then the third method is similar to the second but requires greater skill and a fuller knowledge of law. The whole estate is investigated and the agent is really an insurance lawyer. This is beyond most of us, but it is something to aim at. I prefer the second method in most cases."

This method was very clearly demonstrated by the speaker as he gave a demonstration as to how a policy should be sold. He chose John I. Allen, the president of the Life Underwriters in Peterborough as his prospect and proceeded to show the meeting how he would attempt to sell life insurance.

Harold Coulson, accompanied by Cecil Lapp, rendered two greatly appreciated solos, Paradise for Two (Tate), and Mother Macree (Olcott and Ball), while Georges Bouchard K. C., M.P., for Kamouraska, Que., sang Alouette in the native tongue, which livened up the party considerably.

President John I. Allen occupied the chair and stated that the Peterborough Club of Underwriters stood 4th in the Dominion in regards to membership, but that he watned it to be better than that, and solicited the co-operation of all.

W. McLellan moved that the club support the idea of a one day congress for insurance men of Peterborough, to be held in June 1930, as suggested by the Dominion executive. The motion was seconded by L. Scott and was carried by the club.

LIBERAL PARTY IS BEING BLAMED

Donald, may meet the Commons," and concludes by declaring the real logic of events "must drive real tories and real Liberals into the same camp."

The London Times blames the Liberals for creating a situation involving great constitutional difficulty but feels there is no cause for despondency or alarm. "Ways have been found out of similar situations in the past,' the paper continues, "and they can be found again.

The Liberal Manchester Guardian expresses the opinion that with Liberal help a Government could be formed with a large enough majority to enable it to carry on comfortably for an indefinite period. While the paper says it is yet too early to discuss all possible forms of co-operation it hopes in the national interest Premier Baldwin will carry on until he is defeated in Parliament, and thus allow time to explore the field of a possible Labor-Liberal compromise. Premier Baldwin's immediate resignation, it adds, would add to the embarrassment and complexity of a delicate situation.

FRESH PRODUCE ON THE MARKET

Fish, Vegetables, Flowers and Poultry in Plentiful Supply.

POTTED PLANS.

Prevailing odors at the farmers' market to-day, upstairs and down, were those of fresh fish, of new green onions, just pulled, and of lilacs, white and purple.

The familiar face of J. Nazimok, fish vendor, who went to Toronto some weeks ago and then decided that Peterborough was a much better place to live in, was back again this morning, with a stall at his old corner, and supplies of pickerel and salmon trout at 20 cents a pound.

Potted plants, green, growing things in vegetables and flowers, were having a brisk sale this morning, and cut flowers were on view in the basket section. One lady had a lovely basket of rose tulips, trailing green fern and pure white narcissus, arranged in a manner that caught the eye at once.

Tulips were priced at 50 cents a dozen, narcissus at 30 cents, lily of the valley were 15 cents a bunch and sky-blue forget-me-nots 10 cents for a bouquet.

Butter was 40 cents a pound, and eggs 26 to 30 cents a dozen, in varying sizes and ages. A few broilers, with heads attached, were 50 cents a pound, and older chickens were 30 cents a pound.

Potatoes were $1 a bag and little English multiplier onions were 15 cents a quart.

CAR TURNS OVER ON KEENE ROAD

Woman Dislocates Her Knee Cap When Hurled Through Window.

CAUGHT BY WIND.

Hurled through the open window of her car as it somersaulted, after shooting off the Keene road, and crashing through a fence yesterday afternoon, a local woman sustained a dislocated knee cap.

Her automobile, a sedan type, was badly damaged and the woman's escape from death or grave injuries is regarded as almost miraculous when the circumstances surrounding the accident are considered

She was alone in the car travelling east at about 30 miles an hour when a mile and a half from the city the heavy wind caught the automobile and caused it to sway. Startled at this development she tried to put on the brakes and stepped on the accelerator instead, and the car catapulted off the road at high speed, shot through the ditch, over a fence and into a field and turned completely over, stripping the top structure. As it toppled over the driver was thrown through the open window and tossed many feet away from the car.

A passing motorist who arrived on the scene before the wrecked car had stopped spinning, rendered assistance and she was brought into Peterborough, where she was attended by Drs. Scott and

EAST WINDSOR BECOMES CITY

Ontario's Baby City Has a Population of 17,000.

BIG CELEBRATION.

WINDSOR, Ont., June 1.—(Canadian Press).—East Windsor, hustling motor centre of these Border Cities and which until this morning had been the town of Ford City, is celebrating this afternoon and this evening jumped in 16 years from a police village on the outskirts of Walkerville to a city in fact and name and with a population of 17,000 exceeding Walkerville's by 5,000.

The big parade was started at two o'clock this afternoon and is to be followed by a continuous round of entertainment until midnight or after.

A feature of the evening aside from a street dance is the "jamboree" which according to the committee, has been set aside for a "carnival" when the merry-makers will be invited to shower one another with confetti, knock off hats and shove people playfully off the sidewalk. There'll be plenty of whoopee.

SOCIETY HOLDS FINAL MEETING

Presentation Made Jack Todd By Members of Mission Band.

GEORGE STREET CHURCH.

The final meeting of the Mission Band of George Street United Church before the holidays was held on Monday afternoon. The president Mary Vance occupied the chair and after the opening exercise the roll was called and the minutes of the last meeting read and approved.

A very pleasing program was then given consisting of a solo by Rosamond Burns accompaned by Mrs. W. Burns and a solo by Helen Delahaye accompanied by Olive Rowe.

Jack Todd was asked to come forward and Gordon Gunsolus read an address presenting him on behalf of the Band with a beautiful Bible, the cover being an olive wood from Mount Olivet, handsomely carved in Oriental design. Mrs. A. I. Brown spoke a few words of appreciation for the splendid work. Mrs. Todd and Jack made suitable and feeling replies.

Loreen Wellwood contributed a solo and Mrs. J. B. Nelson told a beautiful story on "The Children of Africa."

Dainty refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting by Mary Vance, Dorothy Routley, Elva Trewthey assisted by Mrs. J. B. Nelson and a social half hour spent. Olive Rowe the pianist played softly during the tea hour. Mrs. Crookshanks, Mrs. H. Gunsolus and Mrs. W. Burns were welcome guests for the occasion.

Y.W.C.A. CAMP PLANS ARE MADE

Committee Considers Activities Connected With New Venture.

A meeting of the Y. W. C. A. camp committee was held at the association yesterday afternoon, when further plans for Peterborough's new girls' camp were made.

The main item of repairs to be considered was the screening in of part of the veranda which will make the camp larger and most comfortable.

Members of the committee planned to spend a few days the second week of June getting the cottage cleaned, new curtains up, furniture painted and grounds and gardens tidied up so that everything should be ready early.

It was decided to hold an opening day the third week of June when all citizens of Peterborough will be welcome to come and inspect this delightful camp. Further announcement of this will be made later.

Registrations for camp are beginning to come in to the "Y" office and everything points to a wonderful summer for all who can attend.

Camp will open the end of June and remain open until September 3rd. Juniors are requested as far as possible to attend the first two weeks of July, the second week being special C. G. I. T. week when it is hoped Canadian Girls in Training and their leaders and Girl Guides will attend. A special program will be arranged. During the last two weeks of July and all August there will be no set program and campers will be free to plan their own programs.

NOTED WOMAN CROOK DIES

"Chicago May" Churchill, Notorious On Two Continents Twenty Years Ago.

15 YEARS IN JAIL.

PHILADELPHIA, June 1—"Chicago May" Churchill, who was known internationally for her activities in the underworlds of France, England and the United States 20 years ago, died in the Philadelphia General Hospital Thursday.

Deprived of Romance

Death deprived Chicago May of the great romance of her eventful life. On Monday last she was to have been married to Charlie Smith who participated with her in some of the crimes that made Chicago May known to police on two continents.

Instead of being married, however, she was hurried to the operating room where surgeons worked desperately through a delicate operation in an attempt to save the life of the reformed criminal.

It was rumored at the hospital that Chicago May went under the anaesthetic, firmly convinced she would never live to marry. She pleaded with surgeons to delay the operation until a minister could perform a wedding ceremony, but every minute was precious, so her plan was vetoed.

She was said to have made a will while in the hospital leaving her entire estate to Charlie.

Gained Prominence

"Chicago May" whose real name was May Churchill Sharpe, came into prominence for the part she played in the $50,000 robbery of the American Express office in Paris early this century. For her part in that crime, she was sent to a French prison, while her associate, Eddie Guerin, was taken to the penal colony at Devil's Island under a life sentence.

On her release, May chartered a yacht and arranged to pick up her former companion after he had bribed his way on a break for freedom. Guerin was successful and one of the few men who ever left the island while under sentence.

After her return to Europe, she was linked with a number of robberies. In London, she met Charlie Smith, whose real name is Robert Considine. They liked each other and Guerin threatened to mar May's beauty in revenge. Considine shot Guerin, whereupon "Chicago May" and Considine were convicted for the attempted assassination of Guerin.

On her release from prison in England, May announced she had reformed and came to the United States. She wrote the story of her life which told of her 15 years in prison and the events that led to her being there. Eventually Considine was released from prison and was reunited with "Chicago May".

YOUNG PEOPLE HOLD BANQUET

Final Meeting of Young People's Association of George Street Church.

ENTERTAINING PROGRAM.

The Young People's Association of George Street United Church held a very jolly meeting on Tuesday, this being the concluding gathering of the season. At 6:30, one hundred of the young people of the congregation gathered around the supper tables, arranged in the Sunday School Auditorium. They were very attractively decorated, in mauve and yellow with daffodils and mauve tupiips in a silver baskel and yellow candles. Rev. J. E. Todd, Mrs. Todd and "Bill" were the guests of honor.

The Pres. 'ent, Homer Borland acted as chairman and toastmaster and proposed a toast to the King, which was responded to by singing "God Save the King."

A toast to "Our Church" was proposed by Esther Thornton and responded to by Rev. J. E. Todd.

A toast to U. Y. P. A. proposed by J. B. Nelson was responded to by Guelder Rosenburgh.

A splendid address to the Todd family was read by Homer Borland and all joined in singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows."

Musa Cox presided at the piano for community singing and played during the supper hour. A reading was given by Miss Irene Cox and a solo by Miss Annie Dixon.

After a short intermission a business meeting was held followed by a sing-song. Two humorous skits were put on which caused a great deal of merriment entitled "An Old Fashioned Girl," "Having a Tooth Pulled." A number of interesting games followed concluding the program.

SPECIAL SERVICES MILLBROOK CHURCH

F. J. Sharpe, General Secretary of Big Brotherhood Movement to Give Addresses.

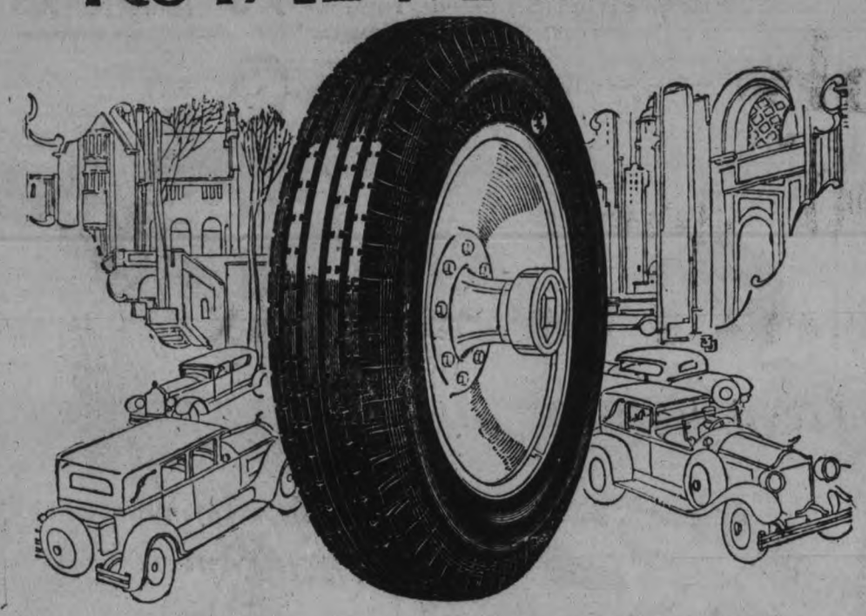
(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, June 1. — A special day is being arranged for in the United Church on Sunday June 16, by the Men's Bible Class, when morning worship will be withdrawn and two services held, the first at 2 p.m. and in the evening at 7 o'clock. The speaker at both these services will be F. J. Sharpe, general secretary of the Big Brotherhood Movement, Toronto. His topic in the afternoon will be "The Unseen Things of Life," and at night, "Service," based upon the 12th Chapter of Romans.

Special music will include solos by Douglas Carlisle, of Peterborough, and the orchestra from the Sunday school of the George street United church, Peterborough, the male quartette, and other members of the choir of the local church will also assist with the musical part of the services.

It is expected that this Sunday, June 16, will mark an occasion of unusual interest and spiritual significance in the local church, and that capacity congregations will gather for both services. A cordial invitation is extended to the general public to attened. This is the second occasion when the Men's Organized Bible Class has sponsored a Sunday service, the teacher, Mr. Gould, and the orchestra of the Men's Class of the Uxbridge United Church, being the speaker and supplying the music, when the initial effort of this kind was made. The very large congregation which gather- and the many expressoins of appreciation heard on all sides, showed how worthwhile the service proved to be.

The ROYAL MASTER



"THE GREATEST TIRE THE WORLD HAS EVER KNOWN"

FOR many months Royal Masters have been quietly going out to motorists all over the country. Without publicity of any kind, except word of mouth recommendation by actual users, the demand for Royal Masters has steadily increased.

It is the greatest tire the world has ever known, say motorists. It will outwear any other tire.

It is trouble-free — we have never heard of one blowing out. It tracks true, steers easy. And it wears — nobody yet knows how long.

In planning this tire, Dominion Tire builders have built the Royal Master as well as it is possible to make a tire.

The massive tread of the Royal Master is double-thick — cured by a new slow process.

The carcass is built with extra plies of Web Cord, made without cross-threads, it is held together by pure rubber (latex).

This crest appears in gold on every Royal Master Tire

The Royal Master is oversize. Or, rather, it is the right size for real tire economy. Sidewalls are guarded against scuffing. Traction is made even more sure in the deeply-cut pattern of the tread.

Not one Royal Master in a thousand will ever puncture

Not one in five thousand will blow out under two years of service

You are never far away from a

Reduce the Acid

In sick stomachs—instantly

Sick stomachs, sour stomachs and indigestion usually mean excess acid. The stomach nerves are over-stimulated. Too much acid makes the stomach and intestines sour.

Alkali kills acid instantly. The best form is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, because one harmless, tasteless dose neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Since its invention, 50 years ago, it has remained the standard with physicians everywhere.

Take a spoonful in water and your unhappy condition will probably end in five minutes. Then you will always know what to do. Crude and harmful methods will never appeal to you. Go prove this for your own sake. It may save a great many disagreeable hours.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any druggist.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE WEEKLY COLUMN

A goodly thing it is to meet
In Friendship's circle bright,
Where nothing stains the pleasure sweet,
Or dims the radiant light.
No unkind word our lips shall pass,
No envy sour the mind,
But each shall seek the common weal,
The good of all mankind.

AT MILLBROOK

"Much of the important history of our province is locked up in the history of the farms of Ontario, and through the medium of the wives and daughters of the farmers we hope to secure the information desired", says Miss Applebe of Georgetown who has charge of the important task of gathering the information regarding pioneer days, in conjunction with the Historical Research and Current Events Committees, this being an activity undertaken under Institute auspices, and under way now for some time.

Every branch is asked to add its quota of information of pioneer families, homesteads, etc., in its particular community, the appointment of a local secretary to gather this material together and send it on to Toronto being a practical suggestion which has been carried out successfully in some Institutes, but has not as yet been generally adopted.

"Be sure of your facts", is Miss Appelbe's advice, "before you pass them on; I am compelled to the conclusion that General Brock must have been a very heavy man for I have come across no less than twelve 'grandfathers' who claim to have carried him off the battlefield. A good time to gather this pioneer information is when a family is celebrating the centennial of its farm, or when a family reunion is being held, with four or five generations represented among the guests."

The Institute of today which does not have its committees on Child Welfare, Health, and Home Economics, is considered well behind the times, and behind its privileges also. Addresses on milk, with its cares and dangers, were an important feature of a recent convention, the fact being stated that, according to medical reports, more children in the country suffer from malnutrition because of a lack of milk, eggs, fruit, and vegetables in the diet, than do city children. This was considered as a blot on the efficiency of the Institutes, which statistics prove do flourish more effectively in rural than in urban communities.

"Study pre-school age feeding, and the pamphlet, "Feeding the family," was the way one speaker put it, "and do not fail to note that the 'passing of pills and powders' is a feature of the present day, while the cultivation of health through proper diet is rapidly coming into the practical prominence which it deserves."

When the question of the appointment of a school nurse came up in one district the objection was made that 'there would not be enough for her to do. "Have you ever heard of the farmers of a district refusing the services of an agricultural representative because they feared there would not be enough for him to do?" asked Dr. Margaret Patterson, going on to say: "The high percentage of maternal mortality is due largely to the lack of pre-natal care of the mother; demand a school nurse and realize that she is a necessity—a vital one. Give her a welcome, and make her feel like a member of your big Institute family, as well as having a place in the individual family life. Don't be foolish enough to imagine that there will not be plenty to keep her busy, and it will be but a short time before you will all known of a certainty her usefulness and real value."

AT WARSAW

A good many Institute members do not yet understand what good the Federated Woman's Institute is, nor what is the use of sending the fifteen cents per paid member.

The branch Institute may be compared to the township council. It may manage its own little affairs, but has nothing to do with anything outside. The District Institute is like the county council, and manages affairs within the district. The Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario is the central Provincial organization of all the Branch Institutes, and may be likened unto the Provincial parliament. The purposes of the Federation are to co-ordinate or bring together, the efforts and further the plans of all the local institutes, to the best interests of the individual, the home, and the community. They also represent the sentiments of the local branches in all matters of Provincial or National importance within the scope of Institute work and responsibility. Also they co-operate with the Department of Agriculture and other departments of the government in work on educational and social lines for the improvement of National life.

We could not all go to parliament, but the Institute membership of Ontario is a force, a great force for good, and through the members of the Federated board, who are chosen from the District representatives in turn, and these representatives are chosen at the annual District meetings. All District representatives are not on the Board of seventeen members, but it goes in turn to the different counties. Mrs. Thomas Cooper was the representative for this Division for two years.

Any matter of general interest must go through the Federation representative. Matters are discussed at the board. It is not a piece of complicated machinery. It is simply making use of one, who represents us instead of all, and that one is elected through our representatives. This being the case, it is necessary that all delegates be chosen because of their interests in the branch, and in the county at large.

Social and National interests are never of such a nature that the home is affected by all national conditions. We cannot get away from it. Therefore it behooves us to look after our own doorstep and also after the national one.

The fifteen cents goes to help pay necessary expenses. It must be in by the time of the District Annual, or it may be paid on that day. Any branch not paying it, naturally is not a member of the confederation, and cannot have a vote on the representative. The delegates appointed by the branches do have a vote on everything else, without paying the Federation dues.

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG,
That old and antique song we heard, last night.

SONG FOR A LITTLE HOUSE.

I'm glad our house is a little house—
Not too tall, nor too wide;
I'm glad the hovering butterflies
Feel free to come inside.

Our little house is a friendly house;
It is not shy or vain;
It gossips with the talking trees,
And makes friends with the rain.

And quick leaves cast a shimmer of green
Against our whited walls,
And in the phlox the courteous bees
Are paying duty calls.

LITTLE SONGS OF LOVE

DO I LOVE YOU?
(Contributed by "Red Wing")

When winds cease playing over the sea,
When trees cast no shadow at dawn,
Then you will know that I no longer care,
Then you will know I am gone.

Only when sons die with echoes in dust
And snows fall from skies that are fair,
Then you will know, and only then,
That, somehow, I no longer care.

IN WOMAN'S REALM.

By JEANETTE.

"Peeping out the door to see
If spring would only smile at me,
A Dandelion said: 'Don't fret
Because the season's backward, pet,
It may be bleak and damp and cold,
But here am I—a bit of gold'!"

—Margaret Clarke Russell.

Women who live in a more fortunate time, in days when electric contrivances of all types make work light in the richer homes and where even the poorest are able to afford gas stoves, might well ponder on the comparison between old times in this community and the present more luxurious days.

The history of the Town of Peterborough which was published by Dr. Poole in 1867 gives some idea of the manner of life of women of an earlier time. He says, in one portion of his work, alluding to customs of the period of 1832 and subsequent years:

"The female reader would like to know how they (the early settlers) baked their bread. A portion of the trunk of a basswood tree, about three feet long and two feet in diameter, was split in two halves through the centre. One of these was hollowed out as smoothly as possible, to be used as a kneading trough. About three pounds of flour, with water enough to wet it thoroughly, was put into this, and well kneaded. It was then flattened out and placed in a round long-handled pan, the front of which was held before the fire by means of a string attached to the end of the handle; while live coals were placed beneath and behind it. Before the completion of the shanty, wet weather came on, which materially affected this process. It was then found preferable to roll up the wet flour in lumps, about the size of a potato. These were put in holes scraped in the hot ashes, and covered also with hot ashes and then coals, so as to cause them to bake without being burned. This was found more palatable than that baked in the pan in the absence of butter was highly esteemed."

The description of the making of the first shelters for the immigrants is also very interesting:

"At length, the shanty was completed. The roof consisted of a double row of basswood troughs, familiar enough to most of our readers, but puzzling perhaps to a foreigner. To make them, the trunk of a basswood tree, cut to the proper length, (perhaps fourteen or sixteen feet) is split in two halves, as nearly equal as possible. These are then hollowed out the entire length; and when a sufficient number are ready, they are placed in position. The first row is placed side by side with the concavity uppermost. The second is then turned down over the proximate edges of two of the first, thus forming a roof impervious to water. The front wall is usually a few feet higher than that in the rear for obvious reasons.

"The roof being completed, flat stones were introduced for a hearth, and were also placed on edge against the wall to protect the green timber from the action of the fire. Such was the fire-place. During the summer months, no chimney was erected,—the smoke being allowed to find an outlet through the crevices in the unplastered walls, as best it could. A bed was constructed by driving small poles of a proper length into the wall, at a proper height, the outer ends being supported by perpendicular posts. Small saplings were then stretched from one one of these horizontal supports to the other, on which were placed boughs of hemlock and cedar, as a substitute for straw. At night, the stars were visible through the crevices of the shanty; in the morning the birds sang sweetly in the adjacent trees, and though their couch was hard and their fare simple, fatigued by labor and invigorated by the air and novelty of their situation, they slept soundly, and rose betimes to renew their labor. There, in the depths of the forest, they were provided with no gun or weapon of defence. Bears were not unfrequently tracked, and the howling of the wolves by night was so frequent as to become familiar. Doubtless the smell of meat attracted these hungry and ferocious brutes, but the human invaders of their solitary domain remained unmolested."

One of the early residents of Douro speaks of the first night spent in their new home:

"We found our house in a very unfinished state; the door had not been hung, nor were any partitions made. A large opening was left in the roof, where the chimney was to have gone up, but the intense frost had stopped the mason-work, when about half completed. Finding this rather cooled us, and we felt puzzled where to lay our sleeping children, as the floor was covered with a thick coating of ice and mortar. However we soon discovered some shavings left by the shingle-makers, which we spread on the ice, and their laid on our mattresses, and on these made a temporary "shake-down," on which we cheerfully laid down, after a supper of tea, bread, butter and pork. Being very weary, we slept soundly; but in the morning, on looking up, I saw the stars through the aperture left for the chimney."

Over-work taxed her health!

IN the "teen-age" years, when school or office work is exacting and outside activities use up so much energy, many girls undermine their health and spoil their happiness for years to come.

At such a time, by enriching and purifying the blood, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up the worn nerve cells and correct run-down conditions. This was the personal experience of Miss Margaret Torrey, 716 Indian Road, Toronto, who says: "When I was attending High School, I suffered a complete breakdown. I lay awake nearly all night. My heart would palpitate at the least exertion and nothing I ate agreed with me. I started taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. When I had taken several boxes, I was ready for anything; had gained in weight, and every distressing symptom had left."

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE WEEKLY COLUMN

A goodly thing it is to meet
In Friendship's circle bright,
Where nothing stains the pleasure sweet,
Or dims the radiant light.
No unkind word our lips shall pass,
No envy sour the mind,
But each shall seek the common weal,
The good of all mankind.

AT MILLBROOK

"Much of the important history of our province is locked up in the history of the farms of Ontario, and through the medium of the wives and daughters of the farmers we hope to secure the information desired", says Miss Applebe of Georgetown who has charge of the important task of gathering the information regarding pioneer days, in conjunction with the Historical Research and Current Events Committees, this being an activity undertaken under Institute auspices, and under way now for some time.

Every branch is asked to add its quota of information of pioneer families, homesteads, etc., in its particular community, the appointment of a local secretary to gather this material together and send it on to Toronto being a practical suggestion which has been carried out successfully in some Institutes, but has not as yet been generally adopted.

"Be sure of your facts", is Miss Appelbe's advice, "before you pass them on; I am compelled to the conclusion that General Brock must have been a very heavy man for I have come across no less than twelve 'grandfathers' who claim to have carried him off the battlefield. A good time to gather this pioneer information is when a family is celebrating the centennial of its farm, or when a family reunion is being held, with four or five generations represented among the guests."

The Institute of today which does not have its committees on Child Welfare, Health, and Home Economics, is considered well behind the times, and behind its privileges also. Addresses on milk, with its cares and dangers, were an important feature of a recent convention, the fact being stated that, according to medical reports, more children in the country suffer from malnutrition because of a lack of milk, eggs, fruit, and vegetables in the diet, than do city children. This was considered as a blot on the efficiency of the Institutes, which statistics prove do flourish more effectively in rural than in urban communities.

"Study pre-school age feeding, and the pamphlet, "Feeding the family," was the way one speaker put it, "and do not fail to note that the 'passing of pills and powders' is a feature of the present day, while the cultivation of health through proper diet is rapidly coming into the practical prominence which it deserves."

When the question of the appointment of a school nurse came up in one district the objection was made that 'there would not be enough for her to do. "Have you ever heard of the farmers of a district refusing the services of an agricultural representative because they feared there would not be enough for him to do?" asked Dr. Margaret Patterson, going on to say: "The high percentage of maternal mortality is due largely to the lack of pre-natal care of the mother; demand a school nurse and realize that she is a necessity—a vital one. Give her a welcome, and make her feel like a member of your big Institute family, as well as having a place in the individual family life. Don't be foolish enough to imagine that there will not be plenty to keep her busy, and it will be but a short time before you will all known of a certainty her usefulness and real value."

AT WARSAW

A good many Institute members do not yet understand what good the Federated Woman's Institute is, nor what is the use of sending the fifteen cents per paid member.

The branch Institute may be compared to the township council. It may manage its own little affairs, but has nothing to do with anything outside. The District Institute is like the county council, and manages affairs within the district. The Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario is the central Provincial organization of all the Branch Institutes, and may be likened unto the Provincial parliament. The purposes of the Federation are to co-ordinate or bring together, the efforts and further the plans of all the local institutes, to the best interests of the individual, the home, and the community. They also represent the sentiments of the local branches in all matters of Provincial or National importance within the scope of Institute work and responsibility. Also they co-operate with the Department of Agriculture and other departments of the government in work on educational and social lines for the improvement of National life.

We could not all go to parliament, but the Institute membership of Ontario is a force, a great force for good, and through the members of the Federated board, who are chosen from the District representatives in turn, and these representatives are chosen at the annual District meetings. All District representatives are not on the Board of seventeen members, but it goes in turn to the different counties. Mrs. Thomas Cooper was the representative for this Division for two years.

Any matter of general interest must go through the Federation representative. Matters are discussed at the board. It is not a piece of complicated machinery. It is simply making use of one, who represents us instead of all, and that one is elected through our representatives. This being the case, it is necessary that all delegates be chosen because of their interests in the branch, and in the county at large.

Social and National interests are never of such a nature that the home is affected by all national conditions. We cannot get away from it. Therefore it behooves us to look after our own doorstep and also after the national one.

The fifteen cents goes to help pay necessary expenses. It must be in by the time of the District Annual, or it may be paid on that day. Any branch not paying it, naturally is not a member of the confederation, and cannot have a vote on the representative. The delegates appointed by the branches do have a vote on everything else, without paying the Federation dues.

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG,
That old and antique song we heard, last night.

SONG FOR A LITTLE HOUSE.

I'm glad our house is a little house—
Not too tall, nor too wide;
I'm glad the hovering butterflies
Feel free to come inside.

Our little house is a friendly house;
It is not shy or vain;
It gossips with the talking trees,
And makes friends with the rain.

And quick leaves cast a shimmer of green
Against our whited walls,
And in the phlox the courteous bees
Are paying duty calls.

—Christopher Morley.

LITTLE SONGS OF LOVE

DO I LOVE YOU?
(Contributed by "Red Wing")

When winds cease playing over the sea,
When trees cast no shadow at dawn,
Then you will know that I no longer care,
Then you will know I am gone.

Only when sons die with echoes in dust
And snows fall from skies that are fair,
Then you will know, and only then,
That, somehow, I no longer care.

IN WOMAN'S REALM.

By JEANETTE.

"Peeping out the door to see
If spring would only smile at me,
A Dandelion said: 'Don't fret
Because the season's backward, pet,
It may be bleak and damp and cold,
But here am I—a bit of gold'!"
—Margaret Clarke Russell.

Women who live in a more fortunate time, in days when electric contrivances of all types make work light in the richer homes and where even the poorest are able to afford gas stoves, might well ponder on the comparison between old times in this community and the present more luxurious days.

The history of the Town of Peterborough which was published by Dr. Poole in 1867 gives some idea of the manner of life of women of an earlier time. He says, in one portion of his work, alluding to customs of the period of 1832 and subsequent years:

"The female reader would like to know how they (the early settlers) baked their bread. A portion of the trunk of a basswood tree, about three feet long and two feet in diameter, was split in two halves through the centre. One of these was hollowed out as smoothly as possible, to be used as a kneading trough. About three pounds of flour, with water enough to wet it thoroughly, was put into this, and well kneaded. It was then flattened out and placed in a round long-handled pan, the front of which was held before the fire by means of a string attached to the end of the handle; while live coals were placed beneath and behind it. Before the completion of the shanty, wet weather came on, which materially affected this process. It was then found preferable to roll up the wet flour in lumps, about the size of a potato. These were put in holes scraped in the hot ashes, and covered also with hot ashes and then coals, so as to cause them to bake without being burned. This was found more palatable than that baked in the pan in the absence of butter was highly esteemed."

The description of the making of the first shelters for the immigrants is also very interesting:

"At length, the shanty was completed. The roof consisted of a double row of basswood troughs, familiar enough to most of our readers, but puzzling perhaps to a foreigner. To make them, the trunk of a basswood tree, cut to the proper length, (perhaps fourteen or sixteen feet) is split in two halves, as nearly equal as possible. These are then hollowed out the entire length; and when a sufficient number are ready, they are placed in position. The first row is placed side by side with the concavity uppermost. The second is then turned down over the proximate edges of two of the first, thus forming a roof impervious to water. The front wall is usually a few feet higher than that in the rear for obvious reasons.

"The roof being completed, flat stones were introduced for a hearth, and were also placed on edge against the wall to protect the green timber from the action of the fire. Such was the fire-place. During the summer months, no chimney was erected,—the smoke being allowed to find an outlet through the crevices in the unplastered walls, as best it could. A bed was constructed by driving small poles of a proper length into the wall, at a proper height, the outer ends being supported by perpendicular posts. Small saplings were then stretched from one one of these horizontal supports to the other, on which were placed boughs of hemlock and cedar, as a substitute for straw. At night, the stars were visible through the crevices of the shanty; in the morning the birds sang sweetly in the adjacent trees, and though their couch was hard and their fare simple, fatigued by labor and invigorated by the air and novelty of their situation, they slept soundly, and rose betimes to renew their labor. There, in the depths of the forest, they were provided with no gun or weapon of defence. Bears were not unfrequently tracked, and the howling of the wolves by night was so frequent as to become familiar. Doubtless the smell of meat attracted these hungry and ferocious brutes, but the human invaders of their solitary domain remained unmolested."

One of the early residents of Douro speaks of the first night spent in their new home:

"We found our house in a very unfinished state; the door had not been hung, nor were any partitions made. A large opening was left in the roof, where the chimney was to have gone up, but the intense frost had stopped the mason-work, when about half completed. Finding this rather cooled us, and we felt puzzled where to lay our sleeping children, as the floor was covered with a thick coating of ice and mortar. The pretty rooms were decorated with large bowls of purple lilacs and dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Liddle at the conclusion of the evening. Miss Prest, who is a pupil of Mr. Liddle, played a difficult program entirely from memory and with a charming style. An attractive type of interpretations, a brilliant, smooth tone and an easy, fluent execution combined to make her music pleasing in the extreme. Her numbers included exacting things of contrasting type, in Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata," J. S. Bach's Prelude and Fugue in G Major, Mozkowski's 'Scherzo Valse' and "Serenata," Cyril Scott's "Danse Chromatique" and Edouard Scutt's "La Bien Amie." Mrs. Liddle's finely-toned contralto voice was very pleasing in the dainty song, "The Toy Balloon. Miss Nellie Boorman, who has a style in elocution that is quite distinctive and gives her hearers a graphic picture of the types delineated, recited 'In the Usual Way' and "The Smith Family Goes to Church," and little Diana Liddle was a fetching small entertainer, who captivated the amused attention of her audience with her whimsical singing of "The Little Chink" and "The Cat and the Mouse."

The Mirror of the Mode

By Mary Marshall

Pale green dotted net is used for this warm weather negligee worn with a green satin belt.

There are lounging pyjamas which may be worn on the beach.

There are one-piece negligees with flowing lines that are suitable for informal afternoon and evening wear at home.

Hostess gowns—that one may wear at home for all but the most formal occasions.

Tea gowns with loose jackets of lace or chiffon that one can wear for late afternoon and dinner at home.

There are sleeveless negligees of georgette or chiffon for wear in the warmest weather with short capes or jackets that give them just a bit more substance and warmth.

Lace, printed and plain chiffon, flat crepe, georgette are the favorite materials for negligees this season. Dotted net was chosen for the light green negligee shown in the sketch.

It is increasingly difficult to give a really definite definition of the sort of costume that we may correctly speak of as a negligee, since they appear in the form of pyjamas, of jacket ensembles, of short-skirted one-piece frocks, of draped gowns , of long coats. The two essentials seem to be that the garment whatever it is, should be comfortable and for summer wear light and airy and that it should be made so that it may be slipped on with utmost ease. For this reason the sleeves when present are usually of the flowing sort.

A Column for Little Bits of Everything of Interest to Women Readers

JUDGING by the great number of requests for helps and patterns now being received, Peterborough housewives are very busily engaged in sewing.

* * *

Sewing is a pleasant task when one is not being constantly interrupted, but when one has to leave it every few minutes, to do some other work, then it becomes wearisome.

* * *

It often happens that when girls are being taught to sew, enough emphasis is not placed on basting, which really seems important.

* * *

Many girls are not taught that when one begins this work the first stitch should be secured by means of a large knot. I wonder how many housewifes put the knot on the right or wrong side of the material.

* * *

Most people think it should be placed on the right side of the material. In doing it this way, there seems to be the advantage in that it can be cut away before removing the bastings.

* * *

Then when you have finished basting, how do you fasten the end? I have seen many women who do not fasten it in any way. A long thread is merely left at the end.

* * *

It has happened when this has been done, that the thread was pulled in error when the dressmaker mistook it for a loose thread. This caused much inconvenience and perhaps loss of time.

* * *

I think perhaps the better way would be to secure the end of the basting by taking two or three small stitches on top of each other, and cut off any thread left over. Do not have a long thread at the end of the basting.

* * *

Fairly fine smooth thread should be used when basting, and silk thread is preferable for basting delicate materials such as chiffons, which seem to be very popular in Peterborough at this season.

* * *

Any color of thread does for basting, although one would not want to use black thread when basting white material. Then if you are an economical housewife, and I know there are many of them in Peterborough, you will save these basting threads to use again.

* * *

Many dressmakers find that it is much better to use tailors' tacks instead of chalk when marking perforations and other indications on the pattern.

* * *

Have you ever tried having ready needles threaded with different colored threads and then one set of perforations may all be taken in one color.

* * *

A very large number of patterns now being offered call for pleats so that the use of different colored threads for this purpose is very useful.

* * *

In making pleats the perforation marking the fold of the pleats may be in one color while the mark indicating the line to which the plate is to be folded may be in another.

* * *

Should you be working on closely woven material, you will see the advantage in using a fine needle when basting.

* * *

Would you like to make a baby gown, kimono and shirt for some little child? This week's help gives instructions for making these and I am sure you will find them easy to make.

* * *

The gown may be used for a sleeping garment too, should you desire to make a garment like this. For your copy of this help, fill in the coupon which you will find on this page and enclose with it a two cent stamp.

* * *

It is no wonder that children dislike going to school on such warm days as we have been having in Peterborough lately. One certainly does not feel like working.

* * *

I believe I would agree with them that a hike into the country would be much nicer. There one can sit down in the shade of some trees and enjoy the sweet fresh air.

* * *

Then, too, one finds the woods filled with lovely wild flowers which seem so cool as they move back and forth with the warm breeze as it blows through the woods.

* * *

The country may not be a very pleasant place in which to live in winter, but to live in the country in the summer more than makes up for this.

* * *

As one passes along the road, he is at once attracted to the pretty blue violets that grow along the wayside. These are really wonderful flowers and are worth admiring.

* * *

Here is what L. E. Landon says about these lovely little flowers:

Violets!—deep blue violets!
April's loveliest coronets!
There are no flowers grow in the vale,
Kiss'd by the dew, woo'd by the gale,—
None by the dew of the twilight wet,
So sweet as the deep-blue violet.

* * *

This year the weather has been backward and the violets are now at their best. The swamps are blue with them, but this lowly little flower, although it may be common, is admired by everybody.

* * *

Marsh marigolds are pretty, too, aren't they, but generally we find them in swamps and surrounded by water so that they are out of the reach of those who would like to pick them.

* * *

And in yonder marshes burns
The fiery-flaming marigold.

Dora Read Goodale.

* * *

As you walk along and are really observant, you will not miss the little wild strawberry flower now in bloom, along sunny slopes. These little flowers are especially noticeable along a railroad track.

* * *

Perhaps you would like the fruit much more than the flowers, which, of course, should not be pulled for bouquets, but allowed to mature.

* * *

When the fields are sweet with clover,
And the woods are glad with song,
When the brooks are running over,
And the days are bright and long,
Then, from every nook and bower,
Peeps the dainty strawberry flower.

Dora Read Goodale.

* * *

There are scores and scores of wild flowers out in bloom at this season of the year and they all have some particular beauty of their own.

* * *

There are the snow white trilliums and the brilliant red ones; the Bellwort, yellow violets, blue violets, marsh marigolds, Dog's Tooth Violets, Bloodroot and many others.

* * *

Wouldn't it be nice to have a wild flower garden in which you could plant wild flowers? Of course you would have to have some shady place where the soil is moist.

* * *

You could go out to the woods and get a few roots of each kind of flower as it bloomed and then the next year you would have a garden which would be very attractive and a garden where flowers would be blooming all summer.

That Body of Yours

(By Jas. W. Barton, M.D.)

WARM WEATHER EATING.

It is rather a good sign as the warm weather comes along, to see folks turning naturally to salads and fruits and cutting out, or at least cutting down, on oatmeal, butter, fats, pork, puddings, and so forth. Because after all, this eating business is really a "heating" business as fully 80 percent of what you eat is used to keep up the animal heat in your body.

In the cool weather, if you are out doors to any extent, you wear heavier clothing than in the summer because you wish to retain the heat in your body, whereas, in the warm weather you are anxious to let the heat get away from the body.

You can readily see then that if all the heat comes from the food and the surrounding air is warm, naturally this surrounding air will not absorb the heat, the heat from your body, as will cold air. The sensible thing to do then, is to cut down on your fuel or food intake and thus your body will create less heat.

In a general way the suggestion would be that you cut down on the entire food intake 10 to 15 percent.

However, there is one point, as mentioned before, where many make a mistake.

They get outdoors more than in the cold weather, play golf, tennis, baseball or other games, or indulge in long walks.

Now salads, fruits and vegetables will supply the energy for these efforts but they are not such good foods from a repair or building standpoint.

Your body cells are best built up by proteid foods, such as meat, and eggs.

This means then that if you exercise, that meat and eggs are needed just as much as during the cool weather, because they build up the cells worn out by exercise or work.

Now the point I wish to make, and have mentioned before, is that while it is quite alright for folks who do no work or take no exercise to do without meat or eggs, it is a mistake for those who work or exercise not to take meat or eggs at least once a day.

One of the reasons that you feel weak from the heat in warm weather, is that you have not taken enough of the proteid kind of food, and your muscles and other tissues are badly in need of them. Remember then to cut down all foods 10 per cent, meat and eggs included, but not to cut down on meat and eggs if you get more exercise in summer.

YOUR HOME AND YOU

By BETSY CALLISTER

How much time do you spend looking for things that you have lost or mislaid? How often do you actually lose something?

When you find things that you have mislaid do you realize that the trouble is due to the fact that you have merely been careless, or that you have been forgetful? That is, have you simply left the object of your search lying about anywhere, have you put it away in the wrong place or have you put it carefully away and then forgotten where you put it?

Any business man would agree that in the office where valuable papers are habitually lost or mislaid there is something wrong with the system. Of course all office workers are careless or remiss occasionally. But where there is constant mislaying of papers the system is usually at fault. The best solution to the problem of loosing or mislaying things is to have it very easy to keep things in order. The same things applies to the house as to the office.

Time is lost in many households looking for keys—trunk keys when time comes to unpack things stowed away for winter or summer, or when getting ready to pack for a trip. There are some people who spend quite a bit of time every week looking for their glasses and I know of women who at least once a day mislay their purses. It is a good plan to have a special place to keep such commonplace objects as these.

Don't depend on your memory. It is the things that you value most that you are most likely to lose all because you put them in an unusual place for safe keeping and then forget where the place is. If you always have the same place to put things then it is engraven on your memory and you can lay your hand on them almost automatically.

his recovery from his illness of last winter would be postponed. The order was issued only this week.

An official announcement at noon to-day said that King George's condition was satisfactory but his progress would be tedious.

A bulletin issued by his physicians at Windsor said:

"His Majesty the king passed a good night. The abscess, so far, is following its normal course which in the nature of things must be tedious.

"We accordingly advise that the Thanksgiving service should be deferred to a later date. As His Majesty's general condition is now satisfactory there is no necessity to issue bulletins every day.

OLD FAVORITES REINSTATED IN UNITED CHURCH HYMNAL

Doom for Forty Time-Honored Tunes Averted After Nation-Wide Protests.

WALTZ RHYTHM STICKS

Still Others Are Expected to be Reinstated Before Book Goes to Press.

By JOHN HARRISON

(Special to the Examiner, Copyright)

TORONTO, June 1.—Old favorites of the hymn books which were "good enough for father" are going to be good enough for the current generation of church-goers, no matter what the ultra-modern element in the choir lofts may believe. Tentative decisions to doom forty time-honored tunes from the new hymnal of the United Church of Canada have been reversed and the melodies linger on. Protests over the eliminations were nation-wide and continuous.

The task of the committee members in charge of the work is no simple one. It is their duty to take the hymn books of the three denominations now merged in the United Church and reduce these to one volume of 700 selections which will be suitable to all factions. The uproar which greeted preliminary announcements has prompted those who are to sit in judgment to retire for a week to a small church college where their work will be unobserved and undisturbed.

Classic Remains.

The line "and lesser breeds within the law" had caused objections to be raised against Kipling's "Recessional." By the most recent verdict, the classic remains. Mr. Kipling himself will make no alteration.

"What is written," he says, "is written."

"Day is Dying in the West" was another of the numbers first slated for disappearance. It has a waltz rhythm but the demand for it is too strong to permit of its elimination. In spite of the reflection on phrase, "where only man is vile", the famous "Greenland's Icy Mountains" will now be retained in the coming publication.

Faulty theology as well as a tendency towards syncopation were among the primary reasons for rejections. Recommendations of presbyteries within the church are being made to the committee, which include both pro and con resolutions dealing with some of the compositions under dispute.

"The Man of Sorrows," a Canadian hymn by Dr. D. L. Ritchie of Montreal, is the subject of one protest because of the lines:

"Thou for us the path has trod
Of the dreadful wrath of God."

Chiefly because it includes the statement, "My God is reconciled", the selection, "Arise, My Soul, Arise" is likely to be doomed. The contention is that God does not need to be reconciled to His children but rather they to Him.

Of the forty restored favorites, 39 are in the present Methodist book of praise and 26 are in the Presbyterian volume. Still others, it is expected will be re-instated before the process of selection is finished.

MADE HER BABY PLUMP AND WELL

Nothing makes a mother more grateful than a benefit conferred upon her child. Mothers everywhere who have used Baby's Own Tablets for their children speak in enthusiastic terms of them. For instance, Mrs. Zepherin Lavole, Three Rivers, Que., writes:—"Baby's Own Tablets are a wonderful medicine for little ones. They never fail to regulate the baby's stomach and bowels and make him plump and well. I always keep a box of the Tablets in the house and would advise all mothers to do likewise." Most of the ordinary ailments of childhood arise in the stomach and bowels, and can be quickly banished by Baby's Own Tablets. These Tablets relieve constipation and indigestion, break up colds and simple fevers, expel worms, allay teething pains and promote healthful sleep. They are guaranteed to be free from injurious drugs and are safe even for the youngest and most delicate child. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Crescents Take Early Lead to Defeat Hastings

Visitors Lose Out 7 to 6

Rally in Last Inning But Fail To Put Across the Winning Run.

LACK PRACTICE.

Ernie Holmes Twirls Nice Ball Until the Final Frame.

Rallying in the last innings to score five runs Hastings went down to defeat because of the early lead that the Crescents had piled up in a twilight game in the East Peterborough League played at Exhibition Park yesterday. The boys from Down-East were never in the hunt until they chased those five counters across the plate as darkness descended on the field. They had two runners on also when the side was retired and were dangerously close to tieing the score.

Both teams showed lack of practise, being especially weak at the bat in the first three frames. This gave the pitchers a big opportunity to show their form, and they retired many via the strike-out route. Ernie Holmes, last year with the Royals, twirled nice ball until the last innings when Hastings touched him for five hits. Holmes had nine strike-outs and he had good control, promising to be a stumbling block to batters when he works up a little more steam and staying power. Lloyd Scriver did the hurling for Hastings and he was a world of steam, striking out eleven. He was wild at times and issued four walks. Three of his free tickets proved costly, aiding greatly in giving Crescents their five runs in the fourth.

No Scores Till Third.

The game was free of any sensational work in the field or at the bat. Crescents played steady ball, but Hastings' defence was woefully weak at times. They were not called upon to handle many, but they succeeded in mussing up three.

Nothing was down in the first two innings, the pitchers mostly retiring every batter on strike-outs or allowing them soft rollers in the infield. In the last half of the third the first run was scored, Crescents doing it. Williams was safe on a hit and he was safe at second when Holmes was out at first, and Jim McCarthy neglected to touch Williams at second on an attempted double play. He scored on a hit by Jack LeBarr, who got around to third and was out coming home on Heard's roller.

In the fourth Crescents batted all around and nabbed five runs, on one hit, three errors, and three walks. Hastings had their first opportunity to score in the fifth when with two out Rennick was safe at first when Lou LeBarr failed to touch the bag, stealing second he was safe at third on Hay's clout, but Gene McCarthy fanned. Crescents did nothing in their half of the fifth.

Hastings Go Into Action.

In the sixth Hastings scored their first run. Mike McCarthy was hit by the pitcher and he stole second, coming in when Williams dropped Lloyd Scriver's fly to right field. Crescents made their total seven in their half. Jack LeBarr got a clean hit and he stole second and third, coming home on a pass ball by the catcher.

It was in the seventh that Hastings cut loose. Nelson Scriver first up clouted a hit and the good work was continued by Rennick and Hay. Scriver scoring on Hay's drive. Gene and Mike McCarthy then struck out. Jim McCarthy drew a walk, loading the bases. The runways were cleaned on Stevenson's brawny two-bagger, and Stevenson scored on Lloyd Scriver's hit. Harrington also hit and with two men on it looked as though Hastings would equalize the score, but Nelson Scriver's hot drive was spiked by Heard, who tossed him out at first, and the game was over.

Leafs Drop Last Game of Series

12TH HOMER FOR COLLINS DECIDES WIN

Home Runs Feature Rochester's 12-11 Victory Over Toronto.

BISONS IN CELLAR.

Orioles Swamp Four Reading Hurlers To Take 14-9 Decision.

ROCHESTER, June 1 (Canadian Press). — Jimmy "Rip" Collins and Watty Watkins combined to boost their home-run marks for this season and to give the Red Wings a 12-11 win yesterday afternoon over the Toronto Leafs in the final game of the series.

The victory finally was hung on the right side of the ledger when Collins smacked Jess Doyle's second pitch of the 15th inning over the right field fence far down toward centre field.

It was Collins' 12th homer of the campaign and came with darkness threatening to end the game if the Wings did not count.

BISONS IN CELLAR.

BUFFALO, June 1 (Canadian Press). — The Buffalo Bisons suffered their sixth straight reverse and took a header into last place when the Montreal Royals battered their way to a 9 to 7 victory in the final game of the series and registered a sweep in four games.

The Royals bludgeoned Faulkner and Williams for 18 hits on top of 2 gathered on Thursday. Urbanski was the big shot for the Royals on attack, slapping a home run, double and two singles to drive in four of his team's runs.

EVEN BREAK IN SERIES.

READING, June 1 (Canadian Press). — Baltimore swamped four Reading hurlers for a 14 to 9 decision in the final game of the series here yesterday. The victory gave the Orioles an even split.

Reading found Vic Keen for 11 hits but couldn't overcome a nine-run advantage the Flock amassed in the initial three cantos.

TAKE FINAL GAME.

NEWARK, June 1 (Canadian Press). — Jersey City gained an even break in the series with the Newark Bears by taking the final game of the series here yesterday by 7 to 4.

Jimmy Walsh's homer with one on in the third inning decided the issue. Wrightstone later hit for the circuit for the Bears with the bases empty.

Athletics Club Tigers To Take 9-6 Decision

PHILADELPHIA, June 1 (Canadian Press). — The Athletics clubbed the Tigers into submission here yesterday to win the opening game of the east-west series by 9 to 6, the fourth successive Philadelphia victory. Jimmy Foxx hit safely in his fifteenth consecutive engagement and left no doubt about having hit. His total was a homer, a triple and a single, which drove in four runs. His homer was his ninth of the season.

U. S. Net Stars Sail For Europe Wednesday

DETROIT, Mich., June 1 (Canadian Press). — The long, arduous trail the United States net stars must travel in their Odyssey to regain the Davis Cup, emblematic of international tennis supremacy, now stretches on to Europe.

Victors in the American zone finals over Cuba without the loss of a single set in the first two singles and doubles matches, they will sail for Europe next Wednesday to battle the winners of the interzone finals there for the right to challenge France, possessor of the cherished trophy for the past two years.

Either England or Italy is expected to win the European interzone finals.

OLDFIELD STOPPED IN EIGHTH ROUND

Steve Rocco Puts English Flyweight On Floor Eight Times.

TORONTO, Ont., June 1.—(Canadian Press).—Steve Rocco, of Toronto, former Canadian flyweight champion, scored a technical knockout over Doddy Oldfield, of England, in the eighth round of their scheduled ten round bout at the Coliseum here last night. It was a clear cut victory for the Italo-Canadian boy, and only the English youngster's remarkable gameness and ability to get away from many of Rocco's devasting punches carried him as far as the eighth round.

Rocco weighed 111¼ and Oldfield 110.

Irving Peck, Syracuse, N.Y., won a clos six-round decision over Bobby Ebber, Toronto. Peck's aggressiveness plus hard overhand drives, gave him the verdict. Neither man showed any wear and tear. Ebber weighed 122 and Peck 124.

Jackie Phillips Toronto, 139¼, took a six round decision from Doug. Lewis Toronto, 150, by a wide margin in a slugfeast that drew plenty of blood. Phillips suffer a cut eye and Lewis a cut forehead. The weight handicap meant nothing to Phillips, who punished Lewis severely between boxing lessons.

Sam Hackett, Toronto, 126, won his eighth straight bout since deserting the amateur ranks by defeating Billy Martin, 124, Jamestown N. J., over the six round route.

Hughie Lees, Winnipeg, 114¼ scored a technical knockout over Phil Walters, England, 139, when the bout was stopped in the last round of KNOWS HIS BIBLE.

JANESVILLE, Wis., June 1. — In spare moments used while clerking in a grocery store here, Mark J. Goodger, of Delavan, has read the Bible through three times, counting each verse and chapter. Each time he counter, his total came out the same —1,189 chapters, 31,373 verses and 775,693 words.

CARDS REGAIN LEAGUE LEAD

Gain Top By Taking Five Victories in Three Days Over Reds.

PIRATES LOSE OUT 10-7.

ST. LOUIS, June 1 (Canadian Press). — The St. Louis Cardinals regained the leadership of the National League by taking five victories in three days over the Cincinnati Reds. They won the final yesterday, 8 to 1, while the Pittsburg Pirates were losing to the Philadelphia Nationals.

The Cards bunched hits off May in the first three innings, and knocked him out of the box. Kemner, who relieved May, allowed only one hit and struck out six men.

PIRATES TAKE A FALL.

PITTSBURG, June 1 (Canadian Press). — Philadelphia jolted Pittsburg in the opening game of a series here yesterday, 10 to 7, and the defeat dislodged the Buccaneers from the league leadership.

The punch of the visitors was much in evidence, Klein and O'Doul leading the attack with home run smashes into the right field stands.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Since my last, Mac, our sr. ball team has made 2 trips away from home and has broke even, which is a good enough start, especially since they pulled their win over the Belleville Nationals. Victoria Day the lads journeyed over to Oshawa, and a coupla unlucky brakes in the 1st frame just naturally ruined the ball game. The boys from the big horseless carriage plant scored 5 soft markers in that opening inning, and although Mister Swanston's lads outplayed them for the rest of the piece, the harm had been did. The Motorists didn't look like TNT or anything like that, and the home talent oughta to get that game back before long.

Over to Belleville Wed., it was something else again, and the boys just opened up a lead the 1st time at bat and coasted in front all the way through. 7 times since the league opened a year ago has the Petes tangled up with Belleville, and 5 times the last frame has found our lads holding the big end of the score, which, considering Belleville is the provincial champs and not another team in the whole country governed by Howie Ferguson has been able to win a serious from the Gerow men, must be put down as mighty smart going, what I mean.

Mister Swanston give his young players plenty of chance in this game, and the whole team played nice ball against Mister Mills and Co. Young Mister Hollingsworth at short and young Mister Sweetman, who has been getting his education, baseball and otherwise at Georgetown University, at 3rd base should shake down into a real effective combination over on that side of the diamond, while they ain't nothing to worry about on the other side. As for the outfield, you only had to listen to the disgusted yelps of Mister Peeney Mills down there Wed. to realize that the Petes' gardeners will do with plenty to spare. Mister Mills harbors the uncalled for suspicion that the Petes' outfielders save all their spectacular stuff to use against Belleville, and every time they pull off a neat bit of work the National backstop's groans shake the grandstand. When Mister Fred. Ash tore in Wed. and speared a liner off the grass tops with 1 hand and turned a somersault to come up with the ball it looked for a while as if Mister Mills would need the services of a doctor. Peeney has never forgive Mister Ash for the near home run that his big left mitt completely spoiled over at Riverside Park last year.

All in all, the Petes was a better team than Belleville all through the engagement Wed. Mister Hardill's control wobbled a bit at times, but he was unhittable at most stages, and the lads in behind him grabbed nearly everything with speed and neatness. The Nationals has lost some strength since last season, and although they always fight, there are some gaps to fill that will keep Mister Gerow busy. Mister Utronki ain't sturdy enough to carry the whole pitching burden on his own shoulders, and the S.O.S. for gunners will be sounding from Belleville headquarters before long.

Raybestos in the Lakeshore league, like the Petes, also got away on the wrong foot at Oshawa on the holiday, in spite of some nice left-handed heaving by Mister Scotty Maudsley. 1 swallow don't make no summer, however, and the Rays oughta to be in there when the returns is all in.

Fishing news shows no change, Mac, so far as I'm concerned. We're still eating butchers' meat, and it looks like we'd have to keep on as long as the credit stands up. A fellow asked me the best place around here to get fish the other day, and I told him the surest place I knew was the fish an chip service station. He didn't seem to be grateful, but I give him the best one I had.

Well, Mac, it's too hot in here this p.m. to keep on slinging words together, so we'll just jam on the emergency brakes right now.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

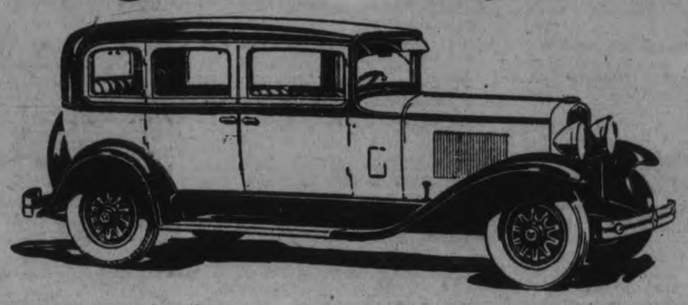
The NEW VIKING
A NINETY-DEGREE V-TYPE EIGHT AT MEDIUM PRICE

Opens up an entirely new eight cylinder field



THAT an eight cylinder car with the Ninety-degree V-type engine should ever be introduced into the medium-priced field was an idea so revolutionary as to be scarcely entertained.

Small wonder, then, that General Motors' announcement of the VIKING has literally opened up an entirely new, eight-cylinder field. For in VIKING is offered . . not merely an eight at medium price . . but the very finest type of eight-cylinder car that the most exhaustive and painstaking research and experiment could discover . . an eight of the 90-degree, V-type heretofore exclusively confined to the highest priced cars in the automobile world . . an engine of 81 horsepower of unexampled smoothness and balance; with a host of new mechanical advancements.

And, with this triumph of its engineering, VIKING presents a new grace and tailored smartness such as the medium-priced field has never seen . . more brilliant styling, more luxurious comfort, resulting from new and finer creations of Fisher Body genius.

We invite you to inspect this illustrious new car at our showrooms . . to take it for a trial drive . . and to judge for yourself how completely it revolutionizes former standards of appearance, performance and value. Then you will appreciate that the introduction of this new VIKING is a significant event in automotive history. V-329X

FROM SEA FLEAS TO FLYING FISH

Last year, sea fleas, the little outboard racers, took the populace by storm. It is a great sport, not only for those who race these "flying fish," but also for the interested spectator.

This year further progress has been made to provide the aquatic fan with thrills. A boat has been produced that can run out of the water to a sloping platform and leap through a paper hoop 35ft. through the air and land with neither the boat nor its daring pilot much the worse for wear.

"Red" Foster of Toronto will pull this stunt off in front of the sea wall at the Canadian National Exhibition this year. The feat should provide plenty of hectic thrill sand bring more than one gasp from spectators.

GOOD PROGRAM IN WATER FEATS

Able Demonstration in Canoemanship Given By Reg. Blomfield and Don Fitzgerald.

GIRLS' WATER RACES.

Before an enthusiastic crowd at the Y.W.C.A. swimming pool last night, Reg. Blomfield, world-famous canoeist, assisted by Don Fitzgerald, gave an ehibition of canoe-craft and swimming. Starting with an explanation of the fundamental principles of using a canoe, Mr. Blomfield led up to some of the most difficult tricks of canoemanship. He justified his belief that the canoe is the safest craft in the world. With speed and precision he performed his feats in the small space afforded by the Y.W.C.A. plunge.

Mr. Blomfield holds several records for feats of canoemanship and was one time the world's champion all-round paddler. Don Fitzgerald is also well known for his ability as a swimmer as wel las a paddler. Both are taking an active part in the doings of Oak Ridge camp on Stoney Lake this summer as instructors.

Canoemanship.

Starting with a demonstration of the meaning of balance in a canoe, Mr. Blomfield continued with an exhibition of his ability to empty a canoe. It took him seven seconds to completely drain his craft. To show that his trick is not only possible for an able-bodied man, but also for a child, Dave Bird, a 12-year old boy of Lakefield, repeated the stunt with alacrity. With the aid of Mr. Fitzgerald, Reg. Blomfield showed then the proper method of rescuing a person whose canoe has swamper. This was greatly appreciated by the audience who recognized the usefulness of the tr ick. The best receieved at his stunts was a display of his ability to flip a canoe and get back into it in about three seconds.

Water Races By "Y" Girls.

At intervals during the exhibition, the Junior and Senior girls of the "Y," under the direction of Miss Littlefield, staged races and performed aquatic stunts with ai expertness that was pleasing to the onlookers. Of the more proficient were Viola Harvey, Jean Harvey, Helen Cole, Mary Wilson and Hazel Bradley. The little tots of the Junior section exhibited an ability and daring that was astonishing. The girls' part in the program was a demonstration of speed-swimming, life-saving, diving and under-water swimming. Their proficiency was a credit to their instructress, Miss Littlefield.

Mr. Blomfield emphasized the necessity of being familiar with a canoe before attempting to use one. Almost al laccidents, he claimed, happed as a result of not knowing how to sit in the canoe. "The danger can be eliminated," he said, "by taking a kneeling or a sitting position in the centre of the canoe when paddling instead of putting the craft off balance by sitting on the sern or a thwart."

Both performers expressed their gratitude to the Peterborough Canoe Company and the Brown Boat Company for their kindness in lending the canoes used.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

CLARA BOW'S 'THE WILD PARTY' A ROMANTIC COMEDY OF MAD, MERRY YOUTH, AT THE CAPITOL MONDAY.

"When better whoopee is made, Clara will make it" might well have been the motto of the Paramount sponsors of Miss Bow's latest confection of the screen, "The Wild Party," which opens at the Capitol Monday.

The story of "The Wild Party" from one written by Warner Fabian, calls for youth's maddest flaunting of the conventions, and the action reaches many a crescendo pitch as Clara and her mates have their wild, unbridled flings in night clubs and at week-end parties.

There is an undercurrent of true romance throughout the play which bubbles to the surface, triumphantly, in the last few scenes.

Fredric March furnishes the heroic male appeal in the play, carrying off the role of a college professor with a delightful intelligence. He is dark-haired and handsome, and his directors did well to choose him as the lover.

A dazzling group of "baby stars" supports the inimitable Clara in true "hey-hey" style, furnishing an "It" complement that rounds out the film in the full curves of wholesome femininity.

LOCKWORKS ROUNDING OUT STRONG TEAM.

Bud Westbrook is lining up a strong Lockworks team and is planning to give Jack Deannard's Kiwanis nine a strong run for the championship of the Junior City League. The team has been practising during the past week and are shaping up well. The following players are trying out for places: Westbrook, Murphy, Murray, O'Brien, Whaley, McDonough, Hillier, Marocco, Hall, Griffin, Price, Dunkerly and Adamson.

CRESCENTS HAVE CLOSE CALL.

A fair crowd of fans was out to see the close game between Crescents and Hastings in the East Peterborough League at Exhibition Park last evening. Hastings staged a belated run fest in the final inning that netted them five runs and with two men on they were dangerously near tieing the score.

Hastings with a little practise (something of which they have had none as yet) will shape up as a team to struggle with. Several of the players were with Keene last season.

Coverng second base for them is Dr. Douglas Hay, better known here as "Jew" Hay, who was a star member of the P. C. I. Rugby squad of seven years ago. He also played lacrosse and was quite a boxer for Dents when at Varsity.

E.P.L. SCHEDULE ANNOUNCED.

The East Peterborough League moguls went into conference immediately after the game last evening and drew up the first half of the schedule. According to the schedule fans are promised a treat on Monday evening, when the ancient rivals, Crescents and Cognawagas hook up for their first clash of the season at Exhibition Park.

Some fans have expressed the fear that Crescents might be weak, but the exhibition they gave last night was sufficient to put all such doubts aside. Manager Brioux has lined up a team that will make them all hustle.

In fact after having all four teams of the league in action, it can be stated without restriction that the competition is going to be as great, if not greater, than in any previous year.

PETERBOROUGH IN OR GOOD SEASON.

Sports in the city are going to boom this season. In baseball the Central League team have already showed their strength by drubbing Belleville in their own yard. The Rays are playing in the Lakeshore combine, and they will surely make their mark there. The East Peterborough League is assured a successful year. The City League is supplying good baseball for the youngsters.

The Softball Association has lined up six teams and are all set to get going any day now, while a softball church league has been formed to get boys, who otherwise would only be spectators, into the game.

The Crcket Club has already succeeded in listing a large schedule of games with the pick of outside teams, and there are more cricketers turning out for practises at the Oval than for many, many years back.

In Soccer the boys have been playing for nearly a month now, being the first to open the sports season. The action and clean, hard play that the boys are putting into their "footer" has the fans on the qui vive. Large crowds are on hand every night to see these sterling performances.

The Lawn Bowlers opened their season officially last night, and here, too, with the club launched on their plans to build one of the finest greens in the province nothing but the most vigorous life can be seen.

The Golf Clubs, both the Peterborough Golf and Country Club, and the Beaver Meadow Club, are enjoying keener interest and competition, while the latter has nearly doubled its membership this spring, showing that the game has caught hold here among folks who never took it up previously.

MANY FORMER LEAFS WANDERING AROUND.

"Handy Andy" Anderson, who is becoming an experienced baseball wanderer, is now playing second base for the Albany team in the Eastern League after failing to make good in the far west. Other ex-Leafs are not faring any better, judging by the announcements made in the latest bulletin issued by the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues. Pitcher Fred Lynch, who received a short trial here, is with New Haven. Infielder Harry Purcell has been released by Brockton, and Ralph Head, who was tossing them up for Binghampton, shared the same fate. Outfielder Molly Craft, he of home-run clouting ability, is with Henderson. Eddie Reis is pitching for Moline; Outfielder Sam Vick has been transferred to Dallas by New Orleans, and Outfielder Jim Riley has wandered from Fort Worth to San Antonio. Outfielder Eddie Eayrs, who was once a great hitter, has been released by New Haven, and Harry Whitehouse, who tried out with Toronto this and last season, has been sent on his way to the Scranton Club. Whitehouse could hit, but his fielding was terrible. All in all, Toronto graduates haven't set any of the leagues on fire. Some of them are getting old, and others are not old enough.—Toronto Globe.

DEFENDANT IS ALLOWED HIS COUNTER CLAIM

Finals of MacBride Slander Action Heard in Brantford.

SECOND TRIAL

Vinner Will Not Collect Money From The Plaintiff.

BRANTFORD, Ont., May 31.—(Canadian Press). — The Supreme Court action brought by Mrs. Olive Elizabeth Holder against John Allan was dismissed by Justice Jeffrey yesterday morning with costs to the plaintiff, and the defendant's counter claim was allowed with costs. Justice Jeffrey included in his judgment, however, the suggestion that Allan should not ask for or seek to enforce the costs against the plaintiff, and Allan agreed to this arrangement.

The plaintiff's claim that in 1925 she was the defendant in a slander action brought by M. M. MacBride. The statements alleged to have been slanderous were made by Mrs. Holder, claimed to be at the request of John Allan, who, it is alleged, had agreed to pay the cost of Mrs. Holder in the slander action, and also in an action for libel brought by Mrs. Holder against MacBride. In September, 1926, Allan had paid Mr. and Mrs. Holder $600 on account of these costs, and in order that it should not appear that Allan was paying the costs in the action, Allan induced Mrs. Holder to give him a promissory note for the sum of $600 and to assign to him a mortage on which the sum of $1,100 was her due.

She sued for return of the note and cancellation of the mortgage on the ground that Allan guaranteed to meet her court costs.

The meeting of the 57 Regiment chapter was held in the armouries yesterday afternoon with the President, Mrs. C. E. Jamieson presiding. After the opening pledge being repeated the secretary, Mrs. B. Mrs. Jamieson spoke of the interesting sessions of the National Convention which is being held in Vancouver. It was decided to buy a new flag for the cemetry, as the one there was becoming badly faded.

Three new members were received into the chapter and warmly welcomed. The question of holding card parties at the homes of some of the members who had kindly offered their homes was discussed and arrangements for same were left in the hands of the executive with power to make arrangements.

The two prize winners in the Oratorical Contest at the Collegiate Institute gave their speeches and were greatly applauded. Miss ertha Edminson spoke on "Canada Among the Nations", and Bert Munroe on "A Famous Battle Ground" namely Peterborough, where a very severe battle was fought between the Indian tribes. These two youthful orators gave splendid addresses which were much appreciated.

SECOND TRIAL

Vinner Will Not Collect Money From The Plaintiff.

BRANTFORD, Ont., May 31.—(Canadian Press). — The Supreme Court action brought by Mrs. Olive Elizabeth Holder against John Allan was dismissed by Justice Jeffrey yesterday morning with costs to the plaintiff, and the defendant's counter claim was allowed with costs. Justice Jeffrey included in his judgment, however, the suggestion that Allan should not ask for or seek to enforce the costs against the plaintiff, and Allan agreed to this arrangement.

The plaintiff's claim that in 1925 she was the defendant in a slander action brought by M. M. MacBride. The statements alleged to have been slanderous were made by Mrs. Holder, claimed to be at the request of John Allan, who, it is alleged, had agreed to pay the cost of Mrs. Holder in the slander action, and also in an action for libel brought by Mrs. Holder against MacBride. In September, 1926, Allan had paid Mr. and Mrs. Holder $600 on account of these costs, and in order that it should not appear that Allan was paying the costs in the action, Allan induced Mrs. Holder to give him a promissory note for the sum of $600 and to assign to him a mortage on which the sum of $1,100 was her due.

She sued for return of the note and cancellation of the mortgage on the ground that Allan guaranteed to meet her court costs.

Youthful Orators From Local Collegiate Speak at I.O.D.E. Meeting.

WILL HOLD CARD PARTIES.

The meeting of the 57 Regiment chapter was held in the armouries yesterday afternoon with the President Mrs. C. E. Jamieson presiding. After the opening pledge being repeated the secretary, Mrs. B. MacLeod gave a very concise report of the last meeting and read a letter of correspondence regarding the Provincial Convention held recently.

Mrs. Jamieson spoke of the interesting sessions of the National Convention which is being held in Vancouver. It was decided to buy a new flag for the cemetry, as the one there was becoming badly faded.

Three new members were received into the chapter and warmly welcomed. The question of holding card parties at the homes of some of the members who had kindly offered their homes was discussed and arrangements for same were left in the hands of the executive with power to make arrangements.

The two prize winners in the Oratorical Contest at the Collegiate Institute gave their speeches and were greatly applauded. Miss ertha Edminson spoke on "Canada Among the Nations", and Bert Munroe on "A Famous Battle Ground" namely Peterborough, where a very severe battle was fought between the Indian tribes. These two youthful orators gave splendid addresses which were much appreciated.

Ontario Lady Suffered from a Severe Backache

"I am very glad to be able to recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills," says Mrs. Linton Robbins, Monk Road, Ont. "I have taken two boxes and I have great faith in them. I suffered with a severe Backache and Urinary Troubles. At times I was not able to do my housework, but thanks to Dodd's Kidney Pills I am much better and able to do my own work. I cannot recommend them too highly."

When you have Backache it is often a timely warning that the Kidneys are not working as they should. Do not delay, but make and keep the body healthy by using Dodd's Kidney Pills. For over a third of a century they have been the favorite for treating ailing Kidneys.

EL CENTRO, Cal., June 1.— Because prisoners were using orange peel, grapes, and other fruits given them by visitors to make home brew, Sheriff Gillet issued an order prohibiting any fruit to be brought into the county jail. Several cells were found to contain a quantity of home brew made with alcoholic content.

TOKIO, June 1. — The village of Tomiai on the east coast of the Isle of Saghalien was surrounded to-day by the forest fire which raged for the last week there. Its 1,000 houses were isolated and conditions in the town were not known here.

CHOIR CLOSES THE BEST YEAR IN ITS HISTORY

Annual Meeting of Male Voice Choir Is Held in Paragon.

PRESENTATIONS MADE.

Plans Will Be Made To Stage Several Out-of-town Concerts This Year.

The annual meeting of Peterborough Male Voice Choir was held in the Paragon last night—President A. H. White was in the chair and almost all of the choir members were present.

The usual business procedure was followed — minutes of last annual meeting, reports of officers, reports of standing committees, and reports of the special committees—all were listened to and passed in the customary manner. Even the financial standof the choir had improved somewhat, judging by the payment of la.ge bills for music, etc. The chorus had a strenuous year, and the ladies were awarded the thanks and gratitude of the executive and men for redeeming the life of the choir.

Every committee chairman had praise for his helpmates and the assistance of the members generally Co-operation was the chief note of the spokesmen, and hence the uplift to the organization during the year 1928-1929. The New York visit by the choir was dealt with briefly by Neil Porter, giving an insight into the amount of detail necessary to carry out such a huge undertaking.

A Presentation.

At the conclusion of his recital, Neil was presented with a handsome gold signet ring by the choir, as a token of appreciation for his services in connection with the journey to and from New York. He expressed thanks for the gift, and pleasure in the work.

Park Concerts.

No definite information was received regarding the concerts this summer in Victoria Park. Details were left to the new executive to arrange.

Out-of-Town Concerts.

Mention was made at this stage that the executive arrange, if possible, to have one or two concerts out of town, which would help the funds of the choir. This was agreed to.

The fall concert will receive due attention by the new officers. This will in all likelihood be held in Peterborough, with the District choirs of the Associated Glee Clubs of America participating — Buffalo, Lockport, Ottawa, Toronto, and Peterborough. After some discussion, the choir acquiesced in any action that might be taken.

Honorarium to Conductor.

Martin B. Chenhall was unanimously appointed, and accepted the position of conductor of the Male Voice Choir for the season 1929-1930. At the same time, on behalf of the members, President White presented Mr. Chenhall with a cheque in recognition, in a small way, of his great ability in training the choir during the year and leading it to the victory achieved in New York on May 25. Highest praise was spoken and expressed in applause by those present, of the manner of and the time conferred upon the tuition of the members, and the benefits derived through contact with a conductor of the calibre of Mr. Chenhall.

Thanks was returned by the recipient, and he was empowered, after explanations, to act at once in connection with bringing the massed choir concert to Canada three years hence, and to broadcast the program, and if possible request the Government to stand behind the proposition and sponsor such a concert. It would be a big affair for Canada in general, and Ontario in particular. The choir members pledged their support to Mr. Chenhall in his plans.

Ways and means will soon be devised by the executive whereby the bank loan of $1,400 for the New York visit will be wiped out, the members being reminded of this obligation.

Rules Adopted.

The constitution and by-laws as at present in force were adopted by unanimous vote.

Fall Practice.

The voice of the membership was agreed that the practices should commence in mid-September, to prepare for the concert in October.

To Sing In Church.

A request from Park Street Baptist Church to have the Male Voice Choir sing on Sunday, June 16, was considered and carried, this service to be held at 4 to 5 o'clock that day.

Votes of Thanks.

St. Paul's Church and the press were voted letters of thanks for the splendid help given to the organization on many occasions—for the use of the church premises and for the publicity given.

Fred Skitch also moved a vote of thanks to the retiring executive—duly seconded and accorded.

From Chamber of Commerce.

James Dutton, president and Frank Stinson, secretary, of the Chamber of Commerce were visitors during the meeting of the choir, and were given an opportunity to address the gathering. Mr. Stinson voiced the congratulations of the Chamber and himself to the choir on its recent splendid victory in New York, and told of a request they had received to have the choir broadcast in October or November next. Details will be arranged between the executive and the Chamber officials as soon as possible.

Mr. Dutton also voiced congratulatory sentiments in his official capacity, at the same time telling of the support which will be given by the Chamber in everything the choir would attempt.

Letters from A.G.C.A.

Two highly complimentary letters were received by the president this week from officials of the Associated Glee Clubs of America, and these were read last night. The language conveyed a feeling of honor conferred upon the association by the entry of the local choir into the ranks, and stressing the great compliment when the Canadian ensign was presented at the mass concert on Friday night, May 24. There is a depth of meaning in the two communications, and the members felt proud of the recognition given their efforts in connection with the concert and contest last week-end.

Election of Officers.

Officers for the ensuing term were elected as follows:

Honorary President, Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C.

Honorary Vice-Presidents, J. J. Turner, James Dutton, Mayor R. Denne, Dr. D. W. Clark, Dr. J. J. Craig, R. R. Hall, K.C., H. J. McCannan, R. M. Glover, G. A. Gillespie, Dr. F. C. Neal.

Past President, A. H. White.

Vice-President, D. Fleming.

Chairmen of Committees — Membership, Tom Parker; Music, George Chandler; Publicity, C. S. Thompson; Social, Arthur Siddall.

Auditors, Otto Hurrle and John Monks.

Refreshments were served by Charles Coleman, and the National Anthem concluded the ninth annual meeting of the Peterborough Male Voice Choir.

MARQUETTE IS BEING SHOWN IN CITY TO-DAY

Latest of General Motor Line May Be Seen at A. Brown and Son.

POWERFUL SIX-CYLINDER.

The Marquette, a fast new, powerful six cylinder car with distinctive lines, is announced to-day. Produced by McLaughlin-Buick in the factories of General Motors of Canada, it will be shown for the first time on June 1st. This car which is the ninth in the General Motors line, and which will sell in the medium price field, is offered in six models—a two-door sedand—four-door sedan—business coupe-sport coupe—a roadster and a phaeton.

The Marquette is an exceptionally large car for its price class, having a wheel base of 114 inches. List prices on the car range from $1230. up.

Factory officials say the Marquette has remarkably quick acceleration and maximum speed of more than seventy miles per hour.

All models are designed along low-swung rakish lines. The bodies are built by Fisher and finished in Duco color combinations that follow the present fashion trends. The radiator, which is covered with a metal grille, is deep with a narrow chromium plated rim that balances with the chromium plated hub caps. The wheels are exceptionally sturdy and carry large section 28x5.25 balloon tires.

The Marquette has a new nonglare Fisher VV type windshield which is set at an angle of seven degrees from the perpendicular and reflects all glare, whether from the rear, front or sides, below the driver's line of vision.

Other features embodied in the Marquette include large internal expanding Duo-Servo four wheel brakes, an adjustable steering wheel, adjustable driver's seat, built-in bumper mountings and all chromium plated outside hardware.

A full pressure lubricatings ystem is used on the new car insuring a constant flow of oil to main bearings, connecting rod bearings, cylinder walls, camshaft bearings and the timing chain. The water cooling system is themostatically controlled, and has ample capacity to keep the engine at normal temperatures under all driving conditions.

The tapered chassis is exceptionally sturdy, and, together with the long semi-elliptic springs, gives the Marquette new qualities of restful, smooth riding at all road speeds.

This excellent product will be marketed by A. Brown and Son locally.

NATURE does her duty—and in infancy the baby girl is given beauty of health that may be retained through girlhood days. At a meeting of District Committee No. 44, I.O.O.F., held in the Oddfellows' Temple last evening, E. H. Bartlett was elected as District Deputy Grand Master for the ensuing year.

OFFERS AID

At the regular meeting of Cyzicus Sanctorium No. 24, A.M. O.S. held last night in their hall, with Grand Monarch G. J. Wyatt presiding, the general consensus of opinion was that all assistance possible should be given to the general committee of the Old Home Week arrangements, in order to make the affair very successful. Further meetings will be held in the near future to consider plans for this object.

RETURN VISIT

Dishart Campbell is making a return visit to St. Paul's tomorrow when his fine baritone voice will be heard in several selections, morning and evening. He will choose his numbers from the list to be found in the church advertisement, and will have choir accompany him in one or two numbers. By special request "Going Home" will be sung in the evening. Since it may be some time ere he can be heard again, many will doubtless embrace the opportunity to hear his rendition on this occasion.

LEMONADE FOR CADETS.

The officers of the Peterborough Collegiate Cadet Corps furnished lemonade for the High school cadets which was greatly appreciated in the warm weather.

HABITANT SINGING.

Georges Bouchard, K.C., and member of the Federal Parliament for Kamouraska, Quebec, was a guest at the Life Underwriters' meeting last night. During the evening he sang "Alouette," in the true habitant style, while several men who understood the French tongue joined in the chorus which made this famous old song a real rollicking one.

FLOWER BEDS DESTROYED.

Children in the neighborhood of Antrim street have a habit of entering the back yards of that street and causing damage to flowers that are planted there One resident tells the Examiner how the ruffians trespassed on his property in search of lilacs and in getting these flowers destroyed some prize dahlias that were planted, as well as gladiolas, and larkspur. Warning is issued to these youngsters that such tactics must cease.

FOLLOWS THE SHADE.

At least one citizen has the idea how to cut his grass. On his lawn was a small patch of shade and in this cool spot only, he employed the use of the lawn mower and when the sun moved far enough away to cause the shade to move where the grass was uncut he proceeded to mowe the green in that spot. "I'm not going to get overheated," he was heard to tell a friend who asked him why he cut the grass in such patch work fashion.

The school house on the Chemong road is at present minus a chimney. The wind that accompanied the storm the other night blew this important part of the structure into the school yard.

POLE BLOCKS TRAFFIC.

Traffic on Hunter street at the corned of Aylmer was detoured through the driveway at the service station there yesterday for a short time, while the men of the Peterborough Utilities were erecting a large pole which lay across the roadway before it was put in place.

WATER STILL COLD.

Visitors up the lakes during the recent warm spell were disappointed to find that the water was too cold for comfortable swimming. The weather has not been warm enough for a sufficient length of time to convey any heat to the waters of the lake.

TAGGERS OUT EARLY.

Taggers were early at their posts this morning in aid of the Salvation Army "To Help Others" campaign.

RECALLING OLD ADAGE.

The old adage of "Hang your clothes on a hickory limb but do not go near the water," was somewhat changed accordng to circumstantial evidence yesterday. A telephone pole supplanted the limb and a bathing suit was the apparel. There was on the corner of Water and Dennistoun a bathing suit hung from a pole and one can only draw their own conclusions from the evidence on hand.

HEAT WAVE EFFECTS LIVESTOCK

During the premature "dog days" of Wednesday and Thursday local veterinary surgeons received many calls from the country to attend to livestock affected by the extreme heat. Dr. Rogers reported five calls in one day. These were for the relief of horses which were suffering from heat strokes" induced by the sudden heat and the necessity of getting the delayed Spring work done. One farmer named Battisby in Otonabee lost a horse worth about $175. It fell forward in its harness.

CITY TAKES

The necessity of an audit and of a statement from the Hydro Commission in order to find out where the Peterborough Utilities stand, was agreed upon. It is the belief of the manager that there will be an increase in the profits of this year over those of last year. The receipts up to April are $2,000 ahead of those for the same period last year. However, he pointed out that truth of the indications depended on the liabilities aainst the Department hel dby the Hydro Commission in Toronto. It is expected that the necessary adjustments between the Hydro and the Utilities Commissions will be made within the next few days.

GANG WARFARE BREAKS OUT IN PHILADELPHIA

Two Innocent Men Were Victims of Latest Attack.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY.

Gangsters Spray Bullets At Each Other in Various Sections of City.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 3 (C.P.).—Two innocent men were victims of the latest outbreak of gang warfare in Philadelphia. One of them was killed and the other critically wounded. A third man, who police said was a racketeer, was shot to death in another part of the city.

The gangsters sprayed bullets at each other yesterday in widely separated sections. The innocent victims were Harry Hewitt and his son-in-law, Harry J. Rodenbaugh. Hewitt was shot to death and Rodenbaugh seriously hurt when an automobile filled with gangsters turned a machine gun on their car. Six bullets penetrated Rodenbaugh's body and physicians to-day held but slight hope of his recovery.

Three women and a child in Rodenbaugh's car escaped unhurt. The party was returning from an outing at the seashore and police expressed the belief that their assailants had mistaken them for rival gangsters.

William "Bill" Scheer, who had a long police record, was shot to death by rival gangsters in another part of the city.

WILL CO-OPERATE.

Peter Robinson Chapter I.O.D.E. To Aid in Preparing Parade Float.

At the regular meeting of the Peter Robinson Chapter I.O.D.E., held on Saturday afternoon in the green room of the Y.W.C.A., it was decided to co-operate with the other I.O.D.E. chapters in the city, to prepare a float for the Old Home Week parade.

It was also decided to hold a picnic at Chemong Park on June 19.

Discussion took place regarding the Hope Chest, the draw for which will take place at the Capitol Theatre on July 5.

Miss Olga Johnston, the regent, presided over the meeting, at which Miss Elizabeth Armitage was elected a new member.

Members travelling abroad this summer were requested to wear their I.O.D.E. pins, so that they might be recognized as Canadians and not Americans, as so often happens.

Tragedy Sweeps Home

Twenty-one Year Old Boy Is Believed To Have Gone Violently Insane.

TWO OTHERS INJURED.

Father With Bullet Wound in Head Not Expected To Recover.

MOOSOMIN, Sask., June 3 (Canadian Press)—Believed to have gone violently insane, Ernest Startin, 21-year-old youth of the Iona district, near here, killed his mother and seriously wounded his father and brother Phillip. He then ended his own life by firing a bullet through his brain. The tragedy occurred at the Startin home on Saturday, but details of the murderous attack did not reach Moosomin until last night, when Phillip Startin, Sr., and the wounded brother were brought to the hospital here. The father is not expected to recover, but the son, Phillip, Jr., may survive.

Body Found In Field.

The body of Ernest was found lying in a field near the house. The young man had been mentally unbalanced for some time, and had evidently contemplated committing the crime, for a full box of cartridges was found on his person, as well as the rifle.

An inquest will be held.

Phillip Startin, Jr., harrowing in the field near his home about 5.30 on Saturday afternoon, looked around and saw his younger brother, Ernest, 21, taking careful aim at him with a .22 calibre rifle. Throwing up his left arm to protect himself, he received a bullet in the left forearm. He immediately leaped from the seat and started running toward the farm of R. R. Black, a nearby resident, but before he could get out of range his brother fired again at him, the bullet going through his right shoulder. A third bullet whizzed past his head, and his brother chased him practically to the farm, where the victim collapsed.

While still at the Black farm and knowing nothing of the tragedy, Dr. Chestnut telephoned for Sergt. Chard of the R.C.M.P. at Moosomin, to go to the Startin farm and make an investigation.

Arriving at the scene of the shooting, Sergt. Chard first visited the house, and there, lying on the kitchen floor in a pool of blood he discovered the father, Phillip Startin, Sr., shot three times through the head and unconscious. With her head lying inside the kitchen door and her feet out on the summer porch, lay the body of the mother, also shot through the head.

DEBENTURES ARE ISSUED FOR GAS PLANT

Ultimate Cost in Principal and Interest Will Be $633,822.50.

HYDRO PAYS GOVERNMENT.

Debentures Will Bear Interest At Rate of Four and Three-quarters Per Cent.

Peterborough will pay for its gas plant on the instalment plan, just the same time convenience, in a modified form of course, as that by which many citizens buy cars, washing machines or what have you. The sum which the city pays to the Hydro-Electric Commission is $336,000, extending over a period of thirty years, but the ultimate cost in principal and interest will be $633,822.50.

To most citizens the debenture method of paying for this new public utility may seem complicated and possibly beyond their comprehension, but in a broad sense it is simple enough. The city obtains immediate possession of the gas plant, just the same as a citizen receives the automobile he intends to pay for by the month. Debentures were printed bearing 4¾ per cent., and last week were signed by Mayor Denne, Frank Adams, City Treasurer, and Arthur Stevenson, secretary of the Peterborough City Trust. They were issued in the denomination of $1,000, three hundred and thirty-five of them, each of which had to be separately signed. They are serial debentures, requiring the payment of a certain sum every year, together with interest, and by this method the city obtains the immediate use of $335,000, but must pay the interest from now until 1958.

Hydro Pays Government.

The signed debentures were forwarded to the Hydro-Electric Commission last week, and it is understood that the Commission will at once write a cheque for that amount and hand it over to the Ontario Government, the actual owner of the gas plant, for whom the Commission has been operating it. Those who follow the money market realize that Peterborough has made a very satisfactory arrangement with the Commission, according to the opinion of members of the Council. The Peterborough debentures are sold at par to the Hydro, and the rate is 4¾ per cent. City Treasurer Adams expressed the opinion that if these debentures had been offered in the open market they would have had to bear at least 5¼ per cent. About a week ago Toronto sold $10,000,000 debentures, virtually the same as the Peterborough gas plant block, at the rate of 5.225 per cent.

Hence, although it may appear to the uninitiated ratepayers that $633,822.50 is a tremendous sum for possession of the gas plant, Mr. Adams'

LABOR IS READY TO TAKE OFFICE IN OLD COUNTRY

Premier Baldwin Finds His Supporters Divided On Course to Follow.

BALDWIN IN CONFERENCE.

King's Private Secretary Pays Visit to Baldwin at Chequers.

(By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, June 3. — Premier Baldwin, on his return to London to-day after a week-end at Chequers Court, was faced with divided counsels. He finds himself in a similar predicament to that of Premier Mackenzie King, after the Canadian General Election of 1925.

Some of his supporters are calling for an immediate resignation of the government, some are arguing that he should meet Parliament, and place the responsibility for future events on the opposition, and constitutional lawyers are writing learned articles explaining the situation. Sir Austen Chamberlain, Foreign Secretary, has already announced he favors meeting Parliament. Right Hon. Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, is reported to favor immediate resignation.

The resignation school takes the view that if Premier Baldwin resigns now Labor will have to take office, without an opportunity to negotiate with the Liberals, and with lessened prospects of making a deal in the future.

Not Help Conservatives.

Ramsay Macdonald's statement on Saturday is interpreted in some quarters as a gesture of approach and it is followed to-day by reports that Lloyd George will not keep the Conservatives in office. The Liberal leader is not consulting his "shadow cavinet" but is waiting on the trend of events before announcing any definite step. On Saturday Mr. MacDonald said he would do everything in his power to avoid the necessity for another election in the next two years.

But rumors of possible Liberal-Labor agreements received a frigid greeting from the advanced wing of the Labor Party. George Hardie, brother of Keir Hardie, and chairman of the Scottish Labor Party, emphatically declared that on no account should there be "any agreement between Liberals or the Tories."

At the same time James Maxton, chairman of the Independent Labor Party, declares: "If we haven't got complete control of Great Britain, we are going to have the opportunity of ruling Great Britain. The opportunity is presented to us to abolish privation in our midst at once. The working classes hold the balance of power. We are going to use that power to insist that every single person shall be relieved not merely from want, but from the fear of want. The resources of this country are ample for that purpose."

Increase Allowance.

Right Hon. John Wheatley, Minister of Health in the last Labor Government, declares he will insist on an allowance of two pounds ten shillings ($12.50) for a man and wife and a family of four where they are unemployed. He also demands that this should be granted within six months.

The declaration of Right Hon. J. Ramsay MacDonald that Labor is ready to take office is echoed by his following. The Daily Herald, Labor organ, demands that Baldwin should resign, and it adds that if the Liberals support Baldwin the end of Liberalism will be hastened.

"If they decide to vote against Baldwin," The Herald continues, "they must face the fact that Labor is in an infinitely stronger position now than in 1924. And woe betide Lloyd-George and his colleagues if they fail to recognize this dominating fact."

The fact nobody wants another election will undoubtedly have its effect on the situation. The party chests were hard hit by the recent fight. In the campaign just ended. Labor publicity had to be curtailed

GOOD WISHES FOR KING GEORGE

OTTAWA, June 3.—Through the office of his Excellency Viscount Willingdon, Governor-General of Canada, an affectionate message of congratulations was conveyed to his Majesty King George, on behalf of the Government and people of Canada last night. The British Monarch observes his sixty-fourth birthday to-day.

Following is the message, signed by the Governor-General:

MOTORIST IS KNOCKED DOWN BY CAR ON PROVINCIAL HIGHWAY

Peter Grady Is Taken To St. Joseph's Hospital As Result of Accident.

OTHER COLLISIONS.

Automobile Turns Over On Norwood Road Near the Rifle Ranges.

Peter Grady of North Monaghan is in St. Joseph's Hospital suffering from injuries he received when struck by a car driven by Mendel Gishman, 229 George street, on Sunday afternoon at 2.15.

Grady was riding in a car driven by A. F. Stenson, also of North Monaghan. The car was stopped on the side of the Port Hope highway, opposite Grady's home. Mr. Grady got out of the car, walked around behind it, and was walking across the road when struck by the car driven by Gishman.

The impact was sufficient to lift Grady from his feet, and throw him several feet into the ditch at the side of the road. He suffered bruises, shock and fractures to several ribs. He was attended by Dr. N. Howson and removed to the St. Joseph's Hospital.

It was reported at the hospital to-day that he had passed a fair night and was recovering.

Automobile Turns Over.

A gay Sunday motoring party came to a sad end and the four occupants of the car were lucky to escape serious injuries when their car turned over on "Hypocrite Hill," near the Rifle Range on the Norwood road. The accident occurred at 4.30 in the afternoon.

Archie McBride, Jr., and Art Mann with two girls, were out for a motor drive. They swung on to the Norwood road and were half way up "Hypocrite Hill" when their motor stalled at the moment the driver attempted to change into second gear. The car started to back down the hill. It gained momentum in the descent, and choosing the lesser of

BRAUND STORE IS TAKEN OVER

Special Workmen Are Preparing A. and P. Store For Business.

ALTERATIONS TO BUILDING.

The Atlantic and Pacific Trading Company took possession this morning of the Routly-Braund shoe store and invaded the premises with a staff of about twenty of their own special workmen to put up the shelving, connect the plumbing for the refrigerators, and to equip the new store for business. With this change the name of Routly-Braund passes from the street after twenty years of merchandising, which had been carried on for a long time by the late Robert Routly.

William Braund, the contractor in charge of the alterations and extension, completed his work in ten weeks, at least since March 9th, and was exactly on schedule, and in the meantime began the work of transforming the adjoining brokerage office into a store. This property, the old Machine Telephone headquarters,

BUY CANADIAN GOODS SPEAKER TELLS ROTARY

CANADA'S NEEDS.

Men of Vision Wanted, W. V. Ecclestone Says in Luncheon Address.

The desirability of purchasing more Canadian-made goods both from a patriotic and a business viewpoint was strongly emphasized by Mr. W. V. Ecclestone, of Toronto, in an eloquent address on "Canada's Chief Needs" before the Peterborough Rotary Club to-day. Mr. Ecclestone who has been a member of the T. Eaton Company, Limited, for the past thirty-four years, gave Rotarians much food for thought in his interesting talk.

Vice-President Ross L. Dobbin presided ,and read the report of the nominating committee presented by Chairman Fred L. Roy, which declared that the following ten names will be voted upon next Monday, five to be elected as directors for the ensuing year: R. L. Dobbin, R. Abbott, Ray Harding, Dr. A. Moir, George A. Macdonald, J. Juby, J. Matthews, R F. Downey, J. Gillespie, M. Shaver.

Among the visitors to-day was Rotarian Art Ingram, secretary of the Toronto Rotary Club, who congratulated the Peterborough Club upon the quality of the meals they enjoyed here, a tribute that brough calls for Rotarian Chris Graham.

Mr. Ecclestone introduced by Rotarian W. F. Butcher, began by paying a tribute to Rotary for the work it was doing.

He had been giving some thought, he said, to this Canada of ours, and had come to the conclusion that the Dominion's chief need was men of vision. She had had such men in her past, such as Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who had realized the need of harmony in Canada, and Sir John A. Macdonald, whose national policy had done so much to build up Canadian industry. The speaker said that when he had begun buying years ago, he had found it possible only to buy a few lines of Canadian shoes, but as a result of the protection accorded Canadian manufacturers by the national policy at the end of his time as a buyer he had been able to buy half a million dollar's worth of shoes from the same factory that formerly could only sell him $600 a year. Mr. Ecclestone declared that Canada needed to protect her industries and thus provide work for the greater population that should be her's.

Meeting Of Cabinet Held

Action Is In Agreement With Constitutional Usage and Advice of Leaders.

TOOK OFFICE IN 1924.

Ramsay MacDonald Is Now Considered Certain To Assume Control.

LONDON, June 3 (Canadian Press). — In conference with his colleagues of the Cabinet this afternoon, Stanley Baldwin, Prime Minister of England and head of the Conservative Government which has guided the nation since October, 1924, decided to tender the resignation of his ministry to the King.

His action, caused by the defeat of the Conservative Party in the general elections on Thursday, is in agreement with constitutional usage and with the advice of powerful Conservative leaders and most of the Conservative press.

J. Ramsay MacDonald, Premier of the first Labor Government in the history of England, is now considered certain to assume control of His Majesty's Government.

Minority Government

Thus for the second time within five years, the Labor party, which 30 years ago held not a single seat in the House of Commons, will come to power. It will rule as the strongest party in the House, and not as a stable majority government. Labor held only 287 seats out of 308 necessary for a majority after the general election.

Mr. MacDonald is for the second time confronted with the problems of a minority government. The Liberals, under the leadership of David Lloyd George, hold the balance of power with 57 seats. The Conservatives being reduced to 255 from the 413 with which Mr. Baldwin faced Parliament after the last general election.

Conservative Losses

The result of the polling for the two seats of the English combined Universities announced to-day revealed an Independent gain from the Conservatives, and the election of the fourteenth woman member to the new Parliament.

Sir Martin Conway, Conservative, was re-elected with 4,321 votes; Miss Eleanor Rathbone, Independent, winning the second seat with a total of 3,394.

PETERBOROUGH CANOE COMPANY BUILDS UNIQUE BOAT FOR T.T.C.

New Craft Leaves Yards of Company On Trip To Toronto To-day.

SISTER SHIP TO FOLLOW.

Boats Are Thirty-five Feet Long and Designed For Rough Weather.

One of the most unique boats ever built in Peterborough, destined for service on an extension of the Gray Line bus service in Toronto Harbour, slid out of the yards of the Peterborough Canoe Company at noon to-day, and began its long journey to Toronto by boat. The boat is one of two specially built passenger craft just completed by the Peterborough Canoe Company for the Toronto Traction Commission. Designed from stem to stern with a view to the comfort of the passengers it represents the last word in sight seeing craft. Its sister ship is to follow in a few days.

The boats are thirty-five feet long, and of a design that will ensure safety in the rough waters of Lake Ontario. Finished in black, with mahogany trimmings, they present a snappy appearance. All the features to be found in a luxurious bus are in these boats, including comfortable scoop seats to accommodate thirty persons. The windows of the spacious cabins cans be raised and lowered with the same ease as those of an automobile. Electric heating and lighting has been provided. Powered with a hundred horse power Kermath motor, the boats cut through the water at a fair rate of speed.

The first boat is being delivered by two pilots sent down by the purchasers, and a local mechanic, and they expect the trip will take about two and a half days.

England, Scotland and Ireland, taken together, are smaller than the state of New Mexico.

Archie and William McIntyre Appear Before His Honor Judge Huycke.

TRAPPING MARSH.

Boys Claimed Indians Were Trespassing On Their Father's Land Rights.

Archie McIntyre, 15-year-old son of William McIntyre, who lives with his father and younger brother, Billie, on a farm in Otonabee bordering the Hiawatha Indian Reserve, appeared in County Court, Saturday morning, before His Honor Judge Huycke, charged with unlawfully shooting at Indians with intent to maim or injure under section 273 of the Criminal Code. The charge was reduced to that of aiming at Indians, and he was fined $50.

Crown-Attorney, K.C., prosecuted, and Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., acted for the defence. The evidence for the prosecution consisted of that given by Provincial Constable Harry Thompson and several Indians, while that of the defence was given by the accused himself; his brother, Billie, and character testimonies by his school teacher and several neighbors.

Bullet Splashed in Water

The offence was said to have been committed in March or April of this year.

Bertram Anderson, an Indian living on the Reserve, was the first witness called by the Crown. He knew the McIntyre boys, but could not tell them apart. He was trapping near Herkimer's Point, a part of the Reserve, in March or April, 1929, and had heard shooting but could not see who was doing it. He paddled his

Mrs. George Burnham Rescues Canoeists From Drowning Near Crowe's Landing

Mrs. George Burnham, who is occupying her cottage at Crowe's Landing, was the chief figure in what might have been a drowning fatality of Friday night.

Hearing screams at about 11 o'clock, Mrs. Burnham started out in a canoe to give assistance. She discovered that Miss Bloomfield and Mr. Pinkerton had been upset in the lake, as they were proceeding from Crowe's Landing to Eel's Creek. The latter took cramps, but with the aid of his companion, the boat was righted and Pinkerton, in an exhausted condition, was placed in it, while Miss Bloomfield hung on to the side, with no means of getting ashore.

Friday was a very cold night, and the timely arrival of Mrs. Burnham undoubtedly saved the two lives, as another fifteen minutes of exposure might have been fatal to both. It took a great deal of effort to bring Mr. Pinkerton back to a normal condition.

Liberals Not to Support Baldwin

Nine Seats Unheard From

Labor is 33 Short of Clear Majority in House of Commons.

HOLDS INITIATIVE.

New Parliament is Summoned To Meet on June 25.

LONDON, June 3. — (Canadian Press Cable).—With 606 out of 615 seats reported the post-election standing of parties last night was as follows:

Labor	287
Conservatives	254
Liberals	57
Nationalists	3
Independents	4
Prohibitionist	1
In doubt	9

This leaves Labor 29 seats short of the total of all others combined, or 33 short of a majority in the commons should the remaining nine seats result, as expected, in no further change.

The nine results not expected for some days are: Scottish Universities, three seats, Oxford University, two seats, English combined Universities, one seat, Rugby (election postponed on account of death of a candidate), Birmingham-Ladywood and Orkney-and-Shetland.

Nothing has occurred over the week-end to clarify the political situation or point a decisive way out of the parliamentary deadlock resulting from Thursday's general election, when the Labor party emerged with the largest party in the next parliament, but without a clear majority over all others.

Parliament Meet June 25

Premier Stanley Baldwin was at the prime minister's country home, Chequers, yesterday, while Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald, Labor leader, was at his home in North London, Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George at his country home, Churt. And no doubt all three were thinking hard. Within three weeks profound decisions must be taken, for the new parliament is summoned to meet on June 25.

Mr. MacDonald last night, in a statement to the Herald, which supports the Labor party, declared that "Labor holds the initiative and is going to keep it."

"Mr. Baldwin must inform the country of his intentions without delay as a primary duty. The decision of the electors is perfectly clear. They told the Liberals they were unwanted, and Labor is the only alternative government. I wish we had a majority independent of all parties, but short of that the present results are as good as can be and I am very pleased with them."

Premier Baldwin will call his cabinet early this week and presumably will then announce whether he chooses to face the situation by meeting parliament with a reconstructed cabinet—he has lost one cabinet minister and seven others, and the Earl of Lalfour and Rt. Hon. W. C. Bridgeman are retiring—or will resign.

According to the Daily Express, ex-Premier Lloyd George late last night, after consultation with Lord Reading, Sir Herbert Samuel and other prominent supporters, definitely decided that the Liberals should not back the Conservatives in the House of Commons.

EDITOR OF HUSH IS ASSAULTED

Thomson alleges that following an argument he was attacked by the three men. He suffered cuts and bruises requiring hospital attention. His physician described his injuries as "serious."

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 3. — Earl Vanderburg, aged 32 this city, was killed, and James Cope, aged 32, Montrose, was probably fatally injured yesterday when their car struck a bridge at Black Creek on the Niagara Parkway. WARKWORTH PRESBYTERIANS CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

History of Presbyterianism Dates Back Several Years Further in Northumberland Village.

BROAD-MINDED POLICY.

Both Services Are Largely Attended With Special Music Rendered.

WARKWORTH, June 3 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — Yesterday, the congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church here celebrated the seventy-first anniversary. Although it is seventy-one years since the first minister was called to the pastorate, the history of Presbyterianism dates back several years further, when ministers from other nearby localities held services in Warkworth as frequently as possible. In honor of the event, the United Church was closed for both services and many of the members of that church were in attendance at the hour of worship of their sister congregation.

Special Music.

Music, special for the occasion, was furnished by a gowned choir of twenty voices. At the morning service, there was a solo by Mr. C. T. Maycock, "A Little While" (Rolfe), and an anthem by the choir, "Let the Earth Rejoice" (Adams). In the evening, the anthem was Kirkpatrick's "The Earth is the Lord's." There was also a male quartette, "The Riches of Love," by Sargent. The singers were C. Bowen, C. A. Campbell, C. T. Maycock and F. Haynes.

The pulpit platform and front of the church were beautifully decorated with bouquets of flowers.

Before introducing the special preacher for the services, the Rev. Gordon Duncan, minister of the church, stated a few facts relative to the history of the congregation. One special note was the fact that seventy-one years and one day (June 1, 1858) ago, the congregation had called its first minister. This was the Rev. Thomas Alexander. Mr. Alexander

FIRE ALARM.

Campbellford Brigade Called To Chimney Fire at Home of Mrs. Thomas Iliffe.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 3 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — The local fire brigade got off to a good start for the month of June when an alarm was turned in at 5.20 Saturday afternoon from the box at the corner of Grand road and Canrobert street. But the first was not in that vicinity. When the truck arrived there, it was directed to continue south and proceeded to do so with all possible speed. Almost two miles south of the corporation, the trouble was located as a chimney fire at the home of Mrs. Thomas Iliffe. The blaze was confined to the masonry of the chimney and was soon extinguished with chemicals. Another discovery that was made by the firemen was that the right rear tire of the truck was not only flat but ruined from being driven that way. It was changed while the chimney fire was being attended to.

During the month of May, the brigade had only two calls, both chimney fires.

NEW CHURCH IS DEDICATED AT CODRINGTON

Building is Filled to Capacity At Both Services Yesterday.

FORMER MINISTER SPEAKS.

Three Ministers Conduct Special Dedication Ceremony.

CODRINGTON, June 4.— (Examiner Staff Correspondence.)—If the Codrington United church had been designed to accommodate such congregations as attended it last Sunday then there had been a serious miscalculation in the specifications. Every available seat was occupied. Chairs were placed in the aisles and at the rear. People crowded in the doorway and stood jammed on the stairs leading to the basement. Others listened at the open windows which were high above their heads. Scores were unable to get in the building or near enough to its doors or windows to hear enough of the service to make it worth while staying.

The event was the dedication of the building known as the Codrington United church. As an example of such, it is unique. The building is of brick, stone and concrete. It stands on the west side of the Campbellford-Brighton highway, on the southern edge of the village of Codrington. It is not, in a sense, a new building, but a combination of two older structures into one modern building which will cater to the spiritual needs of the members of the United church in that district. Proof that it is a real united church is adequately furnished by the fact that the foundation carries three corner stones. The oldest is the stone from the Bethany church which bears the inscription 1870, Mount Olivet is the second oldest with the inscription 1873. The third stone is modern, 1929. The material from both buildings was used in the erection of the present one. In a brief address to the congregation yesterday afternoon, the Rev. D. R. Clare, minister of the church, said he thought the day should be one of thanksgiving since it represented the consummation of one of the objects of the congregation. The building which formed a part of the present ceremony was more in the form of a re-dedication ceremony. Another feature of the day was the fact that it was the United Church Conference Sunday.

After inviting the other ministers present to sit with him in the pulpit, Mr. Clare publicly acknowledged the honor and fidelity of Mr. Huffman of Trenton, who had moved the Mount Olivet church to its present site. Mr. Huffman had signed no contract. His agreement had been purely verbal and in spite of adverse circumstances, he had stuck to his word and even surpassed it. George McAllister, the contractor, had more than lived up to the terms of his agreement. The building committee and others came in for their share of credit as well.

Special Music.

In honor of the occasion, there was a well filled choir loft. The singers added greatly to the attractive service. Miss Laura Mackie of Oshawa, was the soloist at both afternoon and evening services. Miss Mackie is a soprano with a most pleasing voice which is well controlled and of wide range. Her singing was an impressive feature of the service. In the afternoon she saing, 'My World' (Geehl), and in the evening, "Beside the Still Waters" (Hambley.) Her accompaniments were played by Mrs. Cameron, the church organist. In the afternoon she sang, 'My World' by the choir, 'I Love to Tell the Story' (Gabriel), the solo parts being taken by Lorne Darling, tenor, and Clarence Masson, baritone. There were two anthems in the evening. The first one, 'It is Not Far' (Clarke) was sung, with Mrs. Loomis and Mr. Darling taking the solo parts, one duet passage was sung by Mrs. Loomis and Mr. Darling and the second duet by Mrs. Loomis and Mrs. McCall. Through the services, violin music was used in conjunction with the organ and choir.

Rev. Mr. Smith.

In the afternoon, the Rev. Mr. Smith, a former minister of the district, was the special preacher. He selected as his text, the ninth verse of the third chapter of the Book of Chronicles. We are laborers together unto God. Before entering upon his sermon proper, he expressed his delight at being honored by the request to preach on such a great occasion. It had been fifteen years since he had been a minister in the neighborhood and time had wrought many changes. He felt practically like a stranger, he said. Through he knew but few he was glad to be back.

The present situation at Codrington, he believed to resemble the situation at Corinth at the time about which Paul wrote. There were several divisions in the church there and there was strife between them

FIVE NEW PEERS IN HONOR LIST OF KING GEORGE

His Majesty's Doctors Are Amongst Those Distinguished By Ruler.

ELEVEN NEW BARONETS.

Galsworthy and Robert Bridges Receive Order of Merit.

(By Thomas T. Champion—Staff Correspondent Canadian Press).

LONDON, June 3.—Five new peerages are created in the birthday honors list of His Majesty made public last night. The physicians who attended His Majesty during his severe illness receive mention, and five Privy Councillorships, 11 Baronetcies and 32 Knighthoods are bestowed.

The Order of Merit is bestowed on Robert Bridges, poet laureate, in "recognition of his eminent position in the world of literature." This high award is also conferred on John Galsworthy, noted novelist and playwright, for his services in literature and drama.

A Knighthood, Grand Cross of the Order of the Bath, is conferred on Admiral Sir Sydney Fremantle, retired; on Admiral Sir Richard Phillimore, principal naval Aide-de-Camp to His Majesty; General Sir Philip Chetwode, Chief of the General Staff in India since last year, and Viscount Lee of Fareham, former Conservative Cabinet Minister and soldier who organized the military survey of the Canadian frontier in 1894-96.

Order of Bath Given.

Sir Frederick Hewitt, surgeon to His Majesty, receives the Order of Knght Companion of the Bath, and a Knighthood is conferred on Dr. Robert Woods, specialist in ultra-violet ray treatments, both of whom assisted in the treatment of the King's illness.

The distinctions granted to the medical men are the most interesting of those which may be considered as being conferred on His Majesty's personal initiative, for the list also embraces such honors as Premier Stanley Baldwin recommended and His Majesty was pleased to approve in connection with the dissolution of Parliament.

Among the higher honors Viscount Inchcape, the noted shipping magnate, is advanced to an Earldom. Right Hon. W. C. Bridgeman, retiring First Lord of the Admiralty, is advanced to a Viscountcy; Right Hon. Lord Hailsham, Lord Chancellor, is made a Viscount, and Right Hon. Lord Plumer, distinguished soldier, is also made a Viscount.

Takes Two Steps.

The elevation of Mr. Bridgeman was expected, but it will be noted he takes two steps in the Peerage at one bound. Lord Hailsham's brief career as Lord Chancellor—he was formerly Sir Douglas Hogg — has evidently earned the approval both of the King and the Prime Minister. Lord Plumer's advancement will be hailed with satisfaction as a well-deserved additional compliment to this fine old warrior.

The following are created Barons: Sir William Berry, newspaper magnate; Colonel Sir Edward Brotherton, former member of the House of Commons for Wakefield; Right Hon. Sir Robert Sanders, former Minister of Agriculture; and Right Hon. Sir George Tyrrell, British Ambassador to Paris.

The following are created Privy Councillors: Lord Dawson of Penn, chief of the physicians attending His Majesty; Major John Walter Hills, former Financial Secretary to the Treasury; Sir Ellis Hume-Williams, member of the House of Commons for Norwich; Hon. Earle Page, Treasurer in Australian Government; Lieut.-Col. Herbert Spender-Clay, member of Parliament for Tonbridge

Balfour Is Baronet.

Baronetcies are conferred on the following: Sir Arthur Balfour, Chairman of the Government's Committee on Industry; Sir Edward Buzzard, Physician Extraordinary to His Majesty; Captain Anstruther Calthorpe, who has given generously to the Municipality of Birmingham; Benjamin Dawson, Chairman of the Bradford Conservatives; John Wainwright Hopkins, former member of Parliament for St. Pancras; Sir Philip Pilditch, member of Parliament for Spelthorne; Frederick Richmond, Governor of the Middlesex Hospital; Colonel Mallison Rigby, Sergeant Surgeon to His Majesty; Alexander Sandeman, member of Parliament for Prestwich; Sir Charles Forestier-Walker, member of Parliament for Monmouth; Lieut.-Col. Albert L. Ward, member of Parliament for Hull.

The Knighthoods include: Major J. D. Birchall, member of Parliament for Leeds; Captain William Brass, also a member of Parliament; Ben Greet, noted producer of Shakespearian plays; William High, Lord Provost of Dundee; William Meade King of Taunton; Joseph Q. Lamb, member of Parliament for Stoke; Dr. Chalmers Mitchell of the Zoological Society; Dr. Robert Woods; Francis Wylie, Secretary at Oxford of the Rhodes Trust, and a number of persons in New Zealand and India.

There is also a list of decorations in connection with the recent centenary of the Metropolitan Police.

CHAPTER VII.

TRAININGS AND ELECTIONS.

During many years the militia of this town and county met annually at Major Anderson's on the north shore of Rice Lake, for the formalities of "training," as it was called, which consisted chiefly in answering to the muster call of their several companies, forming in double column, and an attempt at the first steps in military drill. Drinking and dissipation not unusually followed, and form ed no small portion of the apparent duties of the day.

Previous to the division of the district, which took place in 1841, a great deal of inconvenience and loss of time was occasioned by Jurymen from all these townships having to attend the sittings of the courts at Cobourg; but the duty was unavoidable, and had to be borne as best it could.

The first election of a representative in the Legislative Assembly of Upper Canada, in which interest was taken in this county, was that of 1834. The candidates, we are informed, were Colonel Alexander McDonell, Dr. John Gilchrist, James Grey Bethune and W. S. Conger, Esquires, the latter of whom was then engaged in mercantile life at Cobourg. Col. McDonell was elected.

The next election was held at Sully, on the south side of Rice Lake, in 1836, and was the scene of much excitement. The candidates were Henry Ruttan, Esq., Colonel Alexander McDonell, George M. Boswell, Esq., and Dr. John Gilchrist.

So strong was the feeling here shown in favor of the candidates from Peterborough, that a number of leading Conservatives clubbed together, and raised a sunken steamer lying in the lower portion of the Otonabee, and had her fitted out so as to ply up and down the river for the conveyance of voters. Temporary booths were erected in the vicinity of the polling place, where refreshments were served, while here and there, at convenient distances, the "free and independent electors" found whole barrels of whiskey, standing on end, with the heads knocked out, from which they dipped and drank at pleasure. These were evidently "drouthy" times, but it must be remembered that the exigency of the occasion was great, and that the wants of an entire District had to be supplied. Of course some scenes of violence accompanied these copious libations, but happily no lives were lost; and these very excesses no doubt contributed to bring about the wise legislation which during the present decade has rendered such scenes impossible. The election of 1836 resulted in a majority of votes for Col. Alexander McDonell, who was accordingly declared duly elected.

As yet, Peterborough had no printing press, and of course no local newspaper. Both of these wants were supplied by John Darcus, Esq., who in November, 1837, commenced the publication of the "Backwoodsman and Peterborough Sentinel." Judging from some numbers of the second volume before us, it was of fair size, technically known as "medium." In typography and editorial management its appearance was creditable, and would enable it to compare favorably with the local press of the time. The office of publication was a frame building of two stories, on the west side of George street, a little south of King, which was in subsequent years used as a school house; and at length becoming dilapidated, fell a prey to the incendiary during the winter of 1865-66. Mr. Darcus was a prominent character in the local affairs of the time—has had already been mentioned—and will be referred to again in a future page.

Only One Month Away

FOUR weeks from to-night we shall be on the eve of Old Home Week, and visitors will already be arriving.

There are just twenty-four working days left to complete organisation and plan entertainment.

Now, if ever, is the time for every citizen to do his share—to find the place where he can help the work.

As has been said before, this celebration is not a committee affair, or solely the interest of the City Council. It depends for its success on the help of every citizen.

If you can't do anything else, beautify your home and decorate it; give the city a gala appearance for this great event—and then extend the hospitality of your roof to as many visitors as you can entertain.

Co-operation counts in everything, but Peterborough has never before tackled a job so big as this, and co-operation is essential.

AN OLD ENGINE.

Alpine McNab of the Canadian National Railway, agent at Peterborough, says that if application be made the railway authorities would send to Peterborough the oldest Canadian National engine, as an interesting and antique show piece. The venerable engine is much respected and valued on account of its age, construction and long service. It was in the years of its coming into service a wood burner and as such shed sparks and illumination all along the lines.

It is suggested that the Toronto Scottish Regiment be hauled from Toronto to Peterborough by this engine; of course, not in coaches of similar years of service to the engine. The old machine could be suitably decorated (same as vehicles are adorned for weddings) and so make quite a picture of interest to kids and those disposed to value the antique. It is likely the Executive Committee will approve and make arrangements. —F. H. D.

OLD BOYS AND YOUNG GIRLS.

Alec Lockington, of Brantford, who had been approached and urged to get active and hold a get-together meeting of all old Peterborough boys in his city, writes and tells us:

"We are planning to have a meeting, but in the meantime, on behalf of myself and of those whom I have already spoken to, we assure you that we are looking forward to the occasion with pleasure.

"We are not promising a band of muscians, but we will bring from Brantford and vicinity a band of loyal supporters of Peterborough who have a desire to meet and renew friendships face to face with all the old boys and the young girls we used to know." —F. H. D.

Conservatory Anniversary

One of the most charming events in connection with Old Home Week will be the Reception that is to take place on Tuesday afternoon, July 2, to celebrate the twenty-fifth birthday of the Peterborough Conservatory of Music.

Invitations are being sent out to former teachers and pupils, to parents, to present teachers, pupils and citizens, for this event.

The hall is being beautifully decorated, and a delightful program will be given during the afternoon by the Madrigal Singers and the Symphony Orchestra. There will be short speeches by a few of the leading citizens, and an enjoyable time will be spent meeting old friends and in making new ones, in listening to fine music, in charming surroundings and partakings of a cup of tea and dainty refreshments. All of the following ladies are actively engaged in arranging that the reception will be one of the most delightful events of the week:

Mrs. J. A. Aylmer, Mrs. J. Forbes Allan (Secretary), Mrs. William Blackwell, Mrs. N. B. Buchanan, Miss Clarry, (chairman), Mrs. G. N. Gordon, Mrs. T. H. Gillespie, Mrs. W. H. DAIRY BOARDS

BELLEVILLE, June 3 (Special to The Examiner).—The annual meeting of the Belleville Cheese Board of Trade was held on Saturday, with a large attendance. The price of cheese has been high this year, and, in the opinion of the buyers, higher prices are anticipated. This board is one of the most active in Ontario, and more cheese is boarded than i nany district in Ontario. The officiers are: President, Charles Mumby; First Vice-President, Sam Nicholson; Second Vice-President, Dan Wesley; Third Vice-President, Stanley Walker; Cecretary-Treasurer, F. R. Mallory; Auditors, E. B. Finkle and James Sills.

NAPANEE, June 3.—At the regular meeting of the Napanee Cheese Board there were 240 white and 1,282 colored cheese boarded. All sold at 18 cents to the usual buyers.

CHICAGO WHEAT

CHICAGO, June 3.— Quick right-about-face action of the wheat market Saturday brought about price upturns strongly in contrast with the recent long succession of setbacks. Aggressive buying from important sources developed, with trade leaders taking the ground that lowest quotations on wheat for at least some time had been reached, and that enactment of a farm relief bill and appointment of a Farm Board within two weeks would be expected. Best prices of the day, however, were not maintained in the face of profit-taking during the late transactions.

Wheat closed unsettled, ¼c to ⅞c net higher; corn &c to 1c up; oats ⅝c to 1c advance; and provisions unchanged to a rise of 12c.

Accompanying the rise in wheat values Friday were estimates from one of the foremost unofficial crop experts here that the outlook was for 70,000,000 bushels less in the United States and 110,000,000 bushels less in Canada than last year. It was said the Canadian output last year was of a freak nature, and that the 1929 Canadian harvest, as figured on the present estimate of acreage, and on a ten-year average yield, would be but 387,000,000 bushels, compared with 500,000,000 bushels last year and 377,000,000 bushels average in the preceding five years.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, June 3.—Purchases by Chicago interests forced prices higher on Saturday's wheat market, values moving forward 1½c in the first hour of trading. Although offerings were heavy on the bulges the market added to its gains, and finished the day 1½c to 1¼c higher. At one period prices were 2c above Friday's close, but the advance was not maintained for long.

Export business in Canadian wheat was limited.

Shippers and millers entered the cash pit and bought all available supplies at prices generally unchanged to ½c higher. Light offerings curtailed the volume of trading.

Nos. 1 and 2 feed oats were in good demand. These grades advanced ⅝c. Barley and rye scored gains of 1¼c and 1c, respectively, in a fairly active market. Flax was also fractionally higher.

ROBERT HARPER SHAW

CAMBELLFORD, June 4 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—The remains of the late Robert Harper Shaw were brought from Toronto Saturday afternoon and laid in their last resting place in Mount Pleasant Cemetery. The body was met at the train by members of the Masonic Order and conveyed to St. John's United Church where service was held. There were many old friends of the former citizen present to pay their last respects. The service was conducted by the Rev. R. C. Tait, minister of the church. At its conclusion an opportunity was afforded any who so desired, to view the remains. As the body was carried out of the church, Albert Hazel, church organist, played the Dead March from Saul. There were many beautiful flowers. The pall bearers were members of the Masonic order, Mayor Davidson, W. J. Armstrong, G. A. Hay, G. A. Kingston, J. N. Stone and J. C. Birmingham. At the grave the Masonic brethren bade their fraternal farewell to their departed brother.

The late Harper Shaw was in his sixty-ninth year. He was born in Huntingdon township, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Shaw. As a young man he came to Campbellford and worked at his trade as a baker in the employ of the late Thomas Doake. Later he went into business for himself, and for many years conducted a successful bakery and confectionery business which he later disposed of to Long Brothers. After disposing of his business he became associated with the Birmingham hardware, and six year ago, retired and moved to Toronto.

He was a member of the United Church, a charter member of the local lodge of the I.O.O.F., having brought his certificate here from Madoc in 1885. He was also a member of the Masonic Order. A man of quiet disposition the late Mr. Shaw enjoyed the privileges of a wide circle of friends.

Surviving is one daughter, Miss Carl S. Shaw of Toronto. His wife, one son and one daughter predeceased him several years ago. Mr. Shaw had been in falling health for several years, and for the past eighteen months had been confined to his bed.

Aged Man Scores Point Over Lawyer

CAMPBELLFORD, June 3.—(Examiner Staff Corres,ondence.)—Friday in police court an old man scored a point on an admittedly clever lawyer. The man was no child as his snow-white hair testified. Nor was he small, he towered head and shoulders above anyone else in the court. His speech was low-voiced but emphatic to a remarkable degree. During his examination he was asked what he was doing when he first saw the fight.

"I was sitting on the verandah. My wife was lying down on the couch."

"I see," said the lawyer. "And you were reading? The paper, I suppose."

"No sir I was reading a book. I was reading the scriptures."'

"What book were you reading?" Crown Attorney Kerr asked from the corner.

"The best Book there is," replied the giant veteran with a tone of disgust that anyone should doubt it, and indicated by a look that he was ready for the next question.

CADETS HOLD CHURCH PARADE

Campbellford Corps Concludes Training For Terms By Attending Service.

AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 3 (Examin Staff Correspondence).—Following their usual custom the Cadet Corps of the high and public schools concluded their training for the term by parading to church Sunday morning. For several years it has been the established procedure to attend divine servie on the Sunday immediately following inspection. This year the corps attended St. John's United Church. The high school cadets paraded from their grounds along Ranney street to the public schools, where the junior corps took its place directly to the church.

Special Service

Choosing his text from the Old Testament, the last verse of the fortieth chapter of the book of Genesis, the Rev. R. C. Tait, minister of the church, preached an inspiring sermon on patriotism, fidelity and the qualities expected to be manifest by the true man. There was special music by the choir under the direction of Albert Hazel, church organist and choir master. "Hail, Hail, King George" (Queinten) was the solo sung by Walter Henson. The anthen by the choir was "Land of Hope and Glory" (Sir Edward Elgar).

Owing to the fact that the Rev. Mr. Tait had been requested to preach in Codrington, the pulpit was occupied at the evening servic by the Rev. Mr. Leigh, of Hilton United Church. The music for the service consisted of two Let Us Worship" (Baines) the solo anthems. In the first, "O Come, Let Us Worship (Baines) the solo passage was sung by Mrs. F. J. Smith. "Conquering Kings" (Maunder) was the second anthem. The solo in it was sung by Mrs. F. J. Smith.

WARKWORTH PRESBYTERIANS

was then stationed at Cobourg, and had held occasional services in Warkworth. The Rev. Reid had been the next minister, and held regular services in Warkworth and also in Colborne and Grafton. During its history the congregation had heard several famous men in the ministry. On the occasion of its golden jubilee, the Rev. Robert Knowles had been the minister. On the present occasion, the Rev. Dr. Rochester of Toronto was the preacher.

Before entering upon his sermon for the morning, Dr. Rochester gave a brief address to the children. As a basis for his remarks, he selected two short verses of scripture, "Prove all things," and "Hold fast that which is good." This advice, he said, could be more concisely expressed in two short words, "grip and grit."

Morning Sermon.

First of all, Dr. Rochester wished to express his appreciation for having been asked to be the special minister for the anniversary services. He wished for the church and the congregation a future of bounteous prosperity. As his text, the Doctor selected the thirteenth verse of the twelfth chapter of the second book of Philippians. He began his remarks by saying that he was pleased to learn that there were members of other churches present. Such was the policy of the Presbyterian Church. It was broad-minded in its views, and the visible church was made up of all and any who desired to meet within its walls for Divine worship. The Presbyterian Church had never had any rules of admission other than faith in God and a desire to live a good life. It stood for a unity of spirit in a bond of peace, which, he claimed, was a broad foundation.

The theme of salvation had two aspects, he stated, the present and the futue. These were not two different salvations, but merely two different aspects of one and the same thing, and they were intimately related. To speak of being saved now, was not wrong scripturally, he said. Nor was it bold. There were those who believed that salvation drew nearer with the passing of time. But it was imperative that each person work out their own salvation and the proper time to do it was between the first and second aspects.

In many copies of the Bible, there were marginal notes, explanations, references and alternative translations. In one place he had noticed the word, honor. This word might be translated in numerous ways. During the Great War, the soldiers of the Canadian and other British forces had used the term, "Carry On." The French troops had given it a different wording, "L'Appelle de la Rue," or the call of the road. It was one ana the same thing. Weary after a day of forced marching or a hard battle at the front, the soldier lay down to rest. Frequently he was cold and wet, utterly exhausted physically and nervously. At the sound of the bugle next morning, he rose with every bone, every muscle every nerve protesting. Yet he did rise and answered the Call of the Road. So must the people of to-day answer the call every morning. In the eyes of God there was nothing fairer than a good character.

In the world of sport there were events in which many entered but few completed the course. Such an event had taken place into Toronto last year in the form of a marathon swim. But in the race of existence everyone must finish and all may reach the goal. But they must achieve thei rown salvation and remain indomnitable till they have done so. To achieve this end, they must really work both physically and mentally. As proof of his statement, he called to witness the work of any artist, a pianist whose fingers flew dexterously over the keys, an artist whose brush achieved the seemingly impossible. All this was the result of work.

The destiny of every man was largely of his own making. Despite all odds, when a man discovers what is right and stands up for it, nothing can overcome him. Every individual person must make up their own mind and work out their own salvation by determining the course which they will follow.

Evening Service

The chapter from which Dr. Rochester's text was taken in the evening and which he had read as the lesson, was known as the "Consecration Chapter." Its interpretation as such might be found in every realm of the land. In support of this statement, he related several instances. One was that of a French soldier who was killed in battle. In his pocket was found a letter addressed to one of his people at home. It asked them not to grieve for him should he be killed, since he had given himself both body and soul to the cause of his country Another incident was that of an English cobbler, who lived his life in the narrow confines of his cobbling shop. But his thoughts travelled through a much wider sphere. He became the founder of one of the world's greatest missionary societies and also a great scholar in the Indian Empire. The man was William Carey. Another outstanding example was that of a shoe salesman in an American store. He pledged himself to see how much a consecrated layman could do. His first achivement was to become the best salesman in the establishment. Then he went out into the streets and collected a Sunday school class of street urchins. Later he rented a pew in his church and filled it with these boys. Still later he rented a second pew and filled it. Eventually he had rented five pews and filled them with boys whom he had gathered around him. The man was Dwight L. Moodie. His example was one of the greatest and might well be followed to-day. The minister was not the only one who was capable of filling the pews.

These incidents were quoted as examples of what he believed the chapter intended to convey. They illustrated the results of consecrated effort along some particular line of work.

NEW CHURCH IS DEDICATED AT CODRINGTON

until Paul came and adjusted matters. He brought them all under one leader, Christ. In all human beings, the essential element was co-operation with God. Valuable things became worthless under certain conditions. Huge quantities of silver were useless to a man in the desert who was dying of thirst. Radio, electricity, drugs or chemicals, all were useless unless used in proper co-operation with something else. Burbank had done wonderful things in the world of flowers. It was conceded that the rose was evolved from a brier, that the orange came from a bitter berry. God, he said, had given, through Nature, the raw material. It was for man to co-operate with Him in an intellectual way in order to develop these things. Nothing in world was greater than the re-creation of the human soul. Yet this was not possible without the co-operation of Man with God. God comes to those who are ready to receive Him, and works with man to make the world a better place.

The word together, in the text, was a strange form of encouragement for man. In the modern world of industry, people worked together. Individual effort might appear to fail but the momentum of the united effort of the whole, was sure to carry on. When the tide was coming in against the rocky coast, one wave appeared to fall in its attempt, yet the tide did come in.

Dedication Ceremony

The official dedication ceremony followed the sermon. Of the board of trustees seven were present. The ceremony was solemnly performed with the Rev. Mr. Smith, the Rev. Mr. Leigh, and the Rev. Mr. Clare each taking part. The seven trustees stood in a line in front of the pulpit platform during the ceremony

Again in the evening the church was filled to capacity though with a much smaller congregation than at the afternoon session of the dedication services. The Rev. R. C. Tait was the minister for the evening. He selected as his text, the forty-third chapter of Ezekiel and the thirteenth and fourteenth verses. Before dealing with his text, Mr. Tait expressed his pleasure at being present to assist in the services on so memorable an occasion.

The text he explained, had to do with measurements, the dimensions of the altar of the church of the Israelites. In the present case, the actual measurement was negligible, it was the altar with which his address had to do. This, of course, was the arithmetical dimensions. There were, however, measurements which were not easily defined. A rose bush was of a certain height and bore a certain number of flowers. Yet the fragrance of these blooms was immeasurable. In a home, there were rooms laid out according to a certain plan. But a house building did not make a home. It was the atmosphere and influence and family spirit which prevailed within, something intangible which, be it cottage or palace, did not change.

The deepest things of life were beyond mathematical calculation. A mother's love can not be measured arithmetically. There are people who are familiar with the longest chapter and the shortest verse. But these are merely external and immaterial. The main thing is what does the entire Book mean in the lives of the people. A Sunday school teacher measures her class and finds them inattentive and she becomes discouraged. She is measuring them as the people in the days of Ezekiel measured their altar in cubits. What her standard should be is what is the potential greatness of the children. As an example, David Lloyd George returns at intervals to his old church and remembers his Sunday school class of many years ago.

There were methods of saving the young lives, said Mr. Tait. As an example, there was a case where a boy was trapped in a high window and the firemen could not reach with any ladders at their disposal. Eventually they formed a human ladder. Up they went, saved the child. They boy was John Wesley, the founder of Methodism. Then there was the other incident where a man and woman were walking through the wilderness, escaping with a child. The child was Jesus, the Saviour of the world.

People frequently judge incorrectly. There was only one prophet left of the prophets of Baal. This was Elijah. He was discouraged and pleaded that his life might be taken. But the Lord told him that there were seven thousand people who had not yet bowed down to Baal. A feeling of dejection had changed a standard of measurement. In measuring the worth of a man, people are prone to consider his bank account, his real estate and other material things. It is not what a man has, but what he is, that counts. Man's worldly possessions are left behind when he departs from this world; but his character goes with him into the next. He stands before the seat of judgment and is judged for what he is, not what he had. That is Christ's standard of measurement.

Altered the Standards.

During His life on earth, Jesus altered the standards of prestige and service. These standards are in use to-day. Many people are familiar with the story of the cross, but it is of little or no use to them, since they do not make a personal application of its example. Sin is personal, therefore salvation must be of the same nature. They must seek to make themselves good. "This is the dearest that Jesus loves me."

In conclusion, Mr. Tait said that the measurement of the church must be power generating to the homes and to the individuals of the homes, and in the community in general. This must be their standard of measurement;; they must rejoice in personal knowledge of sins forgiven.

The alterations and additions to the building now known as Codrington United Church were completed at an approximate cost of four thousand dollars. This money has been all subscribed with the exception of twelve hundred dollars.

For Two Pieces of Silver

BABYLON, with its hundred gates of brass, its busy quays on the Euphrates and its ships and caravans outward bound to the ports of the ancient world!

Was there insurance in those days? Yes, such as it was, for it is recorded that by payment of two pieces of silver, a slave owner could protect himself for a fixed period against the loss of any slave through death or theft.

But the great humane institution of insurance was destined to play a nobler part in the civilization and needs of mankind.

To-day The Dominion Life Assurance Company, in its service to Canadians, is a demonstration of what modern life insurance means to the future happiness of men, women and children everywhere. Founded forty years ago, The Dominion Life ranks as one of Canada's strong financial institutions while, through able management and a careful investment policy, it has constantly maintained its established reputation for large profits to policy-holders.

In the reign of King Hammurabi and successive rulers in Babylon, that great Banking House, The Sons of Egibi—"Rothschilds of the Ancient World"—issued contracts giving protection to owners of vessels at sea and also insured owners of slaves which were purchased in the Babylon market against loss through death or theft during a certain period. The premium in most cases was two pieces of silver.

This is the second of a series of historical advertisements depicting the evidences through the ages of mankind's need of what we know today as Life Insurance

Adventure Bound On The Cariboo Road

LET us show you British Columbia by motor car. First, we'll voyage the famous Cariboo Highway . . . climbing by safe and easy grades along a roadway hewn from the face of a thousand-foot cliff. Far below roars the mighty Fraser River and above are mountain summits and a clear blue sky. We're travelling a route where once the gold-rush hordes adventured!

Or, if you like, we'll tour a wide and pleasant valley fragrant with apple blossoms . . . a curving forest highway . . . a drive by rugged sea-coasts, deep-pierced by a thousand bays. We will motor through the majestic Rockies . . . to the summit of Grouse Mountain and from an alpine chalet look down on a great city, seemingly sheer below. And, of course, tour over the famous Malahat Drive among the mountain meadows of Vancouver Island.

There are 21,000 miles of scenic highways in British Columbia, the greater portion of which is suitable for motor travel. Along these pleasure roads we will stop at comfortable hotels and chalets. We will bathe in the warm, healthful waters of famous hot springs.

Picturesque old pioneers will tell us stories of Indians and the roaring gold-rush days. We will catch glimpses of deer and bear in great forest parks.

Days in the Evergreen Playground are cool and balmy. We will golf and play tennis . . . swim, hunt, fish for fighting salmon and gamey trout. We will live life at its happiest in the famous playgrounds of British Columbia.

MONDAY, JUNE 3, 1929

GOD SAVE THE KING.

Britishers the world over to-day will unite on the anniversary of the birth of their beloved sovereign in giving more than usual fervence to the prayer, "God Save the King."

The Joy usually associated with such an anniversary is dimmed to-day because of anxiety over the condition of King George, whose relapse has given his people much concern.

While the medical reports are somewhat reassuring, the fact that His Majesty has been again confined to bed after slowly recovering from a long and serious illness naturally is disquieting.

The birthday of King George has never been generally celebrated in Canada, but it is to be imagined that on this occasion the thoughts of most Canadians will go across the ocean to the much loved ruler of the Empire, whose grip on the affections of his people the Empire over was attested as never before in the anxiety over his recent grave illness and in the present worry because of his relapse.

The people of the Dominion are unanimous in wishing His Majesty a speedy and complete recovery and many happy returns of his natal anniversary.

A GRACIOUS TRIBUTE.

There was a nice bit of Old Home Week sentiment about the presentation that featured the opening ceremonies in connection with the first Central Ontario League baseball game of the season here on Saturday.

It is particularly appropriate this year when old residents are being invited to come home for a celebration and when old history is being recalled that those who were prominent in the various activities of yesteryear should be honored.

The management of the Peterborough Baseball Club in paying tribute to the services rendered to baseball years ago by such men as W. J. Green, Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C., and Dr. Pentland, who were officers of the local club back in the eighties and incidentally have been ardent supporters of the game ever since, showed a fitting appreciation of the spirit of the Old Home re-union.

The presentation was a gracious recognition of the fact that the present generation owes a debt of gratitude to the pioneers, whether in sport or in any other line of community endeavor.

That debt should be the keynote of the whole Old Home Week celebration.

WOULD HELP CANADIAN GROWERS.

The announcement from Ottawa that the Federal Government is considering the revival of the special tariff duties against certain natural products entering Canada from the United States should create general interest.

It is recognized that in proposing higher duties on early fruits and vegetables the Government is in a ticklish position, because of the opposition of its Western members to any tariff increases whatever.

At the same time the situation of Canadian fruit and vegetable growers demands attention.

The imports of fruits and vegetables into this country from the United States during the last fiscal year exceeded over thirty-eight and one-half million dollars.

It is not difficult to realize how hard hit are Canadian producers by these importations which come into the Canadian market before our own fruits and vegetables are ready, obtain the early season business and spoil the market for Canadian growers, because the public appetite has been satiated by imported fruits and vegetables and the demand for the home-grown article is not heavy enough to ensure profitable prices.

NOTHING TO WORRY ABOUT.

The Ottawa Journal has been delving to some purpose among the mass of figures presented by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, and it has been successful in finding evidence that goes to show that the old cry that Canada would soon be dominated economically by the United States has no real foundation.

As the Journal points out, this fear reached its zenith at the close of the war when, with the British money market closed, necessitating heavy borrowings in New York the wail was set up that Wall street owned us financially and that soon Capitol Hill in Washington would own us politically.

How little ground for these pessimistic predictions there is may be realized from a study of the facts obtained from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, which show:

1. That Canadians own from 55 to 65 per cent. of the securities of all enterprises located on Canadian soil.

2. That British investment in Canada in 1928 was two-thirds of United States investment, or $2,209,517,000 as compared with $3,296,788,000.

3. That Canadian and British capital own from 75 to 80 per cent. of all Canadian enterprises.

4. That Canadian investments in foreign countries amount to $1,579,074,000, or more than a quarter of the amount of all outside investments in Canada.

5. That our total national wealth is between 27 and 30 billions of dollars, or about five times the total of outside capital invested in it.

PULPIT HYSTERIA.

Even allowing for the special atmosphere of piety which sometimes envelopes the pulpit at Jarvis Street Baptist Church, Toronto, Rev. J. W. Gillon, D.D., of Shawnee, Okla., who spoke there last Sunday, seems to have let his tongue run away with his head. Here are two points from one of his sermons:

"Bad as the open saloon is, the open picture house is worse. If I had to make my choice of letting either stay, I'd choose the saloon, for the picture house lays its hand on the unborn babe and never lets loose till it kicks it into hell. No man or woman is fit to be a church member who goes to the movies, and every preacher who goes ought to be turned out of the church and his credentials taken from him."

And: "No man has any right to own an automobile whose earning capacity does not equal an income of $100,000."

On the first question it might be suggested that, as the movies are here to stay, the sensible policy for those who think them wicked is to cease barking at the moon and divert their energies in the direction of improving them so that they may more nearly resemble what Dr. Gillon thinks they should be.

The automobile is also here to stay. If no autos were allowed except to people with an income of $100,000 a year, the economic fabric of the United States would crash to the ground. A very large number of the churches would come crashing down with it for lack of financial support.

The good man also announced that, according to scientific statement, every child whose progenitors have attended movies for two generations will be born blind and an idiot.

Dr. Gillon's progenitors for two generations back have not attended movies. Yet there seems to be something radically wrong with himself.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

PEACE OR POISON?

(From the Nation, New York)

Overtones of doom reverberate from Cleveland. This is no ordinary disaster, to be dismissed with academic pity and medals for heroism. It must generate in every persons who has read its terrible details a deep depression, for it holds a threat of personal danger that cannot be dispelled. Not many years ago thousands of men on the battlefields of Europe were dying of poison gas, as scores died in the Cleveland clinic. Heretofore only those who survived attacks during the war have had any conception of the horror of poison gas. These survivors were not numerous and their ranks have thinned since then. Just as in Cleveland, many who thought they had escaped have died or have been stricken with incurable disease traceable to the effects of gas. The Cleveland disaster brings home to the civilian with terrifying force the significance of the "next war," for which every war department in the civilized world is feverishly preparing.

A half dozen airplanes or, for example, a few Zeppelins loaded not with cheerful and friendly passengers but with gas bombs could wipe out in a few hours not merely scores but hundreds of thousands of lives with the silent yellow death that invaded Cleveland. Those who escaped would perish in the pestilence of unburied dead. Every centre of population would be a death-house from which escape would be impossible.

Poison gas is the most important engine of modern warfare. We forget that the perfection of its deadliness goes on daily throughout the world. It makes one's blood run cold to read that Major-General Gilchrist, chief of the Chemical Warfare Service of the United States, made a trip to Cleveland, apparently in the line of duty. "It was emphasized," reads the report, "that he was moved by a desire to obtain information as to chemical reactions for his service." His comment on the disaster was even more ominous. "I really believe," he said, "the people who died here must be regarded as sacrifices to experience, rather than victims of negligence." The Chemical Warfare Service, like all military institutions, is constantly preparing for the death of hypothetical "enemies"—in France, England, Germany—wherever the hypothetic military problem may be laid. Who knows but what as a result of the Cleveland disaster Paris will be snuffed out in that next war with the gas which proved so efficient at Cleveland?

Arthur Brisbane, in the Hearst press, takes the disaster as his text for a typical militarist sermon demanding more and more preparedness. Such propaganda is as insane, as criminal, as war itself. Preparedness against poison gas is a delusion. There is but one choice to be made and it must be made quickly. The peoples of the world must decide whether they will have peace—or poison.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Guessing what is going to happen in Britain after the election is almost as difficult as it was to predict the result of the election itself.

Ontario is spending $7,500,000 this year in building new road surfaces. Our road system is costing a lot of money, but the expenditure is nevertheless a good investment.

There is every indication of a record tourist season, and, also on every highway evidence that Ontario is prepared to cash in on the tourist traffic.

A Thought

TO SLEEP.

A flock of sheep that leisurely pass by,
One after one; the sound of rain and bees
Murmuring; the fall of rivers, winds and seas,
Smooth fields, white sheets of water and pure sky,
I've thought of all by turns; and yet do lie
Sleepless; and soon the small bird's melodies
Must hear first uttered from my orchard trees,
And the first cuckoo's melancholy cry.
Even thus last night, and two nights more I lay
And could not win thee, sleep, by any stealth,
So do not let me wear tonight away;
Without thee what is all the morning's wealth?
Come, blessed barrier between day and day,
Dear mother of fresh thoughts and joyous health!

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

THE SOUL SHALL WAKE.

Someday
Your sleeping soul shall wake,
Shall put away
The futile things that make
The man but clay,
The earth but earth,
And take the things God-given
And know their worth,
The things that make earth heaven.

Some hour
You shall hold these things dear—
Just peace, not pow'r,
Not crowds, but someone near,
A yellow flow'r
Than something man has gilded,
And your own door
Than towr's by strangers builded.

Sometime
These things you will esteem:
A son, a rime,
Perhaps a painter's dream;
Your soul will climb
Out of its clay—
The God was not mistaken
Who knew someday
Your soul would yet awaken.

On returning to the Herald office he learns that an unidentified body has been found in the tule marsh outside the city.

CHAPTER 9.

An air of triumph was plainly discernible in the "Herald" local room. It manifested itself in the demeanor of the managing editor, who popped in and out of his private office at frequent intervals to confer with Jimmy; in the rushing to and fro of photographers carrying large sheets of cardboard, whereon were spread still wet prints; in the Jack-in-the-box materilaization of a smudgy-faced boy from the composing room, waving a damp page proof over which Jimmy and the managing editor bent with heads that almost touched.

Jimmy jerked the receiver from the jangling telephone at his elbow

"I don't care what it is!" he snapped. "Unless one of them's murdered, don't bother me. Here, Andy, take this call! Our east side man wants to unburden his mind about a kid elopement."

Peter had returned from the city hall and gone straight to his typewriter.

"Got it!" he flung laconically over his shoulder to Jimmy as he passed the desk.

"I'll give you twenty minutes—keep it down to three quarters of a column," Jimmy called after his retreating back.

A copy boy stood at Peter's elbow, seizing each page to be set into type as Peter ripped it from the carriage. When he had finished, he strolled over to the city desk, his hands in his pockets.

"Nobody else had got there. It's an 'exclusive' all right—and it's straight. Camberwell told me with his own ruby lips that Cavanaugh's to be called in. In fact, he was waiting for him to arrive for a conference when I left.

"It's a pretty fair yarn," said Jimmy.

The managing editor darted out of sight again. The local room subsided to a pretense of ordinary routine. Jimmy's watch lay open on the desk, and he consulted it at frequent intervals until a boy appeared with an armload of still sticky papers, the single red line, "Extra," in view across the top. The city editor snatched one of the papers from beneath the boy's arm, but his eyes continued to stray to his watch until, a quarter of an hour later, the cries of the newsboys were wafted up from the street below.

"We beat 'em on the street by fifteen minutes!" Jimmy announced in a tone of deep and almost prayerful gratification.

The contentment of the "Herald" office was by no means shared by the two men who sat chatting in a book-lined room on the top floor of the city hall—the room from which Peter had made a whistling exit not long before. The chat was not an ordinary chat, the two men were not ordinary men and the books, for that matter were not ordinary books several shelves were given over to volumes nearly two feet high, labelled with yearly dates instead of title and containing lists of arrests. Their size and worn covers gave a certain mediaeval atmosphere to a room by no means devoted to mediaeval concerns.

Camberwell, head of the identification bureau, sat tilted far back in a swivel chair which squeaked rhythmically as he rocked to and fro. His frame was large, but his head was set forward above stooping shoulders—the ineradicable stoop of the farm boy whose strength has been early overtaxed by heavy physical labor. His hands, with their twisted fingers and enlarged knuckles, still bore the marks of that boyhood toil But his eyes were the eyes of a student. Since the day when, as a lanky youth, an idea had been born in his mind from a chance thumb mark in a farm house album, he had pursued that one idea with the zeal which only the born specialist can know. He still looked like a middle aged farmer—but he faced Dr. Cavanaugh with the unassuming equality of a fellow-expert.

"I'm not jumping at conclusions," he protested. "I'm just suggesting a possibility to be tested. I wouldn't have bothered you about a mere highway bum, who wandered off into the marsh while drunk, or crept away to die of exposure. There's no doubt at all about it's being a woman. We have mighty little else to go on. There's just one encouraging bit that I'll show you later. It's only a chance, I know—but it's the first chance we've had, and we can't afford to overlook it."

"It was a mute inglorious psychoanalyst living before his time who coined the phrase, 'The wish is father to the thought!'" Dr. Cavanaugh smiled. "However, that's nothing against the thought. I'm quite willing to take it up—only I don't promise anything."

It was Camberwell's turn to smile, a reminiscent smile. He knew from past experience that Dr. Cavanaugh never did promise anything; but the psychiatrist's modesty had not shortened the long list of successful performances, some of them quoted internationally, others—and these included some of the most remarkable—known only to the families of his patients or hidden in the files of police records.

Between these two—the doctor, whose heavy figure was unobtrusively clad in a suit tailored by Brooks' brothers, whose long, pale cigars were manufactured for him individually, according to his own mixture, and the grizzled little man in plain clothes who swung in the battered swivel chair and rolled in rapid succession a series of Bull Durham cigarettes, there existed none of the antagonism traditional between the police and the independent "expert."

Camberwell's admiration for the psychologist was more than professional. He had not arrived at his present office on the top floor of the city hall tower without a great deal of incredulous and scornful opposition. He had been the first man on the coast to install and classify fingerprint records in the old days when criminals were identified—or more frequently weren't—by description and photographs only. More recently he had talked read almost eaten and slept "forensic ballistics" those telltale individual "fingerprints" left on a bullet in its passage through a gun barrel. He had forced the detective bureau to take seriously the measurement of reaction time as a test of veracity—a device seized upon with glee by the public press described with inspired inaccuracy and captioned the "truth detector."

As a result he had heard himself described as a freak and his department criticized as an example of new-fangled high-brow "college" police methods. But this methods had held their own in court; and his practice of seeking the collaboration of Dr. Cavanaugh whom some other members of the department somewhat snortingly referred to as a "nut cracker" had not only contributed to the defense of his pet theories but on more than one occasion had held him back from serious blunders.

Cavanaugh's association with Camberwell on the other hand had led the psychologist to turn his wide-ranging curiosity on the problems of personal identification. It had given him what he always called a "mere hobby"—but it was a hobby which he put to frequent and very practical use. In return he had given to the policeman struggling through the thickets of uncharted research the encouragement of his support in some rather dark and stormy periods. Camberwell's admiration of talents different from his own was intensified by personal gratitude.

"So far," Dr. Cavanaugh reminded him gently. "You have two quite isolated facts to consider. A corpse that has been found and a woman that hasn't."

"But it isn't a corpse!" Camberwell's chair squeaked with accelerated tempo. "I only wish it were!"

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE READ.

This is the age of reading. Despite our busy existence and the distractions of modern life we read of a great deal. The total amount of reading is enormous.

New books are published at the rate of more than 10,000 a year. Some of the best sellers reach more than a million readers. Libraries are scattered throughout the length and breadth of the land. And yet books constitute a small part of the reading matter. The daily newspapers are so inexpensive and so attractive and contain so many items of interest that practically everone reads at least one paper a day. The weekly and monthly magazines supply tons of additional reading material.

We read for various reasons—to keep informed, to be amused, to acquire knowledge and power, to keep up with the times, to locate bargains, to feed our minds, our emotions and our imaginations. And because the things we read are capable of affecting our physical and mental make-up, thanks to the dynamic nature of ideas, we read to exercise the fundamental instincts.

How we read is as interesting as why we read. Most people read with their eyes, the exception being the blind person who reads by passing his fingers over raised letters. As a matter of fact we may read with any of our sen es. These senses of sight and hearing and taste and smell and the rest are the gateways to our consciousness. Through them we come in touch with the outside world. Every idea conveyed to us through any sense organ is a form of reading.

The person who can read the meaning of written symbols does so by moving his eyes over the words and symbols. The Chinese and Arabians begin at what we would call the back end of a book and read towards the front, turning the pages from left to right. But in either case the eyes do not move smoothly along as was formerly supposed. In reading a book or newspaper your eyes move along in jerks. This is proved by photographing the eyes during the reading process. Another interesting feature is that the eye is blind during the transit.

The illiterate person is not necessarily deprived of any of his normal senses, nor is he necessarily an ignorant man. He is capable of reading in the broad sense, in the sense of getting his knowledge and amusement directly instead of through printed symbols. It is his ignorance of the meaning of letters and words that makes him illiterate and shuts to him one of the greatest source of mind stimulation.

FINANCIAL and MINING REVIEWS

HEAVY ADVANCE NEW YORK CURB

Buying Orders Over Fairly Wide List Follows Favorable Trade Reports.

OILS AND RAILS LEAD.

NEW YORK, N.Y., June 3. — (By Stanley W. Prenosil, Associated Press Financial Editor)—Speculative sentiments had a decidedly bullish tinge in to-day's stock market, due to the sharp recovery in wheat prices, the relative ease of call money rates and the publication of a series of excellent May earnings and sales reports. Buying orders embrace a fairly wide list of stocks. With the oils and rails in the forefront of the advance and the public utilities rallying briskly after an early period of heaviness.

An opening bulge of about 8 cents a bushel in wheat prices based on Washington advices that immediate action would be taken to relieve the depressed market, brought a flood of buying orders into the farm implement, mail order and western railroad stocks which had been under pressure on the theory that their business would suffer by the reduced purchasing power of the agriculture regions. The rally was stimulated by the announcement that May sales of Montgomery-Ward were about 25 percent above the same month last year.

Call money renewed unchanged at p per cent, indicating that the sharp drop in loans last week had released sufficient credit to ease the expected month-end credit stringency. With about a billion dollars worth of stock "rights" to be taken up within the next 30 days, bankers are not too sanguine over the continuance of 6 per cent money for the rest of the month.

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES ADVANCE

Values Sky-rocketed To-day During Hysterical Outburst of Buying.

FROM EARLY SESSION.

CHICAGO, Ills., June 3.—(C.P.)—Grain prices sky-rocketed to-day in a hysterical outburst of buying that lifted wheat from 1¾ to 8¾ cents at the opening. Published reports that the government would come to the farmer's aid with a $100,000,000 fund to aid in handling the immense wheat surplus inspired the wildest opening in years, with prices in different sections of the same pit varying as much as 5 cents.

There were few offerings at the outset, and good buying orders started the sensational comeback of the market that had been in the doldrums for months. July wheat opened at $1.00 to $1.05 as compared with Saturday's close at 98 1-8 to 1-4 cents, and September started at $1.08 to $1.11 compared with the previous finish at $1.02 3-8 to 1-2. December showed the extreme advance of 2 ⅜ to 8 ¾ cents, opening at $1.10 to $1.15⅝ as against Saturday's closing figures, $1.07 to 1-4.

MINING BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner

Recent reports that Ventures Limited had acquired the Kristiansand Nickel refinery in southern Norway are entirely correct, officials tell the Financial News Bureau. This was not ready to be announced for another month but the information came from the Norwegian side. Together with the refinery Ventures secured contracts for the refining of metal over a period of years from the Norwegian mines at Evje, Ringerige and Hosanger. This makes at least two refineries in which Ventures is interested, the above and a copper one to be erected by International Nickle, Consolidated Smelters and themselves.

During the last ten day D. C. McKechnie has made an examination of the Topley Richfield for the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company, according to western advice, and H. Airey at the same time conducted an examination of the property for the Britannia Mining Company. Excellent progress in the exploration of the ore bodies is reported in work on the 200-foot level.

A wire from P. Horton, mine manager at the Salmo Consolidated Mines, B. C., states that the south drift shows the full face of the drift in quartz calcite and galena mineral, and making water, indicating free ground. Samples are being forwarded showing specks of free gold. The company's properties are situated on Sheep Creek, south of Nelson, B.C.

Development at the Acadia Metals, near Oldham, N. S., is said to be steadily adding to ore reserves. A report just prepared by W. H. Winchell, directing engineer shows over 150,000 tons now on the dump and ready for milling. The average recovery is expected to be about $14.00 per ton. The company has planned an extensive development program for this year. The full report of W. H. Winchell should be available in a few days.

Despatches from Sudbury state that station-cutting will begin at the 1,000-foot level of the Falconbridge within the next three or four days. Speaking of Falconbridge, it is understood that the name of the Kristiansand refinery, mentioned above, will be changed to that of Falconbridge Nickel.

It is reported that an effort to revive the old Huntingdon Mine at Eastwood, Quebec, is being made and that the property will be opened up. British Metals is reported to have an interest in the enterprise while a drilling contract is said to have been let. It is said that this old property shipped copper ore to Swansea, Wales, some 20 years ago and that it has been developed down to a depth of 400 feet.

C. S. Morrow, president of the Gem Lake Mines, heads a party that is visiting the property this week. Harry Donaldson, manager, after a two and one-half month's illness, has returned to the property. The Gem Lake has carried out aggressive development at its property in the central Manitoba gold fields.

"His Majesty was much touched by your reference to future victory in the greatest of all races which next year he hopes to witness and enjoy."

In reply to a message from the Lord Mayor of London the King answers: "Gratefully remembering as I do the affection and sympathy shown by the citizens of London during my long illness the greetings I have received through you, my Lord Mayor, are more than welcome on the anniversary of my birthday. Please express to them my grateful appreciation of this renewed assurance of loyalty and devotion to me and my family."

Throughout Windsor this morning bells peeled and the borough councillors sent a telegram of greeting on behalf of the inhabitants. In London flags were flown on all public buildings and the ceremony of trooping the colors took place in the Horse Guards parade before a huge crowd. The Duke of Connaught took the salute.

The two futurities, one for three-year-old trotters and the other for three-year-old pacers, will be contested on Wednesday, September 5, with the 2.10 pace, this making a feature offering that will be witnessed at no other race meeting in Canada this year.

The balance of the program is devoted to class races of uniform value of $500 and provides for trotters and pacers whose eligibility range from the 2.30 class down to the 2.10 pacers. DEBENTURES ARE ISSUED FOR GAS PLANT information shows that the city has received a very favorable rate for its instalment credit, to use the term that is familiar to so many individual buyers to-day.

$15,912.50 Interest This Year.

Mr. Adams took the trouble to explain how the annual payments are determined, believing that the ratepayers like to know how such municipal affairs are carried out. This year's payment will be $6,000 on the principal and $15,912.50 interest. For the first five years the amortization of the principal will be at the rate of $6,000 a year, then $7,000 and so on, the principal gradually increasing and the interest payment decreasing. Thus, the final instalment in 1958 will be $20,000 principal and $950 interest.

And by way of a brief capitulation of the thirty years' payments, the principal will amount to $335,000, the purchase price, and the interest will aggregate $298,822.50.

It is understood that the Hydro-Electric Commission, after delivering their chequue of $335,000 to the Ontario Government, will hold the gas plant debentures instead of marketing them, and will add them to the reserve fund, which the Central Ontario Power Association has explained to them by Hydro engineers at the meeting in Cobourg on Friday.

Relief For Hydro.

This reference emphasizes the fact that Peterborough's actual purchase of the gas plant has unburdened the Hydro-Electric Commission of another of the public utilities which were found in the Central Ontario power purchase of 1916. The Peterborough Street Railway was another of these troublesome "tails" that went with the power "hide," and it proved such a drain on the Central Ontario power group's treasury that the Hydro was forced by other towns and cities in the system to discontinue operations, scrap the railway stock and equipment, and leave Peterborough to the modern service of the motor bus.

In Police Court

Peace hung over Police Court this morning, there being no sessions, as to-day is the King's birthday.

Leonard Davis, who has an unfavorable record here, having served two months in jail and a two-year term in the Guelph Reformatory for stealing eleven wheels, appeared on Saturday morning charged with housebreaking and stealing. He was remanded until Tuesday morning.

Davis, duuring the absence of J. McIlmoyle from his home in North Burleigh, on May 26, broke into the house and stole a revolver, police officers claim. When Davis was caught on Friday, after a chase that led up hill and down dale for some 16 miles, the revolver was found on him, and he was in possession of a stolen bicycle. Provincial police trailed Davis through all the rough country around the head of the Kawartha Lakes.

LIQUIDATION HEAVY DURING THE PAST WEEK

Reduction of $232,000,000 in Brokers Loans Caused Moderate Upturn.

NEW YORK CURB.

Rails Again Well Bought—Higher Call Money Rates Predicted.

NEW YORK, N.Y., June 1 (C.P.).—(By Stanley W. Prenosil, Associated Press Financial Editor).—The stock market ran into considerable week-end liquidation and closed irregular after a quiet half-day session, to-day although the reducton of $232,000,000 in brokers' loans caused a moderate upturn throughout the list in the first hour. Operations were curtailed by the fact that many traders, driven from town by the hot weather, extended the Memorial Day holiday over the week-end.

The rails were again well bought, as an increasing number of traders turned bullish on this section of the list on the theory that the O'Fallon decision, appearing in a falling market, had not been discounted. The utilities encountered some profit taking on yesterday's sharp advance, but turned sharply upward again before the close. Radio and the motors, however, were heavy.

HIGHER RATES PREDICTED

Although yesterday's 6 per cent call loan rate carried over the week-end, fears that the return of the month-end interest and dividend cheques to the banks for collection next week may send the rates sharply higher, promoted selling. Also, the response to the record-breaking weekly decline in brokers' loans was regarded as rather disappointing, and inspired short selling.

There was little in the day's news to influence the market, save reports from Paris that practically all points of dissention had been cleared up at the reparations conference, and an egreement was regarded as assured. This strengthened the copper shares, but failed to help the motors, as the recent declines are understood to have caused considerable cancelling of domestic orders.

In the rails, Atchison again reached a new peak, up 2¾ points to 226; and Norfolk and Western mounted more than 2 points to new high ground. New Haven also sold up nearly 2 points to 108¼, the highest in 16 years. New York Central, Chesapeake and Ohio, and Nickel Plate mounted 3 points each. In the utilities, American Waterworks dropped 4 points, but soon regained its loss, and North American overcame early heaviness to climb nearly 3 points to a new peak. Federal Light and Traction jumped 5 points, duplicating its previous top.

Such issues as General Electric, Curtis Aero, Green Cananea, Columbian Carbon, Union Carbide, F. G. Shattuck and Western Union mounted from 3 to nearly 4 points. Radio, however, dropped 3 points to 84, a new low for the movement, and General Motors, Packard and Auburn Autos lost from 1 to 2 points. Chrysler rallied nearly 3 points in the first hour, but lost most of its gain later. Air Reduction dropped 2½ points.

Total sales approximated but 1,400,000 shares.

Will he succeed in Life? You plan now that he will. And yet, so much depends upon you!

With your help your boy can start life with a real chance for success. Success today is built on education. Doctors, lawyers, engineers, business men—all require specialized training.

Your boy should have a University education. This will cost at least $700. a year. If you were to die where would this money come from? If you live will your income stand the strain?

Let us send you, without obligation, the book "One in Fifty"—an investigation of Educational costs and an explanation of how simply these costs may be met with the aid of a North American Life Educational Policy.

NO DEMAND FARM HELP

Unemployment Situation in City Appears To Be Favorable At Present Time.

MUCH CONSTRUCTION WORK

The unemployment situation in the City of Peterborough appears to be very favorable. There are only between thirty and forty names on the waiting list, a number of which are young boys, for whom there is little demand.

With the recent hot spell which allowed construction work to proceed at a more favorable rate, there was an increased demand for laborers and carpenters.

It seemed strange that there was not an increased demand for farm help when the farmers were able to get out on the land. There seems to be no definite explanation unless the tillers of the soil are satisfied with the help that they now have.

The demand seems to centre chiefly around patternmakers, brass and iron moulders, mechanical draftsmen, boilermakers, farm laborers, domestics and cooks.

There is also an opportunity for a married couple. The man is to serve as a gardener and the woman is to help with the housework.

YOUTH IS DROWNED.

OTTAWA, June 3. — Sixteen ye old Lionel Martin was drowned, while George and Albert Payette, brothers, narrowly escaped a similar fate, when a canoe in which they were paddling, overturned, at the southern end of Mooney's Bay last night. Hours of dragging by city and county police failed to recover the body.

2ND ARMOUR TROOP.

On Friday, Saturday and Sunday of last week eighteen boys of the 2nd Armour Troop camped out in real style near Indan River on grounds very kindly donated by Mr. Cowan.

This was the first camp ever held by the present troop en masse, and without a doubt it will be one of the best ever to be held.

Throughout the winter the bays had studied the theory of that great game of scouting, and now they had a chance to put it into practice.

About 8 o'clock on Friday, May 24th the boys assembled with their huge bundles of tents and baggage at the residence of G. Langley. From there they proceeded to the camp grounds, either by wheels or by kindly donated cars and at once when the site was reached camp life began in earnest. Some were old bloods eager for a taste of camping again; others were new at the game but eager to get at it.

First, the tents, five in number, were erected. Then the mess tent, with a real camp fireplace nearby was next in order. A flagpole went up. Numerous other devices were made which greatly helped to make the camp a success. Meanwhile the cook gang prepared dinner to which the boys responded in fine style. After dinner the camp was further fixed up. Then a lively softball game followed. Tea was the next in order. This was centred around an enormous dish of macaroni and cheese along with rhubarb.

After tea a camp fire was prepared, and along with rollicking songs and bursts of fireworks the evening soon wore away. Turn in time came too quickly for some for it was nearly midnight before the entire camp was asleep.

Saturday turned out fine and had some of the boys up at five o'clock. After a hot breakfast a camp-clean up and inspecton was held. The winning tent under P. L. Langley was awarded the flag. Dinner came next to which the boys did real justice. A long hike took form in the afternoon in which some of the boys went as far as Rice Lake. Returning to camp at five o'clock they were ready for tea again. After tea the burning of brush piles nearby caused great excitement in the camp. In fact this took the form of the regular camp fire. At nine the boys were only too ready to turn-in, and now as seasoned campers soon went to sleep.

Sunday dawned warm and clear. With breakfast shortly after seven a treasure hunt bringing into play the sense of direction was next; the "treasures" being small packets of candy. Various camp activities were indulged in till 11 o'clock, when a simple Scout church service was held. Dnner came immediately afterward.

In the afternoon some of the boys took short hikes before packing up, then about four o'clock pack up was begun in earnest.

Parents of some of the boys visited the camp during the afternoon. Then with a quick tea and a snappy clean-up campaign the boys began to leave the camp about seven o'clock. Cars were waiting at the farm house to transport the tired but happy campers back once more to the city.

The success of the camp is due in no small way to G. R. Langley, who so unselfishly gave of his time in transporting the boys to and from the camp, in preparing for the camp in the beginning and in taking charge of the provisions. A very great deal of thanks is due to him as well as Mrs. Kelly and J. Davies, who helped very greatly in transporting the boys. Thanks are also due to Mr. Cowan, who willingly gave such an ideal camp ground, that along with the days of real camp weather helped to make the first camp of Second Armour such a success.

The personnel of camp was as follows: P. L. Langley, Nokes, Peters, Brown and Scouts George Bousfield, Gerald Bousfield, J. Hill, S. Williamson, J. Davies, F. Britnel, D. Losheur, G. Pammett, J. Gemmell, J. Couper, K. Kelly, V. Allen.

THE BEST COMEDY IN AMERICA

Copyrighted, 1929, by The Collegiate World Publishing Co. (CollegeHumor) Through Bell Syndicate.

"I wonder why those vaudeville comedians kept jumping around while they spoke their lines?"

"Oh, that makes them much harder to hit,"

—Virginia Reel.

We have a deep sympathy for poets. They are the only species with a language you can read and write but can't speak. We offer this as sufficient proof. One of our favorite poets writes, "The eyes are the windows of the soul." That sounds well in print, but can you imagine saying to a girl: "Darling, nothing could give me so much pleasure as gazing into your windows all night."

—West Point Pointer.

Another theory has been advanced as to why George Washington stood up in the boat. He was Scotch and had just had his pants pressed.

—V. M. I. Sniper.

"Doesn't Helen believe in elopements?"

"No; that girl wouldn't even let her imagination run away with her!"

—Boston Beanpot.

Stranger: Where can I get a drink?

Native: Three padlocks over and one down.

He: Let me kiss you under the mistletoe.

She: Say, I wouldn't let you kiss me under an anæsthetic.

—Denison Flamingo.

Teacher: No, Billie, you must not say "I ain't agoin'." You should say "I am not going, you are not going, he is not going, we are not going, you are not going, they are not going."

Billie (very surprised): Gee, ain't nobody goin'?

—State Lion.

Boss: Hey! What are you doing in that corner?

Pat: Begorra, boss, Oi'm restin'.

Boss: Resting! From what?

Pat: Wurra, wurra, a guy can't slape all the toime.

—Rutgers Chanticleer.

She: If you don't leave this room immediately, I'll call the whole police department to put you out.

The Brute: My love, it would take the whole fire department to put me out.

—Orange Peel.

Another geometrical fact is that shooting away one side of it doesn't wholly solve the eternal triangle.

—Blue Gator.

Three of the girls decide that indeed they would not go to the Prom.

—Ohio State Sun Dial.

AMERICAN TRAGEDIES

The fellow who goes around drinking out of everybody's cigar lighter.

—Blue Gator.

Maybe if some of these boys who would die for their dear old Alma Mater did so everyone would be better off.

—Reserve Red Cat.

KINK FOR A DAY

—C. C. N. Y. Mercury.

"Do you know The Face on the Barroom Floor?"

"Which barroom?"

—Lehigh Burr.

First Fraternity Man: Bill, your coat is ripped.

Second Old Soak: Nope, just seam's ripped.

—Denison Flamingo.

If you love me, act the part!
Let your eyes belie your heart!
Passion never hides her flame,
Modesty is but a game—
Purge my lips with your warm breath,
Kiss me, let us love till death!
But, dear maiden, never say,
"I don't kiss all boys this way."

—V. M. I. Sniper.

Son: Dad, what is an autocrat?

Dad: A crat that drives an automobile.

"What did the boss do when you told him it was triplets?"

"He promoted me to the head of my department."

"What department are you in?"

"Production."

—Brown Jug.

Yeah, the war cost Sandy his arm. He couldn't bring himself to throw away a grenade.

—V. M. I. Sniper.

As happy as a Scotchman at a free-for-all fight.

—Blue Gator.

Senior: Do you like Al Jolson?

Freshman: What class is he?

—Lehigh Burr.

"So you've landed a man at last?"

"Yes, but you should have seen the ones that got away."

—Ames Green Gander.

Innocent Frosh: What do you mean by a soul kiss?
Hard Soph: Kiss my foot.

—State Lion.

THE SENSE OF TOUCH

Janet: Jack says he can read me like a book.

Olive: Yes, and darn him, he wants to use the Braille system.

—Towney Kat.

First Stone Age Man: You'll have to quit writing your girl so many notes.

Second Stone Age Man: Why?

First Stone Age Man: We've got to conserve our mountains.

Saxophone Player (after finishing a number): What was that we just played?

—Yellow Crab.

"Did you get a commission when you were in the army, Jakey?"

"Naw, only my wages."

—Cornell Widow.

The little group of country folks had been watching the band play for several minutes. They had never seen a trombone before, and the player of that instrument received particular interest. Finally, one little hick nudged another with his elbow. "Come on," he said; "it's a fake. He don't swaller it every time."

—Okla. Whirlwind.

When the Prince of Wales blushes you wouldn't necessarily call it a royal flush.

—Blue Gator.

Professor: There's a student in this class who's making a jackass of himself. When he's finished, I'll commence.

—Cornell Widow.

Pledge (at dinner table): Must I eat this egg?

Brother: Yer damn right!

Silence ——————.

Pledge: The beak too?

—Arizona Kitty-Kat.

Screen Actress: Kiss me.

Movie Actor: Stop talking shop.

—Rutgers Chanticleer.

Oswald Lumbago, the campus heavy drinker, declares it is his opinion that green elephants are mere pigments of the imagination.

—Rutgers Chanticleer.

THE LI'L SON-OF-A-GUN!

—V. P. I. Shipper.

Mandy: Is yo' husband fond ob pie?

Liza: Is he! He's the mos' pious man I ever seen.

"Great mackerel, Fishby, why do you call your gas wagon by such a queer name, Charleston?"

"Egad, Freud, 'tis because of the play in the rear end."

—Cornell Widow.

"What made you think you will be married soon?"

"Her father bought a shotgun yesterday."

—Pennsylvania Punch Bowl.

"Everett had on one of these William Tell ties this week-end."

"What might that be?"

"You know, the kind you can pull back on the bow, release and hit the apple. Ain't you heard of them?"

—West Point Pointer.

The Fuerst Bismarck, bound for Bremen, was on its first day out. A group of college girls gathered at the dining table with that eagerness characteristic of the weaker sex. The waiter approached with a pitcher of ice water.

"Wasser, fraulein?" he asked.

"No," replied one of the girls with characteristic intelligence, "Wellesley."

—Rutgers Chanticleer.

She: Did you know that the water has rotted away the post in front of our house?

He: Mercy, goodness, and the teetotalers put that stuff in their stomachs!

—Carolina Buccaneer.

Most men call a spade a spade until they drop one on their toes.

—West Point Pointer.

Farmer: What are you doing up in my apple tree?

Small Boy: Believe it or not, mister, I just fell out of an aeroplane.

THE BEST COMEDY IN AMERICA

Copyrighted, 1929, by The Collegiate World Publishing Co. (CollegeHumor) Through Bell Syndicate.

"I wonder why those vaudeville comedians kept jumping around while they spoke their lines?"

"Oh, that makes them much harder to hit."

—Virginia Reel.

We have a deep sympathy for poets. They are the only species with a language you can read and write but can't speak. We offer this as sufficient proof. One of our favorite poets writes, "The eyes are the windows of the soul." That sounds well in print, but can you imagine saying to a girl: "Darling, nothing could give me so much pleasure as gazing into your windows all night."

—West Point Pointer.

Another theory has been advanced as to why George Washington stood up in the boat. He was Scotch and had just had his pants pressed.

—V. M. I. Sniper.

"Doesn't Helen believe in elopements?"

"No; that girl wouldn't even let her imagination run away with her!"

—Boston Beanpot.

Stranger: Where can I get a drink?

Native: Three padlocks over and one down.

He: Let me kiss you under the mistletoe.

She: Say, I wouldn't let you kiss me under an anæsthetic.

—Denison Flamingo.

Teacher: No, Billie, you must not say "I ain't agoin'." You should say "I am not going, you are not going, he is not going, we are not going, you are not going, they are not going."

Billie (very surprised): Gee, ain't nobody goin'?

—State Lion.

Boss: Hey! What are you doing in that corner?

Pat: Begorra, boss, Oi'm restin'.

Boss: Resting! From what?

Pat: Wurra, wurra, a guy can't slape all the toime.

—Rutgers Chanticleer.

She: If you don't leave this room immediately, I'll call the whole police department to put you out.

The Brute: My love, it would take the whole fire department to put me out.

—Orange Peel.

Another geometrical fact is that shooting away one side of it doesn't wholly solve the eternal triangle.

—Blue Gator.

Three of the girls decide that indeed they would not go to the Prom.

—Ohio State Sun Dial.

AMERICAN TRAGEDIES

The fellow who goes around drinking out of everybody's cigar lighter.

—Blue Gator.

Maybe if some of these boys who would die for their dear old Alma Mater did so everyone would be better off.

—Reserve Red Cat.

"Do you know The Face on the Barroom Floor?"

"Which barroom?"

—Lehigh Burr.

First Fraternity Man: Bill, your coat is ripped.

Second Old Soak: Nope, just seam's ripped.

—Denison Flamingo.

If you love me, act the part!
Let your eyes belie your heart!
Passion never hides her flame,
Modesty is but a game—
Purge my lips with your warm breath,
Kiss me, let us love till death!
But, dear maiden, never say,
"I don't kiss all boys this way."

—V. M. I. Sniper.

Son: Dad, what is an autocrat?

Dad: A crat that drives an automobile.

"What did the boss do when you told him it was triplets?"

"He promoted me to the head of my department."

"What department are you in?"

"Production."

—Brown Jug.

KINK FOR A DAY

—C. C. N. Y. Mercury.

Yeah, the war cost Sandy his arm. He couldn't bring himself to throw away a grenade.

—V. M. I. Sniper.

As happy as a Scotchman at a free-for-all fight.

—Blue Gator.

Senior: Do you like Al Jolson?

Freshman: What class is he?

—Lehigh Burr.

"So you've landed a man at last?"

"Yes, but you should have seen the ones that got away."

—Ames Green Gander.

Innocent Frosh: What do you mean by a soul kiss?

Hard Soph: Kiss my foot.

—State Lion.

The little group of country folks had been watching the band play for several minutes. They had never seen a trombone before, and the player of that instrument received particular interest. Finally, one little hick nudged another with his elbow. "Come on," he said; "it's a fake. He don't swaller it every time."

—Okla. Whirlwind.

When the Prince of Wales blushes you wouldn't necessarily call it a royal flush.

—Blue Gator.

Professor: There's a student in this class who's making a jackass of himself. When he's finished, I'll commence.

—Cornell Widow.

Pledge (at dinner table): Must I eat this egg?

Brother: Yer damn right!

Silence ————.

Pledge: The beak too?

—Arizona Kitty-Kat.

Screen Actress: Kiss me.

Movie Actor: Stop talking shop.

—Rutgers Chanticleer.

THE SENSE OF TOUCH

Janet: Jack says he can read me like a book.

Olive: Yes, and darn him, he wants to use the Braille system.

—Tawney Kat.

First Stone Age Man: You'll have to quit writing your girl so many notes.

Second Stone Age Man: Why?

First Stone Age Man: We've got to conserve our mountains.

Saxophone Player (after finishing a number): What was that we just played?

—Yellow Crab.

"Did you get a commission when you were in the army, Jakey?"

"Naw, only my wages."

—Cornell Widow.

Oswald Lumbago, the campus heavy drinker, declares it is his opinion that green elephants are mere pigments of the imagination.

—Rutgers Chanticleer.

THE LI'L SON-OF-A-GUN!

—V. P. I. Skipper.

Mandy: Is yo' husband fond ob pie?

Liza: Is he! He's the mos' pious man I ever seen.

"Great mackerel, Fishby, why do you call your gas wagon by such a queer name, Charleston?"

"Egad, Freud, 'tis because of the play in the rear end."

—Cornell Widow.

"What made you think you will be married soon?"

"Her father bought a shotgun yesterday."

—Pennsylvania Punch Bowl.

"Everett had on one of these William Tell ties this week-end."

"What might that be?"

"You know, the kind you can pull back on the bow, release and hit the apple. Ain't you heard of them?"

—West Point Pointer.

The Fuerst Bismarck, bound for Bremen, was on its first day out. A group of college girls gathered at the dining table with that eagerness characteristic of the weaker sex. The waiter approached with a pitcher of ice water.

"Wasser, fraulein?" he asked.

"No," replied one of the girls with characteristic intelligence, "Wellesley."

—Rutgers Chanticleer.

She: Did you know that the water has rotted away the post in front of our house?

He: Mercy, goodness, and the teetotalers put that stuff in their stomachs!

—Carolina Buccaneer.

Most men call a spade a spade—until they drop one on their toes.

—West Point Pointer.

Farmer: What are you doing up in my apple tree?

Small Boy: Believe it or not, mister, I just fell out of an aeroplane.

CADETS MAKE GOOD SHOWING

Inspection Officer Praises Millbrook Corps On Efficiency and Smart Appearance.

HEAR TALK ON CAMP.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, June 3. — Millbrook Continuation and Public School Cadet Corps, No. 403, again brought honor to themselves and the community when the annual inspection was held on the school grounds on Thursday, May 30, at 10 a.m., Captain M. Isbester, District Cadet Officer, speaking in terms of the highest praise of their efficiency, appearance, and thorough training.

The Corps gave a fine demonstration of various formations in ceremonial, company drill, extended order, finishing up with physical culture exercises, the whole being executed with precision, promptness of movement in response to command, and a general smartness of appearance, marching, and understanding of the exacting requirements of the maneuvers that reflected marked credit upon Lieutenant . B. Dawson, who is the Instructing Officer, and Principal of the Public School, as well as the officers of the two platoons.

At the conclusion of the review Captain Isbester spoke in complimentary terms of both officers and men, stating that the Millbrook Corps presented the finest appearance of any Cadets he had yet inspected in Military District No. 3. This remark elicited a hearty round of applause.

Continuing his address the Inspecting Officer mentioned the target match between the youths of the British Empire for which the prize is the King's Trophy. "In 1927 Canada held this trophy, but it is now on its way to South Africa; three thousand entries are obligatory for the competition, and Canada had 4,018 from which to choose, while South Africa had 12,433, hence the advantage which led to success in winning the coveted award. Yet Canada's entrants, through their skill in marksmanship, won 234 silver and bronze medals, as well as other prizes—more than were won by the rest of the British Empire altogether. By continuing the fine record which you already have made in rifle competitions you may do much toward bringing back the King's Trophy to Canada."

There are 133,000 cadets in the Dominion, Captain Isbester said, and 10,000 in this military district.

Information regarding the Cadet summer camp was of decided interest, Captain Isbester stating that a paucity of funds prevented full Corps being allowed to attend, but in the ratio at present being considered of one to ten, four boys from the local Corps will be the number allowed, the suggestion being that the representatives be chosen from those likely to be returning to the school another year, so practical assistance may be the outcome.

The camp will be held at Barriefield, probably from July 20 to 27, with boys from 78 different cities or towns having a chance to enjoy its advantages. These will include instruction, recreational training, organized games, and target shooting.

The presentation of medals followed, those for general efficiency and best turned out cadets during the inspection going to Donald Henry of No. 1 Platoon, and Corporal Joseph Thorndyke of Platoon No. 2.

The officers were then decorated with medals in recognition of the fine work done during the year in the Cadet Corps, these being: Captain Eddie Nattress; and Lieutenants Laird Bothwell and Henry Gray, Captain Isbester giving each a warm handshake, and adding his personal work of appreciation after pinning on the silver award.

Medals were then presented to the members of the D.C.R.A. team. Captain Isbester explaining that this honor was for proficiency, and winning a certain score shooting in three matches, one each month during the winter. The boys, with their respective scores were: Eric Clarke, 98; E. Nattress, 97; Laird Bothwell, 97; George Gray, 97; William Skitch, 97; Henry Gray, 96.5; Gerald Todd, 96.5; and Jack Hutchison, 96.5.

A new award this year, the Gaylor-Haggerty Memorial Medal, was explained by the Inspecting Officer as being in memory of a young soldier of this name who was killed in the Ypres salient in 1917. A surgeon in England, who had met Mr. Haggerty in the Cadet competition at Bisley for the King's Trophy, had asked the Dominion Rifle Shooting Association to allow him to offer this perfect score (100) in the rifle shooting competition. The medal goes to the boy with the highest score. There was an outburst of warm applause as Captain Isbester pinned on this medal, the third with which Laird has been decorated during the morning.

The presentation of the handsome shield, won by ten boys in the senior section of the Laura Secord rifle shooting competition, was the next duty falling to Captain Isbester, who spoke in terms of personal pride of the honor coming to the local school and community through the winning of this trophy. The list of winners so far includes: Peterborough C. I. 1923; and again in 1924; Perth C. I. 1925; Pembroke C. I. 1926; Brockville C. I. 1927; Millbrook C. S. 1928.

"In competition with sixty Cadet Corps your rifle team carried off the Laura Secord Silver Trophy two years ago; and now last year, with ten boys chosen out of 43, while the ratio in other Corps was probably ten out of 295, they carried off this Shield. You have reason to be proud. In 1929 there is to be additional prizes to each school entering this competition, consisting of a chart map showing the route followed by Laura Secord in her historic walk with a short history of the event, the whole to be suitably embossed and framed."

Miss Muir, Principal of the Continuation School who spoke briefly added her words of hearty congratulation to the boys and their officers, and Instructor, stating she believed the school motto, "Age Quod Agis" (Do What You Do) had been carried out effectively as the fine showing of the morning gave evidence. "I sincerely hope this record will be continued in this, and other ways, in the days ahead."

Miss Muir spoke of her anxiety to have the Cadet Corps represented at the summer camp, and also mentioned her personal interest in the Gaylor Memorial Medal as she had been a classmate of this boy at school, and his father had been principal of the High School in Toronto which she attended. A concluding word was very popular as Miss Muir said she had the full consent of the school board to grant the half holiday which Captain Isbester had requested on behalf of the scholars.

The official inspection closed with three cheers and a tiger for His Majesty, King George, for the District Cadet Officer, Captain Isbester, P.P.C., L. I. and for Lieutenant B. B. Dawson, local Instructing Officer. The school yell was given by the Continuation pupils, who also sang their school chorus "Dear Old High."

The officers of the Cadet [illegible] are: E. J. Nattress, Company Commander; Lieutenant Laird Bothwell of Platoon No. 2. The usual treat was furnished at Lambert's after the review.

Embarrassed by Dishpan Hands

Ill at ease . . . at her own dinner table

DICK'S 'chief' was pleasant and friendly, but I knew that he had the fastidious standards of a man of culture and wealth.

"I was so eager, as Dick's wife, to meet those standards.

"It was a little thing which upset me—just the merest change of expression on his face . . . I was pouring coffee, and for the fraction of a second his glance had rested on my hands.

"I knew my hands looked red and rough from housework and dishes—and knew he had noticed them . . . I became self-conscious, ill at ease.

"Foolishly, perhaps, I felt the evening was a failure.

"Now I know how NEEDLESS it was. Since I have been using Lux for dishwashing, for all cleansing my hands have to do—my hands are soft and smooth and white. I'm never embarrassed now by 'dishpan' hands."

So many soaps—whether flake, chips, or cakes—contain harmful alkali which makes the skin harsh.

There is NO injurious alkali in Lux! Made by a remarkable process—Lux actually SOOTHES the skin, leaves it a little whiter and softer than before.*

Dissolving instantly, before you ever put your hands in, a little Lux foams up into a mountain of suds—so rich, so cleansing, the dishes seem almost to wash themselves.

The big package of Lux washes six weeks' dishes. Lovely hands for so small a price!

* Many beauty parlors use Lux in manicuring the nails, to soften and whiten the fingers.

Lux keeps lovely the hands that wash dishes

DISTRICT NOTES from Villages and Towns in District

(BY CORRESPONDENTS OF THE EXAMINER)

(Examiner Correspondence.)

The last meeting of the season of the Young People's Society of Knox United Church, was held on Monday evening, with the president, Miss Helen Burgess, in the chair.

Mrs. G. Craig Bell sang a solo "The Blue Bells of Scotland," which was much appreciated, and Miss Pearl Mullen gave an interesting talk on current events which showed careful and thoughful preparation.

Mr. Steven sang that immortal challenge of the unconquered Scot, "Scots Wha Hae," singing it with a fire and enthusiasm which brought down the house.

J. F. Harvey, principal of the Lakefield High School, gave a very able talk on the Power of the Press.

Mr. Harvey is well versed in his subject, having for twelve years owned and edited a newspaper in the town of Newmarket.

Incidentally he explained the origin of Newmarket's name. It was not as is generally supposed, called after the great racing centre in England, but was literally a "new market" for the Indians and settlers when Toronto was the village of Muddy York. The market was held under a large elm, which still stands in the centre of the town. Some years ago the town council planned to cut it down but Mr. Harvey in his paper wrote an editorial on the subject which brought about a reaction of opinion and owing to the power of the press the old landmark still retains its honored place.

Before the war a great number of weekly papers flourished in Canada, but since, owing to the increased cost of material and production the number has been reduced to seven hundred. It is a loss to a community where only one paper is in circulation.

The editorial column is important in a newspaper, as it gives the editor a chance to express his opinions on current affairs, and often provokes correspondence and controversy, which makes the paper interesting and keeps the community from stagnation.

Mr. Harvey described the linotype machines, which have been a great step forward in newspaperdom.

Most weekly newspapers are of eight pages, many coming with four already printed, leaving four to be filled with local news and advertising. The advertising is of two classes, national advertisements and local. It is a strange circumstance that merchants are apt to do their greatest advertising in good times when poor times is really the logical season.

Then in the local paper is the correspondence which should be carefully selected, and the local news, which is always interesting, for wherever one goes the local paper with its home news, is always the most interesting.

Being in the newspaper business gives one a splendid opportunity for meeting interesting men and women, and getting their viewpoint. All in all running a newspaper is a fascinating life, and can be made a tremendous power for good in a community.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Harvey for his splendid talk, which was very illuminating.

By special request Mrs. G. Craig Bell sang "Annie Laurie" in a pleasing manner.

During the summer a picnic will be held by the young people at a date to be settled later.

Cement Plant in Operation.

The Lakefield plant of the Canada Cement Company resumed operations on Sunday night, and is now running practically with a full staff. The reopening of the plant was good news to Lakefield people as the cement industry is the largest in the village, and employs a large number of men.

The party of the Church Army, which are on a route march of witness, will arrive in Lakefield on Saturday, June 8, and will remain till Monday, June 10. During their stay they will take charge of the services in St. John's church, and will also hold open air services on Saturday and Sunday evenings. There are six young men in the party, which left Toronto about a month ago after having received the blessing of the Lord Bishop of the diocese.

Mrs. Cameron gave an address on the Social and Political Value of Foreign Missions at the regular monthly meeting of Knox Church, W. M. S. on Tuesday afternoon.

The play "The Path Across the Hill" was put on in the Lakehurst United Church, on Wednesday evening, May 22, by the Dramatic Club of the C.G.I.T. Group of the Regent street United Church. The young people made the trip by motor and report a good crowd and a good reception.

BODY OF MAN RECOVERED.

KITCHENER, Ont., June 3.—With arms clasped about a stone in midstream the body of a man, believed to be Herbert Kramp, was discovered in the Grand River at Bleslau, Ont., on Saturday. Kramp has been missing from home about a week.

"My Health is Completely Restored."

Read of this Canadian's unbounded gratitude to Kruschen Salts.

First letter—written 1925 :—

"I am 65 years old, and three months ago thought I was dying. After having experimented with all possible remedies without feeling any better, I had given up all hope of recovery when I happened to read your advertisement of Kruschen Salts. I tried one bottle of these Salts, and to my great surprise, soon realised that a new lease of life was making a new man of me.

"Now, after having used the third bottle, my health is completely restored. I can take walks for one hour and a half without being tired, and feel as alert as if I were 30 years of age.

"My gratitude for the Kruschen Salts is unlimited, and that is the reason why I spontaneously want to thank you most sincerely."

July 28th, 1925. A. P. B., Montreal.

Three Years later he writes :—

"Since I wrote to you three years ago about Kruschen Salts I have not been sick one minute. I am now 68 years old and I feel as young as I was at 30, thanks to the little dose of Kruschen that I take every morning in my coffee. I should not be without it for all the gold in the world."

June 25th, 1928. A. P. B., Montreal.
Original letter on file for inspection.

TEA SOCIAL AT WARSAW

Successful Affair Conducted Under Auspices of Ladies of Presbyterian Church.

GOOD PROGRAM.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARSAW, June 3.—The tea-meeting held on Thursday evening by the Presbyterian Ladies was an outstanding success. More than one hundred and thirty dollars was received at the door. The two long tables were prettilly decorated with flowers and strips of blue crepe paper. There was an abundance of all good things, starting with potato salad and cold roast meats, with all the sauces and pickles, followed by the best examples of Warsaw cooking. The booth receipts were good.

Four members of St. Paul's choir gave a delightful program. They, with Mr. Chenhall who was pianist, seemed to be out to have a good time themselves and to give the audience a good time.

Rev. Mr. McCleary opened the program. He apologized for the mosquitoes, and asked each artist to name his selection before giving it. Mr. McCleary sang with the quartettes.

The numbers were: "Sun of My Soul" by the quartette; "All Things Come Home at Eventide", by Miss Jessie Pattison; "Patrick Leary", Geo. Coleman; "Every Rose is Heavy With Dew", Mrs. Grace Byers; "The Vicar of Bray," George Easson; Mr. Chenhall requested the audience to sing a verse of "Pack Up Your Troubles," "Loch Lomond", and "Oh, Canada." He spoke a short time about the singing in New York, and saying he would like to see the contest come to Canada. He also spoke of the necessity of having children learn to sing. The quartette sang a lullaby. Miss Patteson sang "Comin' Thro' the Rye" and for an encore "When the Birds Go North." The quartette sang "The Wedding Day", and for an encore, "Of all the Pies," "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes", and "I Love a Lassie." After singing "Should Auld Acquaintance be Forgot," the program was brought to a close.

Ladies' Aid Meets

The United Church Ladies' Aid met on Mrs. David Miller's lawn on Thursday afternoon. The heat was intense at first, but the table and chairs were arranged in a shady corner. The president, Mrs. Herrington was in the chair. The roll call was answered by a verse of scripture containing the word "Love".

The sick committee for three months are: Mesdames George, Taylor and T. Clements; county Mesdames Gordon Payne and D. Miller, who will also look after the flowers for June. There was some discussion about renting screens. They are badly in need of repapering and it was thought that those who borrow them should pay enough to keep them properly papered.

The June meeting is to be a cradle roll one, and Mesdames Allan Payne, Digweed and D. Miller are the committee.

A hearty vote of thanks was given to Roland Payne for so kindly putting in the east entrance to the choir loft, charging nothing for his work.

The much mooted question of lunches came up and it was decided for the summer to have one kind of salad, bread and butter and something to drink.

Light, but dainty refreshments were served by some of the ladies.

Intense Heat Here

The heat on Thursday was intense. At nine a. m. it was 81 degrees and at noon where partially shaded it was 91 degrees, remaining hot after the storm. The telephone system was disorganized.

CAR FOUND ON HIGHWAY

Willys-Knight Coupe Left On Roadside is Reclaimed By Owner.

NEAR TROUT CREEK.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 3.— (Examiner Staff Correspondence.)—Suspicious of a car which had been parked for several hours on Grand Road near the Trout Creek aquaduct, Chief Grassick took possession of a Willys-Knight coupe yesterday afternoon and towed it to Davidson's garage. The car had been left there early in the morning and no one living nearby knew anything about it or the people, if any, who had been in it. The car was out of gas and was headed into town from the Brighton road. There was no baggage in the car that could be found but the back was locked. It carried United States' markers from the State of Ohio. From his investigation, the Chief was able to learn only that a tall man had been seen getting out of it about seven-thirty yesterday morning. Things looked "fishy" so he took it in and made inquiries if the car was being looked for anywhere in the district. Apparently it was. Soon after four o'clock the owner appeared and wanted to know why his car had been seized. He produced his license and owner's card and got his vehicle back.

Communists Routed In General Election

LONDON, June 1 (Canadian Press).—The Communists were completely routed at the polls in the general election. Twenty of their twenty-five candidates lost their election deposits, and their lone representative in the last House, S. Saklatvala, failed to secure re-election. The total popular vote registered for Communist candidates was 50,614.

In Police Court

CAMPMBELLFORD, June 3.—(Examiner Staff Correspondence)—Four cases disposed of in four hours was the record in police court held here Friday by Counties Magistrate Floyd of Cobourg. The hearing began at three in the afternoon and continued till seven at night. By that time fines amounting to six dollars had been levied, one case dismissed and another appealed. The council chamber which was used as the court room was crowded to capacity with interesting parties for one or other of the cases. A smile went the rounds when a part bottle of gin and a portion of beer, or more properly, Pale Ale, was set up on the table as exhibits for the first case.

First on the docket came a breach of the L.C.A. case in which a local business man was charged with having intoxicating liquor in other than a private dwelling. Chief Grassick was the first witness called. He told of searching the store on Front Street operated by the accused, he search was made in company with two provincial constables. He himself had discovered a bottle containing some gin. The provincial officers located the pale ale. Cross examined as to how he was certain the liquor in the bottle was gin, Chief Grassick said he knew the smell and finally tasted it in the court.

Provincial officer Noble was the next witness. During his evidence he was called upon to taste the contents of both bottles. He claimed that he was an overseas man and knew the tastes of different liquors. "Yes sir, that's intoxicating liquor," he stated. Further questioning revealed the fact that they had not timed the search but had come in response to several complaints. Provincial officer MacBrien was also called and told the same story as the others. The liquor had been left in charge of Chief Grassick after it had been seized.

Testifying in his own defense, the accused said he had no knowledge of either of the bottles being in his store although there might have been a few empties around. At the time of the search he had been away for about half on hour and stated emphatically that he did not keep or consume liquor in his store. Asked how so many bottles were found there, he said it was ridiculous, there could have been seven or eight but certainly not a hundred. Constables MacBrien and Noble were recalled. MacBrien claimed that ther were numerous bottles and that they would number well over the hundred. Noble was less conservative. There were bottles all over the place, he said, between the suits under the counter, beer bottles, whiskey bottle, gin bottles, cocktail bottles. A hundred would not cover the number.

After hearing the arguments of the lawyers, his worship warned the accused that there was no alternative but a jail term, since this was his second offence. It was indicated that the judgment would be appealed and the defendant allowed to go on bail of three hundred dollars. The case will be heard in county court at a date to be set by thejudge. W. F. Kerr, K.C., appeared for the Crown. N. Alex MacCall appeared for the defense.

The second case was a breach of the Highway Traffic Act in which a young man pleaded guilty to operating a motor vehicle without a driver's permit. He was fined five dollars and costs, the minimum under the act.

Woman Assaults Woman

The third and fourth cases were the most interesting of the entire docket. Two local women charged each other with assault occasioning actual bodily harm. Crown Attorney Kerr began the examination of the first witness and decided that the charge should be amended to one of common assault. This was done and he dropped out of the picture. D. J. Lynch and N. A. MacCall conducting the proceedings as representatives of the two parties implicated. Part way through the hearing, it was mutually agreed to have the same evidence used for both cases since one case was almost the exact reverse of the other.

It appears that the two women met on the English Church Hill near the Anglican Cemetery about half past three in the afternoon of May 20, here the battle was staged which resulted in the court action. Both women claimed that their dresses were torn and the garments were exhibited in court. Each claimed that they had been bruised and scratched in the fray and had suffered accordingly. Five witnesses were called for one side and six for the other with one recalled for the original group.

Whether or not the pitched battle was the final "blow up" of a five year feud was not positively stated but it was hinted at on several occasions. The women had not been speaking for from two to five years. Each is the mother of children and the children, so it was claimed, live in terror of the other woman. One woman claimed that the other had made threats to kill her and said she had had it in for her for two years. This was denied in evidence. Those who gave evidence were people who reside in the locality and a farmer who happened to be passing at the time. Some of it, his worship looked upon as wortheless.

An interesting feature of the case was the fact that both women were nurses. Both their husbands were soldiers during the Great War. One of them served in the 139th Battalion C. E. F. which Colonel Floyd, the counties magistrate at present time, commanded. Both women claimed that the other had attacked her and that the only possible motive could have been jealousy although they could see no ground for such a feeling.

When all the evidence had been presented, the counsel for both parties agreed to forego the usual legal argument and the Magistrate took charge of the case. His first move was to call each of the women and have them stand at either side of his desk. Then he ordered them to remain silent and listen to what he had to say. He expressed his regret that such an affair should have taken place in a town like Campbellford or anywhere else for that matter. He also regretted that two women living so close together could not get along more harmoniously. He did not put any stock by the statement by one woman that the other had threatened her life or that she had used such foul language. It was the wife of the former member of his battalion whom he belived guilty of being the "disturbing element" and he fined her one dollar. It was not his desire to impose a penalty which would impoverish her, he said, but he did wish to impress her with the warning. The court adjourned at seven o'clock.

That Body of Yours

(By Jas. W. Barton, M.D.)

THE TONGUE IS A MIRROR.

Some years ago I wrote about a New York boy, who, in endeavoring to scrub the "fur" off the roof of his tongue, let the tooth brush slip down his throat into his stomach. It was recovered with some difficulty. However, the point I tried to make was that while the coat of fur on the tongue was an indication that something was wrong with the digestive apparatus, mouth, stomach, or intestines nevertheless the "coat" itself on the tongue, was harmful to the system and the boy was doing the right thing in trying to scrub it off.

Now as nearly everybody at some time has a coated tongue nothing much is thought about tht ematter,,but a coated tongue is not normal and its cause should be investigated, because the tongue furnishes you with useful information as to how your digestive apparatus is working, and also as to your geueral condition physically.

Dr. Audrian tells us that the various degrees and types of coated tongue are related to the defensive reaction of the covering of the tongue against poisons. These poisons are formed by the digestive system or are circulating in the blood.

The more serious the intoxication from these substances the more easily does the covering of the tongue undergo a sort of breaking down and shedding process.

There seems to be an actual stasis or stoppage of the circulation, the little glands that should secrete moisture get exhausted, and the tongue becomes dry and coated.

Now the little glands in the tongue and the glands that secrete juices down in the stomach and intestine work together or in harmony, and this explains why the tongue is a true "mirror" of the poisoned and irritated condition of the stomach and intestines and why it clears up when the poisons forming in the stomach and intestines are thrown out of the body.

You will remember that the doctor of former years did two things when he first visited a patient. He had him put out the tongue and he took either the pulse or temperature or perhaps both.

The coated tongue meant a dose of castor oil, or epsom salts, or other purgative.

So the treatment of these former days of removing poisons from the intestinal tract was based on good sense.

Of course, where there is a possibility of appendicitis, then castor oil, salts, or any purgative in fact, should not be given. It may cause a ruptured appendix.

YOUR HOME AND YOU

Unless you have a definitely hyperacid condition you should regard tomatoes as one of the most valuable of foods. Normal persons can eat them once a day when they are to be had in a thoroughly ripe condition—providing of course that they eat alkali-producing foods—such as most other vegetables and fruits—to counteract the acid of the tomato. Tomatoes are regarded as among the most valuable of foods because of their rich vitamine content, which fortunately is not—in the case of the tomato—destroyed by cooking.

Although the tomato is a native of South America and was not known in Europe until some time after the opening up of the New World, still the tomato is now one of the favorite vegetables of numerous Europeans, and is especially enjoyed by the Italians, who rarely serve a dinner without some use of the tomato. In the United States more tomatoes are used for canning than any other vegetables.

In spite of the wide popularity of the tomato the taste for tomato does not seem to be entirely uncultivated. Few children seem to like cooked tomatoes the first time they taste them, and indeed when the tomato was little known here it was known as the love apple and was regarded as poisonous. Now, however, it is especially prized because it contains one of the most important vitamines, which in the case of tomatoes is not destroyed by cooking. For this reason strained tomato juice is sometimes given to infants in place of orange juice as a matter of economy. Doubtless these infants are brought up with the tomato taste well developed.

(Copyright McClure Newspaper Syn.)

The taste for onions must be very deeply bred in the human palate, for of all vegetables the onion is undoubtedly one of the most anciently cultivated. One advantage that it undoubtedly has is that it can be kept in a crisp green condition for the entire winter.

Seemingly latitude and longitude have something to do with the taste for onions—perhaps it is more a matter of race. At any rate Italians and other southern Europeans seem to be able to relish onions, garlic and other allied vegetables in a far greater strength and quantity than we enjoy them.

Many persons have a very decided fondness for raw onions who will not eat them if they are going to be brought into close contact with other people very shortly afterwards. They feel a sense of guilt at being caught with onions on their breaths. Yet the onion and other similar vegetables are undoubtedly one of the most wholesome types of food, and we might all be much better off if we ate as many of them as do the Italians.

Raw onions rank very high in vitamine C—the vitamine that helps us to defend ourselves against infectious diseases. In this regard a pound of raw onions is as valuable as a pound of tomatoes or of oranges. There is a persistent belief among some people that a raw onion sandwich eaten before before retiring is a sure cure for insomnia. Whether or not this has any basis in facts—raw onion sandwiches made with whole wheat bread provide a decidedly delicious snack at any time.

WHEN THE warm days first arrived last week, everyone seemed to turn to the lawns and gardens—and even to thinking of eating out of doors. And such a number I noticed eating on the back porch during those warm days!

* * * * * * *

One particularly fine home in the north end had a most attractive back porch and, of course, the lovely wicker set which was used was a bright shade and made it even more inviting.

* * * * * * *

We shouldn't though, confine all our furniture to the porches—the back yard should have some furniture too—furniture which will correspond, of course, with nature. The back yard is where nature presents a new joy each day.

* * * * * * *

Such wonderful new pieces can be purchased now in such wonderful colors too! But one must remember when purchasing furniture for the garden that if it is in the open it will have to be sufficiently hard wood to endure all kinds of weather. A small table with chairs conveniently arranged, makes an attractive and inviting picture on a tired day.

* * * * * * *

In arranging our garden and furniture, we mustn't forget the sun dial. Some people simply wouldn't have a garden without a sundial, and it is certainly an added attraction to any garden. Other attractive furnishings are the bird bath, and the gazing globe—what's the use of a gazing globe? Nobody seems to know, but it certainly is beautiful to see the sun shining upon it during the day.

* * * * * * *

The trees, grass and skies are also reflected in it and at night the moon shines softly upon it. Then, of course, there are the ornamental urns and pots, the fountain, figurines and rockery.

* * * * * * *

But please don't quit reading this because you haven't a great deal of money to spend upon your garden or lawn, for a garden is a spot for enjoyment, not one for a display of wealth.

* * * * * * *

But what would a garden be with just a lawn and all the sun dials and fountains and gazing bowls in the world, if we did not add the most important item—the flowers?

* * * * * * *

There is always the joy of anticipation—that of waiting to see what shade the roses will be which you purchased, and of planning what varieties you wish to add next year.

* * * * * * *

The flower beds which we have in our modern gardens are not formal as they used to be, but they follow the natural lines of curves with no square corners. They wind in and out among the shrubs along the edges of the flagstone walks made from irregular pieces of broken cement sidewalks embedded in the sod.

* * * * * * *

And then in the shaded nook we have a little arbor seat where a pleasant evening or afternoon can be spent in solitude.

* * * * * * *

If you haven't a back yard, start one today, Mother Nature is no respector of persons and she will make the holly hocks bloom just as brilliantly in your garden as anyone's!

* * * * * * *

Two quotations of Henry Ward Beecher come to my mind as I think of our common yet beautiful flowers:

"As for marigolds, poppies, hollyhocks, and valorous sunflowers, we shall never have a garden without them, both for their own sake, and for the sake of old-fashioned folks, who used to love them."

* * * * * * *

And then as you study them as you will be sure to do, if you sit very long in that arbor seat, you will think of another quotation of his which is something like this:

"Flowers have an expression of countenance as much as men or animals. Some seem to smile; some have a sad expression; some are pensive and diffident; others again are plain, honest and upright, like the broad-faced sunflower and the hollyhock."

* * * * * * *

Constant attention is required to keep the lawn in good condition. Clipping the grass and supplying water at the correct time are essential factors. The lawn should be cut so often that there will be no necessity of raking up the clippings. These clippings when allowed to decay add much fertility to the soil. If, however, the grass gets fairly tall, the clippings should be raked because if allowed to remain they will smother the grass under them and make it turn yellow.

* * * * * * *

Just at this season it is well not to cut the grass too closely because it may reduce the leaf surface too much. It is usually quite safe, however, to keep it about two inches.

* * * * * * *

If your lawn is not just first class but yet too good to plough up, sprinkle a little loam to the heights of about one inch all over it. This loam will be quickly worked into the grass and will help to keep it well nourished.

* * * * * * *

I think there are a great many people in our city who do not appreciate the fact that they have beautiful gardens and lawns. Just as "Mack" said a few days ago, if they had lived in a large city practically all their lives, they surely would appreciate being able to get out in the fresh air.

* * * * * * *

I heard one woman say she just delighted to spend all the time possible in the garden—and almost anytime one can see her busily engaged with a spade, rake or hoe!

* * * * * * *

And then the next woman says she can sit quite contentedly on her back porch and watch her without any desire whatever to engage in the same work.

* * * * * * *

I came across this poem which I thought was very appropriate this season of the year. I do not know the author, but he apparently likes working in a vegetable garden best of all.

* * * * * * *

THE GARDEN

In my common workaday duds,
To the garden I repair,
And I plant some luscious spuds,
And some boneless nutmegs there
And I see my neighbors gay,
Burn the costly gasoline,
While I plant my bales of hay,
And the early Lima bean.
And they go, all primed with cash,
To the moving picture shows,
While I sow the succotash,
Brussels sprouts, and things like those
They'll be buying costly eats,
(And the price will make them cry,)
While I pluck my home-grown beets,
And consume the rhubarb pie.
I've a little plot of soil,
Fifty-by a hundred feet;
There I'll raise by honest toil,
All the things I wish to eat.
I'll have pumpkins I can sell,
Squashes till you cannot rest,
And young onion that will smell
Much like Araby the blest.
I'll have things to boil and bake,
I'll have cauliflowers to spare,
And my cabbage-heads will take
Premiums at the country fair.
I'll have growing greens enough
All my family to keep,
And the "Cost of Living" stuff
Will not rob me of my sleep.
If they boys would fall in line,
Raising garden sass this year,
They might drop the plaintive whine,
"All we eat is so blamed dear!"

His Test

By ADELAIDE D. RUFF

"Just to think," Constance Mason whispered in Paul's ear, "just to think that six weeks ago we had never even seen each other, and now....."

Paul Forester's arm tightened around the girl and he kissed her soft brown hair gently.

"It was the magic of the sea," he said, "and we were both in holiday mood. When people go vacationing...."

"Aren't you glad?" asked Constance, looking up quickly and trying to scan his features in the soft moonlight. "Don't you believe you'd have l-loved me wherever you had met me? Did it take the sea and holiday?"

"Hush, dear," he said almost irritably

For the twentieth time in their short acquaintance Constance wished that she did not love him. He was so moody and so difficult to understand and always he seemed to be afraid of love, suspicious of her sincerity or something. What was it? she wondered, uneasily. She knew that he had had an unhappy love affair several years before and that she was the first girl he had even looked at since, but he had told her none of the details.

"Do you really love me?" he asked after a moment. "Would you stick to me through thick and thin—no matter what you heard about me?"

"Forever," the girl answered solemnly, but Forester continued:

"What would you advise a man to do who had m-married the wrong woman?"

"You—married!" she exclaimed, her voice breaking on a sob, as she wrenched herself away from him.

"Constance, don't" he pleaded, catching her by the wrist. "You must hear me. Suppose the man had never loved that woman. What then?"

"Any children?" she asked after a moment in a tone quite devoid of emotion.

"One," he answered dully.

"I'd tell him to go back and do his duty; even if there had been no child I should have said the same thing, but since there is I say it with ten times the emphasis. Goodby, Paul. Let me go, please."

With a quick movement she freed herself and ran swiftly into the house, slamming the door behind her.

Some time late that night the doorbell rang and a messenger brought a special delivery from Forestor.

"Take it away. I don't want to see it," she told her astonished mother.

"Why, Constance, what's happened?" Mrs. Mason exclaimed in surprise. "I thought you and Paul were out somewhere and now here I find you—"

"If you love me, mother, do go away," the girl pleaded, her voice breaking.

"I will if you'll promise to read that letter," she said.

With a jerk of impatience Constance took the envelope in her hands and ripped it open as Mrs. Mason quietly left the room. Only her sense of honor made the girl unfold the pages and glance at them.

"My own precious girl" (it began)

"It was a horrible test, but I had to do it, to satisfy myself that you were really true and splendid. But Constance, I am not married and never have been. It was my fool, idiotic way of testing your character. I've been caught once, and I've been afraid of everyone since then.

"When I was twenty-five I met a girl in the Adirondacks whom I loved desperately and it was not until after we were engaged that she told me she was married and had a husband and child in New York City. She wanted to put them aside like tossing off an old dress, but I knew only too well that later she would be willing to shed me in the same light-hearted fashion.

"After that I concluded that all girls were alike. Then when I met you some devil made me test you in the way that I did. But Constance, you came up to the mark. I adore you more than I ever did and now if I can only win you back I shall have no fear of losing you for I know how truly fine you are. All my doubts died when you sent me packing.

"Won't you let me come back? If I have been cruel forgive me. You don't know the years I've suffered and brooded over this thing and I'll spend a lifetime making it up to you. I could be so happy with you now. I don't think I shall ever be the same person again now I've found a girl I can trust. Whatever you do to me I shall always love you. PAUL.

"P. S.—I shall be in the swing on your porch at eigh o'clock tomorrow evening. If you don't want to see me I have only myself to blame, but if you should have enough mercy you'll find a new man awaiting you."

When Constance had finished reading the letter her emotions went into reverse and she danced around the room like a young lunatic. But it was a rather subdued Constance who met Paul the next evening.

"If you ever try a stunt like that again," she warned him, but he was too irresistibly joyful to listen to her.

"I was certain I'd lost you," he said, as he held her in his arms.

"You came terribly near it," Constance returned soberly. "If I hadn't l-loved—"

But she got no further, for with bowed head Paul sealed her words with a kiss and all the misery of the previous evening fled away on the wings of love.

OUR CHILDREN.

THE OCCASION.

Hugh was long and lean, keen of eye and keener of tongue. His sandy hair refused to follow a part and his crooked grin kept time to his restless shifting thought. Never still a second of his waking time he gave teachers and parents plenty to think about. Miss Maryanne said that when he should come to Her class he'd find out he couldn't have things all his own way. Maybe Hugh heard that. Anyway he and Miss Maryanne had many a tilt.

It was always difficult to get homework from Hugh. He either forgot it, lost it, left it in the gym., loaned it to a fellow, put it on the window-sill—or didn't know he had to bring any.

"Now look here, young man. You've brought in no homework to-day as usual. Would you mind telling me why? Try a new story this time. I'm tired of the old ones."

"I couldn't do any home work last night, Miss Maryanne."

"So I thought. But why?"

"I wasn't at home."

"Where were you?"

"At a funeral."

"M-m-m. Whose funeral?"

"An old friend of the family. I had to go. My mother made me go. I didn't want to. I even asked my mother not to make me go but she made me. I even told her you wouldn't like it because I wouldn't have any homework for you but she said she didn't care if I never brought in any homework. I'd have to go. And I had to go."

"You expect me to believe all that?"

"If you don't believe me you can come home with me to my house and ask my mother. I had to go to the funeral of an old family friend last night," and Hugh's green-gray eyes were very sad and reproachful and the class looked very sympathetic.

Miss Maryanne was silenced but not convinced. She went home with Hugh and waited on the best davenport until the lad's mother appeared, when she tactfully as possible made known her errand. Mother's face twitched. She tried hard not to laugh. She grew red in the face with the effort. A suppressed giggle from the hall brought a sharp, "Hugh, go upstairs and wait until I see you."

"You see, Miss Maryanne, Hugh did go to a funeral of an old family friend. I did make him go. He did try to beg off. He did tell me he would not have any homework done, and I did say I didn't care. Our old cat died and I made him bury her in the corner of the orchard. He didn't want to do it and I made him. That's all. He thought it would be funny to tell you that story. That's all."

"Well," said grandma, wiping her specs thoughtfully after hearing the story, "why did she give him the occasion? She might have seen he was only waiting for it? All she had to do was keep him in that afternoon and make him do his lessons. Then he wouldn't have had the excuse for all this nonsense. Let them settle it themselves. Or send Hughie to a school where he'll be kept so busy he won't find time for such nonsense. But you can't blame him. She set the occasion."

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG,
That old and antique song we heard, last night.

A BIRD IN A GILDED CAGE

(Contributed by 'Leatherhead')

The ball-room was filled with fashion's throng, it shone with a thousand lights,
And there was a woman who passed along, the fairest of all the sights,
A maid to her lover then softly sighed, "there's riches at her command."
"But she married for wealth, not for love," he cried, "though she lives in a mansion grand."

Chorus

She's only a bird in a gilded cage, a beautiful sight to see,
You may think she is happy and free from care, she's not though she seems to be;
It's sad when you think of her wasted life for youth cannot mate with age,
And her beauty was sold for an old man's gold, she's a bird in a gilded cage.

The beautiful woman surveyed the scene her flatterers by the score,
Her gems were the purest, her gown divine and what could a woman want more?
But memory brings back the fact of a lad whose love she had turned aside,
And happiness cannot be bought with gold although she's a rich man's bride.

I stood in a churchyard just at eve, when sunset adorned the west,
And looked at the people who came to grieve for the loved ones laid to rest,
At tall marble monument marked the grave of one who'd been fashion's queen,
And I thought she is happier here at rest than to have people say when seen:

Cut rhubarb into dish, sprinkle it with brown sugar and a few drops of lemon juice and pour over it a layer cake mixture which is made just a little stiffer than for a cake, lessening the heat after the cake mixture is nicely risen., Bake until rhubarb is tender, from thirty to forty minutes, then turn out onto a hot plate and serve hot with any desired sauce.

COME IN! STAY OUT!

Outside of the fact that they are sometimes actual nuisances, what is there about circulars and folders and other such things that are stuffed in our letter-boxes, to make us actually so resentful against those who address these missives to us?

Isn't it perhaps that we women dislike the assumed familiarity which characterizes this second class mail and the tacit impertinence that takes it for granted that we shall be glad to enjoy the privilege of correspondence with anyone who can afford to buy a "sucker" list of names plus a few thousand stamps and envelopes.

The offerings of many of these are so palpably bait that the reading of one means the destruction unread of the next score. Subconsciously we say to nine-tenths of such direct mail approaches, "Stay Out."

Our newspapers, on the other hand, are our invited friends and we pray for the privilege of their daily visit. We know that the contents will always be so much social news and so much advertising — the news of the shops. The other things, the billboard, the stickers and the circulars, try to stop me on my outside path of life. The newspaper is an integral part of our life and we say to it instinctively, "Come In." Most of the free contributions seldom really cross our threshold.

'HUSKY' BREAKS SALES RECORDS IN THIS CITY

Enormous Demand for This Medicine at Bond's Drug Store as It is Proven That Husky Relieves Indigestion, Constipation, Catarrhal Troubles, Rheumatism, Nervousness and Weak, Run-Down Conditions.

MISS DOROTHY YOUNG

"Husky" was introduced in Peterborough a little less than a month ago and already it has broken local sales records. What medicine on earth could do this, except one that is giving sufferers better results than any they ever tried before. Hundreds of people are going to Bond's Drug Store and getting their second and third bottle of Husky and no one buys an article a second time unless it has proven its worth.

"Husky" has proven its worth to Peterborough people by the quick way it relieves sour stomach, gas, constipation, catarrhal troubles, rheumatic pains in the back and limbs, nervousness, headaches and weak, tired-out feelings.

Miss Dorothy Young, of 240 Campbell Ave., Toronto, feels better every day as she uses Husky. She writes:

"During the past few months I was just tired all the time.

"My knees and legs ached so badly. I had headaches every day. It took me a long time to get to sleep at night, but when once asleep I slept all right. Every morning on arising I was so tired and stiff and felt like I wanted to go back to bed. My appetite was poor, and some days I could eat only one meal.

"My mother was taking Husky with so much benefit and I was losing weight and strength so fast, we decided I should try it. I am glad to say that even with the first few doses I began feeling better, and it has now just helped me a lot, removing those ailments that were bothering me so badly and giving me lots of new energy. I am continuing with Husky because it makes me feel stronger and better every day."

When you ache and feel weak, it is a good indication that a catarrhal condition or chronic acidity is irritating your stomach and keeping your muscles and blood from getting the nourishment they are supposed to get from what you eat. This catarrh or acidity irritates the delicate stomach lining until it becomes inflamed and secretes mucus, which surrounds the food you eat, fills you with gas and constipates you. Your food is a sour mass and sends impurities, rather than nourishment, into your blood. Weak feelings, pains through the back and limbs, nervousness, headaches, various forms of indigestion and constipation and other ills appear.

Husky's ingredients cleanse the system of this mucus and soothe the irritated membranes. That's why Husky makes you feel better so quick and why a treatment of several bottles gives permanent relief from so many common ailments. Begin using Husky to-day and see how soon food tastes better, you sleep sounder and feel stronger.

If you would like to know more about "Husky," call on the expert from the Husky Laboratories, who is now making his headquarters at Bond's Drug Store. He explains, free of charge, how best and quickest results are obtained from the use of this medicine and answers questions about the treatment. Call at Bond's and ask for the Husky expert to-day. His information has led thousands to find the relief and new health they had been seeking for years.

COTTAGE HIT BY LIGHTNING

First Strikes Large Elm Tree and Then Jumps To Ridge-pole of Building.

JOISTS SPLINTERED.

Lightning played mischief in and about S. H. Mitchell's cottage on the south side of the river, opposite Chief Constables Newhall's home, during Thursday afternoon's storm. It first struck the big elm tree that spreads above the house, ripped the bark off about fifteen feet of a lofty limb, and apparently left a small scar near the base. There was nothing unusual in these manifestations, for elms are rather numerous victims of electric storms, but the manner in which the mysterious agency shredded the bark and wood which it tore off the tree was almost incredible. Thin, jagged strips of both bark and the tough body of the upper limb, perhaps an armful altogether, were strewn about the ground. They were long, rough and frayed ribbons as if they had been carelessly chiselled with a dull blade.

Splinters In Every Room

Meanwhile the lightening after flashing along the limb, leaped to the galvanized iron ridgepole of the house, stripped off a patch of shingles and three feet of the ridgepole, then reached out to the front and rear ridgepoles, and generally sprayed the whole house. Although the total damage does not appear to be serious, there were splinters of joists and rafters in every room. Upstairs in a front room were evidences of the entry of lightning; then somehow it got through the floor to the steel fishing rod, shattering its wooden handle, but otherwise leaving the rod for immediate service.

The pranks of the strong invader in the rear part of the house were more striking. A castor at the foot of a bed was broken into bits, but its mate was intact although the lightning ripped its way through the floor, beside it, down a joist, which looks as if it had simply exploded. The splinters of this joist were all over the room, and in addition to this evidence of tremendous blasting force, there were also hints of clumsy humor in the disarranging of small bottles and other articles on a stand, and a wall mirror hanging at an angle instead of its customary level position. Nowhere was there a sign of a burning or searing agency, but around the nail-heads on the outside of the shattered joists were dark rings, which were clearly scorched by the nails, presumably made red hot by the rampaging electric current from the passing storm cloud.

These were only some of the destructive signs Mr. Mitchell noticed on Sunday morning, and there was no doubt as to the cause, as he had visited his summer home a few days previously. Apparently the lightning scampered about in every room, aided and directed by the new galvanized iron ridgepole, accordingy to Mr. Mitchell's opinion. It had only recently replaced old wooden ridge on roof which had been in place for twenty years under the elm. The necessary repairs will include a new ridgepole of wood.

Contract Bidding

Same as above except that East on the third round carries the bidding to five Clubs.

Salient Points of Bidding

Auction: West bids one Diamond instead of No Trump because of his singleton Spade. North passing, East, though holding Diamond support, takes out the Diamond bid by a bid of two Clubs, preparatory to making some further bid or bids depending upon West's response to the Club take-out. East's bid induces his partner to bid two No Trumps. East then bids three Spades, thus clearly showing partner the two-suited or semi-two-suited character of his hand. West correctly reading the situation and himself holding a semi-two-suiter, realizes that the combined hands must be playable to greater advantage at a suit bid than at No Trump, and having strong support for his partner's Clubs and but a singleton Spade, expresses his preference by taking out the three Spade bid by a bid of four Clubs, which closes the bidding.

Contract: The same considerations dictate the same bidding at Contract, except that following West's bid of four Clubs, East should bid five, since he obviously holds greater strength than West could reasonably expect. West, of course, is not advised of East's real strength and would not be justified in making the game bid himself, but can merely indicate his preference to East of Clubs over Spades, leaving to East the decision as to whether the combined strength of the hands should warrant a bid for game.

The Play

South's best opening is the singleton trump, not only because he has no good side suit to open, but because a trump lead is in itself often advantageous against a two-suited hand, when the partner of the Declarer has denied one of the suits and accepted the other, the manifest purpose of such opening being to reduce Dummy's trumps to prevent their use as far as possible in the establishment by the Declarer of his denied suit.

North, winning with the Ace of Trumps, returns his singleton Diamond, hoping to secure a Diamond ruff. Declarer sees that if he can successfully finesse the Diamond, he can make a Small Slam laid down. But an unsuccessful finesse might well be followed by a ruff, and a sure game lost by the play. Declarer therefore plays his Ace of Diamonds, content with game. Exhausting the adverse trumps, Declarer establishes Dummy's Diamonds, losing to the King but taking the rest of the tricks, scoring five odd on the hand.

Local Teams Vanquished In Saturday Games

DELORO TAKES ALL JOY OUT OF LEAGUE OPENER BY TROUNCING PETES IN LISTLESS BALL GAME

Homesters Fail to Show Same Dash as in Belleville Game And Are Well Beaten.

LACK OF PUNCH

Fail to Hit With Men on Bases, While Deloro Hit Effectively in Pinches.

(By F. D. C.)

R. A. Elliott of Deloro, president of the Central Ontario League, participated in the opening ceremonies in connection with the first league game of the season here Saturday afternoon and then his ball team took all the joy out of the occasion for the home fans by beating the Petes 7 runs to 3.

Manager Swanston's outfit, displaying little of the vim and dash that characterized their play at Belleville Wednesday were beaten by their own erratic batting and sloppy battery work as well as by some timely hitting on the part of the invaders.

A pitched ball propelled by the right arm of Ibey, Deloro's starting pitcher, was also a decided factor in the result. It hit Al. Heckman's pitching hand when the Petes' veteran was at bat in the fourth inning and the injury drove him out the game in the fifth, his swollen hand materially impairing his effectiveness.

Up to that stage Heckman, who had always been poison for the Deloro gang, had blanked them for four innings while the Petes had taken the lead with a marker in the fourth. Heck tried to pitch the next frame but his lame salary grabber was too big a handicap and he was relieved after Deloro had scored two runs and had two on the bases with only one out. Jeff Hardill took up the burden at this stage and while he managed to retire the side with the loss of only one more run he ran into plenty of trouble on his own account in the next two innings, each of which yielded the Smelters a pair of counters. Hardill's arm was none too good and he lacked his usual stuff so that his relief performance was not startling. The Petes' troubles were further complicated by the fact that Manager Swanston had an off day himself and seemed to find it difficult to do anything right.

These handicaps might have been overcome, however, if the home guard had been able to do any effective hitting in the pinches. They had plenty of opportunities to whale themselves back in the ball game but they not only failed to produce the necessary safeties but they did worse by helping out the Deloro heavers by going after bad balls when a walk seemed certain. And the chief offenders in this respect were not the rookies but some of the old guard.

In short the Petes got a thoroughly bad game out of their systems, and they're not likely to slip so far again. They have been round the circuit once and a survey of the three teams met shows no reason to worry about the ultimate chances of the locals, who have the material to fight their way to the top of the league race.

Deloro's starting pitcher was Ibey, who was with Hastings in the East Peterborough League last year and who gave a very effective exhibition. He had nice speed and a sharp-breaking curve and these wares were enough to hold the Petes to one hit in the first five frames. They was taken out in the sixth after the home talent had registered two runs on an error and a couple of hits and Carl Woods finished the game, shutting out the Petes until the end in spite of the fact that he did not seem to have as much stuff as usual. The losers gave him every assistance by refusing to wait him out and thus in the eighth after the first two men had got on with nobody out Ash struck out and Swanston hit into a double play when their both should have drawn a pass. And two passes at that stage would have made a wonderful difference to the ball game.

A touch of Old Home week sentiment was introduced into the opening ceremonies when Tax Collector W. J. Green and Dr. J. B. Pentland, officials in baseball here forty years ago and still ardent fans were called out in front of the grand stand and presented with season's passes. The presentation was made on behalf of the local management by R. A. Elliott, the Central Ontario League president, who was introduced by President Gordon S. Matthews of the Peterborough Club. Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C., was to have been similarly honored but was unable to be present.

George A. Macdonald of the Quaker Oats Company and director of the Peterborough Ball Club, threw the first ball, with Mayor Rollie Denne at the bat and Ald. Walter Stocker, chairman of the Parks Committee as catcher. The pitcher had too much stuff for the Mayor who failed to hit safely.

How It Happened.

Both teams died in order in the first frame, but Quinn opened the second for Deloro with a hit over second and Regan sacrificed. Hughes drew a walk and the pair moved up on Scott's tap to Heckman. Heckman also threw out Brown to retire the side.

In the Petes' half Harrison started with a walk but was forced by Heckman. Ash rolled out to first and Swanston fanned.

Ibey, first up for Deloro in the third, rolled to Hollingsworth. Ralph singled to centre and stole second, but Heckman fanned Buck and Elliott.

For the Petes, Sweetman struck out. Legon walked and went to second on a balk by Ibey. Hollingsworth rolled to Ibey and Rose to Elliott to retire the side.

Deloro got two on the fourth but failed to score. Quinn rolled to Rose and Hall grabbed Regan's drive to left but Hughes walked and went to third on Scott's single to right. Rose slipped as he fielded Brown's roller but tossed the ball from a sitting position in time to get the runner.

The Petes broke into the run column in the fourth. Jimmy Hall singled through the box and went to second on a wild pitch. Harrison fanned. Heckman was hit on the hand with a pitched ball. Hall stole third and Heckman purloined second. Ash's sacrifice fly to Buck scored Hall. Swanston struck out.

Deloro broke in front in the fifth. Ibey popped to Heckman but Ralph singled to left and Buck to right and both advanced on a passed ball. Elliott singled past third to score the pair. Quinn doubled to left, sending Elliott to third. Hardill relieved Heckman on the rubber. Elliott scored on a perfectly worked squeeze play, Regan bunting to Hardill. Quinn also ran home but was sent back to third because Regan interfered with Harrison at first. Hughes walked. Scott lined into Sweetman's hands.

The Petes did nothing. Sweetman struck out, Legon was tossed out by Regan and Hollingsworth rolled to Hughes.

The visitors increased their lead in the sixth. Brown rolled to Harrison and Ibey popped to Hollingsworth, but Ralph singled to centre, stole second, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on Buck's single to right. When Buck started to steal second Swanston threw to centre field and Buck came all the way home. Elliott rolled to Rose.

The Petes drove Ibey out of the game in their half and had a royal chance to sew up the matinee. Rose got a life on Elliott's fumble and stole second. Hall singled off Regan's shins and then pulled off a double steal with Rose. Harrison's hot single through short scored the pair and sent Ibey to the bench. Hardill greeted Carl Wood, the relief heaver, with a double over third, but the next three batters failed to hit out of the infield, Ash and Swanston rolling to Wood, while Len Hollingsworth, who batted for Sweetman, raised a high one to Hughes.

Deloro got two more in the seventh. Quinn slashed one over third for his third hit and Regan popped one into centre for another single. When Hardill fumbled Hughes' bunt intended for a sacrifice the bases were full. Scott drove in Quinn and Regan with a single through short. Hughes tried to score on Brown's fly to right field but was nipped on a fast relay. Legon to Rose to Swanston. Wood rolled to Harrison.

Legon gave the Petes a good start by doubling to deep left but Elliott speared Hollinsworth's vicious bounder. Rose fouled to Regan and Scott grabbed Hall's fly to short left.

In the eighth Ralph was tossed out by Rose. Buck popped to the same player and Elliott, after walking, was tossed out trying to steal second.

Again the home talent had a great chance. Harrison was hit to start with and Hardill was safe on Elliott's error. Ash struck out, however, and Swanston's liner to Brown in short left was turned into a double play, Harrison being caught off second.

In the ninth Quinn flied to Hollingsworth and Regan to Ash. Hollingsworth tossed out Hughes.

Mein, who had replaced Sweetman at third rolled to Hughes and Legon was thrown out by Wood. Red Hollingsworth singled to right but was forced on Rose's tap to short for the final out.

READING, June 3 (Canadian Press).— Newark rallied in the ninth inning to nose out Reading 10 to 9, in a free hitting game here yesterday.

Jimmy Ring, former major league pitcher, was pounded off the hill by the Keys and the Bears retaliated by socking Eddie Holley, the Reading ace, off the mound.

Johnny Welch allowed the winning marker in the ninth, pieced together when Wes Kingdon and John Cummings hit successive doubles.

WINGS BEAT ROYALS.

MONTREAL, Que., June 3 (Canadian Press). — An error by Snake Henry, Royal first baseman, and undue generosity with bases on balls by Pitcher Elam Vangilder, recently acquired from Detroit, netted Rochester four runs and a 6-1 victory over Montreal here yesterday.

Vangilder was in the process of making his debut with the Royals, and, exclusive of that rather disastrous third, pitched good ball. He was opposed by John Berly, crack Red Wing right-hander, and behind steady hurling by the latter, Rochester breezed through to even the series.

WRIGHT AGAIN VICTORIOUS

TORONTO, Ont., June 3 (Canadian Press). — Joe Wright, Jr., Toronto, holder of the Diamond Sculls, wound up his training campaign preparatory to sailing for Great Britain to defend the sculls at the historical Henley Regatta by defeating Kenneth Meyers, Philadelphia, in a special match race at the Brule Lake Regatta here on Saturday. The race was at one-quarter mile and the world's amateur sculling champion won by two and one-half lengths after Meyers had eased up twenty lengths from the finish. Wright covered the distance in the splendid time of 1.16.

There were several other features on the fine program arranged for the public at the first Brule Lake Regatta, which will be held annually henceforth. Two professional swimming races were held, in addition to 13 other swimming events and 14 rowing competitions and sea flea races.

In the first special swimming race Olive Gotterdam, Seattle, defeated Ruth Tower, Denver, over the mile course in 22.30. George Young, Toronto, international star, won the other special race for professionals by outswimming his old rival Ernst Vierkoetter, formerly of Germany, now of Toronto. Young's time was 21.55 for the mile. Vierkoetter finished in 22.05.

TORONTO CLUB BREAKS EVEN ON SATURDAY

Splits Double Header With the Bisons and Loses Third On Sunday.

SWAMP CANTRELL.

Joe Samuels Holds the Herd To Three Hits On Saturday.

TORONTO, Ont., June 3 (Canadian Press). — Out of the doubleheader with Buffalo at the Fleet Street Stadium on Saturday came only one victory for the Leafs, but a Toronto pitcher, who was able to not only start a game but finish it, was found by Steve O'Neill when Joe Samuels held the Bisons to three hits, sprinkled over as many innings, to win the second half of the twin engagement three to one. Sam Gibson was shelled from the peak in the fifth inning of the first game and the Bisons finally won out 6 to 4, Rollie Naylor twirling the last five innings.

Samuels, one of the lesser lights of the Leafs' hurling corps, came through with a brilliantly pitched game, his fast ball and excellent control playing havoc with the so-called heavy hitters in Clymer's band. And in winning, Samuels bested Alexander Ferguson, veteran of many campaigns in the National League, who recently was obtained by the Bisons from the Brooklyn Robins. Ferguson kept the total number of safe blows down to five in the six innings in which the Leafs went to bat.

Ferguson was pitching his first game for the Herd, while it also was Samuels' initial start for the Leafs, though he had acted in relief roles on several occasions. Approximately 8,000 fans witnessed the bargain bill, which, outside of Samuels' fine mound work, a couple of great outfielding plays, and Bedore's clean-cut defensive work, was singularly devoid of sensation. Both teams, however, played steady baseball, and it was interesting.

LOSE THIRD GAME.

BUFFALO, N.Y., June 3 (Canadian Press). — Docile and restrained for some time on the spell of a long losing streak, the Bison batmen broke out here yesterday to make violent whoopee with Guy Cantrell, ace of the Toronto mound staff. They clubbed their way to an 8 to 1 triumph over the Leafs.

The Bisons played smashing ball throughout the nine innings, and there never was the least doubt of the outcome after they hopped on the costly Toronto curver for a two-run lead in the first stanza.

PORT HOPERS TALLY FIVE RUNS IN FOURTH INNING

Kitchen Twirls Ineffective Ball Against Lakeshore Crew in Early Game.

FINAL SCORE 7-4.

Homesters Play Airtight Ball in Field to Hold Visitors Down.

Grabbing a cluster of five runs in the fourth inning the youthful Port Hope team managed to stave off the determined bat-work of the Raybestos nine to win the ball game 7 to 4 in the Lakeshore League played at the waterfront town Saturday afternoon.

Sending in Maudsley to relieve Kitchen in that fateful fourth the Rays kept Port Hope scoreless for the remainder of the struggle. They succeeded in scoring three runs themselves in the sixth and would have won the game had they had more luck in placing their hits out of the Port Hope fielders' mitts.

Manager Art Primeau selected Kitchen, last year with the Royals to do mound duty. It didn't seem the youngster's day to make his debut in intermediate company. He had nothing much on the ball but the cover, and knowing this, lacked his usual confidence. He got along well until the second. Then Routcliffe, first up, laced out a long fly to centre field and Moore going back after it stepped in a hole, twisting his ankle, just as he got his hands on the ball. The runner was safe and two more errors gave Port Hope two soft runs. In the fourth the Hopers got to Kitchen soundly, getting three runs on three hits and his own error.

There were two on with none down when Maudsley was called to the box and Phillips passed them both on a clout to right field. After that with the "Sailor" twisting them in great style the Port Hope crew folded up and with the exception of a short flurry in the eighth did not have a chance to tally. Maudsley was given much better support by his team mates than was Kitchen.

High School Team.

The Port Hope team is practically a high school nine, all with the exception of Boyd at first base and "Shinny" Moise, of the Bowmanville hockey team, at second being students. The town is all behind their youthful aggregation and big things are expected of them. They trimmed the Cobourg veterans on the holiday and now have two victories to their credit. They one and all take their game seriously.

Wakely who did the pitching was no mystery to the Rays, and had it not been for sterling defence work by his fellows and the fact that the Rays walloped the ball into the outfielders' gloves there would have been a different story. He gave out four walks and was touched for eight sound hits, one by Collins going for a double. He struck out only four. Two snappy double plays helped him greatly, coming just at critical moments.

Rays Take Lead.

The Rays jumped into the game in the opening stanza sending one run across. Batten smacked a safety over second and then stole second. Nichols was struck out. Collin hit over third, scoring Batten. Gordon, next up, hit into a double play, the ball being trapped by Moise who touched Collins and threw to first getting Gordon.

Nothing more happened until Port Hope's half of the second when Moore's unavoidable error off Routcliffe's drive to deep centre and an error by Gordon on Waldron's high tap paved the way for two runs. Kitchen struck out Wakely for the first down, and he picked up Greenaway's roller tossing him out quickly at first. Barry in his efforts to make a double and get Routcliffe coming home, threw wide to Collins, Routcliffe and Waldron scoring.

Another double play in the fourth cut off the Rays' chances of adding to their score. And in Port Hope's half of the same innings they boosted their total by five runs.

Moise, first up, hit over second. Routcliffe was safe at first when Batten chose to catch Moise at second and failed. Waldron hit to left field scoring Moise. Wakely bunted a peach down the first base line, scoring Routcliffe, and himself getting safe at first. Collins just missed tagging Routcliffe at the plate on this one. Kitchen fielded Greenaway's roller but threw wild over first. Maudsley then took over the burden with none out and runners on third and second. Davidson was thrown out at first by H. Nichols. Hudson struck out, but Phillips laced out a hit to left field scoring the two runners. Boyd was retired on strikes.

Rays Score Three.

It wasn't until the sixth that Rays got in any useful work. Nichols was safe when Davidson in right field dropped his fly. Collins hit a two-bagger into deep middle. Gordon flied out and Corrin hit scoring Nichols and Collins. Rogers was thrown out at first by Moise, but Maudsley hit over third, scoring Corrin. The side was retired when Barry flied to Moise.

With one down Batten and H. Nichols hit in the seventh but Collins' drive was caught in left field and Gordon fanned. The Rays had another opportunity in the eighth when Corrin was passed and Maudsley got to first on Greenaway's error after Rogers' had flied out, but Barry and Kitchen both hit into the fielder's hands.

The Rays did nothing in the ninth to help their cause and the games was over.

Giants Win Out 4-1 When Blake Weakens

CHICAGO, June 3.—(C.P.)— The explosion of Sheriff Fred Blake in the seventh inning enabled the Giants to rush through the broken defence of the Cubs for six hits and four runs to gain a 4 to 1 decision here yesterday.

Larry Benton held the home team to five scattered hits and was not scored on until the ninth, when Norman McMillan popped one into the right field seats for a homer.

The victory gave the Giants a record of four straight wins and ten in their last eleven games played.

BRINTON CLUB ELIMINATED IN SPALDING PLAY

J. McMaster Scores Two Counters For Winners On Individual Efforts.

FINAL COUNT 2-1.

Hawthorne Reduces Lead—Bolton Makes Brilliant Save of James' Drive.

Fate played havoc with the Brinton soccer team against the Canadian General on Saturday afternoon when they were eliminated from the first round of the Spalding Cup by the score of two goals to one.

The encounter was one of the best exhibitions of the soccer code ever seen in this city, McMaster taking the advantage of the Brinton's fullbacks' mistake when they were too far up-field. His two goals were of the individual character and carried his team into the final round. Hawthorne's rocket drive for the Brintons was of the elite kind.

FAST OPENING.

The Canadian General lost the toss and faced the sun. Both goals went under bombardment in the early stages with the Carpet market looking dangerous on every visit, Bolton relieving the pressure. Two visits by the C.G.E. forwards brought nothing productive. On a mid-field tussle, E. Jones evaded the full-backs to be held in check by the defense.

OPPORTUNITY LOST.

The Brinton forwards initiated a movement in the front rank that caused the C.G.E. defence a merry time; in fact, the ball went right across the goal, with Bolton out of his gaol and it was punted wide of the mark.

McMASTER OPENED THE SCORING.

Quick as a flash, Robb transferred the attack to the other end where the C.G.E. forwards manipulated the ball until J. McMaster rapped a hot one at Curtis who failed to offset the return shot. This setback enlivened the proceedings when the Brinton forwards worked inside to have a try at goal, but Bolton was always on the job. Play continued in a ding-dong nature with the defensive methods of gaining the decision that prevented a concentrated attack on goal.

NICE TACTICS SHOWN.

It was pleasant to witness the well-planned openings, individual strategy in front of goal, that found the legal points of defence to be perfect, that culminated in every raid providing excitement of the highest calibre. Eventually the individualist, J. McMaster, accepted the ball on the run from a timely touch of his brother outside the shooting area. He was tackled on his way towards goal, but his footwork was perfect when hard pressed and touched it gently into the net. Half-time, C.G.E. 2, Brintons 0.

HALF TIME.

Excitement reigned supreme in the second half in the first minutes when E. Jones made tracks for the C.G.E. goal to be brought down outside the penalty area. Hawthorne's free kick hit an opposing player on the head to divert the ball up-field.

A SPECTACULAR GOAL.

After six minutes' play, James dribbled his way through the defense until he was hard pressed, then slipping the ball back to Hawthorne, the latter found the rigging with a rocket drive, amidst great excitement. Encouraged by their success, they made raid after raid to gain fruitless flag kicks.

KICKED BALL OUT OF PLAY.

Pressure was added by the forwards of the respective teams, but they failed to negotiate the desired area. W. Jones and Lucas stood up to the onslaught in every attack, while the Canadian General fullbacks reverted to the inevitable—kicking out to the touch line instead of keeping the ball in play. Being rewarded with throw-ins, the losers made things interesting around the winners' goal.

JAMES UNFORTUNATE.

A break-away on the right by the Brinton forwards brought up the enthusiasm to the pinnacle of the ninety minutes' encounter. James broke away fast on the wing, he beat the defense cleverly and let drive from thirty yard range to give Bolton the C.G.E. custodian, the biggest fright he ever received since he played here. As soon as the ball reached the goalkeeper he threw himself full length of the goal to touch the ball outside the goal post, while E. Jones endeavored to gain possession. In the closing period, the Brinton boys put up ao gallant rally to even up the count, but the C.G.E. held the meagre lead until the whistle blew. Canadian General 2, Brinton A.A. 1.

PLAY COBOURG HERE ON WEDNESDAY.

The Raybestos as a result of their 7 to 4 defeat at the hands of the Port Hope team on Saturday, will be playing with their backs to the wall against Cobourg at Exhibition Park on Wednesday evening.

One bad innings, the fourth, in which Port Hope got five runs spelled defeat for the Rays. With a little luck in placing their hits in the latter stages they would have won the game even at that. The Rays need some changes in their infield, slips on the part of their inner defence paving the way for at least three counters.

The Port Hope team is made up of High School students, except for "Shinny" Moise of hockey fame at second, and Boyd, an old timer, at first. They have shelved all the veterans in the water front town and now have a team of youngsters that are hard hitters and snappy fielders. They stand at the head of the league with two wins and no losses, having beaten Cobourg on the holiday opener.

MOOSE SWAMPS LONDON TEAM.

The Loyal Order of Moose showed their wares in the most impressive style against a picked Junior outfit in Lindsay on Saturday. They won the game hands down, 22 to 7, and both teams growing weary of the struggle called it at the end of five innings. The Moose have been already called one of the best minor outfits to be assembled locally, and their showing in the Scugog town will aid in establishing that claim.

OLD RIVALS MEET TO-NIGHT.

This evening, fans will have their first opportunity to see the old feud between Crescents and Cognawagas renewed when these two teams hook up in an East Peterborough game at Exhibition Park. The dope sheet calls the Cogs. to win on the great strengthening they have given their line-up since last fall. The crescents have a mixture of veterans and youngsters and they may possibly pull a surprise.

KEENE COMPETITION IN SOCCER LEAGUE.

The fact that keener and better competiton exists in the local soccer league now than ever before was amply proven on Saturday when the C. G. E. just managed to beat out the Brinton A. A. team 2 to 1. Both C. G. E. goals came from the foot of Jim McMaster, when he caught the Brinton full-backs out of position and waltzed through to bulge the twine. Hawhorne got the Brinton score on a beautiful shot from about twenty feet out. The ball was placed perfectly between the top bar and the upstretched hands of the goalie.

There was a big crowd of fans on hand for the game and with continued performances like this one there will assuredly be even larger.

The opening game in the City League Junior Series, will be played at James Stevenson Park this Wednesday evening, starting at 5.30. The Lockworks, too, have not been sleeping and they promise to give Deannard's lads a tough argument. On Thursday night the Canuck's Moose will clash in the same park at 5.30 in a juvenile fixture.

CRICKET CLUB FALLS BEFORE TORONTO TEAM.

Although defeated by the C.N.R. Cricket Club of Toronto, the Peterborough team was by no means disgraced on Saturday. The C.N.R. team is considered to be one of Toronto's strongest clubs.

The local club will improve with more practice, and will do much better as the season advances. The bowling of the club is good, but the fielding needs some improvement. During Saturday's game doubles were recorded against the club when only singles should have been registered, the ball on several occasions not being picked up, and returned to the wicket smartly enough, thus allowing a second run. The batsmen need more practice, and higher scores will result then.

The next game will be against the local C.G.E. team on Saturday, at the Oval. Practises will be this week on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

Toronto Club Plays Superior Cricket Both in Field and At Bat.

STRONG AT BAT.

Dunkerley and Dyer Only Local Batsmen To Make Good Showing.

The C.N.R. cricket club of Toronto defeated the local club on Saturday afternoon at the Oval by 52 runs. Batting first, the C.N.R. scored 20 runs for the first wicket when Robinson returned a ball to Thorpe, who was bowling from the south end. The next batsman was Lowe, who was clean bowled by Dyer before scoring; Huddleston went next with the score at 27, being run out in attempting a sharp run, Thorpe returning the ball for Gore to break the wicket. Foster was caught soon afterwards by Dyer at square leg. Ellerback and Wilson then set about the bowling in refreshing style and the score mounted rapidly from 43 to 75 before the former was beautifully caught in the outfield by Hamilton, having scored 26. The retiring batsman hit 3 fours and a six in this score. Wilson continued to score freely but with the score at 88 he was nicely caught at deep cover by Thorpe off Dyer's bowling. The remaining wickets fell rapidly, the score closing at 92.

The Peterborough team had an hour and a half to bat, as stumps had to be drawn at 4.50 to allow the Toronto club to catch the train. So well did the C.N.R. team field and bowl that the local club were all dismissed for the small score of 40, with but two minutes to spare. The local boys deserve credit for the sporting way in which they went and came from the wickets, making it possible to bring the game to a definite conclusion. Of the Peterborough batsmen only Dunkerley and Dyer made any showing worth while. The former playing fine cricket for 15 runs. Huddleston claimed 5 wickets for 17 runs, and Sutton 5 for 10 runs.

Superior Fielding

For Peterborough, Dyer bowled brilliantly throughout the C.N.R. innings, without a rest, getting 7 wickets for 40 runs; Thorpe captured 2 for 19 runs. The fielding of the Toronto boys was excellent, while the local team's fielding was a mixture of good and bad.

Green Thanks Club For Season's Pass

William J. Green, city tax collector, has asked The Examiner to express to the officers and members of the Peterborough Baseball Club his deep appreciation of their kind thoughtfulness in presenting him on Saturday afternoon with a season's pass to the ball games. Mr. Green said he realized that the ball club's act was a gesture of remembrance to the Peterborough team of his youth, and a reminder to the fans of to-day that there were other teams and loyal supporters forty and even fifty years ago; and also that the sporting reputation of this community was held high in those old days. Mr. Green said that Dr. J. B. Pentland wished to associate himself in this acknowledgement.

"Billy" Green was a member of the first lacrosse and baseball clubs, and when his active days ended he graduated to the ranks of the rooters and has been loyally interested down to this day. He played all the games the youth of the town engaged in, and Saturday's presentation touched him as a fine and thoughtful tribute.

MOOSE SWAMPS LINDSAY TEAM

Play Superior Ball in Every Way to Take 22-7 Decision in Scugog Town.

HOMERS FEATURE.

The players of the Peterborough Moose Juvenile baseball team played tag with each other around the bases on Saturday in Lindsay when they swamped a picked team from the Scugog town by a score of 22-7. The score indicates the superior quality of the invading players. Superior fielding in both the infield and the outfield kept down the score for the homesters, while Kay pitched four innings of steady ball and the southpaw Gatfield struck out two of the five men that faced him in the final frame.

Cook hurled an erratic game for Lindsay, making many wild throws, however there were times when he pitched snappy ball, having five strikeouts to his credit, but during the most of the game the Moose did not have any trouble connecting with his curves.

The second innings for the Moose men was an all around affair when eleven of the Petes faced the Lindsay hurler and gathered in eight runs, while Dallin, the Petes left fielder wielded the willow for a beautiful drive to left in the third frame.

Bailey, the Moose right fielder, was not to be outdone by such a spectacular play such as a circuit clout by Dallin and connected with one of Cook's offerings that it resulted in a drive over first into left field, bringing in Kay and Davern who were resting on third and second, scoring himself on the same play.

Homer for Reever

Reever the centre fielder for Lindsay also pulled off a Babe Ruth feature in the left frame, when he drove the sphere deep into centre field, scoring Cuthbert, Cook and himself. It looked like a dying rally for Lindsay but it was not to be. There was already one out and the next two, Campbell and Moran, who faced Kay retired in turn.

The fifth and final innings of the game saw a shift in the Moose lineup. Des Hunt decided to give all the boys who made the trip a chance to show their mettle. Jones batted for Davern and poked out a neat single, advancing Kay who was given a complimentary, both of whom scored on Bailey's homer.

In the last half of the frame when the Moose took to the pasture, Lefty Gatfield was on the rubber, Charlie Kay on first and Gord. Young on second. This shift was quite effective as Lindsay was only able to tally one run against the fresh men.

The Moose Juveniles this year are out for the Ontario title and while a few rough edges have yet to be polished off, the team on Saturday in Lindsay showed signs of snappy ball playing. When ball days with ball weather roll around and the team who are now playing a stirling brand of ball for so early in the season things are going to go the Moose way when the boys face any opposition, if one can judge from Saturdays performance.

Team work and steadiness were noticed and the final touching up will come with time. This aggregation should be worth while following, they have players, a real manager and good backing.

Line-up:

Moose—Foley c.f., Whatley c., Cuthbertson s.s., Dallin l.f., McCullough 1st, Sproats 2nd, Kay p., Davern 3rd, Bailey p., C. Kay 1st, Young 3rd.

Lindsay—Reever c.f., Campbell, r.f., Moran, s.s., Beatty l.f., Begley 2nd, Hall 1st, Ashmore 3rd, Cuthbert c., Cook p.

Jones of Peterborough batted for Davern in the third.

Score by innings:

Moose	5	8	3	5	3	—	22
Lindsay	3	0	0	3	1	—	7

Struck out—Cook, 5; Kay, 2; Gatfield 2.

Home runs—Dallin, Bailey, Reever.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

Clara Bow who appears at the Capitol tonight in "The Wild Party" was voted the most popular star on the screen by 2,700 theatre managers.

Clara Bow, Brooklyn's greatest gift to the motion picture public, has just been voted the favorite cinema star of 2,700 theatre owners and managers in all parts of the United States. The survey was conducted by a trade magazine, the Exhibitors' Herald and World, and results were just made public.

Colleen Moore, leader in the balloting last year, when Miss Bow placed second, is now herself in second place. Lon Chaney was voted the most popular masculine star.

Clara Bow's fan mail receipts have long marked her as the most popular film star with the public. She gets on an average of 35,000 letters each month and more by thousands than any other star of the stage or screen ever received in the history of the entertainment business.

Her latest production, "The Wild Party" is a vivid, dash film of unfettered, flaming youth and the scenes are laid in the college campus and class-room of an exclusive institution.

"The Wild Party" is at the Capitol tonight.

The story upon which the play is based was written by Warner Fabian, author of "Flaming Youth" and the adaptation was written by E. Lloyd Sheldon, assisted by John V. A. Weaver, who wrote the "Americanese" dialog parts of the production.

Fredric March, young, dark-haired stage star, plays the leading romantic role opposite Miss Bow in "The Wild Party."

Edwards not only shattered the meet record of the famous Ted Meredith, set at 1.53 in 1915, but also equalled Meredith's American outdoor record of 1.52 1-4, made in 1916. He was only three-fifths of a second behind the world's record of 1.51 3-5, made by Dr. Otto Peltzer of Germany at London in 1926.

BLIND MAN IS GUIDED BY DOG IN N.Y. TRAFFIC

Shepherd Calmly Leads Master Across Heavy Traffic Intersection.

EXPERIMENT IS WATCHED.

Animal Watches Way Closely and Gives Warning of Curb.

NEW YORK, June 3. — A demonstration to test the practicability of a dog's acting as a guide for the blind was held yesterday afternoon in the heavy traffic of Fifth Avenue and Forty-second street. The participants were Police Commissioner Whalen, a 20-months-old shepherd dog and Herman Immein, totally blind director of social service for the New York Association for the Blind.

The dog, which had been trained to be his master's "eyes," came from Nashville, and during the past fortnight had accompanied Mr. Immein on walks through the quieter streets. It was felt that if the dog were successfully able to negotiate the maze of the "busiest corner on earth" the experiment could be called a success. When it was over it was said that such was the case.

When Commissioner Whalen officiated at turning on the east and west traffic light, at 2.30 o'clock, the dog, with Immein grasping the rigid handle to its harness, stepped off the curb and walked briskly across, with its master confidently at its side. As the dog reached the far side it pulled back—to warn of the curb—and Immein unhesitatingly stepped to the sidewalk.

The dog, which was trained at the Seeing Eye Kennels of Moris Frank in Nashville, proceeds always at a fast walk, slackening only when there is some obstacle of which it wishes to warn its master. The slightest variation in pace to the side, forward or back is instantly felt by the blind man through the handle of the harness. Nor does the animal get excited; yesterday's cameras and crowds caused it no worry.

After the demonstration Immein said he was perfectly satisfied with the test. The dog will remain with him, he said, and it is hoped to establish a permanent training kennels in New York to supply others for the blind. The value of such guides is incalculable, he said, for it removes from the sightless their fear of traffic and their necessity for relying on friends or paid guides to lead them.

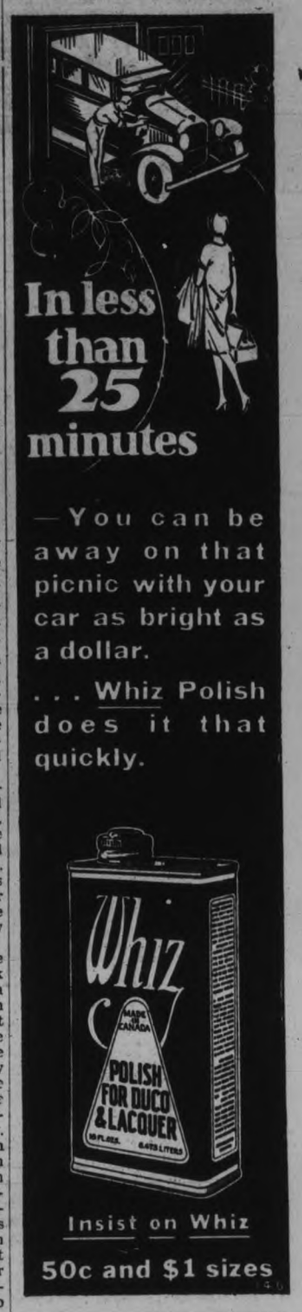
Introducing "Tailspin Tommy"

"Tailspin Tommy", one of the new daily picture strips which will appear daily in The Examiner is a story of daring and danger, up in the clouds and down on the ground.

Tommy and his pal, Skeeter, have left their home base, the Three-Point Airport, and have joined the El Tomanian air force in order to see some excitement. They find lots of it, for there is a revolution in El Tomania and Tommy and Skeeter are in the thick of it. Skeeter has been wounded and Tommy's sweetheart, Betty has been captured by the rebels, who are led by a mysterious aviator known as the "Masked Marvel".

Things haven't been going right for the Government forces and it is suspected that there is a traitor who is tipping off the enemy. Tommy is summoned by the President to attend a conference.

Now go on with the story.



Nine times out of ten, the man who keeps cool gets the best of a business deal. The strain of modern business life makes heavy demands on the nerves. The man who loses his nerve also loses his judgment.

Many successful business men use Wrigley's regularly. The act of chewing, they find, has a soothing effect. The healthful cleansing action of Wrigley's refreshes the mouth—gently stimulates the flow of natural juices—steadies the nerves.

Apart from its soothing effect on the nerves, Wrigley's is particularly beneficial after eating, drinking or smoking. It cleans the teeth, firms the gums, sweetens the breath—makes the mouth clean and healthy.

Use Wrigley's—it pays big dividends on a small investment.

STAFF OFFICER UNDER ARREST

Attempt Is Made To Betray Aviation and Mobilization Plans of Czechoslovakia.

ARRESTED AS SPY.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, June 3. (Canadian Press).—Captain Taus of the Czechoslovakian general staff has been arrested here as a spy after a hurried flight to Dresden Friday and return.

Intense excitement and indignation has been aroused here over the incident, which is believed to have been an attempt to betray the country's military aviation and mobilization plans to a foreign power.

The captain, in his haste to get away Friday, left a brief case containing the plans behind him. Discovering his loss when he arrived at Dresden he called back to the Prague aerodrome officials and asked them to hand the bag unopened to a porter for safe keeping.

When he returned to Prague on Saturday afternoon he was taken into custody as a spy.

canoe between the Reserve and McIntyre's property and set three or four traps. Ossie Crowe was some distance behind him. He was just setting off for Paudash Point when he heard the "whirr" of a bullet and saw it splash in the water to the left of him, about 75 yards away.

He stated that he could be seen clearly from the McIntyre home during his trapping operations that day. The sound of the shots came from the direction of the McIntyre property.

Under cross-examination he said Oswald Crowe was a second cousin of his.

Provincial Constable Harry Thompson, the next witness called, told of seeing the accused at the McIntyre home in the month of April and getting a verbal statement concerning the shooting from him. First, the constable had warned him that anything he said would not help him but might be used against him. Counsel for the accused asked the Judge if in a juvenile case that could be considered of sufficient warning. The officer declared he did not threaten the boy in any way.

The boy in his statement had admitted shooting at two men, while he and his brother were together one day; each had taken a shot at them, meaning himself and William, his brother, in March. The boy explained to the constable that his reason for shooting was that he had been told to do so by Game Warden Hill. The boy said that the Indians must keep off his father's marsh or he would shoot at them, according to the constable's evidence.

Under cross-examination Constable Thompson said the boy had not mentioned in his interview that the game warden had said that he might scare off the Indians by shooting.

Madden Howard, an Indian, was the Take Two—Otonabee Youths ... . ing a conversation with the McIntyre boys this year, before the time of the shooting at Bertram Anderson. He was with his father at the time and was hunting for a dog near the McIntyre farm. His father was in advance and when he came up Archie McIntyre was hold his gun pointing at the elder Howard in a threatening manner and also talking roughly.

This concluded the case of the Crown.

The Defence

Archie McIntyre gave evidence in his own defence. He remembered the day that the two Indians were on his father's marsh. Billy was with him and they had one rifle between them; each shot in the air in the general direction of the Indians, only to the left. The reason for shooting, he said, was because the Indians were trapping on his father's marsh, and he wanted to scare them. He had been told to use this method by Game Warden Hill.

Concerning the interview with the Howards he had only held his rifle over his arm at the rest position.

Under cross-examination, the boy admitted trapping muskrats although he had no license. He didn't shoot the muskrats, and the skins were sold he obtaining part of the money. His father has a title to the marsh for five years and his father knew he had been shooting at the Indians to scare them off. The Indian was about a half mile away when he shot.

Under re-examination the boy said he had not shot at the Indians but in the air.

Fired First Shot

Billy McIntyre, his brother, aged 12, was the next witness. He also remembered the day when the two Indians were trapping on his father's marsh, and he fired the first shot 150 yards from the direction of the Indians.

Under cross-examination the boy said he knew the Indians and had also known Constable Thompson, when he saw him one day when he was coming from school. At that time he admitted having signed a written statement concerning shooting at Indians.

Re-examined the boy said that he had used field glasses in looking at the Indians taking muskrats from the traps half a mile away.

Miss Mary Douglas, the boys' school teacher, said that the boys were obedient and their class conduct was good. Charles Mather, James Wilson and Fred McIntyre, neighbors of the boys, all gave favorable character evidence, and declared that they did not think that they would shoot at Indians.

Archie McIntyre and his brother, Billie, will appear on other charges concerning shooting at Indians before a judge and jury at some later date.

BUY CANADIAN GOODS

Greater population was another great need of this country, the speaker declared in arguing that this country's immigration policy had been botched in the past. It wasn't necessary that Canada should go begging for more people; they should be glad to come here. As for some of the new citizens he was convinced that they should be shipped out of the country. Men who were making more money in a month here than they could in three or four where they came from, had no business stirring up Red agitations in this country.

Mr. Ecclestone advanced as another need of Canada greater tolerance, and finally pleaded for a greater national spirit among Canadians that would lead to a greater buying of Canadian-made goods. Pointing out that last year this country had purchased $900,000,000 worth of United States goods the speaker declared that many of these articles could have been bought at home. He was consistent in this because he himself had purchased millions of dollars of Canadian-made goods, and the firm he represented, The T. Eaton Company, bought 85 per cent. of what it sold in the British Empire. It was good business as well as good patriotism to do so, Mr. Ecclestone maintained in closing, with a strong plea for the purchase of more Canadian and Empire made goods.

The thanks of the club were extended to Mr. Ecclestone on the motion of Rotarian Thomas Barrie.

CITY PARISHES BEING ASKED FOR $50,000

Financial Campaign For St. Michael's College Opens in City.

FAVORABLE RESPONSE.

Committees Were Formed On Tuesday Afternoon in St. Alphonsus' Lyceum.

The financial campaign being carried on by St. Michael's College, of the University of Toronto, for $3,000,000, to be used for an endowment fund and for new buildings opened in the city to-day. Peterborough is asked for $50,000.

The parishes of St. Peter's Cathedral and the Immaculate Conception have been organized and the drive in these fields will continue until Saturday, while the Sacred Heart parish will be covered in the last week of July.

An enthusiastic meeting was held in St. Alphonsus' Lyceum yesterday afternoon, when the men of the cathedral parish gathered to form committees for the campaign. A hearty spirit of enthusiasm prevailed and a total of $8,606 was subscribed at the meeting.

Archbishop O'Brien gave $1,000 before leaving for Rome and was one of the first to subscribe. Other subscribers are Rev. Paul Costello, rector of St. Peter's Cathedral, $1,000; Rev. John O'Brien, pastor of Sacred Heart church, $1,000; Rev. Frank O'Sullivan, pastor of the Immaculate Conception parish, $500; V. J. McElderry, K.C., $1,000; J. J. Duffus, $1,000; J. F. McCarthy, $1,000; M. L. Sweetman, $500; A. J. Reynolds, $500; A Friend, $500; P. J. Scollard, $500; P. K. Kennedy, $200; J. J. Minicola, $50.

Eighteen Teams.

The organization for the campaign at St. Peter's Cathedral consists of a general chairman, Rev. Paul Costello and eighteen teams in charge of nine captains who are: F. Hickey, J. J. Condon, N. Tobin, J. Bowen, M. Crough, B. Whatley, D. McKinnon, A. McPherson and J. Boland.

These workers started to-day and will continue through the week until the campaign for this parish closes on Saturday, June 8. Committees are being formed to-day in the Immaculate Conception parish, and the campaign in that territory will open to-morrow and will close on Saturday also. The general chairman of this part of the drive is the Rev. Frank O'Sullivan.

A hearty spirit of response is being shown and Peterborough will easily reach its quota of $50,000, with the close of the campaign, according to the workers, when Sacred Heart parish is canvassed.

The Rev. J. T. Muckle, of St. Michael's College of the University of Toronto, is in the city this week assisting the general chairman and supervising the campaign. He says that he has been in various parts of the province working on the campaign and in no other city has he found a greater appreciation of things educational or more ardent enthusiasm for the cause than in Peterborough.

political procedure would likely be followed within the next few days. His visit only became known when his chauffeur inquired at High Wycombe for the right road to Chequers.

Mr. MacDonald spent the morning at his Hampstead home, reading a mass of correspondence, including many congratulatory messages from all over the world.

New York City, May 28, 1929.

My Dear Mr. White,—Will you kindly express to the members of the Peterborough Male Voice Choir our most sincere thanks for the beautiful ensign, which we have so proudly hung in a place of honor in the Association office.

We all feel that Friday night's performance has bound in even closer ties our two great countries on this continent.

The flag was presented, in a few words, by R. R. Hall, K.C., of our city, and will be a remembrance of the visit of the Male Voice Choir to New York.

BRAUND STORE

was bought some time ago by John T. Braund, and its occupants, F. G. Oke and Company, stock brokers, moved out Saturday evening to their new place of business on George street.

The plans for the changes to these adjoining stores, and their upper floors, include provision for five apartments and five offices.

Most of this work is already well advanced, and Mr. Braund's men are now concentrating their labor on the old telephone building. It is understood that the J. M. Greene building on the south side of Charlotte street, has been bought by the Braund interests, and will also be given over to William Braund's experienced ability in the alteration of buildings.

MOTORIST IS KNOCKED DOWN

two dangers the driver turned the wheel, backing the car into the bank. The car hit the bank, ploughed along, broke over a tree and then turned over.

Three of the occupants managed to clamber fere, but Archie McBride was pinned beneath the car. Albert Starr, Sofia street, and Orval Munro, Munro street, happened to be passing and the combined efforts of these tw omen and Art Mann was sufficient to raise the car high enough to allow McBride to crawl from beneath.

One of the girls had her left arm cut and the other had a leg bruised. Otherwise the party was uninjured.

The four their afternoon ruined, walked up the road and begged for a ride into the city, leavin gtheir car to the tender care of a garage man, who was soon on the scene.

Two Accidents in City

There were two motor accidents in the city over the week-end. Neither one caused injuries to the occupants of the cars.

Clifford Inglish, 167 Adeline street, was drvng east on McDonnel street, at 6.10 p.m. Saturday night, and in turning north on Aylmer street his car and that of King Anderson of Young street, collided.

Collision on Water Street

Many cars were parked around George Street Church on Sunday morning and this caused congestion resulting in an accident. Brydon Weese, 124 Dublin street, was proceeding south on Water street at 15 miles an hour. J. E. Smith, Aberdeen avenue, drove out from behind a line of parked cars, hitting Weese's car. The right rear fender was dented, also the front fender was badly bent and torn from the running board, with damage also being done to the right front wheels.

MOTORISTS INCONVENIENCED

On Sunday afternoon, about about five-thirty the traffic signal on the corner of Charlotte and George street, at the south east corner in front of the custom house was not operating properly, much to the inconvenience of motorists coming down Charlotte street. The signal would show red and yellow, but the green light would not flash on, leaving waiting drivers wondering what to do on a blank signal. This was fixed before heavy traffic in the evening.

MOOSE PEP

On Saturday, in Lindsay a member of the Moose juvenile team won the huge bet of thirty cents for a very simple stunt—if you like it. The conditions were to drink the bottle of Worchester sauce that reposed on the table in the cafe. This was accomplished and no ill effects were noticed, even after travelling all the way from Lindsay to Peterborough in a bumpy rumble seat. It is hoped he got the thirty cents.

HOMES DECORATED

To-day is June 3, the King's birthday, and it is pleasing to note that many of the homes in the residential section of the city are flying their flags in honor of the day. The merchants in the business section also have their colors showing.

DETOURS ON LINDSAY ROAD

Detour signs, those omens of good roads (?) and summer weather, made their appearance in the city last week for those travelling to Lindsay. Motorists bound for this tow are forced to follow the road used last year past Jackson's Park, to the second line of Smith, where a turn west is made and this line followed for about four miles to the road leading to Fowler's corner, where the detour then meets the Lindsay Road. The road is narrow and hilly, careful driving is necessary.

LIQUOR OASIS CLOSED TO-DAY

There will be at least a pair of parched American tourists in the city to-day. These travellers not knowing that the Oasis was closed on the holiday were seen to be violently rattling the knob and knocking on the door of the liquor store. Finally they gave up in disgust and were heard to say: "We better go back to the States where we san get a drink with less trouble."

LIBRARY HOURS CHANGED

The attention of those who use the public library is called to a change in the hours. During June July and August the circulating department of this institution will close at 8.30 p.m. instead of 9 p.m.

MEET THIS AFTERNOON

The Manufacturer's Association is holding a meeting this afternoon at 5 o'clock to decide in what way the manufacturers of Peterborough will take part in entertaining the visitors during Old Home Week.

CAN IT BE TRUE?

Even baseball umpires have love affairs, hard boiled as they are, this is a fact, the truth of which was brought to light by an incident that was unconsciously revealed at the Moose-Lindsay game in Lindsay on Saturday. The base umpire standing at first base was seen to pluck a dandelion and as he pulled each small petal from the flower one could see his lips forming the words, "She loves me, She loves me not."

CELEBRATE FEAST OF CORPUS CHRISTI

The feast of Corpus Christi was celebrated at the Church of the Sacred Heart on Sunday with the opening of the Forty Hours' devotion which necessitated the cancelling of the annual Corpus Christi procession on the church grounds. Rev. Patrick Lynch of St. Peter's Cathedral preached last night and Rev. Father Black of Lindsay will deliver the sermon to-night. Rev. F. J. O'Brien, pastor of the church announced that the annual social of the church will be held on Tuesday, July 9th.

ONLY ONE CALL RECEIVED

A call was received by the Fire Department to 227 George street at 755 this morning. Chemicals were used and little damage was done.

RETURNS FROM MEETING

J. J. Duffus returned from Kingston Saturday morning where he attended the meeting of the officers of the Ontario Plowmen's Association and the Kingston Committee, making final arrangements for the great International Plowing Match and Power Farming Demonstration, which is being held on the Penetentiary farm adjoining the city of Kingston, on October 15th, 16th, 17th and 18th. Mr. Duffus is exceptionally optimistic in regard to this year's contest and states that the farm is admirable for the purpose, on account of the fields containing from thirty five to fifty acres each and the enthusiasm of the citizens of Kingston and community.

The water of an "overland" flood along the lower Mississippi travels about one-third as fast as the river proper.

Rev. George Morrow, Anglican clergyman, who broke his leg at Rupert House, and for whom Capt. Roy Maxwell flew to Moose Factory in order to bring him to the Cocnrane Hospital, has been transferred to Wellesley Hospital, Toronto. Mrs. Morrow "mushed" from Moose Factory to the railroad at Cochrane in order to make arrangements for her husband's transfer to Toronto. Left, Mrs. Edith Morrow. Right, Rev. George Morrow, who is now convalescing at Wellesley Hospital.

Chairman Cotton Explains Recent Trouble in Local Fire Hall.

Chief Gimblett of the Fire Department was the subject of a discussion at last night's Council meeting that rather sharply criticized his attitude toward Fireman Doug. Miller, who recently quit the department.

Ald. Cotton, as chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, explained the incident which led to Miller's loss to the city after three years' service. Mayor Denne referred to Miller as the best man in the department.

Miller was let out of the department under unfortunate circumstances, Ald. Cotton said. He had been promised his holdays and arranged to take them, and on the eve of his vacation Chief Gimblett notified him that his holiday were "cut off." Miller was so angry at this summary action that he walked out; in other words, quit.

Ald. Cotton's criticism of Chief Gimblett was that he failed to show any co-operation in this incident; that he should have explained to Miller why his holidays were suddenly, if temporarily, cancelled.

Committee Interceded

"I think Miller was a good man," Ald. Cotton said. "He had three years' experience, and his going was a loss to the city. In a way, the Chief didn't do the fair thing. When we suggested that he reconsider Miller's position, the Chief told him that he could go on the staff as a temporary man until Fall. However, he got another job, and now is asking the city to pay him the two weeks' salary for the time of his holidays. I don't blame the Chief in one way, but there should be a little more co-operation in the department, a little more mutual agreement. Miller was a pretty decent chap."

Mayor Denne: The Chief didn't do what was right after our meeting; he didn't do what we wanted.

Ald. Stocker: That's the character of the man. Any person with sense wouldn't have let out a first class experienced man in that way.

Ald. Cotton: Miller was the best man in the department, and the Chief himself said he was.

Ald. Macdonald: The city loses a valuable man through a misunderstanding.

Mayor Denne remarked that Chief Gimblett was riding "the high horse down there," and intimated that he should be reminded of the council's desire for co-operation in the department.

Not Entitled To Salary"

Ald. Macdonald contended that Miller was not entitled to two weeks' pay because he had quit without notice.

Ald. Stocker: I don't think we realize what those men have to put up with.

Ald. Phelan: Technically, Ald. Macdonald is right, but the fact is that Miller was to go on his holidays, and nothing was said to him until the very last moment that he could not get off. I understand that he didn't have to go to the hall that day, but he went there for an hour or two, then this altercation arose and Miller quit. In view of the fact that we told the Chief to take him back and the Chief didn't do it, we ought at least to give Miller two weeks' pay.

Ald. Holland remarked that it was not fair for a fireman to quite his position involving an important duty, but he would vote for payment of the salary.

Ald. Cotton's concluding comment was that Chief Gimblett should have given Miller an explanation for his sudden decision, but he didn't.

A motion to pay Miller two weeks' pay in lieu of the holidays he missed was adopted.

Preferred Class Of Prison

Youthful Offenders Will Be Sepaarted From Hardened Criminals.

$600,000 IN ESTIMATES.

Penitentiaries To Be Erected in Ontario and Quebec.

TORONTO, Ont., June 4 (C.P.).—After 34 years of agitation for prison reform which would give youthful offenders a chance to repent, the Dominion Mnistry of Justice has decided on the segregation of young prisoners from hardened convicts. In the supplementary estimates a vote of $150,000 has been provided for a new "preferred class penitentiary" for the province of Ontario. A vote of $450,000 includes a similar provision for Quebec.

The location of the new penitentiary in Ontario has not been decided upon. It may be in the vicinity of Kingston in order to simplify administration. The Quebec institution will be in the vicnity of the present St. Vincent De Paul Penitentiary. The Lussier Estate and other properties there are to be purchased and on them the new preferred class prison will be erected. The warden of St. Vincent will have charge of both institutions, with a deputy warden over each one."

EX-GOVERNOR PASSES AWAY IN HAMILTON

Sir John Morison Gibson One of Ontarios' Most Prominent Men Died Last Night.

DISTINGUISHED SOLDIER.

HAMILTON, Ont., June 4. — (Canadian Press).—Sir John Morison Gibson, distinguished soldier, former Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario and a prominent figure in the financial world, died at his home last evening at the age of 87 years.

GRAFTON CASE IS DISMISSED

Presbyterian Congregation Found To Not Be Entitled To Church and Manse.

JUDGMENT IS WRITTEN.

TORONTO, Ont., June 4 (C.P.).—The First Division Court at Osgoode Hall to-day found that the congregation continuing in the Presbyterian church, as represented in the action by Sir John W. Air, is not entitled to the ownership of the church and manse at Grafton, now in the possession of a congregation adhering to the United Church of Canada.

By the deed of gift in 1844 it was provided that the doctrines as contained in the Westminster Confession of faith were to be taught and preached in the church. It was claimed on behalf of the congregation of the Continuing Presbyterian Church that the United Church congregation has no title to the property in that it had not adhered to the Westminster Confession of Faith.

Chief Justice Mulock, who writes the judgment, states that the body of people who constituted the congregation of the Presbyterian St. Andrew's Church at Grafton, continued as a congregation when it entered the United Church, and, subject to the provisions of section 4, it had the same interest in the property in question when it became a congregation as a part of the United Church as it enjoyed before entering the union.

CAR BARNS ARE OWNED BY CITY

Several Parcels of Land Were Concluded in Purchase of Gas Plant.

AUTOMATIC TRANSFER.

The city's gas plant purchase from the Hydro-Electric Commission included in the property inventory the car barn on King street, the old Otonabee Power House at the foot of Simcoe street, the lot at Jackson Park which was used for a rink and toboggan slide, also a lot at McDonnel and Park streets and another on Water street north of the Lakefield railway. These parcels remain under the management of the council, while the Utilities Commission becomes custodian of the gas plant.

Ald. Huffman asked last night who turned the gas plant over to the commission. Mayor Denne replied that the by-law provided for the automatic transfer of the plant to the commission. Ald. Hamilton enquired what became of any surpluses; City Clerk Armstrong stated that the commission could retain an amount up to $50,000 for emergencies, as provided by statute.

LAST BARRIER TO AGREEMENT FINALLY REMOVED BY EXPERTS

Belgians Accept Proposals Presented By German Delegates.

SIGN END OF WEEK.

Germany's Reparation Debt Is Reduced About Two-thirds.

PARIS, June 4 (Canadian Press). —The last barrier to a complete agreement by the experts committee on the reparations question was removed to-day and the long outstanding problem of Europe's post-war life may be considered officially settled.

The Belgians this afternoon accepted proposals presented by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht looking toward the solution of the controversial problem of the redemption of German marks left in Belgium after the war for which Belgium is demanding 37 annuities of 25,000,000 marks (about $6,000,000).

With the acceptance by the Belgians of the German proposal approval of the experts' report embodying the reparations annuities suggested by Owen D. Young, the chairman, now becomes unanimous, and the historic report which must still be submitted to the Governments concerned for ratification, will be signed either on Friday or Saturday.

No Territorial Considerations.

While accepting the procedure, the Belgians made the express condition that no territorial considerations would enter into the conversations. This disposed of reports that Belgium would cede back Eupen and Malmedy to Germany, both of which districts she obtained by the Treaty of Versailles.

It was understood, however, that the experts' committee report would not become effective until the marks question was settled between Germany and Belgium. This was in line with the expressed Belgian contention that she could not accept any settlement of reparations which did not include redemption of the German marks left in Belgium subsequently to become valueless.

The reparations experts brought their efforts to solve the reparations problem to a successful issue about one o'clock this afternoon when the Belgians announced acceptance of the proposed procedure for settlement of the question of German marks. This disposed of the last contented point in four months of negotiations in the course of which the conference was twice on the point of breaking up abruptly.

Big Reduction Made.

The agreement reduces Germany's reparations debt from about $33,000,000,000 present value to $9,000,000,000.

It will eventually give France between 40,000,000,000 and 50,000,000,000 francs (between $1,600,000 and $2,-

MT. VESUVIUS BREAKS FORTH INTO ERUPTION

Lava Is Moving With Irresistible Force at Rate of 150 Feet an Hour.

SMALL TOWNS EVACUATED.

Vineyards and Woods Near Terzigno Are Completely Destroyed.

NAPLES, Italy, June 4 (C.P.).—The eruption which burst from Mount Vesuvius yesterday became more serious to-day and caused the evacuation late this afternoon of the town of Barre before a heavily increased flow of lava from the crater.

Latest dispatches said that the lava was moving with irresistible force at the rate of 150 feet an hour and had increased in width to more than seventy feet. It was only 650 feet from the town of Barre at 4 p.m. (10 a.m. E.S.T.) and only half a mile from the town of Terzigno. Panic had seized upon the population of neighboring towns.

Increase in Flow.

Director Malladra of the Vesuvian observatory said this afternoon that there was a decided increase in the lava flow from a cone through which the eruption burst. The interior of this cone in the crater is a lake of boiling rock and lava.

The vineyards and woods near Terzigno were destroyed by the lava today.

Although an early official statement from the Vesuvian Observatory declared that the eruption would gradually die away, the authorities considered the situation dangerous.

Prompt measures were taken. A trainload of soldiers was sent to Barre to superintend the evacuation of the town. General Taranto, commandant of the army corps in this area; Count Capialbi, Vice-Prefect, and a number of engineers went in a special train to Terzigo to survey the menaced territory.

10 Feet Per Second.

Molten lava was pouring from the eruptive cone at the rate of 10 feet a second, observers reported late in the afternoon.

The evacuation of Barre was carried out in perfect order. The scene was extremely picturesque as the inhabitants of the threatened town carried off all their belongings they could load into carts.

The soldiers were turned into moving men and aided the inhabitants. Volunteers from other towns also came to the rescue.

The district threatened by the increased lava flow is a rich agricultural one.

The Vesuvian observatory watched the progress of the eruption with the closest attention and was ready to mobilize all available forces to evacuate other towns in case the situation became graver.

A nurse, spreading the alarm, assisted in taking others to safety. One patient, his leg in a cast from a recent operation, was carried down a ladder by a fire captain. Three doctors on night duty also were active in getting the patients to safety. There were 19 patients in the hospital.

City Council Refuses License For Restaurant Over Payne's Drug Store.

FINDS TWO SUPPORTERS.

Property Owners in East City Seek Compensation For Depreciation of Property.

Only two members of the Council were willing last night to grant a license for an upstairs restaurant over Payne's drug store at the corner of George and Simcoe streets. These advocates were Aldermen Huffman and Lowe.

The motion of refusal by Ald. Phelan, seconded by Ald MacDonald, ended a mild controversy that has engaged the Council's attention recently. Ald Hamilton finally voted for the resolution, although he contended that it was unnecessary, in other words that the council simply need to take no action on this petition.

Ald. McIntyre witheld his vote until he received City Engineer Parson's statement of opposition to the license.

"Do I understand," he said, "that the City Engineer objects to the plan that has been before us? If he does not pass it, then I won't vote for it."

Mr. Parsons replied: "It is all right except for one thing, that is, it is all upstairs, kitchen and everything. I don't like it."

Ald. McNabb enquired about the Home Lunch upstairs restaurant, and Mayor Denne informed him

OTTAWA, One., June 4.—(By the C.P.)— An amendment to the bill now before the House of Commons providing for an expenditure of $50,000,000 for the construction of Canadian National Railways terminals in Montreal, was moved in the House to-day by Hon. R B. Bennett, leader of the Opposition.

Mr. Bennett's amendment was that the bill be referred back to the committee of the whole with instructions to add thereto that "this Act shall come into force by proclamation of the Governor-in-Council after the approval of the said plans and works have been given by the Board of Railway Commissioners."

UNITED STATES WILL CARRY OUT CRUISER PLANS

Fifteen Additional 10,000-ton Fighting Ships Will Be Constructed.

PROVISIONS IN BUDGET.

Disarmament Conference Will Not Be Held This Year, Officials State.

WASHINGTON, D.C., June 4— (Canadian Press). — The American cruiser building programme will be carried forward by President Hoover as laid down by Congress and provision for new ships will be made in the next federal budget.

The administration recognizes that work toward construction of 15 additional 10,000-ton fighting ships is made mandatory under the programme until an agreement for reduction of sea armaments is reached by the leading nations and ratified by the Senate, and the President has no intention of attempting to modify or abandon that policy.

While officials here say they do not care to make any prediction as to time for holding next disarmament meeting, from the nature of the task ahead of the naval experts, such a conference during the present year is regarded in Washington as highly improbable.

Some naval opinion seems to be that there is little likelihood of a meeting of the great powers in advance of that provided for in the Washington arms conference treaties, which is in 1931. The date, however, may be advanced from mid-summer of that year to the early spring.

Tory Party Resigns Today

Premier Baldwin Hands His Resignation To King George.

SPECULATION IS RIFE.

His Majesty Immediately Summons Ramsay MacDonald To Windsor Castle.

LONDON, June 4 (By Geo. Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—Following the resignation of Premier Stanley Baldwin to-day King George summoned Right Hon. J. Ramsay MacDonald, Labor leader, to Windsor Castle, presumably to ask him to form a Government. It will be Great Britain's second Labor administration and the second time Mr. MacDonald has occupied the Premiership.

Labor men are confident Mr. MacDonald will have no difficulty in forming a Government, and indeed it is rumored he has his Cabinet all but completed already. His following in the House comprises a large number of men from the professional classes, and these, no doubt, will be called upon to occupy a number of Cabinet posts.

Woman in Cabinet.

It is likely, too, the new ministry will contain a woman Cabinet Minister for the first time in British history. Both Miss Susan Lawrence and Miss Margaret Bondfield are mentioned in connection with the Ministry of Health. In the last Labor Government Miss Bondfield was Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Labor, and was the first woman to be appointed a member of a British Government. But that position did not carry Cabinet rank, and the idea now is to recognize the increased importance of the feminine electorate and the increased number of women in the House by appointing a woman to the Cabinet.

In the meantime prophets are busy constructing Mr. MacDonald's Cabinet, and, as in their pre-election prophecies, they all differ. Right Hon. Philip Snowden, it is taken for granted will again be Chancellor of the Exchequer. Right Hon. J. R. Clynes, it is said, is slated either for the Home Office or for his former post of Lord Privy Seal and Deputy Leader of the House.

The decision of Premier Baldwin to resign became known after a meeting of the cabinet at No. 10 Downing street yesterday afternoon. In view of the fact that the Labor party was short of an absolute majority in the House of Commons and of the fact that any party which attempted to form a government would be at the mercy of a combination of its opponents Mr. Baldwin was urged from some quarters to carry on and meet parliament. He decided however, to throw the onus of forming and carrying on a government on the Labor party and that party, from all indications, is glad to accept it

Tenders Resignation

Mr. Baldwin left his office at No. 10 Downing street at ten o'clock to-day. Slipping out a back door he got into an automobile and drove to Windsor Castle. He was met by the King's equerry, Sir Oliver Wigram and escorted into the Castle where he saw Lord Stamfordham, His Majesty's private secretary at once. Shortly after he was conducted to the king's bedroom and after some conversation handed in his resignation as Prime Minister, brining to an end almost five years of Conservative rule which began in October, 1924.

His Majesty accepted the resignation and at once sent for Mr. MacDonald, who will likely visit Windsor some time to-morrow. It was the Labor leader's second summons to

Council Will Place Traffic Signals At Two Intersections On Hunter Street

Two sets of traffic signals will be placed at the George and Water street corners of Hunter street, and will be synchronised with the George-Charlotte lights.

Ald. Cotton told the Council last night that the signals had been received, and his suggestion of their location was adopted.

It was suggested that another set be bought for the McDonnel corner of George street, but Mayor Denne remarked that the installation of two a year was all that could be afforded.

Ald. Huffman said that the amber intermediate lights remained on too long, and Ald. Cotton replied that they were being eliminated from the Toronto system, although they are still in use

Any change in the local lights rests in Ald Cotton's discretion.

The city has another block of debentures on the way to market. They are for $127,000, covering the cost of last year's street paving. Ald. Phelan said that this indebtedness is being carried as an overdraft at the bank. Ald. Hamiton asked him if he considered the present an opportune time for offering debentures for sale.

"It's not the best," Ald. Phelan answered, "and we did not intend to put them up for immediate sale. All we want is authority to have them printed, and then we can call for tenders when we think we should; but no action will be taken without the Finance Committee consulting the Council.

By-Law Adopting Daylight Saving Receives Approval Of City Council

A by-law adopting daylight saving time in accordance with the majority vote of the people of Peterborough was passed by the Council last night. The period of the additional hour of daylight extends from June 15th to September 2nd.

And as Old Home Week would interfere with the aldermanic duties next month, and the members of the Council do not intend to waste a large evening on routine business, it was decided last night to hold the regular meeting for July on the second Wednesday.

Ex-Ald. Harry Gainey, now one of the triumvirate comprising the Suburban Area Commission, was asked by the Council, through Mayor Denne, to try to abate the dust nuisance on the Chemong and Lakefield roads.

In reply, he reminded the Council that the season had been adverse for road work, and the Commission's program had been set back. However, arrangements had been made to treat the two roads with traprock and calcium chloride. Mayor Denne also mentioned the quality of the gravel that had been put on the Chemong Road this spring. The Commission is now covering it with broken stone. Mr. Gainey said that this work would be apparent within the next two weeks.

Liberals Drop Prohibition

Liberal Leader Declares if Given Control of Government He Will Administer L.C.A.

CRITICISES GAS TAX.

Government Has Not Given People Control of Liquor As Promised.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., June 4 (Canadian Press). — The Liberal Party of Ontario stands in favor of the present Government Liquor Control Act, and, if returned to power at the next elections, which he predicted will take place within the next few months, will administer the Act in a manner free from political prejudice, it was stated here last night by Hon. W. E. N. Sinclair, Provincial Liberal leader. Mr. Sinclair was opening a two weeks' speaking tour of North-western Ontario.

Carry Out Wish of People.

It had always been the policy of the Liberal Party to carry out the expressed mandates of the people, Mr. Sinclair declared, and if Ontario wished Government Control of Liquor his party would do all in its power to enforce the law. He called the present administration of the Act "political," and added that the "staff is chosen." Ontario is not experiencing liquor control, he stated, but "liquor sale."

An election in Ontario within a few months' time was predicted by Mr. Sinclair. He urged that Liberals of the Fort William riding waste no time in selecting a candidate. In criticizing the Government of Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Mr. Sinclair dealt with the gasoline tax, which he termed the "most unpopular and unfair tax ever imposed on the people,' 'and Mr. Ferguson's educational policy.

While the gasoline tax had been imposed for the stated purpose of gaining revenue for road construction Mr. Sinclair declared that of sixty-six and one-half millions from this source, only twenty-five millions had been expended on highways.

Criticising the educational policy of the government the Liberal Chieftain paid particular attention to the publication of a book designated to reach the school children of the province, called "Great Men of Canada." Twenty thousand dollars was expended on the book, Mr Sinclair declared. He termed the books "Tory propagan-

BELGIAN CLAIM WITH EXPERTS

Emile Franqui Refuses To Accept German Word in Settling Reparations.

BACKED BY FRANCE.

PARIS, June 4 (C.P.).—Settlement of the Belgian claim to reimbursement for marks which the German army of occupation left in Belgium in forced exchange for francs, and which later became practically valueless through depreciation of German currency, is proving a formidable obstacle to final approval by the committee of experts of the Young plan for reparations settlement.

The German government has agreed to come to terms with Belgium by direct negotiations between representatives from Berlin and Brussels. Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, Germany's chief spokesman at the Paris reparations parleys, made this agreement formal yesterday in a letter to Owen D. Young, American chairman of the committee.

But Emile Franqui, the chief Belgian delegate, refused to accept the German word for it and has the support of Emil Moreau, Governor of the Banque De France and head of the French delegation, in the stand he has taken.

$55,000 TO R.M.C.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 4 (Canadian Press). — Supplementary estimates $12,609,500 were tabled in the House of Commons last night by the Hon. James A. Robb, Minister of Finance. General supplementary estimates tabled last year amounted to $10,583,000. The total of the supplementaries during the present year is consquently larger by over $2,000,000, but this year there is an application of $4,200,000 to complete reparation payments, $221,500 for deficits on the eastern lines of the Canadian National Railways as required by provisions of the Maritime Freight Rates Act, and $750,000 for a loan to the Canadian Government Merchant Marine.

The general supplementaries this year amount to $7,438,000 as compared with last year's $10,583,000.

Among the Ontario items for harbors and rivers is a vote for $50,000 for dredging Cataraqui Bay, adjacent to the city of Kingston. Negotiations are under way to erect a large private elevator for grain there. Kingston was a competitor with Prescott for the eastern terminal elevators to be erected by the Government, and when Prescott was chosen, private interests took up the question of an elevator at Kingston, and backed by the Canada Steamship Lines.

PROPOSALS OF HON. DANDURAND ARE DISCUSSED

Special Committee of League Has Considered Canada's Proposals.

AND MINORITY PETITIONS.

Suggestion Was To Have Petitions Considered By Council of League.

LONDON, June 4 (By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—Canada's proposals to let more light into minority grievances will come again before the League Council when it meets in Madrid June 10. Since the proposals were submitted by Senator Raoul Dandurand at the March meeting of the Council the special committee of study set up has met, considered not only the Canadian proposals but also those of Dr. Gustave Stresemann, Minister of Foreign Affairs for Germany, and formulated its report. That report will not be made public until it is formally submitted to the Council, but, according to common rumor, the report does not make any drastic recommendations in regard to procedure.

It was with procedure in the handling of minority petitions that the Dandurand proposals dealt. Senator Dandurand particularly attacked the atmosphere of mystery and silence which surrounded the consideration of petitions presented by minorities whose treaty rights are guaranteed by the League. Under the present procedure the minority petitions go to a committee of three for consideration. Objection taken to the system is that the petitioner is not kept informed as to what has happened. The committee has been termed by critics the "Tomb of Three."

Increase Committee.

Senator Dandurand proposed that for the "Tomb of Three," should be substituted a committee of the whole Council of fourteen. And to make sure a "Tomb of Fourteen" would not develop, he made other proposals in regard to publicity. But his proposals, from the day they were first made public, have met with objections.

Minorities have welcomed them but objectors have taken the ground that the proposed procedure would be unworkable in practice and that the council, acting as a committee of the whole, would be burdened with minority petitions. A committee of jurists has also held the proposals, in some respects, are not covered by treaties and minority declarations. The proposals involved the establishment of new rules for the examination of petitions by the council and, the committee's' report added: "We must therefore conclude that these proposals involve rules which require agreement between the council and the States concerned."

Slight Chance of Acceptance.

In view of these objections, the impression prevails that the Dandurand proposals, in their original form at any rate, have slight chance of acceptance. At the same time it is pretty well taken for granted that some changes in procedure will be made.

The minority rights to which the Dandurand proposals refer are rights stipulated in the various theatres of peace, in declarations made before the Council of the League of Nations by Albania, Estonia, Finland, Latvia and Lithuania, in the German-Polish convention on Upper Silesia and in a convention concerning the Memel territory. The shifting of territorial frontiers consequent on the war has created minorities whose language, religion and race differed from that of the majority of the state of which they now belonged. Of the rights of these minorities the league became guarantor.

Gtnerally speaking minority rights may be summed up under the following categories:

1—Right to nationality.

2—Right to life, personal liberty and freedom of worship.

3—Right to equal treatment.

4—Rights with regard to the use of the minority language.

5—Right to obtain a share of the public funds devoted to educational religious, or charitable purposes.

Protected By League.

The treaties contain no stipulation regarding the duties of minorities towards the States of which they form parts. The third ordinary assembly of the League, however, in 1922 passed this resolution:

"While the assembly recognizes the primary right of the minorities to be protected by the League from oppression its also emphasizes the duty incumbent upon persons belonging to racial, religious or linguistic minorities to co-operate as loyal fellow-citizens with the nations to which they now belong."

The minority rights guaranteed by the League are the rights of nationals who belong to a different race or religion or speak a different language from the majority of the population. The system of guarantees does not affect foreigners living in a country the majority of whose population belongs to a different race, religions or linguistic group than their own. Nor does it affect minorities other than racial, religious or linguistic minorities such, for instance as social or political minorities.

ONTARIO HAS UNTOLD WEALTH SAYS PREMIER

Premier Ferguson Outlines Responsibilities of Government at Conservative Convention.

NO MONEY FOR RURAL ROADS

Bitter Attack Is Made On King Government By Hon. Hugh Guthrie.

BEACHBURG, Ont., June 4 (C.P.).—Educational reform, highway improvements, natural resources and government responsibilities, were among the salient subjects surveyed by Hon. Howard Ferguson, Premier of Ontario, speaking as the guest of honor at a picnic given by the North Renfrew Conservative Association here yesterday.

In spite of the United States' tariff policy, there was no reason, Mr. Ferguson said, why Ontario should not prosper. "We have the natural resources and we have the people to develop them," he said.

He was exceedingly optimistic of the prospects in Northern Ontario, characterizing that portion as the "Elodrado of Canada."

Untold Wealth in Province

"My vision," he proceeded, "teaches me to believe that region will be the most favored and prosperous spot between the Atlantic and the Pacific, in this country, when its untold wealth in rich minerals and other natural resources has been exploited." More than $100,000,000 of new wealth, he asserted, had been produced in Northern Ontario last year, which had been diffused throughout the entire province for the benefit of all.

The Premier announced that there was not available more money for the betterment of rural roads throughout Ontario.

Regarding the new educational policy of the government, Premier Ferguson said that the question of intermediate classes was being studied very carefully. There was no reason, he affirmed, why there should not be facilities in the rural schools which would meet the educational needs of older children. It should not be necessary to send them off to the towns to attend the high schools there.

A bitter attack was made upon the Liberal administration at Ottawa by Hon. Hugh Guthrie, who prophesied that the time was not far distant when there would be a change in governments on Parliament Hill. The government, he said, had been neglectful of the agricultural class of the country. Conditions in Canada were unsatisfactory and prosperity "spotty." It was mainly enjoyed "by the big friends of the King Government," he said.

CROP PROSPECT GOOD IN WEST

Rainfall of Past Few Days and Warm Weather Helped Growth.

DAMAGE FROM WINDS.

WINNIPEG, Man., June 4.—Crop prospects in western Canada were considerably enhanced by generous rainfall in practically all districts during the past week, especially in Manitoba and Saskatchewan where it was more generally required than in Alberta, according to the weekly crop report issued by the Agricultural Department of the Canadian Pacific Railway here to-day. The continuance of moderately warm weather has also brought on phenomenal growth and the country has taken on color of green almost everywhere. Seeding operations are practically completed except where farmers have consistently held back to catch some growth of wild oats before sowing coarser grains.

In Southern Alberta with favorable weather during the past two weeks rapid progress has been made with seeding, many farmers operating their tractor outfits day and night by use of headlights. Sprouting and good growth are reported from practically all parts in the three Prairie Provinces and grai nis showing a healthy stand and color although many points mention need of higher temperatures. Wind storms and strong winds have caused some damage to crops by soil blowing, noticeably in the Regina and Moosejaw districts of Saskatchewan, but the areas affected are making a good recovery due to later rains. Cutworms have been reported from one or two points, but so far their activities have been very limited. Pastures have come on quickly with moisture and warmth and are now providing greatly improved feeding conditions for livestock.

DAY IN PARLIAMENT.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 4. — (C.P.) — To-day: In the House Government bills and estimates will be under consideration.

The Senate did not sit.

SOVIET LEADERS ARE ARRESTED

Chinese General Starts Inquiry Into Alleged Communists Trouble in Manchuria.

ORDERED NOT TO LEAVE.

HARBIN, Manchuria, June 4. — (Canadian Press).—The Soviet Consul general at Mukden, N. K. Kuznetzoff, was returned here to-day under arrest with two lesser Soviet officials from Manchuria, where they had attempted to cross into Siberia. Another Soviet official attempting to reach Moscow by way of Vladivostock was arrested at Suifenho and is being returned also.

It was learned the arrests were ordered by General Chang Chinghui, Governor of the Harbin special district, who after receipt of a Soviet note threatening withdrawal of immunity to Chinese officials in Russia decided he would not permit any Russians to Leave Manchuria. Their presence, he declared was necessary to impending investigations of alleged Communist infiltration of Manchuria.

CHAPTER VII

TRAININGS AND ELECTIONS

Up to the period of the Rebellion in 1837-8, the population of Peterborough had materially increased, but the aspect of the town was far from attractive to the visitor or the tourist. It was in fact but a large straggling village, with huge gaps between the houses, and these were built irregularly, with but little regard to symmetry or taste.

On this part of our subject we have been favored with the following communication from an intelligent gentleman who then passed through Peterborough, and who is now one of our respected citizens.

Peterborough, Nov. 2d, 1866.

"The first time I set my eyes upon the County Town of the present County of Peterborough was about the middle of February, 1838. I entered it from the east side of the river, coming through the "Scotch Village," now the village of Ashburnham; and crossing the Otonabee on the old bridge. It was late in the afternoon, and my companion, the late Mr. Thomas Harper, pointed out as we drove along, the chief points of interest, and the names of the principal places."

"In passing through the town, the chief business place appeared to be at the corners of Simcoe and George streets. But what struck me most was the isolated appearance of the houses. I do not remember seeing two houses anywhere adjoining; and the figure I made use of at the time was that the houses appeared to be a 'sown broad cast.'

"On the market square were several log houses, on the site of the present market house and town hall. Near the site of the Bank of Montreal was a somewhat spacious log building, for several years after used as the post office. The stores were few in number, Messrs. Shaw & Fortune, Charles Perry, Robert Nicholls, John Crawford, Holland and Morrow, being the only merchants in the town. Their united business would scarcely equal that of one of our present business men.

"There were two grist mills, two saw mills, two distilleries, one brewery, one tannery, four churches and one school—the Grammar School—a log building in the rear of where the present Union School now stands.

"The buildings, save the Presbyterian and Episcopal churches, were entirely of wood, mostly framed lathed and plastered inside and out. The dwellings were anything but comfortable, there being but the thickness of two laths and two thicknesses of mortar composing the walls; the least crack in the mortar would allow the air to pass freely in. I imagined in all my travels I never found such cold houses as were then in Peterborough.

"The town appeared to be begun at the south end, as, north of Simcoe street there were fewer houses than on the south side. An impression prevailed among the settlers that the town was destined to become a great place; that the Otonabee river would be largely utilized for all sorts of manufactures, an opinion requiring a considerable degree of faith on the part of a stranger to endorse, being but a backwoods town with the stumps all through the streets, and its site on the north side of Hunter street covered with pine bushes.

"The only passable roads were those of George street, Hunter street east and Sherbrooke street west. On some of the streets the trees were growing, and the pine stumps upon others gave indications that the giants of the forest had been numerous upon the site of the town."

E.

It has been stated that the population of Peterborough in 1832 was five hundred. In 1838, it could not have exceeded eight or nine hundred inhabitants, all told.

The population of the townships which since composed the United Counties of Peterborough and Victoria had by this time so largely increased that it was deemed desirable to set them apart as a separate district, and this was accordingly done in 1541, under the name of the Colborne District. In the meantime a jail and court house had to be erected at Peterborough, which was at the same time declared the District Town. Fortunately the minutes of the proceedings have been pressed, and with them the details of the erection of these important structures, which will be found in the next chapter.

COULDN'T REFUSE

927 East 19th Street, Oakland, Calif., May 23rd, 1929.

My Dear Sir:

I wish to express my sincere appreciation of your kindness in sending me two letters of invitation to attend Peterborough for Old Home Week. The first letter made it possible for me to plan; the second letter and folder is so attractive one can scarcely afford to miss such a splendid opportunity for meeting with the old friends and getting another glimpse of the beauty spots which surround Peterborough. I shall, if possible, be there, and stay at the old home with my mother, Mrs. Alfred Sherwood, 19 Ware street.

Yours truly,

ETHEL ADAMS.

HOME SWEET HOME.

R. S. (Pete) Long, 172 Park street w., Dundas, Ontario, who is manager of the Bell Telephone Company there, writes the following to the Old Home Week Committee: "While our work may call us to many different places, Peterborough will always be home sweet home to us. Wishing your committees every success and looking forward to Old Home Week." Mr. Long formerly resided at 276 Hunter street w., and his wife was formerly Clara Bartley.

FROM ALLISTON.

Ivan H. Jory, Alliston, Ont., left his home here in 1913. He resided at the Munro Hotel, and his wife was formerly Ethel Harrison, of Indian River.

NOTHING WILL SURPASS.

"Nothing on this earth will surpass anything associated with the old home town. It was beautiful and always will be," says R. A. Gillespie, box 144. Elliott and Clay streets, Seattle, Wash., who left here in 1891. His wife was Stella Hutchinson and they resided on Aylmer street. Mrs. R. Wilson, of this city, is a sister. He also says: "I'd love to see the old town again. Harry Denne and I sat together in the old Collegiate Institute as school boys."

FROM CAMPBELLFORD.

Although Mrs. Robert S. Bell, of Campbellford, was not born in Peterborough City, she says: "I shall be very pleased to motor up, if at all possible, during the Old Home celebration."

PLEASANT MEMORIES.

Miss Elizabeth Paul, R.N., 1200 Gelpin place, Chicago, Ill., who left here in 1897, has pleasant memories of Peterborough. She says: Peterborough is a beautiful city — nice homes, churches and friendly people, as I remember it." Mrs. A. E. Higgins, of Lakefield, is a sister, and Jopling Bros. are cousins.

DRAMATIC CLUB PRESENTS PLAY

Staged Under Auspices of Ladies' Guild of Lakefield United Church.

INTERESTING PLOT.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, June 4.—The Dramatic club of Springville put on a four-act comedy drama in the Lakefield Town Hall on Wednesday evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Guild of Knox United church. The play was interesting in plot, highly moral in tone and very well acted and was directed by Miss Jean Fairbairn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Fairbairn, formerly of Lakefield.

The scene of the play was laid in the kitchen of Asa Tompkin's farmhouse, where he and his wife, and family spend much of their time as Mrs. Tompkins is one of the women who works all the time and expects every one else to do the same. The plot hinges on an act of deceit which brought bitterness to Mrs. Tompkins. All is well that ends well and the tangles were all straightened out in the last act when a dramatic scene takes place and "these that are good shall be happy." The plot is reminiscent of a certain class of fiction which was popular some years ago before the age of sex problem fiction and which possessed the virtue of both plot and moral.

The part of Mrs. Sarah Tompkins was admirably played by Miss Jessie Schaffer who was decidedly the star as she played a difficult part in a manner which portrayed to the life the fine nature hidden behind the ironclad exterior. Miss Schaffer showed decided dramatic talent and never for a single moment failed to live the part she played.

The parts of Louise and Ruth were well taken by Misses Annie McConnachie and Helen Staples respectively, both young ladies spoke clearly and could be easily heard throughout the hall. S. S. Staples, who played the part of Louise's lover, John Remington, also could be easily heard. Some of the characters could scarcely be heard which was the weak point of the production.

The part of Dixie, a fine character, was played by Mr. Armstrong and was a delightful impersonation. The part of Mr. Tompkins, who had a passion for truth was taken by Walter Brown, while Miss Helen Whittington played the part of Julia, the spoiled daughter of the Tompkins. Lloyd Whittington played the part of Jerry, a country youth who was obliging but uncouth.

Between the first and second acts, Mrs. G. Craig Bell sang "When the Heart is Young" and responded to an encore with "Annie Laurie." Despite the hot weather, Mrs. Bell was in excellent form and her pleasing soprano was heard to great advantage. Mrs. H. E. Moore was her accompanist.

Between the second and third acts Mrs. Bell sang a lighter number, "My Dusky Maid" and gave the tuneful Harry Lauder song, "The Picnic" as an encore.

Between the third and fourth acts Miss Staples gave an amusing dialect recitation "Levinsky at the Wedding," and in being encored gave one of A. A. Milne's inimitable selections, "Vespers," relating to the famous Christopher Robin, beloved of children. Both numbers, widely different in character, were well given and were appreciated. The North Smith orchestra played several selections in their very acceptable manner.

The heat which came in so suddenly prevented as many attending as otherwise would have done so. It is to be hoped that the Springville Young people will visit Lakefield again as their production was well worth a larger attendance.

DISCUSS DETAILS OF ORANGE PARADE

Expected Thirty Lodges Will Participate in Celebration at Marmora.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, June 4. — Arrangements for a monster County Orange celebration on July 12, next, are being made at Marmora. More than thirty lodges are expected to participate. The speakers of the day include W. E. Tummon, M.P., Dr. A. T. Embury, M. P., Hon. J. R. Cooke, M.P.P., John Sexsmith, ex-M.P., and various Protestant clergy of Centre Hastings. A girls' softball tournament is being planned while at night the Burt Lloyd Entertainers of Toronto are booked for a high-class program.

Society Meets

A meeting of the officers and directors of Marmora Agricultural Society was held on Monday evening. Some revision was made to the prize list while the usual program of attractions also underwent some change. The most important business of the meeting dealt with the erection of a new exhibition building. It was decided to erect such a building, the dimensions to be 35 by 80 feet. Arrangements are not yet complete but it is hoped that the erection will be rushed so as to be in readiness for use on July 12.

Two sessions were held, morning 10 to 12, and 1.30 to 4.30 in the afternoon, at which Miss Hopkins gave interesting and educative talks on various subjects, including home furnishing, nutrition, clothing, and the farm kitchen. Lunch and supper were provided by the ladies. Mr. Nelson, the county agricultural representative, also spoke on the subject of school fairs. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded the visitors on motion of Mrs. W. Lean and Miss Taylor. The Women's Institute is arranging for another quilting, and is preparing welcome sign boards to be erected near the village.

No Rain Fell.

Wednesday and Thursday were sweltering days, when highest temperatures were 90 and 89 respectively. While heavy rains were reported only a few miles away on Friday, not a drop fell in Apsley.

CANTONESE TROOPS UPSET KWANGSITES

Kwangsi Military Clique Has Been Completely Routed in Past Two Weeks.

CANTON, Vina, June 4.—(C.P.)—Kwangstung (Canton) troops, completely reversing, in a fortnight, the tables on the Kwangi military clique, entered Wuchow, capital of Kwangsi at 6 p.m. Monday, unopposed. The Kwangsiites, defeated at every turn, are retreating further westward.

Amoy, Fukien, China, June 4.—(C.P.)—Serious fighting was in progress to-day at Changchow, 40 miles west of here, between Kwangsi and Kwangtung (Canton) troops.

Klangsi communists were assisting the Kwangsiites who had defeated the Kwangtung troops at Swaton June 2 and pushed them northward and away from Canton into Fukien.

The developments were considered serious and portending possibility of South Fukien falling into Communist control. Considerable uneasiness was felt here.

1500 BOTTLES OF HUSKY SENT HERE IN ONE SHIPMENT

Medicine Has To Be Rushed To This City To Supply Ever Increasing Demand—Peterborough People Want It Because It Relieves Indigestion, Constipation, Catarrhal Ailments and Weak, Run-Down Conditions.

JOHN VATSEN

"Husky" is helping so many sick people in Peterborough to get well and is now in such great demand here that Bond's Drug Store recently ordered 1,500 bottles of Husky at one time in an effort to supply local people.

This order, just one of the many sent in, gives an idea of the popularity of this medicine here. Never before have the people of Peterborough received a medicine like they have Husky, and never before has a medicine been in such great demand here.

"Practically every city in the Dominion has received Husky this way," says Leo Ranson, of the Husky Laboratories, who is at Bond"s Drug Store for the purpose of explaining this medicine to local people. "It is because Husky is purely vegetable and its formula is superior and entirely new to the world of medicine," he said. Mr. Ranson has given The Examiner a letter from John Vatsen, of 740 Humbolt St., Victoria, B.C., which he thinks will be of interest to Peterborough people. Mr. Vatsen says:

"I never got sick in bed, but I was always suffering from indigestion and constipation Too many foods disagreed with me and filled my stomach with gas and pains. I had heartburn and felt sluggish A druggist, who knows medicine pretty well, told me Husky was what I needed.

"Well, Husky has made me feel better every way. I have no gas after meals now and am not constipated a bit. My appetite is good and I am sleeping well. Husky has just given me real health."

When stomach trouble and indigestion afflict you, it generally means catarrh or a similar trouble is irritating the delicate stomach lining and causing it to secrete mucus. This mucus fills your stomach, surrounds the food you eat, causes gas and acidity and constipates you. Weakness, headaches, dizzy spells, nervousness and other troubles follow as your food is a soured mass and sends impurities instead of rich, red corpuscles into your blood.

Husky's ingredients cleanse the system of this mucus and soothe the irritated membranes. That's why Husky makes you feel better so quick and why a treatment of several bottles gives permanent relief and new strength.

Begin using Husky to-day and see how soon food tastes better, sleep is more sound and you feel stronger.

Call on Mr. Ranson at Bond"s and let him explain to you how best and quickest results are obtained from the use of this medicine. His information is free, and he has reported to The Examiner that he wants to explain Husky to everyone in Peterborough while he is here. Call at Bond's and ask for the Husky Expert. His information has led thousands to find the relief and new health they had been seeking for years.

Successful Affair Conducted Under Auspices of Cavan Women's' Institute.

CAVAN, June 4 (Examiner Correspondence).—A very successful concert and supper was put on in Cavan Community Hall on Friday evening, under the auspices of the Cavan Women's Institute.

Between acts C. Anderson and M. Bradshaw contributed several popular songs, which were much enjoyed. Miss Grace Johnson was the accompanist.

Going Upstairs Had to Sit Down Breath So Short

Mrs. H. Brousseau, Magog, Que., writes:—"For many years I suffered with shortness of breath; then four years ago I had palpitation of the heart, and was so bad I had to sit down two or three times when going upstairs. I read about so I got a box, and in no time I felt better, so I took three boxes more and I have never had shortness of breath since."

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

ANOTHER SALARY GRAB?

Rumours are again drifting out of Ottawa that members of Parliament—or some of them—are carrying on a persistent campaign to have their sessional indemnities increased.

There was a similar drive a year ago, but the Cabinet made a firm stand against the demand, and deserves credit for the backbone it displayed on that occasion.

It is to be hoped that this year's campaign will be received with equal firmness, and that the contemplated raid upon the treasury will meet with as little success as last year's attempt.

Public opinion, The Examiner is sure, is strongly against an increase in the indemnities of the members; the present allowance of $4,000 a session is regarded as ample, and the public can see no justification for the suggestion that this sum should be augmented.

The private members who are responsible for the agitation for larger indemnities should be told firmly and in language that they cannot fail to understand that no increases are necessary or possible at present.

MR. MacDONALD GETS HIS CHANCE.

The decision of the Baldwin Government to resign at once instead of waiting to test its fate when the new Parliament is called together will occasion little surprise.

It is consistent with the general opinion of Mr. Baldwin's fairness and straight-forwardness, and it expresses the views of other Government leaders and of the Conservative press as to the best policy to follow under the present conditions.

Mr. MacDonald, as leader of the largest group in the newly elected Parliament, will be called upon to form a Government, and he will endeavor to carry on with the support of the Liberal party.

His task is obviously a most difficult one, and the situation, both now and later, will require careful handling if the new administration is not to go on the rocks before it is fairly launched.

Most commentators believe that the air will not be thoroughly cleared until there has been another election, but it is quite possible that the new Government may be able to so shape its policies as to command sufficient support to weather a session or two, despite the weakness of its strategic position in being in office without a clear and ample majority over all other groups.

HONORING THE PIONEERS.

The announcement from St. Thomas that the Elgin Historical Society proposes to honor the early residents of that district by unveiling a series of eleven tablets to their memory in the historic old St. Thomas church should be full of interest here, particularly in view of the fact that our thoughts go back this Old Home Week year to the pioneers in this section of the Province.

It may not be possible to arrange similar ceremonies here in connection with the fast-approaching re-union, but at least the St. Thomas example should be kept in mind and an effort made to ensure the erection of memorials that will keep before the people of this city and district the names of those families which were most prominent in the early settlement of this part of Ontario.

Too little has been done in this direction in Ontario communities, and as a result the new generation knows little and apparently cares less about the struggles, hardships and triumphs of the people whose efforts turned a forest into the prosperous Province of to-day.

What has been accomplished by the Elgin Historical Society can be done by other similar bodies in the counties of this Province—and this would be a particularly appropriate year for Peterborough to so honor its pioneers.

REGULATE THEIR HOURS.

Another coroner's jury has recommended that no transport driver should be employed for more than ten hours in any work day.

There does not seem any doubt of the reasonableness of this recommendation—in fact, there are many people who will maintain that eight hours' work at a time for truck drivers would be ample.

Sleepiness on the part of these drivers has been the chief factor in a number of serious accidents, and in view of the strain upon mind and body involved in such work, it is not difficult to understand the danger that exists under present conditions when many transport drivers are called upon to drive many hours each day.

The transport companies should be required to remedy this situation as the railways have had to do in the case of locomotive engineers.

With Ontario's highways likely to carry the heaviest traffic in their history during the next few months, truck and bus drivers will have to be alert and fit at all times, and it is impossible for men half dead from lack of sleep to give that attention to their driving duties that traffic conditions nowadays demand.

Sleepy drivers, it has been said, are as great a menace as drunken ones, and the working hours of the men in charge of transport vehicles should be so regulated as to ensure all drivers being at their best when at the wheel.

LLOYD GEORGE THE ENIGMA.

Regardless of the last lingering returns, which may claim a temporary importance disproportionate to their actual permanent value, Mr. Lloyd George remains the enigma in the situation. Indeed, the present state of affairs is one similar to those in which he customarily is said to find enjoyment. Strange as it may seem, the failure of the Liberals to stage a comeback makes surprising or dramatic moves by Mr. Lloyd George the more likely. The electors at the polls did their own handwriting on the wall. The Anglo-Saxon mind thinks of politics in terms of two parties. Liberalism's failure to come back foreshadows the inevitable day when its remaining adherents will turn to one side or another. Mr. Lloyd George will not long be out of the limelight. He is, and probably always has been, a radical at heart. Had the war not occurred he would almost inevitably have led the Labor party. But the war did occur, and Mr. Lloyd George made himself the virtual Czar of the Tories. When the war was over they, on Mr. Baldwin's personal instigation, almost literally threw him out. The question is, Will they now ask him to return in preparation for another election or will Labor invite into its tent a guest as aggressive as the proverbial Arab's camel?

In any event, what the Duke of Wellington said a century ago holds good to-day. "The King's government must go on." But that does not mean that statesmen need attempt to struggle on through a maze of difficulties. It is the right of His Majesty's adviser to recommend another election before even summoning the newly elected Parliament. A more daring politician than Mr. MacDonald might recommend such a course and ask the electors to solve the stalemate which they had created. But it does not follow that His Majesty would agree to the course. Nor does it follow that the electors would materially improve the situation. It seems to be a case where Britain will be literally forced to muddle through.—The Globe.

ADVERTISING THE ARCTIC.

It was said of the old explorers, who first made known to the world the secrets of the far north, that they lacked the gift of imagination. A hardy and courageous race, in whom the spirit of adventure was strong, they were credited with all the qualities required to enable them to travel great distances, face perils of every kind and endure hardships almost inconceivable. Their intrepidity, determination and resourcefulness were freely acknowledged, and their discoveries excited a certain amount of public interest which found expression in curious comments upon their value to mankind. But in the matter of recording their experiences and setting forth the results of their travels, they were written down as dull and prosy mortals, utterly lacking a sense of the dramatic and incapable, apparently, of producing an animated or readable narrative.

Such, at all events, was the opinion of critics who, in comfortable sanctums in London and Edinburgh, penned learned reviews of the voyages of Hearne, Mackenzie, Henry and other noted fur traders and Arctic travellers, whose journals and diaries told of adventures and discoveries in the then unknown regions of the frozen north. To the English reviewers, Hearne's account of his journey to Coppermine River and Great Slave Lake suggested nothing more than a log. Notwithstanding the fact that Mackenzie has modestly disclaimed in the preface to his volume of voyages any pretensions to "the charms of embellished narrative or animated descriptive," he was politely informed by an eminent critic that his book was "minute and fatiguing." And Alexander Henry's record of exploration in northern latitudes was disposed of as a rambling diary of an ignorant fur trader.

How different is the reception accorded to the narratives of modern explorers. There is no waiting for years to hear the story of their achievement. It is flashed by radio to all the ends of the earth and published in daily and weekly newspaper instalments. Later, it is revised and embellished and reprinted in book form, or in magazine articles, which in turn furnish material for lectures and addresses before geographical societies and other learned bodies, while the general public is kept supplied at intervals with entrancing variations of the tale. Certainly, whatever else may be said of the present-day explorer he cannot be accused of either the reticence or lack of imagination complained of in his predecessors.

An eminent English writer once observed that "there is something in the idea of traversing a vast and unknown continent that gives an agreeable expansion to our conceptions; the imagination is insensibly engaged and inflated by the spirit of adventure and the perils and the novelties that are employed in a voyaging discovery." Among modern explorers none has shown himself more capable of producing the effect described than Mr. Stefansson. His books and articles and lectures upon the Arctic zone, which have occupied so much of his attention since he gave up voyaging in the far north, are a revelation of the romantic spirit which in its relation to discovery inflates the imagination and "gives an agreeable expansion to our conceptions."

Having, by pen and voice, succeeded during the past few years in convincing his American readers and audiences that there is no such thing as a frozen and barren north, that, on the contrary, the territory comprised in the Arctic circle is really and truly an earthly paradise, where perils and hardships are unknown, Mr. Stefansson recently thought it worth while to carry his message of disillusionment across the Atlantic. Lecturing at Oxford, of all places, he seems to have created an impression that left his hearers and the English press agape with astonishment. Under his magic touch the Arctic, popularly supposed to be a land of icy mountains and snow houses, surrounded by frozen seas and inhabited only by Eskimos, became transformed into a sort of vast pleasure resort, where every prospect pleases and life is a perfect dream of bliss.

Tales of the horrors of winter in the northern zone were nothing but the fantastic nightmares of explorers who wished to pass as heroes. Instead of spending their time muffled up to the eyes in furs, waiting to spear seals through holes in the ice, the Eskimos were pictured "standing at the river edges, perspiring and waving bandana handkerchiefs to keep the mosquitoes away." If at times there were zero temperatures, there was also summer heat, and plenty of it. And to the joys of hunting and fishing, canoeing and sailing under glorious conditions, were to be added the pleasure of gathering wild flowers and plants of a thousand varieties and the thrill of prospecting for gold, oil and minerals in a land overflowing with natural resources.

If the far north does not soon become a popular tourist resort, or a happy hunting ground for Cook's excursionists, it will not be the fault of explorers of the type of Mr. Stefansson.—Ottawa Journal.

A Thought

SELF-CONFIDENCE

I wonder if it is necessary in these days to preach the value of self-confidence. Some would say, perhaps, that it is not, but I think there is room for a little, and that many boys do not get the best out of life just because they lack in courage and self-confidence. The thing is, boys, not to allow yourselves to be discouraged. Be cheerful and courageous, and defeat or misfortune cannot make you despair. Stick to whatever you have made your mind upon, and progress will be yours. Remember the spider. If its web breaks twenty times will it mend it. Bad luck and misfortune soon give up attacking a boy who will not be discouraged and lose himself in despair.

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

Wednesday, June 5, 1929.

Astrology reads this as a day when cross purposes may be encouraged by the stars, for conflicting planetary aspects are active in their influence.

In the early morning good intentions of various sorts may be easily thwarted. Steadfastness of purpose should be cultivated under this sway.

Unusual weather, either too hot or too wet, may cause losses to farmers in various parts of the country. The summer will bring many surprises, it is foretold.

While this is a fairly lucky day for those who seek change of occupation, they should delay choosing new positions until a more favorable rule prevails.

It is a better day to advertise one's wares than it is to make purchases. Newspapers and magazines will be helpful under this rule of the stars.

Under this planetary rule it is most hazardous to borrow money, since it may be extremely difficult to pay back.

The evening of this day is not a lucky time for the making of plans or for conferences of any sort, since the tendency will be to see difficulties.

It is not an auspicious day for office-seekers or for any one who expects favors or rewards.

Neptune and Mars are in an aspect supposed to be unfortunate for international understandings. Misjudgments and misapprehensions are foretold.

Again the seers warn against the importation of oriental diseases, for some sort of plague has been predicted for Southern India and Java.

The health of the people of the United States should be safeguarded at this time in every conceivable manner, astrologers announce, for sinister stars seem to presage some sort of an epidemic before the end of the summer.

Danger of some sort of trouble between Italy and Germany is prognosticated, but it may not be at all serious.

Persons whose birthdate it is, have the augury of a year in which they must be most cautious in financial matters. Speculation will be most unlucky, it is foretold.

Children born on this day probably will be headstrong and independent, original thinkers and daring in elucidating their views. They may resent guidance and should be handled most carefully and diplomatically, for they have great possibilities.

Socrates, the great philosopher, was born on this date, 469 B. C., according to certain authorities. Adam Smith, the Scottish philosopher, 1723, also claimed this as his birthdate.

BEING GLAD

It seems the sun finds some way through
The darkest cloud, the deepest blue.
Heavy the curtains may have been,
And yet the sun found some way in,
When shades are drawn, the sun will find
Some little peek-hole through the blind,
Throws even through the bolted door
A ray of sunshine on the floor.

And it is just as hard to hide
From joy, although dissatisfied.
Mourn if you must, weep if you will,
But joy will find you someway still.
Yes, even in our hardest mile
There's something left to make us smile.
Although we wonder, worry, doubt,
Joy's something that we can't keep out.

I know, although our grief we had,
God must have meant us to be glad
So many friends are good and kind,
The other sort I never mind.
So many happy days I've met,
The other sort I soon forget.
If being glad is all you know,
You just can't keep from being so!

The Tule Marsh Murder

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

Story of a Missing Actress and the Taxing of Wits to Explain Her Fate

THE STORY THUS FAR:

Don Ellsworth's wife, formerly the famous actress Sheila O'Shay, disappears, leaving no trace. Dr. Cavanaugh the great criminal psychologist, learns that their married life has been very unhappy.

Peter Piper a reporter on the Herald, tries to get an interview with Dr. Cavanaugh. Instead he meets Barbara Cavanaugh, the attractive daughter, and finds that she was engaged to Don Ellsworth before his marriage.

An unidentified body is found in the tule marsh outside the city. It has been burned by a fire in the marsh until it is entirely unrecognizable except for the fact that it is a woman. Dr. Cavanaugh is called in to help with the identification.

CHAPTER 10.

"Oh!" Dr. Cavanaugh said in mild surprise. "My error. I was distinctly under the impression that a corpse was the chief occasion for this conference."

"It isn't as good as a corpse," Camberwell said, as if he had ordered one and it had not come up to specifications. "Not nearly so good. It's only remains."

"Well, then, suppose for the moment we postpone consideration of the corpse which isn't there, and concentrate on the lady, who isn't there either." Dr. Cavanaugh drew several meditative puffs from his cigar before he went on. "Every act, of course, is the expression of a motive, and the motive behind a given act is determined by character, temperament, call it what you will. Conversely, if you know a person's character well enough, you know what motives will operate in him strongly enough to produce actions, and what actions they are likely to produce. Unfortunately, we don't know Mrs. Ellsworth's character half well enough for such prediction. If I had known she was going to disappear," he added whimsically, "I should have made much better use of the few opportunities for observation that came my way. What little I do know complicates rather than simplifies the possibilities. Mrs. Ellsworth was a far from conventional person, and her acts, therefore, may not fall into the grooves of conventional conduct."

"I'll say they mayn't!" Camberwell agreed with ironic fervor.

"I've no more to go on than you have," Dr. Cavanaugh went on, scrutinising the glowing tip of his cigar. "But I've given the case a little thought—a sort of preliminary survey. I've known young Don Ellsworth for several years, and he came to me the other night, to see what I could make of it, I declined to take up the case professionally, because I had an idea you might call upon me. It's too bad I didn't know about this latest find of yours—if I had, I'd have won a nickel with myself when you called up!"

"You do think, then, that she's been done away with!"

"Not necessarily. We have here—or rather we haven't here—a woman entirely free of one of the most powerful restrictions on human conduct: the fear of social disapproval. Sheila O'Shay made herself conspicuous in a variety of ways on two continents. And however disreputable the ways were, from the point of view of conventional society, she capitalized them to her advantage. She made a bad reputation pay. She is an exhibitionist, but a canny exhibitionist. Whatever she did contributed to the gate receipts. Now this woman, whose latest and most conspicuous act was her marriage to a multi-millionaire several years her junior disappears. She is excessively fond of money—or rather of what money will buy in the way of a flaunting display of luxury. That has been amply indicated by her previous career. She is also highly sexed-which has likewise been sufficiently indicated."

"It certainly has," Camberwell agreed again.

"If she went away of her own free will, there is the possibility that she was actuated by a strong sex impulse, directed elsewhere than toward her husband—I very much doubt if she ever felt any very compelling attraction toward a man of Ellsworth's type. There is also the possibility that Ellsworth put on the screws financially and she found that being married to a multi-millionaire did not give her immediate access to all the millions to play with. In either case, she might have left as suddenly and as inexplicably as she did. She would not be hampered, you see, by consideration for Don nor by the fear of publicity. She may, indeed, have planned the manner of her exit, knowing the stir it would cause, as preliminary press agentry for a return to the stage!"

"But in that case—in any of those cases—we ought to have got some trace of her!"

"I would not underestimate her resourcefulness," Dr. Cavanaugh countered. "In no sense of the words was Sheila O'Shay born yesterday. However, there is the second possibility that she was abducted, perhaps for ransom, perhaps by a jealous former lover. And there is, of course, the third—that she was murdered. So far it's all speculation."

"But this tule marsh business—"

"This tule marsh business may indeed substitute a second mystery for the first or merely add another unrelated one. By the way, if it were Sheila O'Shay, it would hardly be unrecognizable so soon, would it? Or would it? You haven't told me, you know."

"That part fits in all right, as to time. But it makes identification the very dickens of a job. Properly speaking, the body wasn't found in the marsh at all, but above it, on the south slope of El Cerrito hill. There was a grass fire there a couple of weeks ago that burned the place over. This morning a group of boys playing Indian stumbled on the body. It had been burned beyond recognition. It might have lain there in the tall grass for months or years—except that the charred remains showed little sign of exposure to the weather."

"And this fire-how did it start?"

"There you have us. There was a high north wind blowing for several days about that time. I remember it and anyway the weather reports back it up. Under those condidions, grass fires along that strip are common enough—a cigarette end thrown out of an automobile, a spark from a passing locomotive embers of a 'jungle' fire made by tramps—any one of a number of things might account for it. On the other hand, the fire came pretty pat to destroy all chance of identifying that body."

"You don't quite mean that," Dr. Cavanaugh leaned back in his chair, he had a way of appearing most relaxed when another man would have leaped forward in strained attention. "You would not have called me away from golf to attempt the impossible—because you're one of the very few people who realize that the impossible is one of the things that simply isn't done."

"You're right!" Camberwell swung the front legs of the swivel chair to the floor with a bang. "There's just one little thing more—and it's beyond me." He pulled a bunch of keys from a baggy pocket, flung his cigarette butt on the floor and automatically stamped it out, and reached down to unlock the drawer of a specially constructed fire-proof cabinet that stood beside the desk. "What do you make of this?" he asked.

Constructed By C. P. R. Just East of Havelock Railway Shops.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE CAN'T DO AS WE PLEASE.

We start life with the notion that we are going to do as we please. The world seems to be made for us. We are the center of attraction. And everything revolves around us.

It is a bitter experience to learn that we can't always have our own way. As a matter of fact we never become wholly reconciled. The baby cries his heart out because his dad will not give him the razor to play with. The child is guided merely by his notions and his likes and dislikes. He is not experienced enough to judge values.

Despite years of training, our desires are not wholly consistent with the will of the group and the good of the community. We continue sighing to our dying day for things we know we can't have and things we know are not good for us or for anyone else.

We are not free to do as we please. We are limited by the rights of others, by the law of the land which places restrictions on all alike—at least theoretically. I must not pass a red light signal at an important crossing as much as I dislike waiting and am eager to keep going.

The limitations of our wills and wishes are not confined to man-made laws and civil courts and policemen. Even if all written laws were annulled and all policemen and law courts were abolished, we should still have innumerable restrictions on our desires.

Most of our limitations are inherent in the constitution of our mental and physical make-up. No adult can add a cubit of his stature by wishing and willing. Once you have attained your physical growth it is a physical impossibility to add appreciably to your height. Will has nothing to do with it. Such matters are controlled by laws of nature over which we have little or no control.

Similarly, a man might want to be an Einstein, a Shakespeare, a Beethoven, a Napoleon and all the other world geniuses rolled into one. But the thing is simply out of the question. We all have our natural limitations beyond which we cannot go.

We are not free to do as we please because we please to do a lot of things that are physically, mentally, morally, legally and rationally impossible. Nevertheless, we keep on wishing for impossiblities even as the baby cries for the moon. We at least have the satisfaction of wishing.

LAUGHS FROM LIFE

Officer O'Brien chased a golf-playing crook up an alley and caught him, but the officer finally got away.

MERGERS

Since big mergers are now all the rage,
I've no doubt it would be lots of fun
If from commerce I borrowed a page
And I merged all my girls into one!
I would merge every lovable trait
Of each one to achieve my success;
So the maiden that I would create
All the following charms would possess;
She'd be blessed with Penelope's eyes,
She'd have Annabelle's beautiful hair,
And Dolores who's worldly and wise
To my merger would lend savoir faire.
Yes, I'd merger all the maidens I name
Into one simply marvelous peach,
Into one irresistible dame
Who's retail the best features of each!

The only advantage we can see in being a bass drummer is that there is no immediate danger of falling down and swallowing your instrument.

No matter how influential you are, you'll never feel as important as a man looking at a small town through the window of a dining car.

COMPETITION.

"Are you trying to make a fool of me?" he cried.

"I never interfere with nature," replied the girl with the painted cheeks and pencilled eyebrows.

BOTH SAFE.

The lady was rather condescending. "My husband is very jealous," she remarked to her partner on the floor, "so I only dance with exceedingly plain people."

"It's a good system," said he, "I follow it myself."

Why not padlock the rolling pin along with the other night clubs?

AT THE OPERA.

It is the third act of "Zaza", and Toto is playing Cherubini's "Ave Maria." The moment is an exquisite one—a precious jewel in a perfect setting. Every seat in the house is filled, from the last row of the orchestra to the uppermost tier of the top gallery. It is a scene of splendor, of dazzle, of magic, and the "diamond horseshoe" gleams with elegance. In the very front of a proscenium box sit a fashionable couple.

Wheat Prices Lower After Irregular Start

CHICAGO, Ills., June 4. (C.P.) — With buying stampedes at an end for at least the time being, the wheat market turned downward to-day after an irregular start. Liverpool wheat quotations gave no encouragement to purchase and reports of rain affording relief from drought in Argentina tended further to bring about price setbacks here. Opening 1-8c off to 5-8c up, Chicago wheat later underwent a general decline. Corn, oats and provisions were relatively firm, with corn starting 1-8c lower to 1-2c gain and subsequently scoring upturns all around.

C. M. A. MEETS IN HALIFAX

Fifty-eighth General Conference of Organization Opens in Nova Scotia Capital.

REPORTS ADOPTED.

HALIFAX, N.S., June 4. — (C.P.)— Two hundred representatives of Canadian industry met in Halifax this morning to open the fifty-eighth general conference of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, under the gavel of President L. W. Simms of Saint John.

A brief address by the president in opening the meeting, voicing the conviction "that it has heartened the Maritimes to have this tangible evidence of industrial interests," and the adoption of four committee reports took up the morning session. The meeting adjourned to re-assemble at luncheon for the provincial and civic welcome and the president's review.

Old age pensions, the eight hour day, and fire insurance were the chief subjects of discussion this morning Members of the Association for the most part supported the view of its Industrial Relations committee that the present trend in pensions legislation was away from the non-contributory system adopted in Canada, and in the direction of the contributory "all-in."

Credit Situation Shows Improvement

NEW YORK, June 4. (C.P.)—Stock prices made further recovery in today's market on buying influenced by reported improvement in the credit situation and favorable trade and earnings reports. Widespread rumors were in circulation in the financial district that the Federal Reserve Board had relaxed its credit policy, and that an increase in rediscount rates was now unlikely.

Call money renewed at 7 per cent. as against a nopening rate of 6 yesterday, and held steady at that rate throughout the greater part of the session. There was no change in the money rates. While Wall street expects a flurry in the call rate around the 15th of the month, the advance is not likely to be as violent as the "Money squeeze" in March.

JUNE DIVIDEND PAYMENTS BY CANADIAN CORPORATIONS SET NEW RECORD FOR PERIOD

Millions of Dollars Placed in the Hands of Public For Reinvestment.

ENJOYING PROSPEROUS YEAR

Distributions Aggregating $24,387,660 Indicated in List Released.

By A. D. O'Halloran
(Special to The Examiner)

TORONTO, June 4.—Dividend payments by Canadian corporations in the month of June will set a new high record for this period of the year and will place millions of dollars in the hands of the public for reinvestment. A compilation of the securities selling ex-dividend at the end of May, together with others that will be quoted in this manner early in June, indicates distributions aggregating $24,387,660.

Included in the list are corporations representing all classes of industry. There are sixty-three industrial, public utility and mining corporations and financial institutions rewarding their stock holders at this time on seventy-two securities, both preferred and ordinary. The general trend from private concerns to publicly financed corporations is well illustrated by the growing list and many new and initial distributions are included in the June list.

A large number of the payments will be made in the early days of June but there are also a large number that will not be made until the closing days of the month. July 1st being a public holiday in the Dominion many Canadian corporations that would otherwise make distributions for the first half and second quarter of the year in July have moved their dividend date on a few days to bring the distribution within the current month.

One factor that goes to swell the total for the month of June is the number of large corporations that make disbursement at this period. The Canadian Pacific Railway, Brazilian Traction Light and Power and International Nickel provide practically $15,000,000 of the total.

Fifty-three industrial corporations will reward their stockholders to the extent of $17,868,012. Sprinkled throughout are extra or bonuses, increased rates and initial dividends.

The month is also the occasion for the first disbursement on the shares of companies who have split their old stock into smaller units. In this category comes, Imperial Oil, Loblaw Groceterias and Hiram Walker-Gooderham and Worts, Ltd. Imperial Oil split was one of four for one with the new annual rate 50 cents against a dividend and bonus in 1928 on the old stock of $2.

The quarterly declaration on Imperial new, however, takes the form of a straight dividend and does not include a bonus as on the preceding occasion, but the same time is equivalent to the preceding payment, paving the way for an extra distribution later in the year should the board decide to do so.

Loblaw Groceterias and Walker-Gooderham and Worts have made no change in the equivalent rate. Loblaw stockholders received two shares of class A. and two shares of class B. stock of no par for each share of the old stock and the both classes of new have been placed on an annual dividend basis of 50 cents against $2 on the old. Walker split was three for one and the dividend on the new is $1 annually against $3 on the old.

Five mines are making a distribution of close to four million dollars. International Nickel shareholders will receive $2,751,641 of this total. Lake Shore is the next largest dividend payer this month with $400,000. Hollinger dividend amounts to $246,000 and next in order are Mining Corporation and McIntyre.

Majority of the Canadian banks are included in the list this month, five of them paying dividends of $2,715,001. Royal shareholders will receive $900,000 and Montreal shareholders $897,501. Commerce pays $600,000 and Bank of Toronto and Canadianne-National each under $200,000.

CANADIANS HOLD "CONTROL" OF DOMESTIC ENTERPRISES

Own From Fifty-five To Sixty-five Per Cent. of the Securities.

IN HOME INVESTMENTS.

(Special to The Examiner)

OTTAWA, Ont., June 4—Canadians own from 55 per cent to 65 per cent of the securities of all enterprises located on Canadian soil. British investment in Canada at the beginning of 1928 was two-thirds that of United States investments in this country, or $2,209,517,000 as compared with $3,286,786,000. The total British and foreign investment in Canada at the time noted amounted to $5,742,043,000 the balance of $245,740,000 coming from alien countries other than the United States. These figures are disclosed in a report of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics just issued.

The report makes it clear that the figures are only estimated.

After detailing the amount of British and foreign investments as indicated in the foregoing, the report says:

"These large sums should be considered in the light of the fact that our national wealth is estimated to be between 27 and 30 billions, or about five times the amount of outside capital invests. It is inevitable that our vast resources should be developed with the assistance of outside capital, but that outside capital is not the dominating factor in developing these resources is plain from the fact that Canadians are estimated to own from 55 per cent to 65 per cent of the securities of all enterprises located on Canadian soil. It should also be emphasized in this connection that Canadians have invested large amounts of capital abroad.

"The bureau estimates that Canadian investments in foreign countries amounted to $1,579,074,000 at the beginning of 1928, or more than a quarter of the amount of outside investments in Canada. Of this, $874,626,000 was placed in the United States; $131,915,000 in Great Britain, and $572,533,000 in other countries.

The details of foreign investments show that $1,510,703,000 is in railways with $1,313,182,000 in various government securities. In industry, pulp, paper and lumber are represented by $573,788,000 foreign capital; mining, $343,864,000; metal $296,630,000, and all other industries $538,765,000.

With regard to British investments in Canadian railways, these are considerably more than one-half of the outside capital placed in their railways, totalling $959,776,000. This compares wit. $509,463,000 invested in railways by United States capitalists. Of government securities, United States financiers own $857,606,000 while Britons possess $449,863,000. Americans dominate the pulp, paper and lumber industries with $450,506,000 of the outside investments. In mining they own an interest to the extent of $224,914,000, metal, $241,316,000, and all other industries, $411,814,000.

Having remained aloft for almost seven and a half days, Reginald Robbins and James Kelly landed at Fort Worth on May 27, after breaking all existing records for endurance flights. Robbins No. (1) was a former railroad mechanic and has had only six months' flying experience. Kelly, No. (3) who has had about the same experience, was a cowboy before he took to flying. No. 2 shows the airplane Fort Worth, in which the pair stayed aloft for 172 hours, 31 minutes ,and ten seconds.

APPEAL MADE FOR CLOTHING

Small Family North of Buckhorn Lost Everything in Fire.

MAN BADLY BURNED.

Will any citizens who have surplus clothing in their houses, come to the assistance of two old people who were burned out last Friday?

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tweedy have been living in a small log house on the Government road above Buckhorn, and on Friday last, about three o'clock in the afternoon, defective stovepipes caused a fire which entirely destroyed their home and all its effects. Mrs. Tweedy had come into town a few days before ,to visit a daughter, Mrs. H. Lehner, who is employed at 271 McGill street, and has only the clothes which she wore in to the city. Mr. Tweedy is in about the same position, and was badly burned into the bargain.

Clothing for either would be greatly appreciated, or money to assist them to get on their feet again. Mrs. Tweedy is a large woman, weighing over two hundred pounds, and takes size 50 garment; while Mr. Tweedy is tall and spare, weighing about one hundred and fifty pounds.

I'LL SAY HE COULD - BUT I WOULDN'T BE AFRAID TO GO RIGHT INTO THAT CAGE - I USED TO DO A LION ACT WITH JINGLING'S CIRCUS - I DON'T BELIEVE I TOLD YOU OF MY EXPERIENCE WITH A FEROCIOUS LION -

-I HAD ONE OF THE MOST NOVEL AND DARING ACTS EVER SHOWN IN A CIRCUS - I USED TO GO OUT IN THIS ACT CARRIED BY TWO LIONS AND TWO TIGERS, WITH MY HANDS IN THE LIONS' MOUTHS AND MY FEET IN THE TIGERS' MOUTHS -

AND THEN WITH A LION'S AND TIGER'S FOREFEET ON FANCY BARRELS, I DID ACROBATICS BY PLACING MY HANDS IN THEIR MOUTHS - THESE TRICKS WERE NEVER BEFORE OR AFTERWARD ATTEMPTED BY ANYONE -

ONE DAY WE RECEIVED A GIANT UNTAMED TIGER, FRESH FROM THE JUNGLES OF AFRICA - EVERYBODY WAS AFRAID OF HIM - I WAS ALMOST AFRAID OF HIM MYSELF - ONE DAY DURING A PERFORMANCE ONE OF THE ATTENDANTS TRIED TO CLEAN HIS CAGE AND SO ENRAGED HIM THAT HE FORCED HIMSELF THROUGH THE BARS OF HIS CAGE -

HE TOOK AFTER THE ATTENDANT WHO WAS RUNNING TOWARD THE ARENA - REALIZING THE PANIC IT WOULD CAUSE AND THE DANGER OF THIS FEROCIOUS ANIMAL LOOSE AMONGST THIS VAST AUDIENCE, I GOT MY OLD BRAIN TO WORKING -

I WAS THEN MADE UP IN MY CLOWN UNIFORM AND TO GET HIS ATTENTION AWAY FROM THE AUDIENCE, I RAN UP AND TWISTED HIS TAIL - HE IMMEDIATELY TURNED AND TOOK AFTER ME -

HE WHEELED AROUND AND SPRANG AT ME - I ROLLED OVER ON MY BACK SO HE LANDED WITH HIS CHEST ON MY FEET AND WITH THE GREAT STRENGTH IN MY LIMBS, I TOSSED HIM OVER INTO A NET -

I HAD MY BIG BRAIN WORKING ALL THE TIME AND WHEN HE GOT THROUGH BOUNCING IN THE NET, WHICH GAVE THE AUDIENCE A LAUGH, I WAITED FOR HIM TO SPRING AT ME AGAIN -

AND AS HE DID, QUICK AS A FLASH I GOT A HUGE BARREL INTO POSITION TO CATCH HIM - HE WENT SMACK INTO IT - I ROLLED IT OVER AND SAT ON IT - HE WAS HELPLESS UNTIL CAGED AGAIN -

I TRAINED HIM = I WENT INTO HIS CAGE WITH A HOT IRON AND A WHIP AND SHOWED HIM I WAS HIS MASTER AND - WOW! - LOOK OUT, JUNIOR, RUN FOR YOUR LIFE!!

JOHN E. SULLIVAN IS ELECTED HEAD OF CANADIAN CREDIT MEN'S TRU ST ASSOCIATION

Local Man Is Honored By Ontario Division of Organization.

FOUNDED IN 1910.

Special Information Reports Are Supplied To Members Daily.

John E. Sullivan of the Quaker Oats Company, was elected president of the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association (Ontario Division), at the annual meeting of the company, held last Thursday in Toronto.

This association was founded in 1910 with the head offices at Winnipeg. It is now operating in all provinces of the Dominion, with a divisional office in each. The Ontario division began operations in 1911 and has a membership of nearly four hundred wholesalers and manufacturers who do business with the retail trade.

The association, which is owned and controlled by its members, does not make nor seek profits and any surplus which accrues from time to time, goes back to the members and the credit-granting public, in service.

Daily special information reports are supplied to the members. These are compiled from information received from members only. Financial statements are also supplied to the members on application.

Primarily the purpose of the association was to serve its members with up-to-date information on the trade. It has now extended its activities with up-to-date information on the trade. It has now extended its activities to other fields, including a collection and estates department, a trade clearing bureau, a legislation committee and other special committees.

Prosecutes Fraudulent Debtors

It secures signed financial statements when possible, and prosecutes fraudulent debtors. The adjustment bureau (estates department), is operated for the benefit of creditors at the lowest possible cost commensurate with efficient services, and frequently the timely intervention of this department at the request of creditors, has saved many businesses which were involved, from liquidation. The association acts as trustee under the Bankruptcy Act at all branches, and handles assignment, extensions, bulk sales, and fire insurance adjustment.

Facilities are offered to members by all branches of the association for trade sections to hold periodical meetings for the discussion of accounts, or other matters pertinent to specific lines of businesses.

The association issues periodical bulletins in connection with agriculture, such as crop reports, etc. It has eleven thoroughly-equipped offices located in the principal distributing centres of the different provinces throughout the Dominion, and has, as trustee, had 506 estates placed in its care for administration last year.

Work has been Successful

It has been successful, through its prosecution department, in securing convictions in a considerable number of cases, and besides those wrongdoers who have been penalized, either by fines or imprisonment, or both, the activities of the association have been in many cases instrumental in influencing restitution of assets and monies which have been wrongly diverted or retained, and in addition, its existence and activities act as a menace and a deterrent to those who might be inclined towards wrongful practices.

It is in continuous contact with the Federal and Provincial governments and closely watches all legislation which may affect its members' interests. It has organized and established a Canadian Credit Institute, the policy of which is to, as far as possible, set a standard of education in mercantile credit that will place graduates of the Institute on a recognized high plane of efficiency of ability and to encourage through the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association, Limited, every active credit manager, his assistants and others, including travelling salesmen, to attain membership in the Institute; also to promote a proper and continuous study of all matters related to mercantile credit, and to issue from time to time such works as will be of value to students of this branch of business.

CANADIAN-BORN ARTIST

H. J. Mowat, noted Canadian-born New York magazine illustrator, from a sketch by Grant MacDonald, who is following in success his subject.

FAMOUS ARTIST STILL REMAINS TRUE CANADIAN

New York Real Market For One's Wares, Hal Mowat Claims.

BORN IN MONTREAL.

Expects To Come Back To Canada Where He Will Settle Down For Rest of Life.

(Special to The Examiner)

NEW YORK, June 4.—It is a far cry from Canada to a lofty, high-windowed studio in West 67th St. New York—the artists' Mecca, where every tall building in a certain section consists of specially constructed studio apartments. It is even farther when the road has been travelled via London, Paris and the trenches of Flanders, as it was by a man whose blurry signature is familiar to all readers of certain very popular periodicals published in the United States and who stands in the topmost rank of magazine illustrators today. H. J. Mowat, whose peculiar gift for portraying the very heart of a dramatic mystery in black and white has caused much heart-burning among the editors who want his services and can't get them.

A literary luncheon party in New York was recently surprised en bloc when the question of successful Canadians in the United States came up, and the New York editor of the Red Book referred to Hal Mowat as one of this distinguished company. "Sure!" said the editor. "He's a Canadian all right. He was born in Montreal and lived a long time in Toronto—"

Likes London

London is the city closest to his heart as an artist. "I love London," he says. "It's a great place for a black-and-white worker. But New York, of course, is the real market for one's wares. In the very early days I made the rounds of the New York publishing houses with a portfolio under my arm, meeting the usual disappointments that all young artists must encounter. My first commission I remember, was from the American Magazine, and I took the job so seriously that I spent several days hunting the docks to find exactly the right type of sailor for my illustration. Finally I found him, dragged him to my attic of a studio, paid him lavishly for sitting, and after delivering my drawings in high hopes found that I had just about broken even on the transaction! Arthur Stringer and Arthur William Browne roomed in the same shabby house with me at that time—they have since become really famous. I've never been what one might call a success, because I work too slowly. I'm not good at mass production.

"You like your job?" he was asked.

"Rather!" he answered, his seriousness giving way to a smile. "But—" and he waved a hand about the studio, dusky now in the twilight, with its pillars, its balcony and its panelled walls—"this is no way to live! One of these days I'm coming back to Canada; I own a hilltop just outside of Montreal and that's the place I want to settle down. It is practically impossible to work in New York and live anywhere else, and I don't know just how I'll manage it. But I have a small son and no boy should be forced to take an elevator every time he goes out."

ROAD REQUESTS TURNED DOWN

Victoria and Lindsay Council Take Stand Against Permanent Road Work This Spring.

LOSS IN REVENUE.

LINDSAY, June 4.—(Special to The Examiner.)—Faced with a very heavy tax rate as well as a loss in revenue due to the closing down of certain business concerns, the municipal councils of the County of Victoria and Town of Lindsay have taken a stand against any permanent road work this spring. Deputations from Mariposa and Emily townships have waited upon the County Good Roads Board and have urged the construction of certain highways, but their prayers have gone unheeded. In Lindsay requests have also been presented by ratepayers on certain streets asking for permanent work on these thoroughfares, turned down the requests. Both the town and county have spent money pretty freely in roadwork, and are now forced to follow a policy of retrenchment.

Salient Points of Bidding

Auction: West correctly bids one Diamond instead of No Trump because of his worthless singleton. North's strength and distribution warrant his informatory double. East, holding nearly as good as an original Heart bid, correctly shows this suit over the intervening double. Hearts being West's weak suit, West bids one No Trump. North passes, not being strong enough to go any further with a passing partner and both opponents bidding.

Contract: At Contract, if West had bid one No Trump on the second round, as he did at Auction, the bidding would have died. To prevent this if possible, West bids two No Trumps to show at least three high-card tricks and invite his partner to make the game bid should the strength of his hand warrant. East's Heart suit and the supporting King of Diamonds furnishing the necessary strength, East bids three No Trumps.

The Play

North leads the King of Clubs and continues with the Queen, West holding up the Ace. On the Queen lead, West's play of the 10 induces North to continue with the Jack of Clubs, which drops Dummy's 9 and Declarer's Ace and establishes a long Club in North's hand.

Since North doubled without an Ace, Declarer reads him as holding the King and Queen of Hearts to justify the double. By leading through the King-Queen, Declarer should be able to make two Heart tricks and then, if the Diamond finesse is successful, can win the game. Accordingly at Trick 4, Declarer leads the 6 of Hearts. North, in view of Dummy's holding, can gain nothing by coming up with King or Queen and therefore plays the 9, which Declarer wins with Dummy's 10.

Declarer then takes the Diamond finesse which wins and the adverse Diamonds subsequently proving to be split 3-2. Declarer makes five tricks in Diamonds, which with two Heart tricks and the Ace of Spades and Ace of Clubs gives him game.

Had North played the King or Queen of Hearts on West's lead, East would have taken the trick with the Ace and returned the lack of Hearts to establish the suit while yet holding the King of Diamonds as an entry.

NEVER wait to see if a headache will "wear off." Why suffer when there's always Aspirin? The millions of men and women who use it in increasing quantities every year prove that it does relieve such pain. The medical profession pronounces it without effect on the heart, so use it as often as it can spare you any pain. 4000 miles for a better crude

In far Peru—more than 4,000 miles from the station where you fill with Marvelube—Imperial Oil secures the rich petroleum from which this better motor oil inherits its lubricating superiorities.

To bring this better crude to Canada in Imperial's own ships and transform it by special processes into Marvelube is an undertaking which is possible only because of Imperial Oil's immense resources and facilities.

But Marvelube, a better oil because of the natural lubricating superiorities of its carbon-free, sulphur-free base, is well worth the huge effort and investment.

Marvelube is preferred by aircraft operators because it ensures a greater margin of safety in the air and gives longer periods between engine overhauls. It is the favorite oil of more than a half million motorists in Canada, because it ensures smoother, more powerful, more economical operation.

There is a grade of Marvelube refined to meet exactly the specifications of your car, truck or tractor. See the Marvelube Chart at Imperial Oil stations and dealers.

CHURCH ARMY VISITS OMEMEE

Services Are Conducted in the Two Churches of the Anglican Parish.

RESIDENTS FINED.

OMEMEE, June 4 (Examiner Correspondence).—The Canadian Church Army Crusaders, composed of seven young men, who are in training in Toronto under Bishop Lucas, hiked to Omemee on Thursday, where they conducted a religious service in Christ Church, in the afternoon. Owing to the severe storm which prevailed, many were prevented from attending, but those who were privileged to be present were delighted with the service. Captain Murray, of the English Army, who was the leader, gave a very interesting and helpful talk, assisted in song by the other members of the group. In the evening they were invited to visit St. James' Church, the sister appointment, where a large crowd greeted them. The following morning they continued their tour on foot towards Lindsay, drawing their necessary equipment in a small hand cart.

Mr. Frank Riches, of Cambray, occupied the pulpit in Trinity United Church on Sunday morning, and spoke on the Missionary and Maintenance Fund. His address was listened to with pleasure, after which Rev. Mr. Blanchard rendered a vocal solo, "Ashamed of Jesus."

On Thursday afternoon, upon the invitation of the Reaboro Women's Institute, the Omemee branch motored to Reaboro, where in Community Hall they listened with great deal of pleasure to the Government speaker, Miss Guest, who took for her subject "Gold Mines." Omemee's contribution to the program was a vocal duet by Misses Lila Parsons M. Faulkner, a piano solo by Miss L. Race, and a piano duet by Frances Macpherson and Jean McGinness. The Reaboro group served cake and ice-cream at the close of the program.

A very successful quilting was held on the lawn of Trinity Church on Wednesday afternoon, where five quilts were made ready for the annual bale to be packed by the Women's Missionary Society.

ROTARY IS RIVET IN COMMUNITY

Dr. J. T. Daly Addresses Campbellford Rotary Club At Weekly Luncheon.

ATTENDANCE IS SMALL.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 4 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Attendance dropped considerably at the weekly luncheon of the local Rotary Club at the St. Lawrence yesterday. There were four members absent. The speaker for the day was Dr. J. T. Daly, superintendent of the Children's Shelter, Port Hope. His remarks were of exceptional interest to Rotarians since they outlined the basic principles underlying the organization.

Rotary, he said, was a principle of life and an attempt at adjusting men which was in itself a big thing. As an example he selected a pair o scissors. There were two heads and two blades, he said. One of the main differences between men and monkeys was the manner in which they used their thumbs. So with scissors, the thumb was kept uppermost and inserted in the small head of the scissors. Each of the four component parts of the instrument was necessary to the whole, but the fifth part was even more so. In the middle of the scissors was a small rivet or screw, with which they were adjusted and made useable. Without it the instrument was useless.

In the life of a community, the Rotary Club was as the rivet in the scissors. Each week members from all classifications of the business and professional life of the town met to discuss business and to enjoy a brief hour of entertainment in an atmosphere entirely informal. The motto of the club was service, and service must be the spirit of the town. This did not mean giving money or advice as much as giving a life of good citizenship. Give what you are, not what you have, said Dr. Daly. It is only then that you are giving your best.

Perhaps the most disastrous earthquake in the United States was in 1811 when a severe shock occurred in the Mississippi Valley south of Ohio. It was felt in New York and the West Indies; caused the formation of lakes and temporarily changed the course of the Mississippi.

SOCIETY TO HOLD COMBINED MEETING

Miss Jean L. Burnham Hostess To Members of Golden Links Mission Circle.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, June 4.—The May meeting of the Golden Links Mission Circle was held at the home of the president, Miss Jean L. Burnham, with unabated interest shown in the work under way, or to be immediately undertaken.

Among the business items discussed was the holding of a joint meeting with the Women's Auxiliary in July, the Circle to provide the program, and the gathering to be an out-of-doors one, on the lawn at the home of Misses Stella and Lila Pethick.

The June meeting will be a work gathering when members will come prepared to sew on the layette for a baby, which is the Circle's share for the bale to be sent jointly from the Auxiliary, Circle, and Band to the Presbyterial Supply Secretary September first. This meeting will be at the home of Mrs. David Lunn.

After some discussion it was decided to invite the dramatic club from Elizabethville to present its play in the Town Hall here, under Circle auspices, on Saturday, June 22, at 8:30 p. m.

Mrs. V. C. Lambert gave an interesting reading on "The Babies' Clinic," which is a feature of some churches in recent years, the speaker having personal knowledge of the one at Oshawa, the information furnished including particularly such a clinic in connection with a Montreal church.

"The Reception of Immigrants in Canada", was the topic taken up by Miss Jean Burnham, many informative facts being presented.

A social hour was enjoyed at the close.

Practices Held

The effort to revive the once popular game of lacrosse as Canada's national game has been successful locally to the extent that two teams have been practising fairly regularly in the past two weeks, two experienced stick-handlers, W. H. Coombe and Harold Nattress, coaching the younger element, all of whim the game is practically new. The recent visit of Fred Waghorne to the school, and the sale of bonds to help in the purchase of equipment, have been the two factors which have wakened enthusiasm and sufficient interest to lead to organization, and the practices which have featured almost every evening at the agricultural park.

That Body of Yours

(By Jas. W. Barton, M.D.)

HEALTH THE BIG ASSET IN BUSINESS.

A successful energetic salesman expected a promotion at a certain date and wondered why he did not receive it.

He kept quiet for some time and then saw another salesman step into the coveted position.

As his relations with headquarters had always been satisfactory and pleasant, he frankly asked the reason as to why he had been passed over on this occasion.

The president of the organization said "It was simply a matter of your health. Although you did as much work, in fact more work than our other salesman, there are times when you have to quit work entirely on account of your attacks of indigestion, and there are times when your presence would be absolutely essential to the success of our business."

This "indigestion" was discovered later to be due to a stomach ulcer, which had been caused by infected teeth.

Some changes in the head office of another company gave a promotion to an employee in a distant city, and he was instructed to return immediately to the head office.

His physical appearance was rather disappointing to his superior as he had put on many pounds in weight, and seemed a little leisurely or lazy in his actions.

The suggestion was made to him that he get busy, and get rid of his surplus weight as it was tending to make him somewhat sluggish. He simply smiled, paid no attention to the advise and in six months was again reminded that he would have to "buck up" if he wanted to even "hold" his job.

The idea of further promotion was not even thought of.

After another three months as he had paid no attention to the advice to get himself into better shape physically, he was "let out", and a more "active" man secured for the position.

Industrial institutions are now requesting their employees to consult the health department of the institution at regular intervals.

Where the employees neglects to do so, and loses time through illness, he is dropped from the list and must look elsewhere for a job.

In other words, the company forces him to look after his health.

OUR CHILDREN.

EATEN CAKE.

"Maryanne come right home from school this afternoon."

"But mother I want to go to the club meeting."

"You come home. I'm telling you what to do."

So Maryanne came home. She went upstairs and changed her dress. When she came down her mother looked at her and said angrily "Who told you to put on that dress? Take it off this minute. Go put on the blue one. It's plenty good enough for home. Next time you want to put on another dress ask me."

Now Maryanne was thirteen years old and in the second year of high school. She felt that things were not quite as they ought to be with her and her mother but with the helplessness of childhood that dim feeling was as far as she got.

By and by Maryanne was ready to be graduated from high school. All the girls and boys were telling the teachers what schools they wanted to enter or what courses they wished to take what work they intended to do, all but Maryanne.

"I don't know," said she gently, timidly. "I'll have to ask mother."

Mother had never given the matter much thought. Maryanne was only a child. Later on, when mother had more time, she would think up just what Maryanne ought to do. Now here was a long circular, a series of questions to be answered. The school people wanted to know what Maryanne was to do next. Mother read the questions. The more of them she read the more bewildered she grew.

"I can't make head or tail of all this. Don't you know what you are to do next? Why don't you know? What have you been going to school for all this time if you don't know? Why is it all the other children seem to know and you don't? Can't you speak for yourself? Why should I have to know all your future plans, what you want to do and where you want to go? Dear me. Children are a dreadful burden."

Mother had eaten her cake and now she was wishing she had it. All the time Maryanne was growing up, mother did the thinking, planning and managing. Maryanne had to follow and keep still. Now Peter Jones, that bold forward red-headed imp, was starting out for a medical course and knew where he was going to get it and how it was to be paid for too.

That cheeky little minx of a Bruce girl was setting off for a trip to France and Italy to study drawing for two years and then she was going to enter a big art school. So she said. And that Bad Example, Jimmie, across the street, was going to be a lawyer. The only child who didn't know what to do next was this perfectly lovely little girl whose mother had seen to it that she was brought up in the fear of her frown, to wait for direction from authority.

You can't eat your cake and have it too. It is impossible to bring up a child in dependence and fear and have him grow into a self-dependent young person, able to stand alone, and travel alone under his own power. Self-dependent children are hard to live with, it is true, but only for a time. Dependent children are easy to live with but only for a short time. You have your choice.

I REMEMBER once I was visiting at a home where my hostess always arose very late in the morning. In fact, I was often surprised at the way she could stay in bed, with so much work to do.

* * * * * *

During the summer months she always managed to have a maid who worked only part time. However, she was requested to come early enough to prepare the breakfast.

* * * * * *

It often embarrassed me when my hostess did not arise very early in the morning. I had been used to rising early when at home and naturally did not like having to lie in bed so late in the morning.

* * * * * *

One night while I was at this home, the maid sent word that she would be unable to come in time to get breakfast ready the next morning

* * * * * *

I felt rather pleased when I heard this,—not that the breakfasts she prepared were not good—but that there might be some chance of getting up rather earlier than usual.

* * * * * *

But my hopes faded next morning. I awoke quite early but no one was stirring down stairs. I waited, straining my ears for some sound to reach me. I looked at a clock and it was half past eight.

* * * * * *

Surely, I thought, she has forgotten she must prepare the breakfast this morning. At half past nine I heard someone moving about and in about fifteen minutes I was called.

* * * * * *

How my hostess' husband could afford to stay away from his business so long in the morning puzzled me when I first came to visit, but soon found out that he was obliged to get his own breakfast.

* * * * * *

On this particular morning when the maid did not appear, we sat down to breakfast at ten o'clock. I was horrified when I thought of the time wasted in bed when something really worth while might have been done.

* * * * * *

Such a thought, of course, did not enter the mind of my hostess for she very calmly served the meal, not seeming in a hurry to get it over.

* * * * * *

This woman never, at any time, gets started at her housework before nine o'clock and more often it is much later than that. "Let me have my sleep out," she says, "and I will overtake any early-rising housewife before the day is over."

* * * * * *

Do you think she is right? Of course, I did not agree with her, but did not mention the fact to her because late rising was too firmly established within her for anyone to try to alter it.

* * * * * *

Although I disapproved of the time this woman started in to do her housework and did not say anything, it may be all right to say here that all young housewives should make an effort to start in early to do the housework.

* * * * * *

Can you imagine anyone starting the week's washing at nine o'clock in the morning when most women in Peterborough would have theirs all out on the line at this hour?

* * * * * *

Certainly early rising is to be preferred and when one can get the work done early it is to be desired. By early rising, I mean to get up and have lots of time to dress decently and have plenty of time to serve breakfast without having to hurry through the meal.

* * * * * *

I suppose many people think late rising is the only way to make up for lost sleep but they are mistaken. Should one not get sufficient sleep at night, then plan to have an afternoon nap if this is at all possible. It is more refreshing.

* * * * * *

It is a fact that eight hours sleep at night—the amount considered sufficient for adults—with a short nap in the afternoon, is of much more value than eight and a half hours sleep at night. If you doubt this, make the test for yourself.

* * * * * *

I wonder how many housewives in Peterborough are like the woman I have mentioned—who leaves all her hardest work until the afternoon. No wonder she was so tired at night and had to over-sleep in the morning.

* * * * * *

If one would do the hard work in the morning, and take a nap in the afternoon, much of this fatigue would not be felt.

* * * * * *

Then, too, there are some housewives who dearly love to sit and read the morning papers after breakfast, even before doing the dishes. By doing this, much of the vigor from a refreshing sleep is lost.

* * * * * *

Do your hard work in the morning—as early as possible—when you are physically in a good condition for this work. Then at night, even if you are fatigued you will still be in a fit condition for mental work such as reading the newspaper.

* * * * * *

Nothing could be simpler than the new step-in made from a square of material for the short rippling skirt and two oblong pieces for the top. Yet it would be hard to find a more attractive little undergarment than this.

* * * * * *

If you would like the diagram pattern, please fill out the coupon which you will find on this page and send it to Marion, enclosing a two-cent stamp. Be sure to send promptly for your copy.

* * * * * *

If you cook spinach carefully and drain all the water the first minute it tastes tender, you can keep it in a wholesome condition for quite a long time.

* * * * * *

To reheat it, put it carefully in a pan to which butter and a few teaspoons of water have been added. This will let it steam hot without there being any danger of burning.

* * * * * *

I am told that children in the north end are beginning to pick flowers which belong to other people. I would not think that such a base act would be done in Peterborough, but somehow it is.

* * * * * *

I once remember seeing what had been a lovely bed of tulips left in a disgraceful condition. It really looked as if a herd of cows had trampled over it, eating off the flowers.

* * * * * *

But the work was actually done by boys who considered it a joke, perhaps, to carry off the flowers and leave the place in such a condition.

* * * * * *

Children should be taught to leave things which do not belong to them alone. An excellent rule regarding this is kept by children who are junior members of the Peterborough Horticultural Society.

* * * * * *

When children join this society, they are asked, "To keep from picking flowers in parks, public grounds and on other people's property," and "to set an example to other boys and girls and try to persuade them also to have some respect for other people's property."

* * * * * *

This ruined flower bed I saw reminded me of a verse I read. It was not about flower beds, but about a temple, but the flower bed was likened unto it.

* * * * * *

There is a temple in ruin stands,
Fashion'd by long forgotten hands;
Two or three columns, and many a stone,
Marble and granite, with grass o'ergrown!
—Byron.

* * * * * *

The beautiful tulips represented the temple, which, after being molested, stood in ruin. Some of the flowers were pulled off just at the top of the stem and so these were like the two or three columns.

* * * * * *

I suppose the stones would be represented by the many bulbs still left in the ground. But instead of grass overgrowing, there were scores of foot marks all over the bed.

* * * * * *

I wonder if parents could be a little more strict with their children, pointing out to them the great wrong in destroying other people's property, and the great punishment which would follow.

* * * * * *

If this were done I am sure no flower beds in Peterborough would be molested and many people would not have to go to the trouble of planting their flower beds two or thre times during the summer.

Cuticura Heals Face Disfigured With Itchy Pimples

"I had pimples all over my face. They were hard, sore and red and some of them were large and others small. Some of them festered and scaled over, and itched and burned causing me to scratch. Scratching caused eruptions and the irritation prevented me from sleeping. They disfigured my face for many weeks.

"I tried different remedies without any results. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and it was only a few weeks before my face was completely healed, after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment." (Signed) Miss Harriet Hamilton, Box 772, Yarmouth, N. S.

Frost Does Damage.

The recent frosts have done much damage to garden plants in this locality. Some of the farmers have been unable to complete their seeding owing to wet land.

There has been a splendid showing of bloom on the fruit trees and lilac bushes and mingled with the fresh green of the trees the village presents a pleasing picture to the observer.

HOUSE IS BURNED ON ROCKCROFT ROAD

Owner Receives Serious Burns About Hands and Face.

HALL'S BRIDGE, June 4 (Examiner Correspondence). — About three p.m. on Friday afternoon the residence of Mr. Tweedie, Rockcroft Road was burned, with all its contents. Mr. Tweedie was badly burned about the back, face, and hands, and was rushed to Dr. E. E. Willis' office, Hall's Bridge, where he received treatment. When he had sufficiently recovered from the shock, he motored to Peterborough, where he is now staying with his daughter, Mrs. Laynor.

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG.

That old and antique song we heard, last night.

FLOELLA.

Down deep into a valley,
Where the violets fade and bloom,
There lies my own Floella,
In a dark and recent tomb.
She died not broken-hearted,
Nor lingering illness fell,
But in a moment's parting
From a home she loved so well.

Last night the moon shone brightly
The stars were shining too,
When up to her bedroom window
Her jealous lover flew,
Saying, "Darling, let us wander
Into the forest gay,
While wandering we will ponder
Upon our wedding day."

Deep, deep into the forest
He led his love so dear.
Said she, "'Tis for you only
That I have wandered here.
These woods are dark and dreary
And I'm afraid to stay,
Of wandering I've grown weary
And would retrace my way."

"Retrace your way, no never!
These woods no more you'll roam,
So bid farewell, Floella
To parting friends and home,
For in these woods, I have you,
Floella, you must die."

Down on her knees before him
She pleaded for her life,
When deep into her bosom
He plunged the fatal knife.
"Oh, darling, I forgive you,"
Was her last and dying breath,
Her heart had ceased its beating
And her eyes had closed in death.

Next morn the birds sang sweetly,
And mournful was their song.
Then they found her lifeless body,
Alingering on the ground.

Birds cannot see blue or violet, but they do see red and infra-red.

SHORT STORY

A depressing and unaccustomed silence hung over the supper table in the Yates dining room. Occasionally Mrs. Yates cast knowing looks at her husband, with side glances at her daughter, Dorothy, who was eating valiantly in spite of an aching heart. Her brother, Samuel Yates, was silent because the only thing he wanted to talk about was the thing that his father had ordered him not to mention.

Finally Father Yates said, "Ahem," by way of beginning, and then after a pause and with his eyes on his wife to see that she approved he began: "I suppose you have heard the news, Dorothy."

"Yes," was all she answered.

"Have you any idea what made him leave?"

"No, father," she said, and then bit her lip and looked down to stifle the sob in her voice.

"Well, then there is something crooked about it. He would have told you, I guess, if there hadn't been."

Dorothy's eyes, now raised daringly, were glowing with indignation. "How can you say that?" she asked. "You know Tom Payson didn't take anything with him. I know what you've been doing all day. You've been asking down at the bank and all around to see if he forged a check or anything."

"That's just what we have been doing," said the father. "So far everything seems to be O. K. and the funny thing about it is that he went off without ever getting a cent of what's due him for the work he has done."

"Why, papa," interjected Mrs. Yates. "Tom has worked here nearly three months. Why in the world didn't you pay him regularly, same as the other hired man?"

"'Cause he asked me not to when he came," said Mr. Yates, with satisfaction at not being to blame. "He said he'd rather have the money piling up, or something of the sort. His wages was $4 a day— which would make it that I owed him $382.50, to be accurate."

"Yes," went on Mr. Yates, "I've had the other thing happen, but I don't know as I ever heard of just this sort of thing. I remember the time Henry Glover cleared out owing me for horse fodder I'd been supplying him all winter."

"How much did he owe you, dad?" asked the practical Samuel.

"Just three hundred and ninety-two dollars and a half," said Mr. Yates. "I remember—" Then he stopped short and looked around at the faces of the members of his family round the supper table. They had all been struck by the same fact at the same time.

"Did it ever strike you," Mr. Yates asked his wife slowly, "that this fellow looked a mite like Henry Glover—like enough to be his son?"

"But how could he be his son when his name is Payson?" asked Dorothy.

Somehow supper progressed without much further reference to the disappearance of the young man who had come to the Yates farm four months before, asking for work.

A week later Mr. Yates announced at supper that he had had a letter from "that fellow that disappeared."

"What I was going to say," said Mr. Yates, "is that this young fellow Tom Payson is Glover's nephew. He went out West and so did his folks, and seems like how old Glover has died and Payson found out that he'd left this debt. Might have been a dying request of the old man's. And so Payson comes on and pays the debt in the only way he can, by working it out. He doesn't say it in just that many words in his letter," Mr. Yates continued, "but I judge that is what happened. He says, though, that he still owes the interest, but he'll get around to paying that in cash. Now, that's what I call being pretty honest, I shouldn't say," added Mr. Yates, talking for his daughter's benefit but not looking at her, "that Tom Payson amounted to a whole lot. Probably won't ever be anything but a hired man and not a real smart one at that, but he earned his four dollars a day all right."

"I suppose you'd feel awfully disappointed if I was to marry a hired man," Dorothy said.

"I'd rather you didn't," said Mr. Yates. "Still, Tom Payson't a mighty honest fellow, even if he is a hired man."

"But he isn't ,dad," said Dorothy, and then from the passageway between the living room and the front door appeared Tom Payson, only a completely transformed Tom Payson.

Dorothy ushered him into the presence of Mr. Yates and, after rather embarrassed greetings, went on, "he's a mining engineer, dad, and no more a hired man than I am."

Mr. Yates put the question that puzzled him. "If you are an up and coming mining engineer, then why didn't you pay that debt in cash instead of giving up your time to it?" he asked.

"Because," said Tom, "my uncle told me about the difficulty between youand him and said that though he felt that he was probably to blame, he wouldn't pay it and made me promise never to pay it either. You see, he left me as his only heir. I couldn't take that money without paying his debts. I promised not to pay money, I didn't promise not to pay in work. But I didn't say anything about paying interest. I'll figure that out, Mr. Yates, and pay it at once and then we'll be square."

"A million or so," said Mr. Yates stupefied. "I'm blessed! Well, I see no reason why you shouldn't marry Dorothy."

And so Mr. Yates gave his consent before it was asked for.

FASHION SERVICE

This dinner frock from the Jenny collection is of black satin crepe with inset portions in emerald green.

CHARMING EVENING GOWN IN BLACK COMBINED WITH EMERALD

By MMe. Jenny.

Black satin crepe with its lustrous surface has been used for this dinner gown which I have included in my spring collection. The same silk in emerald tones outlines the decolletage and the armholes and is used in the long sweeping drapery at one side of the skirt and around the bottom. As in most of my frocks I have kept the slender straight line which is so becoming.

MARION'S MAIL

Address correspondence to Marion, at The Examiner Office.

Dear Marion: I am sending in a recipe by E. W. Kennison, for cooking husbands, so as to make them tender and good. A good many husbands are utterly spoiled by mismanagement. Some women go about as if their husbands were bladders and blow them up. Others keep them constantly in hot water. Others let them freeze by their carelessness and indifference. Some keep them in a pickle all their lives. It cannot be supposed that any husband will be good and tender managed in this way, but they are really delicious when properly treated.

In buying your husband do not be guided by the "silvery" appearance, as in buying mackeral, nor by the golden tint as if you wanted salmon. Be sure and select him yourself as tastes differ. Do not go to the market for him, as the best are always brought to your door. It is far better to have none, unless you will patiently learn how to cook him—a preserving kettle (the home) of the finest porcelain is best, but if you have nothing but an earthenware pie-pan it will do with care. See that the linen in which you wrap him is nicely washed and mended, with the required number of buttons and strings nicely sewed on. Tie him in the "kettle" by a strong silk cord, called "comfort," as the one called "unity" is apt to be weak. They are apt to fly out of the kettle and be burned and crushed on the edges since like crabs and lobsters, you have to cook them while alive. Make a clear, steady fire out of love, neatness and cheerfulness. Set him as near this as seems to agree with him—if he sputters and frizzles, do not be anxious; some husbands do this until they are quite done. Add a little sugar in the form of what confectioners call kisses, but no vinegar or pepper on any account. Do not stick any sharp instrument into him to see if he is becoming tender. You cannot fail to know when he is done. If thus treated you will find him very digestible, agreeing nicely with you and the children, and he will keep as long as you want, unless you become careless and set him in a cold place.

"META."

Thank you, for your contribution, "Meta."

8 cups corn cut off cob raw.
3 cups water.
1 cup sugar.

Boil 20 minutes and sea lin ster-Boil twenty mnutes and seal in sterilized bottles. When using I take the amount I need, cover with cold water, and set on the back of the stove for one hour. Pour off water, add milk and thicken.

I find the letters very interesting and the recipes good.
